

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. ## D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

The Naturalist in La Plata.

By C. H. HUDSON, C.M.Z.S., joint author of "Argentine Ornithology." With 27 illustrations. 8vo, 388 pages, cloth, $4.00.

"Mr. Hudson is not only a clever naturalist, but he possesses the rare gift of interesting his readers in whatever attracts him, and of being dissatisfied with mere observation unless it enables him to philosophize as well. With his lucid accounts of bird, beast and insect, no one will fail to be delighted."—London Academy.

"... It would be easy to multiply extracts from this most interesting book. But it is one to buy and read, for matter and style are alike excellent."—London Spectator.

"December Roses."

By MRS. CAMPBELL-PRAED, joint author of "The Right Honourable." No. 96, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"'The Right Honourable' is an enjoyable and superior English novel. . . . Mrs. Campbell-Praed's labor in the way of romance and sentiment is admirably done."—Independent.

"Several of the personages in 'The Right Honourable' are worthy of Trollope at his best."—Literary World.

Appletons' Canadian Guide-Book.

PART II., WESTERN CANADA—I.E., FROM OTTAWA AND MONTREAL TO THE PACIFIC OCEAN. (A companion volume to Part I., Eastern Canada.) With numerous maps and illustrations. By ERNEST INGERSOLL. 12mo, flexible cloth, $1.25.

In view of the remarkably favorable reception given to Appletons' "Canadian Guide-Book, Part I., Eastern Canada," the publishers feel that tourists and readers will be interested in the announcement of a companion volume which will describe Western Canada in the same style. Mr. Ingersoll takes the traveller from Montreal into the regions north of Toronto, through the peninsular region of Canada, along the Great Lakes, up the Nepigon River, and then, emerging into the Northwest, he describes Manitoba, the valley of the Saskatchewan, and the Red River, picturing the life of the Indians and the old Hudson Bay posts, and finally, after the journey across the plains, he reaches the Canadian Rocky Mountains. The wonderful scenery of this district, perhaps the finest on the continent, is fully described. Under Mr. Ingersoll's guidance the tourist visits Banff, the Canadian National Park, and the wonderful glaciers and cañons of that region. After a series of vivid pictures of the mountain scenery, Mr. Ingersoll continues on into British Columbia, and closes his volume with descriptions of Westminster, Vancouver's Island, and a sketch of the routes to Alaska.

It is safe to say that no two volumes dealing with Canada present so much helpful and entertaining information in so convenient a form, as Appletons' Canadian Guide-Books. The Guide to Western Canada, like its predecessor, is elaborately illustrated, and contains the latest maps of all the districts described.

Appletons' Handbook of American Summer Resorts.

With Maps, Illustrations, Table of Railroad Fares, etc. New edition, revised to date. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

NOTES IN SEASON.

"CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out "The Wrecker," Robert Louis Stevenson's new story, which has ended its most successful career as the leading serial of Scribner's. They have also published, under the title of "The Bull Calf, and other tales," a collection of A. B. Frost's mirth-provoking sketches, most of which have already appeared in the magazines.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. will soon issue a work by R. L. Garner, entitled "The Speech of Monkeys." This work embodies his researches up to the present time. It is divided into two parts, the first being a record of experiments with monkeys and other animals, and the second part a treatise on the theory of speech. The work is written so as to bring the subject within reach of the casual reader without impairing its scientific value.

GINN & Co. will publish at once "German and English Sounds," by C. H. Grandgent, Director of Modern Language Instruction in the Boston Public Schools. The volume will contain a detailed account of the sounds that occur in German and English speech, a description of the principal local variations in the pronunciation of both languages, and a series of diagrams showing the positions of the vocal organs during the formation of the vowels and the more difficult consonants.

THE AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR THE EXTENSION OF UNIVERSITY TEACHING, Philadelphia, has just issued five monographs on various phases of the university extension movement, being reprints from the proceedings of the Society. These are: "The Place of University Extension in American Education," by William T. Harris, U. S. Commissioner of Education; "The Organization and Function of Local Centres," by Michael E. Sadler, Secretary of the Oxford University Extension Delegation; "The Church and University Extension," by Rev. John S. Macintosh; "The Ideal Syllabus," by Henry W. Roffe; and "The University Extension Class," by Edward T. Devine.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will publish shortly a work treating of English history in an entirely novel manner, under the title of "England and Its Rulers," by H. Pomeroy Brewster and George H. Humphrey. They have also in press a work by Samuel Jefferson, entitled "Columbus, an epic poem," which purports to give an accurate history of the great discovery in rhymed heroic verse; and a "Phrase-Book of Eclectic Shorthand," by Professor J. G. Cross, M.A., which promises to be of great value to the shorthand student as well as to the practical reporter, as it contains over 8500 of the most frequently occurring and useful phrases, written in the briefest and most legible manner.

MACMILLAN & Co. announce the issue of a new and extensively revised edition of Mr. Bryce's "American Commonwealth." It is to be expected that this new edition will take notice of the many important changes which have occurred since the work was first issued. It is to be copyrighted in America. The same publishers have already issued more than half of Stephen's "Dictionary of Biography," one volume of which is published quarterly. Thirty out of a total of fifty volumes have appeared so far, and the enterprise is so well in hand that there will be no break in the publication of the remaining parts. The work when completed will contain at least thirty thousand articles by writers of acknowledged eminence in their several departments. The memoirs are the result of personal research, and much information has been obtained from sources that have not before been utilized. It has been the aim of the editors to omit nothing of importance and to supply full, accurate and concise biographies, excluding, of course, those of persons still living. They have recently issued a book entitled "Calmire," which in the form of a novel discusses some of the all-important problems of faith and social life. It is issued anonymously, and some readers may be held off by the great size of the book. This is, however, owing greatly to its wide margins and clear type. The publishers state that by actual count of words "Robert Elsmere" is half as long again as "Calmire." It is full of good matter, and booksellers ought to push it.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*American and English corporation cases: a coll. of corporation cases, both private and municipal (excepting railway cases), decided in the courts of last resort in the U. S., Eng. and Canada; ed. by W. M. McKinney. V. 34, 35. Northport, N. Y., E. Thompson Co., [1892.] c. 8+720; 10+712 p. O. ea., shp., $4.50.

*American railroad and corporation reports: being a coll. of the current decisions of the courts of last resort in the U. S. pertaining to the law of railroads, private and municipal corporations, [etc.]; ed. and annot. by J. Lewis. V. 4. Chic., E. B. Myers & Co., 1892. c. 7+811 p. O. shp., $5.

C. Freeman. V. 24. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1892. c. '92. 6-1028 p. O. shp., $4.

Andrews, C. McLean. The old English manor: a study in English economic history. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. c. 8+291 p. O. (Johns Hopkins univ. studies. extra, v. 12.) cl., $1.50.

An attempt to reconstruct the village and manorial organization and life in England at the beginning of the eleventh century. The study is based largely on the well-known documents Rectitudines Singularum Personarum and Gorefa, the latter of which has never before been used for historical purposes. In addition, all Anglo-Saxon literature has been put under contribution, that the study might be as complete as possible. Such reconstruction has more than a merely antiquarian interest, for it relates to an important period of English economic history. It shows the complete isolation of local life, the pre-eminence of agriculture and the secondary importance of craft and artisan work.

Austen, Jane. Mansfield Park. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 2 v., 2-308; 4-810 p. il. S. hf. cl., $2.50. Édition de luxe, 2 v., 8°, $4. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

B., J., (pseud.) Correct manners: complete handbook of etiquette. N. Y., Excelsior Pub. House, 1892. 8-186 p. 16°, pap., 25 c. Gives directions for correct manners, conversation, letters of introduction, dinner parties, visiting, traveling, dancing, dress, table talk and other incidental matter.

Balestier, Wolcott. The average woman; with a preface by H. James. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 5-260 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The opening story, called "Reffey," and first published in the Century, tells of the rivalry of two girls for the love of a Denver railroad conductor, of a Western wedding, and the final revengeful act of the bride. Included with this are two other stories, entitled "A common story" and "Captain, my captain," all describing the "average woman."

*Ballard, Tilghman and Emerson E. (eds.) The annual of the law of real property: being a complete compendium of real estate law, carefully sel., thoroughly annot., [etc.] V. 1. 1892. Crawfordsville, Ind., Ballard & Ballard, [1892.] c. 827 p. O. shp., $6.50.

The fluctuating fortune of John Greystone, a social pariah as a boy, in young manhood as a millionaire, and after marriage with a Southern girl of high social caste as a ruined man, is the basis of a novel which views several conditions of life.

Booth, Mrs. Otto. ["Rita," pseud.] The man in possession. N. Y., Hovendon Co., [1892.] c. '91. 2-328 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A belated train is responsible for an interchange of words between Kate O'Brien and Tom Rivers. The sudden arrival of the girl's father, however, brings his conversation to an abrupt close, and Kate prepares to go home after hearing that her father is a delinquent taxpayer, and that until he makes good his deficiencies the bailiff will take possession of his house. In due time Fletcher arrives and proves himself quite a model bailiff. He is compelled, however, to send a substitute because of the sickness of his daughter. This substitute's methods involve some humorous incidents and a love-story.

- Coppens, Rev. C. A brief text-book of logic and mental philosophy. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1892. c. '91. 186 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- Presents to pupils unfamiliar with Latin a brief outline of philosophy, thoroughly in conformance with the philosophical standpoint of the Roman Catholic Church. Intended for class use in academies and similar institutions, and for use where the Stoneyhurst series of English manuals of Catholic philosophy is too voluminous.
- *Crawford, F. Marion. Saracinesca. New cheaper ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 450 p. 12°, cl., $1.
- Deane, Harley. Cortlandt Laster, capitalist. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1892. c. 8-336 p. D. pap., 50 c.
- Cortlandt Laster, a mature married man and American of wealth, sojourning in Paris, is enamored of Zelia Van Cleet, a beautiful Southern girl. He finally makes it worth Mrs. Van Cleet's while to remove with her daughter to New York. This step results in a social scandal which involves the millionaire and Zelia. The former, to extricate himself, concocts a scheme in which are seen not only his dastardly act, but some well-known weakness and vices of modern society, a just retribution and a tragedy. The story opens in a fashionable New York gambling house.
- Drey, Sylvan. Lights and shadows of the soul: a collection of sketches and stories. Balt., Md., Cushing & Co., 1892. 6+91 p. S. cl., 60 c.
- These stories are allegorical, and appeared originally in different magazines and periodicals. Since their first issue they have been revised for the present edition. They are called: The drooping rosebud; The broken-hearted violinist; Why, indeed? Rosa's celebrated statue of a perfect woman; The poet and the angel; Two portraits of a beautiful girl; A recollection; A great lunar revelation; Two love scenes; Stray leaves from a philosopher's autobiography; Moonlight musings.
- *Elliot, C. W., and Storer, F. H. Compendious manual of qualitative chemical analysis, as revised by W. R. Nichols. 16th ed., newly rev. by W. B. Lindsay. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. 204 p. 12°, cl., $1.50.
- *Fawcett, Edgar. An heir to millions. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] c. 8-307 p. D. (Ariel lib., no. 19.) cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.
- Anthony Bainbridge, the eldest son of a New York house, is threatened with disinheritance if he does not immediately resign the friendship of a certain Southmayd, socialist. Before Bainbridge, senior, has time to execute this threat he dies, leaving Anthony an inheritance of millions. In Anthony's and Southmayd's subsequent action are seen the attitude of a capitalist, plans for social reform, two romances and his final conclusion of a social problem.

- Gustavus Pulvertoft's desire to excel in equestrian ship, and thus please Miss Diana Chetwynd, leads him to mount on trial an animal procured of a neighboring jobmaster. His recital of what followed involves a question of sanity and a spirited dialogue which Mr. Pulvertoft avers took place between himself and Brutus, the horse, in which the latter has decidedly the advantage so far as wit is concerned. This initial story, which is both humorous and pathetic, is followed by The good little girl; A matter of taste; Don, the story of a greedy dog; Taken by surprise; Paleface and redskin; Shut out; Tommy's hero; A canine Ishmael; Marjory.

Hopkins, A. K. A daughter of the Druids. Bost., [Dammell & Upham,] 1892. c. 4-297 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The heroine, Alice de Kymber, inherited, along with the traditional beliefs of her Druid ancestry, a love of astronomy. Her experiments in that science lead her to be suspected of witchcraft, and finally to flee England. The story gives the details of her flight and of the romantic episode between a scientific man and a visionary woman.

Howell, Jeanne M. A common mistake. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., 1892. c. 8-290 p. D. (The golden lib., no. 8.) pap., 50 c.

A story of New York society life, in which a beautiful, rich and capricious girl makes the "common mistake" of expecting constancy of affection from her suitors. She passes through many phases of emotion, and her intense desire for admiration and homage frequently places her in questionable situations. Her engagement to a Polish count, whom she loves intensely, results in an unforeseen revelation, and the tragical conclusion of a story which aims to show the corrupt morals of society.

Kipling, Rudyard, and Balestier, Wolcott. The naulahka: a story of west and east. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. '91, '92. 5+879 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"The naulahka" is a superb necklace of precious stones that Nick Tarvin, of Topaz, Colorado, knows exists in India. He promises to obtain it for Mrs. Nutrie, the wife of the President of the C. C. & C. Road, if she induces her husband to have the road come to Topaz. The necklace is not the only attraction India has for Tarvin. Kate Sheriff, a girl from Topaz whom he loves dearly, has gone there as a missionary. From the rough west of America the scene changes to India, and a graphic picture is presented of life in an Indian Residency, with Kate Sheriff penetrating through her missionary work the guilty secrets of the harem, and Nick Tarvin searching for his necklace, saving a little Indian prince from being poisoned and escaping several desperate attempts upon his own life. The book has rhymed headings to the chapters.

Langdale, C. The mistress of a king; or, the memoirs of Lady Fitzherbert; with an account of her marriage with H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, afterwards King George the Fourth. Phil., The Carter Pub. Co., 1892. 189 p. D. (Portrait ser., no. 8.) pap., 25 c.

Lean, Mrs. Francis, [formerly Florence Marryat.] A fatal silence. N. Y., Hoven-don Co., [1892.] c. '91. 2-355 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Paula Bjornstern resolved to bury her past when she called herself Miss Safford, and became a teacher in the village school in Deepdale. Her plan was a success, until an unexpected meeting with an old friend caused a misconception to be put upon her actions, and she was called before a parish committee, where she accepted a dismissal rather than reveal her history. Hal Rushton, a young farmer, had previously proposed marriage, and Paula accepted. After their marriage a second concealment leads to interesting developments.

Lynch, Hannah. Daughters of men. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 380 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The gradual development of an unsophisticated boy into a hardened man of the world is a means of presenting animated descriptions of Athenian society and characteristics of modern Greek life. The action passes wholly in Athens and the Isle of Tenos. The hero, an impressionable youth, becomes infatuated with a coarse and vulgar woman, who has attained great fame as a musician. He also falls in love with a pretty silly little Greek girl and with a beautiful maiden brought up in primitive simplicity on the Isle of Tenos, who has a love-story of her own. Unpleasant complications result.

Tom Teecehurst, mate on the Vancouver, incited the anger of his brother, in command of that vessel, and further complicated his affairs in a scene with his brother's wife, by a misunderstanding with the girl he loved, and by incurring the revenge of an Oriental. After suffering some of the consequences of these misfortunes he leaves the ship, and is the hero of adventures of both love and hate. The scenes are varied. The greater part of the action occurs in Australia.

The majority of these verses treat of the grandeur of mountain scenes and other wonders of nature, although there are a few pathetic poems and several national odes included in the collection.

Sponder, Mrs. J. Kent. Zina's awakening: a novel; il. by Warren B. Davis. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 828 p. D. (Choice ser., no 68.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

After a very hasty marriage abroad and a short interim of ideal happiness, Zina Layton returned with her husband to their English home. They were barely settled when Zina was confronted with a questionable incident in the life of George, and there follows a rather cruel awakening, which threatens the happiness of more than one concerned in the story.

Swinburne, Algernon C. The sisters: a tragedy. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 3-126 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The dialogue is blank verse, and tells of the love of Anne and Mabel Dilton, twin sisters, for Reginald Clavering, a brave soldier, but a timid wooer. The subject of his love, however, returns his sentiments and reveals her own in an effective scene, which makes the lovers divinely happy, and Anne correspondingly miserable. The trio are to take part in a play, written by Reggie. Anne's part in this is responsible for an idea, which ends in prompt and tragic action.

Embraces practical hints on the power-house and its apparatus, dynamo-motor and line construction; describes car wiring, the trolley apparatus, treats of traction roads and other relative matter; includes general remarks on motor-men, a history of the electric railway, methods of electrically controlling street cars, and considers the electric street railway as an investment. The work is designed for students, and indexed.

Trumbull, H. Clay. The knightly soldier: a biography of Major Henry Ward Camp. New rev. ed. Phil., J. D. Wattles, 1892. c. '65, 92. 16+323+6 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

Tuttle, Hudson. Life in two spheres. Phil., The Carter Pub. Co., 1892. c. 242 p. D. (Independent ser., no. 1.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Hero and Leon, two mortals happily united in wedlock on earth according to their individual belief, again come into union after death. A sage in the realm to which they are transported undertakes to make them acquainted with the conditions of their new life, to show them some of the failings of those who are of the earth sphere, and finally brings them into contact with the people of the sphere of light. A novel which is a means of ventilating religious beliefs which incline to the spiritualistic.

Wigston, W. F. C. The Columbus of literature; or, Bacon's new world of sciences. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] 5-217 p. il. O. cl., $2.

An effort to establish the Baconian theory of the authorship of the Shakespearian plays by deducing the evidence which the author claims is present in a greater or less degree in these plays. In his analytical treatment of the subject, and by arrangement of chapters, the author strives to prove Rosicrucian affinities; in brief, to deal with a difficult problem of literature.

Wilson, Marian Calvert. Manuelita: the story of San Xavier Del Bac. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. '91. 3-305 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

In this story of the old Californian mission of San Xavier Del Bac, the famous Father Kino, the first Jesuit missionary in Sonora, is an important figure. Much of the story is historical, and taken from the early records of the Spanish explorers. Manuelita is a little Indian girl adopted by Padre Kino on his historic visit to the Moqui towns of Arizona. Her betrothal to Captain Baltazar Carillo affords an opportunity for self-sacrifice on the part of a young priest, and her marriage results in a life of self-devotion and the final completion of the San Xavier church.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 2, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

ON THE IMPORTANCE OF FRESH STOCK.

We have from time to time pointed out that much of the bad business, bad luck (as some will call it) and other evils, especially of country booksellers, may be traced directly to their own inertia and want of push and energy. Many of them persistently lose sight of the fact that keeping stock, whether of books, stationery or novelties, up to date and fresh is as important to a business commercially and financially as having a strong backbone is to a man who would be strong and healthy.

Such as we have in our mind's eye appear to be supremely indifferent to the nature and age of their stock, and persist in having the same goods on show month after month. The only sign in their windows of the change of seasons is the appearance of a few cards, half of them perhaps of previous years' designs. The rest of their windows is filled up with cobwebby and dusty quires of antediluvian note-paper; odd bunches of the old familiar red-handled penholders; pieces of half-melted sealing-wax twisted into odd Dantesque shapes; a ball or two of red and pink twine; a damaged porcelain figure and a rusted Jew's sharp (to maintain the claim of a dealer in objects of art and musical instruments); and a baker's dozen of books—all back numbers. The result of such shop-keeping is that the number of old customers gradually diminishes, the majority of them preferring to patronize more enterprising rivals or to send their orders out of town. Another result, too, of quite as frequent occurrence, and one which usually lands the experimenter into the clutches of the sheriff, is that the half-stranded and wholly fossilized dealer takes another store in the town, and runs it on precisely the same lines, apparently in the delusive hope that two blacks may make a white. It is not necessary to point out that such a course invariably only increases the former loss by about one hundred per cent., and hastens the downgrade progress of the heedless, or, shall we say, brainless dealer.

To all such, and to those who follow after them, we offer the advice: Clear out all your old stock, even if it be at "an enormous sacrifice," and replace it by up-to-date stock and novelties—not necessarily a large stock of them, but one selected with care and discrimination. And when the representatives of publishing and other houses call on you—and call they will—don't bawl out from the further end of your store "Nothing in your line to-day," but look over what they have to show you; and if you find anything new that will suit your trade make a selection if it be ever so small; go slowly enough at all times not to overstock or to load up with what you will never need. Know yourself what you want and don't let others prescribe for you. Above everything, don't follow "Mrs. Toodles'" example.

A couple of dollars judiciously invested especially in the latest novelties will freshen up and enliven a whole shopful of semi-moribund lines—not that we would for a moment advise the retention of the latter if they can in any way be speedily got rid of. There is a close affinity—in a metaphorical sense—between old stocks and weak backs. To get a new outfit is to put in a new backbone. Surgically, this cannot be done; commercially, it is a possibility.

We are pleased to note that the London Booksellers' Society has acted upon the recommendation to hold examinations for the purpose of testing the qualifications of booksellers' assistants, not only of London but of all parts of England. The examinations will be of two kinds, viz.: The Preliminary, for those under twenty years of age; and the Advanced, for those over that age. The examinations will be based upon the following subjects: (1) Authors and their works; (2) The published price of books; (3) The best works on stated subjects; (4) The writing of business orders and calculations of prices. Money prizes and certificates of merit will be given. This is a most important move and one that deserves success and emulation. The training of booksellers' apprentices and assistants has been left too long to chance in this country and in England, and the evils of such a hit-or-miss system are beginning to make themselves felt, especially in the smaller towns.

Germany supports two schools for booksellers—institutions which, with a modified course, might be made as useful to the book trade of this country as the Library School at Albany, N. Y., has become to the libraries. We hold that the influence of such a trade school would prove even more beneficial to the community at large than a library school, as the bookseller's position, if he be properly qualified for his work, is decidedly of greater influence. The bookseller, having to do with books that are bought to be always the companions of the buyer, is in a position to direct the education of the masses in a greater degree than the librarian who, in a majority of cases, has simply to supply the book that is drawn from its repository for a few days or weeks. To repeat what was said in a discussion on this subject some time ago: "A thoroughly educated book trade, competent to influence readers, and thence writers, would be one of the greatest blessings that could be vouchsafed to America, its education, its culture and its literature!" Who will make a beginning towards this consummation?

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THOMAS HARDY is writing a new novel, called "The Pursuit of the Well Beloved."

PROF. HELMHOLTZ has been elected a foreign associate of the Académie des Sciences, in the place of the late Emperor of Brazil.

PROFESSOR A. S. HARDY is about to take up his residence at West Point, where he will doubtless again set at work his too-long idle pen.

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER, JR., of Philadelphia, has undertaken a work on Lafayette in the American Revolution. He is seeking for unpublished letters pertaining to the subject.

MISS CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON has prepared for the August Harper's Magazine a paper on a subject not yet hackneyed—"Corfu and the Ionian Sea." It is to be charmingly illustrated.

MR. HENRY E. KREHBIEL has prepared a chapter on American music for the book on famous composers which Professor Paley, of Harvard, is editing, and which is rapidly approaching completion.

No American author, with the possible exception of Bret Harte, enjoys greater popularity in Germany than Mark Twain. A complete edition of his works, translated into German, is to be brought out in a short time by a well-known publisher in Stuttgart.

THE centenary of the birth of the poet Shelley on Aug. 4 will be celebrated in various ways in London, and also at Field Palace, near Horsham, England, where he was born. It will be curious to discover whether Oxford, from whose cloisters the poet was expelled in 1811, will do anything in memory of one of the most distinguished of her sons.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE RHETT CATHCART.

GEORGE RHETT CATHCART, the well-known Managing Director of the Agency Business of the American Book Company, and also one of the Board of Directors of this great concern, died at Newport, R. I., on Monday, June 27, after a long illness from an affection of the heart. Mr. Cathcart was born about forty-nine years ago in South Carolina, where he graduated from college at seventeen. His father died when Mr. Cathcart was very young, and he was placed under the guardianship of Charles G. Memminger, afterward Secretary of the Treasury of the Confederate Cabinet. At the beginning of the civil war Mr. Cathcart served for a short time on General Longstreet's staff, but not being entirely in accord with the Southern cause, he resigned and went to England, where he remained during the larger part of the war, engaged in literary and legal studies, having been entered at the Middle Temple. After his return to his native land, in 1865, Mr. Cathcart was connected for some time with the Charleston Daily News. Later he came to New York and for a few years was engaged in journalistic work on the New York Times and various other papers. At this time he founded and published the Publisher and Bookseller, a trade and literary review. In 1870 he entered the employment of Iverson, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. He continued with this firm through its various changes, having become a partner after a few years. In 1874 he compiled Cathcart's Literary Reader, which was published by the firm, and the copyright of which was afterwards contributed to its capital by Mr. Cathcart.

Mr. Cathcart was prominent in the organization of the American Book Company. A full account of the aim and object of this association was given in his own words in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of April 26, 1890. Mr. Cathcart was a man of great executive ability and was connected with many important organizations and clubs of this city. He was for some years President of the Twenty-first Assembly District Republican Organization, but was not ambitious for office. He was a member of the Commission for Municipal Consolidation Inquiry, and of the Union League, Manhattan Athletic, New York Athletic, and Aldine Clubs. In 1866 he married a daughter of Prof. James J. Mapes, of this city. The widow and one child, a daughter, survive him. The funeral will be private.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

QUEEN VICTORIA has a book which is eighteen inches thick and weighs sixty-three pounds. It contains the jubilee speeches and addresses.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will bring out a library edition of several of Anthony Trollope's novels. They will be issued with illustrations.

MARION HARLAND's book called "The Story of Mary Washington" will not be ready before next winter. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will bring it out.

"A HISTORY OF PERU," by Clements R. Markham, will introduce the series on the Latin-American Republics projected by Charles H. Sergel & Co.

A WORK on novel lines, for schools and for the general reader, is "England and Its Rulers," by H. Pomeroy Brewster and Geo. H. Humphrey, shortly to be issued by S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago, who also announce "Columbus: an epic poem," by Samuel Jefferson, which purports to give an accurate history of the great discovery in rhymed, heroic verse, and "A Phrase-Book of Eclectic Shorthand," by J. G. Cross.

At a recent meeting of the Johnson Club at Oxford, A. W. Hutton read a paper on the lexicographer's library, based on the original sale catalogue as printed a hundred years ago, a copy of it having come to light in a London shop a short time ago. Of this interesting catalogue a hundred and fifty copies have been privately printed by one of the members of the club for distribution among Johnsonians.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. will publish shortly in their series of Select Novels a delightful story of domestic life in an English country family, entitled "A Daughter's Heart," by Mrs. H. Lovett Cameron. They will also issue at once an instructive little volume by Bishop A. W. Thorold, entitled "Questions of Faith and Duty." One of the most popular novels ever published in this country is "The Wide, Wide World," which has run through many editions. J. B. Lippincott Company have just issued the story in an entirely new and cheaper form, printed from new plates, and illustrated by eight full-page pictures and thirty illustrations in the text, from drawings by Frederick Diehlman. The artist has made no attempt to modernize the personages, and he has well preserved the characteristics of the period to which the story belongs. The new edition of "Chambers' Encyclopædia," published by the J. B. Lippincott Co., is rapidly nearing completion, and with the advent of one more volume this standard reference-book will be at the command of all who are desirous of procuring one of the most accurate, convenient and useful encyclopædias now in the American market. The ninth volume has just been issued. Among the more important American articles are found San Francisco, St. Louis, St. Paul, Scandinavian Mythology, Sir Walter Scott, Sewage, Sewing-Machine, Shakers, Shakespeare, Shelley, Phil Sheridan, Sherman, Ship-Building, Silk, Silver, Slang, Soda, South Carolina, Spain, Sugar, Spiritualism, etc. These are all copyrighted, as are also the articles by American authors in all the volumes issued. The maps of this number include Russia, Scotland, South Australia, Spain and South Carolina, prepared according to the latest geographical surveys. The illustrations are among the best ever issued in a work of this character. The volumes contain on an average nearly a thousand pages each. Volume X. will be issued in the fall, and will complete a fine edition of a noble work of reference.

BUSINESS NOTES.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—S. M. Williams, 25 Fourth Street, S., has moved into larger and better located quarters at 509 Nicollet Ave.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Wyley B. Allen, wholesale and retail bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

TROY, N. Y.—The firm of Briggs & Co. was dissolved June 28 by mutual consent. Edward L. Ertzberger withdraws from the firm. The business of Troy's Old Book Store will be conducted by J. M. Briggs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

"The greatest novel, in many respects, that has appeared within the present decade."

CALMIRE.

12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A singularly engaging presentation of an agnostic's picture of human life. . . . Not done with an Ingalls' assumption that rhetoric and plenty of cordial suerger can remove mountains, it is backed by weight and guided with an admirable show of fairness and liberality. . . . A book far and away superior to 'Robert Elsmere,' 'David Greave,' or 'John Ward, Preacher,' in point of argument, directness of vision in handling questions of human conduct, and in force of bold projection and apt and distinct illustration. . . . Moreover, as a mere love-story, this novel has that charm of blended romance and realism, that captivating verisimilitude and that nameless power to haunt one with its shame-tinged sorrow and happiness which testify unmistakably of genius."

These somewhat startling opinions from a three-column review in the INDEPENDENT are not without support.

Although the N. Y. TRIBUNE says: "To include the elaborate explanation of an entire cosmic hypothesis is too much for anything short of genius to attempt," and that "the book is a mistake from the point of view of art." It also says: "We have not found it at all dull in spite of its didacticism. . . . The author writes with much force and skill. The style is good and the exposition lucid. . . . So far as the book deals with human nature its analysis is strikingly keen. The studies of Calmire, of Muriel, of Nina, and of Minerva are careful, vigorous, true to nature, and often brilliant. . . . We fear it is too much to expect that 'Calmire' will become popular; yet to the few who would be likely to appreciate its many really good points, it may be hinted that the time expended upon its perusal will not be wasted, its length to the contrary notwithstanding."

About the "length" the critics are generally misled by the number of pages. But the type is large and the page open, and by actual count, "Robert Elsmere" is half as long again.

The PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN says: "Of the ability of the work, of its learning, its audacity, its subtle dialectics, and its literary charm, there can be no question. It woos and delights even where it does not convince." Nevertheless the BULLETIN calls it in one place "an atheistic argument," while in another it says the author "finds God in all things."

The BOSTON BEACON says: "It would not be surprising if 'Calmire' attained a vogue comparable to that of 'Robert Elsmere.' The fundamental situation, worked out with marked ingenuity, leads up to a simple, natural and effective climax."

The PHILADELPHIA PRESS says: "A really powerful story. 'Calmire' and 'Muriel' are better types of the radical in religion than 'Robert Elsmere.'"

The PITTSBURG TELEGRAPH says that it is "evidently the work of a very subtle hand and brain."

The BOSTON HOME JOURNAL says: "Sure to attract very wide attention. . . . Remarkably able. In no way a rehash of what we have had in the line of so-called modern thought on religious subjects in several well-known novels during the past few years, but is entirely distinct in theory and mode of treatment. No thoughtful person—and it was evidently written for none other—will begin it without becoming deeply interested, and in this condition following it to the end."

The DETROIT FREE PRESS says: "The plot in one aspect deals with a phase of life not usually found in the better class of works of fiction; but it is treated with such delicacy and to such good moral purpose that it furnishes its own excuse."

A NEW AND TIMELY HANDBOOK.A B C of the Swedish System of Educational Gymnastics.By HARTVIG NISSEN,

Instructor of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Boston, Mass.; Instructor of Swedish and German Gymnastics at Harvard University's Summer School, 1891.; Author of "A Manual on Swedish Movement and Massage Treatment," etc.

A Practical Handbook for School-Teachers and the Home.

This handy volume is everywhere spoken of as the best book on the subject now in the market. All dealers near schools where Physical Training is given should have it in stock.

The fullest instructions and commands are given for each exercise, and seventy-seven excellent engravings illustrate them and add greatly to the practical value of the book. Small 12mo, 143 pages, extra flexible cloth, 75 cents, net.

A BOOK OF SURPASSING INTEREST IS

THE CHINESE:*Their Present and Future; Medical Political and Social.By ROBERT COLTMAN, Jr., M.D., Surgeon in Charge of the Presbyterian Hospital and Dispensary at Teng Chow Fu.

The author has spent many years among the Chinese; lived with them in their dwellings; thoroughly learned the language; has become conversant with all their strange and odd characteristics to a greater extent than almost any other American. The simple, direct, straight-forward style in which Dr. Coltman has written this book makes it entertaining and fascinating as well as profitable reading throughout.

The book is beautifully printed in large, clear type, and is illustrated with fifteen fine engravings from photographs of persons, places and objects characteristic of China. In one handsome royal octavo volume of 212 pages, appropriately bound in extra cloth, with Chinese side stamp, $1.75, net.

THE DAUGHTER:*Her Health, Education and Wedlock.

HOMELY SUGGESTIONS TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS CONCERNING CHILDHOOD, MAIDENHOOD, WIFEHOOD AND MOTHERHOOD.

By WILLIAM M. CAPP, M.D., Philadelphia.

This valuable little volume belongs to a most important class of books, and it is everywhere recognized as one of the very best. Beautifully printed, large, clear type, 12mo, 150 pages, handsomely bound in extra cloth, $1.00, net.

"A clear, practical and wholesome volume of hygienic suggestions, without prudery on the one hand, and without technical or unnecessary professional minuteness on the other. The author's purpose is high, and his achievement helpful."—The Sunday-School Times.

CONSUMPTION!*How to Prevent It and How to Live with It.

ITS NATURE, CAUSES, PREVENTION, AND THE MODE OF LIFE, CLIMATE, EXERCISE, FOOD AND CLOTHING, NECESSARY FOR ITS CURE.

By N. S. DAVIS, Jr., A.M., M.D.,

Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine in Chicago Medical College, etc., etc.

A plain, practical treatise, thoroughly readable and scientifically accurate. 12mo, 143 pages, extra cloth, 75 cents, net.

THE ST. LOUIS WEEKLY MEDICAL REVIEW says: "He is very thorough in his discussion of the subject, and the practical hints which he gives are of real worth and value. His directions are given in such a manner as to make life enjoyable to a consumptive patient and not a burden, as is too frequently the case."

"The Ariel Press (F. J. Schulte & Co.) holds its own with any of the Eastern publishing houses."—Chicago News.

"The successful house of F. J. Schulte is a new one, but it is turning out a great quantity of books, which are crowding from countless book-counters and news-stands the multiplied trash which used to flood the country. Many of the Schulte books are with a purpose, but he is putting before his public, too, books that show the beginning of a live native literature in the Middle West. Men like Opie Read, whose 'Kentucky Colonel' and 'Emmett Bonlore' have the genuine self-respecting flavor of the soil, are doing a work for American literature which cannot be lightly estimated either in its influence or its direct achievement."—Boston Transcript.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING CO. have just published a new novel by Mrs. Parr, entitled "The Squire."

GINN & Co. have in press Gottfried Keller's "Die teten," with introduction and notes by Gustav Gruener, Tutor in German at Yale University.

THE NEW YORK SUN PRINTING AND PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION will publish, in time for use at the Columbus celebration next October, a complete, unique and practical guide-book to New York City. It will tell visitors what the sights are, how to reach them, where to lodge and board while in New York and the cost, where to do wholesale or retail shopping, how to amuse themselves and get rest when weary of sightseeing. It will be attractively printed and bound.

THE BIBLIA PUBLISHING COMPANY, of Meriden, Conn., has just issued its initial monthly number of Ancient Egypt in the Light of Modern Discoveries," edited by Chas. H. S. Davis, Ph.D., and Rev. Camden M. Cobern, Ph.D., with an introduction by Rev. W. C. Winslow, LL.D. Over one hundred illustrations will appear in the twenty-four monthly parts; in the June issue are maps of Egypt as a whole, of Upper Egypt, of Lower Egypt, of the Basin of the Nile, of the Canal of Joseph, and of Egypt during the pluvial period; this opening chapter treats of "Egypt and Its Original Inhabitants," and it is largely ethnographical in its cuts and letterpress.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have just begun the issue of a new serial library, to be known as the National Novel Series, in paper covers, well printed, and on good paper. The first issue is "Ivanhoe," by Sir Walter Scott, to be followed at monthly intervals by "Night and Morning" (Lytton), "Heart of Midlothian" (Scott) and other standard novels. They will shortly publish a new copyright story from the pen of Silas K. Hocking, to be called "Where Duty Lies." This author's stories are so popular in England, for Sunday-school, library and home reading, that the publishers have issued over half a million copies of his previous volumes.

JOHN A. TAYLOR & Co. announce that James Payn's new story, "A Modern Dick Whittington," advertised to appear at once in London, has also been formally published by them for copyright purposes in this country, but will not be given out to the trade for a week or two. Another story which is being reserved in the same way is "Constance," by F. C. Phillips. The demands of the new copyright law promise occasionally to compel a perfunctory publication on dates other than would be chosen by those most vitally concerned. Messrs. Taylor & Co. will shortly publish in the Broadway Series "Ase-nath of the Ford," described by the author as "A Romance of the Red Earth Country," a new story by "Rita."

BRENTANO'S, New York, specially call the attention of the trade to their line of gift-books suitable for any season. "Songs from the Operas" are illustrated profusely by Mr. Frank M. Gregory, and accompanied in each instance by their music arranged for the piano. The text is adapted from the original by J. Kendrick Bangs. The gems from "Carmen," "Faust" and "Lohengrin" will always be popular. "The Magnificat" and "Onward, Christian Soldiers," are also published in the same style, with music and decorations by the same artist, who is a member of the Salmagundi Club. "The Baby's Biography" will always be the delight of young mothers. It has reached its second edition and is a very successful book. The "Petite Library" will contain biography and prose and poetical selections. Thus far are ready the lives of Chopin, Liszt, Beethoven and Mozart, and three volumes of selections from the writings of Goethe, Schiller and Heine. The Illustrated Library Edition of "Don Quixote," in Motteux' translation, will be brought out by arrangement with the English publishers. It is in four volumes and strictly limited to three hundred copies, which will be sold by subscription. The illustrations consist of sixty-seven etchings specially prepared for this edition by Adolph Lalauze. New editions of last year's "Surprise Model Picture-Books" are also sure of new popularity.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Bacheller, Irving. The master of silence: a romance. N. Y., C: L. Webster & Co., 1892. c. 8-176 p. D. (Fiction, fact and fancy ser.) cl., 75 c.

Rayel Lane, the hero of this strange romance, lives for eighteen years shut up in an isolated house in the northern part of New York State, his only companions being his father, a deaf-mute and a tame lion. He has never been taught to speak, with the exception of a few words of Sanscrit, and has a strange power of reading other men's minds. Add to this the fact that he has never seen a woman, and some conception may be formed of the strange part he plays in the world after his father's death. An English cousin, escaping a conspiracy against his life, finds Rayel in his retreat, teaches him language and takes him to New York City. Love for the same woman tests the characters of both men.

Baring-Gould, Sabine. In the roar of the sea. N. Y., National Book Co., [1892.] c. '91. 2-407 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

A tale of the Cornish coast in the days of the Georges, in which smuggling and wreckage, encounters between the government force and the smugglers, and hair-breadth escapes and thrilling situations form a large part of the story. There is, however, a love-tale with an unconventional heroine—Judith Trevisan—who is the central figure in numerous daring escapades.

Black, W: The magic ink, and other stories. New [uniform] rev. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 258 p. il. D. cl., 90 c.

Also, "A Hallowe'en wreath" and "Nancebel, a tale of Stratford-on-Avon."

*Blaine, Ja. G. An American statesman; the works and words of Ja. G. Blaine. Phil., A. R. Keller Co., 1892. 585 p. 12°, cl., $1.50; hf. rus., $2; full rus., $2.50. Auto-graphed., $1.75.

Carleton, Will. City festivals. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 5-164 p. il. sq. O. cl., $2; $2.50; full seal, $4.

The sixth and last volume in the popular Farm and City Series. It contains Mr. Carleton's latest poems, and is uniform in style with his earlier works.

Carradine, B., D.D. Church entertainments: twenty objections. Syracuse, N. Y., A. W. Hall, 1892. c. 2+96 p. S. cl., 50 c.; pap., 30 c.

The church entertainment is considered from twenty points. The first of these is an aversion to converting the church into a money-making institution, which the author believes a perversion and desecration of the house of God; and so all of his objections are enumerated and defined, and arguments against them are briefly stated.

Cleveland, Grover. Writings and speeches of Grover Cleveland; selected and ed. with introd. by G: F. Parker. Library ed. N. Y., Cassell Publishing Co., [1892.] c. 26+571 p. por. O. cl., $2.50; édition de luxe, large-pap., hf. leath., $6.

With Mr. Cleveland's consent, Mr. George F. Parker has gathered into this volume a representative collection of the speeches, public papers and letters of the ex-President. It presents his opinions on so great a variety of topics and with such fulness that by means of it the reader will be enabled to learn exactly what he thinks on all the vital questions of the day. The matter has been classified under twenty-five chapter headings, and a carefully prepared index further facilitates reference.

Collingwood, H. W. The business hen: breeding and feeding poultry for profit; with special articles, by P. H. Jacobs, J. H. Drevenstedt, C. S. Cooper [and others.] N. Y., The Rural Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 150 p. il. sq. D. cl., 75 c.; pap., 40 c.

States the most favorable conditions for developing the egg into a "business hen"—that is, a profitable rather than a pleasure fowl. Incubation, care of chicks, treatment of diseases, selection and breeding, feeding and housing, are all discussed in a clear and simple manner, and two of the most successful egg-farms in the country are described in detail. The editor is managing editor of the Rural New Yorker.

The main object of the little volume is to enable type and shorthand writers to take down and write out law-papers intelligently and correctly. The use of words and phrases peculiar to the legal profession, and the peculiar meanings which it gives to common words, are taught by stating in a connected manner those propositions of law which contain them.

- Ewart, H. C., ed. Tollers in art. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. 6-378 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
Brief biographical sketches, which view such artists as John Tenniel, Leon Lhermitte, Oscar Reisch, Jean Paul Laurens, Frederick Shields, George Tinworth, John Flaxman and many others, chiefly in the light of their artistic achievements, the schools to which they belong and their time. The work is illustrated with reproductions of some of their paintings and a number of artists' portraits.
- *Ewart, W. Cardiac outlines; for the use of clinical clerks and practitioners; and first principles in the physical examination of the heart, for the beginner. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. il. 16° cl., $1.50.
- *Farrar, J. A. Paganism and Christianity. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1892. 18+256 p. 12° cl., $1.75.
- Fearing, Blanche. In the city by the lake: in two books. Chic., Searle & Gorton, 1892. c. 192 p. sq. D. cl., $1.25.
Contains two long blank verse narrative poems, "The shadow" and its sequel, "The slave girl." They are both stories of love, taking the reader through scenes of poverty and toil.
- Frost, A. B. The bull calf, and other tales. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, [1892.] c. 112 p. il. obl. S. cl., $1.
Caricatures, accompanied with descriptive humorous text, tell of the reflections of a man who purchased a bull calf. Followed by other funny pictures and accompanying sketches, called A warning to mutton that thinks itself lamb; Ansonie and Jeremiah; An inharmonious tale; Dizzy Joe; Violet's experience;
- The entire discomfiture of uneasy Walker; 'Twas a poem about gentle spring; The kidnapping of Private Jean François; A frontier episode of the next war; A low down trick, or, Louisa's capitation; A tale of two tails.
- Hall, A. D., and Downing, Rob. L. Our lady of laughter: a romance of court and stage. Wash., D. C., Edgemore Pub. Co., 1892. c. 8-810 p. D. (Edgemore ser., v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 25 c.
A novel founded chiefly on the virtues, follies and fate of the actress, Nell Gwynne.
- *Horton, G. Songs of the lowly, and other poems. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., 1892. 242 p. 12° cl., $1.50. Author's ed., cl., 12°, $5.
- *Hudson, C. H. The naturalist in La Plata. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 888 p. il. 8°, cl., $4.
- *Keary, C. F. Norway and the Norwegians. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 12° cl., $1.50.
- Lanza, Clara, [Marquise.] A golden pilgrimage: a novel. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1892. c. 4-358 p. il. D. (Library of choice fiction, no. 48.) pap., 50 c.
Helen Goodale, the daughter of a deceased New York doctor, is anxious to marry for wealth and position, so dismisses her attendant again, a young physician of growing repute, and marries a man who has these requisites, but who is threatened with insanity. In the action of the heroine are seen some of the results of the conduct of a cruel and ambitious girl; in that of the hero and his rival the effects of misplaced love.
- Le Sage, Alain René. Gil Blas of Santillane; tr. by Tob. Smollet. Chic., Nile C. Smith Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 359 p. il. D. (Lake-side ser., v. 1.) pap., 25 c.
- Mosenthal, S. H. Leah; or, the forsaken: a romance of a Jewish maiden. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1892.] 18-122 p. O. (Peterson's ser. of choice fiction.) pap., 25 c.
- *Mott, L. F. Dante and Beatrice: an essay in interpretation. N. Y., Press of W. R. Jenkins, 1892. 48 p. T. pap., 25 c.
- *New York. Ct. of appeals. Reports of cases, from and including decisions of Jan. 20, 1892, to decisions of Apr. 12, 1892, with notes, references and index, by H. E. Sickels, st. rep. V. 181, (Sickels, 86.) Alb., J. B. Lyon, 1892. c. 18+777 p. O. shp., $2.50.
- Ober, Carolyn Faville, and Westover, Cynthia M. Manhattan, historic and artistic: a six days' tour of New York City. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 9+282 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
It is the intention of the authors to present in as attractive a literary form as is possible a practical guide-book which has for its object economy of the sightseer's time. Although historical and artistic points of interest are of first importance, the educational, commercial, municipal and philanthropic features are fully represented. There is a comprehensive chronological record of notable events that have occurred in the metropolis from its settlement in 1624 to 1891, and a general history which traces the social developments of New York City.
- Olmis, Elizabeth. Morris Julian's wife: a novel; il. by Warren B. Davis. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 5-338 p. D. (Choice ser., no. 64.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
Morris Julian, at the age of 35, wooed and won for his wife Sallie Maynard, a beautiful school-girl. What at first seemed an ideal marriage is followed by a revulsion of feeling and an unconventional act on the part of the young wife, with remorse and atonement on the side of the husband, and a reunion, in which Dr. Kenneth Cameron is an important actor.
- Oman, C. W. C. The story of the Byzantine Empire. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892.

c. 14+864 p. il. D. (Story of the nations ser., no. 33.) cl., $1.50.

The writer has not accepted Gibbon's presentation of the Byzantine government as a corrupt and decaying despotism, but has written from the point of view of later historians, who recognize the great work done by the East Roman Empire in "holding back the Saracen and keeping alive throughout the Dark Ages the lamp of learning." The picturesque history of the great empire is clearly and briefly presented from the founding of Byzantium and its destruction, A.D. 196, through the gradual rise of Constantinople to supreme magnificence, its slow decline in power, menaced by Frank and Saracen, to the final tragedy, the fall of the city of Constantinople before the hosts of Mahomet II. A chronological table of emperors is appended.

Perry, Amos. An official tour along the eastern coast of the regency of Tunis: geography and history of the country and manners and customs of the people. Providence, R. I., Standard Printing Co., 5 Washington Row, 1891 [1892.] 4+110 p. il. por. O. pap., $1.

Mr. Perry was formerly United States Consul at Tunis, and is the author of "Carthage and Tunis, past and present." This book is virtually a supplement to that work. It furnishes statistics and facts which show changes that have taken place during the last quarter of a century, and describes the present condition and future prospects of the country.

Pool, Maria Louise. Mrs. Keats Bradford: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 4+309 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"Roweny in Boston" ended in the heroine's departure for Paris to pursue her studies in painting. There she became Mrs. Keats Bradford. The new story opens with her return on a visit to her old home without her husband. Roweny constantly tells her mother what an angel Keats is, though he spends his time in a California ranch, while she paints in Boston, taking her young sister to live with her. After many days Roweny decides to be wife first and artist in moderation.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed county and township pocket map and shipper's guide of Alabama. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 50 p. folded map, S. pap., 25 c.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed county and township pocket map and shipper's guide of Colorado. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 86 p. folded map, pap., 25 c.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s indexed county and township pocket map and shipper's guide of South Dakota. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1892.] c. 18 p. folded map, S. pap., 25 c.

Revelations of a spirit medium; or, spiritualistic mysteries exposed: a detailed explanation of the methods used by fraudulent mediums. St. Paul, Minn., Farrington & Co., 1891 [1892.] 324 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.

An exposé of the methods of the medium rather than an attack on spiritualists. In ventilating the nefarious means of producing the phenomena of spiritualism the anonymous author claims a worthy purpose and founds his book on an experience of twenty years as a medium.

Scott, Sir Walter. Ivanhoe: a romance. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., [1892.] 17+460 p. D. (National novel ser., no. 1.) pap., 50 c.

Sherwood, Mrs. M. E. W. A transplanted rose: a story of New York society. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. '82. 2+807 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., extra, no. 722.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 14, 1882, [561.]

Smart, Hawley. Breezie Langton: a story of fifty-two to fifty-five. Phil., Crawford &

Co., [1892.] 2-808 p. D. (Popular ser. of choice novels, no. 12.) pap., 25 c.

Stevenson, Rob. L., and Osbourne, Lloyd. The wrecker; il. by W. Hole and W. L. Metcalf. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. '91. 5+553 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The scene opens in the Marquesas, where the arrival of an unknown vessel is exciting great wonderment. The curiosity of the idlers is later gratified in the club-room of the Cercle Internationale. The relation of H. Loudon Dodd's experience as the partner of a man who buys wrecks includes much adventure both by land and sea, and gives the personal story of a man who plays many parts.

Teala, Nikola. Experiments with alternate currents of high potential and high frequency: a lecture delivered before the Institution of Electrical Engineers, London; with a biographical sketch of the author. N. Y., W. J. Johnston Co., Ltd., 167-176 Times Bldg., 1892. 8+146 p. por. il. S. cl., $1.

Valdés, Don Armando Palacio. Faith; from the Spanish by Isabel F. Hapgood. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 2+353 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 119.) pap., 50 c.

Pensacosa in Spain is the scene of the consecration of Gli Lastra. His career as a priest is a remarkable one. He has a short season of success, is chosen with avidity by the fair sex for their confessor, incurs the enmity of some members of the priesthood, makes strenuous effort to subdue analytical and heretical tendencies in his nature, and is finally the unwilling actor in an escapade which helps him to realize that man can only be saved by "Faith."

Van Dyke, H. Jackson. Henry Jackson Van Dyke. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] c. 4+168 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

A memorial volume, which includes a brief biography of Rev. Henry Jackson Van Dyke, three sermons of his, entitled How old art thou? The pre-eminence and power of the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth; The inner life; the minutes of a meeting of the Brooklyn Second Presbyterian Church, held Wednesday evening, May 20, 1891; some tributes to his memory, and a memorial service in which Drs. Murray, Storrs and Davis took active part.

*Weise, Arthur Ja. Troy's one hundred years, 1789-1889. Troy, N. Y., W. H. Young, 1892. c. '91. 453 p. il. sq. 8°, cl., $3; mor., $5.

*Wendt, H., D.D. The teaching of Jesus; tr. by the Rev. J. Wilson. In 2 v. V. 1. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 8° cl., net, $2.50.

Whittaker's churchman's almanac: the Protestant Episcopal almanac and parochial list, 88th year, 1892. N. Y., T. Whittaker, [1892.] 300 p. S. pap., 25 c.

*Whittle, Rev. W. A. A Baptist abroad; or, travels and adventures in Europe and all Bible lands; with an introd. by J. L. M. Curry. N. Y., J. A. Hill & Co., 44 East 14th st., 1891 [1892.] 572 p. il. map, por. 8°, cl., subs., $2.75; hf. mor., $3.50; full mor., $4.50.

Wiley, Harvey W., Maxwell, Walter, and Henry, W. A. Experiments with sugar beets in 1891. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1892. 158 p. O. (United States department of agriculture, Division of chemistry, Bulletin no. 83.) pap., n. p.

Wiley, Harvey W., Spencer, Guilford L., and Ewell, Ervin E. Foods and food adulterants. Pt. 7, Tea, coffee and cocoa preparations. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1892. 6+876-1012+8 p. O. (United States department of agriculture, Division of chemistry, Bulletin no. 13.) pap., n. p.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

JULY 9, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AN ALLEGED COPYRIGHT COMPLICATION.

THE threatened invasion of an English author's rights by an American reprinter has recently occupied the attention of several of our English and American contemporaries, who in discussing the alleged complication seem to leave out of sight the fact that every law framed demands certain acts on the part of the individual to render it either valid or inoperative. The case referred to is briefly this:

A popular English novelist lately wrote a story which, after appearing serially, was copyrighted on both sides of the Atlantic in the form prescribed by law. Very likely the idea of a rival edition never occurred to the author, but a second publisher took his book without his consent, justifying his action on the ground that as the author's production was first introduced into this country in a periodical that was set in type and printed in England, the English author had forfeited his right to the book under the provisions of the new American copyright law, which distinctly states (Sec. 4956) that "No person shall be entitled to a copyright unless . . . in the case of a book . . . the two copies of the same required to be delivered or deposited [on or before the day of publication at the office of the Librarian of Congress] . . . shall be printed from type set within the limits of the United States."

The London Daily News, which has been most prominent in the discussion of the subject, represents the average misconception of the situation in the following statement, which we quote from its columns:

"The publisher's argument, as we understand it, is that the English illustrated paper, 'set up' in England, has a certain circulation in America. This, he contends, destroys the copyright of the novel which appeared in the paper, albeit, as a book in covers, it was 'set up' by American printers. What the spirit of the law is any one can see. An English author is to have protection in the States if the American printer is also 'protected.' He was protected in this instance, he set up the type from which the book, as a book, was printed. But he did not set up the type of the journal in which it first saw the light. Now it is clear that every English novel which first comes out, as is usual in an English serial of any kind, runs great risk of being pirated in the familiar manner. The serial might be circulated in America to a sufficient extent by the very persons who mean to steal the romance, if it turns out that such serial circulation destroys copyright. We do not see that the American printer will be a loser, for he will still set up the pirated editions, as of old."

The American law certainly was framed with a view to protect American manufacturers. In fact, the clause covering this point was in the eyes of many of the American promoters of an international copyright law the chief objectionable feature of the bill. Though, this is a matter concerning which our English friends ought not to quarrel with us, because their law practically imposes similar obligations or form, by insisting that a book shall be published first in Great Britain, or at any rate simultaneously in that country with its appearance elsewhere. And when the American legislator framed the copyright law (of the imperfections of which we are by no means oblivious), so that domestic copyright law is forfeited if the work is first issued elsewhere, he simply followed the course adopted years ago by his English confrères, and adopted a plan generally accepted in most copyright systems.

BOOKS IN RAISED TYPE FOR THE BLIND.

LAST year alone, according to the London Daily News, the British and Foreign Blind Association embossed 8500 books in English, French, German, Latin, Greek and other languages, for the use of blind readers. About 250 seeing volunteers are, we are informed, engaged in writing out the first copies of books in Braille for this association, and seventy paid blind writers are employed in making copies. Besides these, the association continues to publish its two magazines for the blind: Progress, started by the late Dr. T. R. Armitage in 1881, and Playtime, a magazine in uncontracted Braille for children, which made its first appearance last summer.

VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION. SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION.

On the afternoon of June 28 about two-thirds of the members of the Virginia Booksellers' Association met in the parlors of the Southern Hotel in Petersburg, Va. There were present representatives of Vickery & Co. and Hume & Bellisoly of Norfolk; B. S. Hume & Co. and W. L. Crump of Portsmouth; J. P. Bell Company of Lynchburg; West, Johnston & Co., J. W. Randolph & Co., and H. M. Starke & Co. of Richmond; and T. S. Beckwith & Co. and the Mitchell Manufacturing Co. of Richmond.

The convention was opened by Mr. Beckwith with an address of greeting, which was in substance as follows:

"I warmly welcome you to our city and assure you that during your stay the latchstrings of our homes shall be found always hanging outside. Since our last annual meeting at Norfolk, a memorable meeting for us all, we have had many encouragements, and, perhaps, almost as many discouragements in our hearty efforts to make our work practical and telling in the field we cover. Our officers and executive committee have found a vast amount of work to do, which will be fully described in the excellent report of our very efficient Secretary, Mr. Starke, to whose clear-sighted methods and untiring labors our success in putting our association on a good working basis and our progress in correcting evils are largely due.

"The work of the committee appointed to visit and consult with publishers has already been successful in securing better discounts, in bringing us in closer contact with the publishers, and in making our mutual relations far more satisfactory. The publishers met your representatives in a most friendly spirit, and as a rule, have faithfully kept all promises made to the committee. I think I can safely say that every member of the association may be entirely satisfied with the results of its first year of active work. I consider that the all-important school-book question is in such shape that if we will but stand firmly together, it can be satisfactorily and successfully handled. Another important question—that of postage paid on contract books as well as others at list prices—must also be definitely settled. Our committee proved to the publishers the injustice of the present practice, but they are slow in correcting the current methods. To this question I would call your special attention.

"We must also carefully consider retail prices and discounts in miscellaneous publications and our relations with their publishers.

"We have been fortunate in procuring the promise of addresses from two 'war horses' in the Virginia book trade, who will, no doubt, not only give good advice, but greatly help our association work. We shall also have specially interesting addresses from our two best friends among the publishers in New York on subjects of vital importance to our interest.

"I cannot too earnestly beg sincere personal support from every member of the association in the work we have undertaken.

"You are all familiar with the support our good friend Mr. A. Growoll, of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, has given us in that valuable paper. From it you have learned with what interest other booksellers and publishers have watched our work. We were told by several publishers: 'The Virginia booksellers were the first to know what they wanted and how to ask for it.'

"No sooner had our aims and claims been published, than the Northwest, California, North Carolina, Alabama and others saw they, too, needed united action, and that by organization they might improve their condition. We hope that this general interest may lead to an interstate organization.

"There will be brought before you a number of very important subjects for discussion and investigation. I hope every member will take an active part and truly express his individual views. It is only by such united action and enthusiasm that our success can be assured."

After the Secretary's report, which in the main endorsed or elaborated the statements made in the President's report, a communication from the Executive Committee of the National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association was then read, asking that the Virginia Booksellers' Association affiliate with their association and send delegates to their annual meeting, to be held in Philadelphia, October 11. It also requested that the association consider the following subjects and act on same, and let them hear the result in time for their annual meeting:

1. The revision of the postal laws, enabling dealers to send books at pound rates.
2. The cutting of prices by publishing houses who retail.
3. The cutting of prices by dry-goods houses.
4. The cutting of prices by publishers to jobbers, thus enabling one jobber to undersell another.
5. The licensing of all newsdealers and booksellers.
6. The canvassing by publishers of magazines for yearly subscriptions.

On motion the whole matter was laid on the table until the morning session.

The association next took up several points in the President's report. The one referring to the notice of sending text-books postpaid, still retained by several publishing houses, provoked considerable discussion. The debate resulted in a motion empowering the President to appoint a committee to draw up a formal, courteous and earnest protest to the publishers of text-books that they rescind their action in reference to furnishing books to consumers postpaid at list prices.

A resolution was also passed, that in the event of a member withdrawing from the association, the Secretary shall notify the publishers, now giving its member special prices, of such action.

Other routine business having been disposed of, the meeting proceeded to the election of officers. T. S. Beckwith, Jr., was re-elected President; J. J. Samuel, of Vickery & Co., Norfolk, was chosen Vice-President; H. M. Starke was despite his urgent protest unanimously re-elected Secretary and Treasurer; and the following were elected to act as Executive Committee: Montgomery West, of Richmond; W. L. Olivier, of Staunton; J. H. Hume, of Portsmouth, and J. J. English, of Richmond.

After the business meeting the members and their guests enjoyed a banquet in the dining-room of the hotel. Among those who responded to toasts were: Messrs. Wilcox of Portsmouth, Growoll of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, West, Starke and Beckwith.

The second day's session was held in the rooms of the A. P. Hill Camp at Masonic Hall, opening at 9 o'clock A.M., President Beckwith in the chair. The communication from the National Newsdealers and Booksellers' Association was taken up first. After discussing the various points submitted it was voted that the secretary convey in a communication to the National Association the interest and sympathy of the Virginia booksellers in their endeavors to better their condition. In talking over the point in this communication touching upon the reduction of postage on cloth-bound books, one of the members present pointed out the uselessness and unwisdom of such a move from a bookseller's point of view. He demonstrated from his own experience in the case of paper-covered novels, that such a move would tend to throw still more of the trade of the stores in the hands of carriers, peddlers and owners of news-stands. The speaker claimed that his trade in paper-covered literature was now considerably below one-half of what it was before the "libraries" were put on the pound-rate basis; that though he did not begrudge the newsdealers this portion of his trade he did not believe in asking the government to devise a plan by which they might obtain the rest of his business without trouble or expense to themselves.

The next subject discussed was the "Discounts received from publisher on text-books." Mr. J. P. Bell, of Lynchburg, opened the discussion, which was actively engaged in by almost every member present, and which disclosed the fact that directly through their organization the Virginia booksellers had been quite successful in making satisfactory arrangements with most of the important text-book publishers as to discounts and terms. The discussion was closed by a motion instructing the Executive Committee to endeavor to make arrangements with the few remaining text-book publishers for as good discounts as those allowed by the other houses, and by the following address:

DISCOUNTS GIVEN ON TEXT-BOOKS TO TEACHERS AND SCHOOLS BY PUBLISHERS AND DEALERS.

BY J. G. BIDGOOD.

The subject you have assigned to me to open for discussion is one that requires your calm and most thoughtful consideration. I am only supposed to, as it were, blaze the way for your consideration. There is much to be said, and can be said on both sides of the question. There is no subject but has two sides to it. I am therefore on the other side of this question—that is, my side. Therefore I might be called a partial witness. We must, however, try to handle this subject in as just and fair a way as possible, so that it may not be said of us, as the Indian replied to the frontiersman when in dividing the spoils of a hunt—a coon and turkey being the spoils, "You take the coon and I'll take the turkey, or I'll take the turkey and you take the coon." "But," replied the Indian, "you have never once said turkey to me."

The subject for you to consider to-day is "Discounts given on text-books to teachers and schools." We are the intermediate men between the publishers and consumers. Under the head of consumers must be placed the teachers and schools. Hence it is all-important that the booksellers should be protected in all transactions between the publisher and the teachers and schools, who, as I have said, are consumers. But at the very threshold of our subject we are met with the question: How about those large schools which use so many books during the session, more, in fact, than are carried on the shelves of the bookseller? Is it not just and right that they should have the benefit of a discount? On general principles, I answer No. When the principal of a school buys books to sell again he becomes a dealer, and therefore should pay a license tax and a tax on his business. Otherwise he has the advantage of a regular bookseller who is trying to eke out an honest living, not to make money; because the idea of a bookseller, who is not a publisher and one of the combine, making money has gone glimmering, as the housekeeper said to the student. The day was when a bookseller did have a living show to make a competency. But in these days of competition and rate-cutting a living is all he can expect. Of course the publisher has to advertise and push his business, and it is necessary and right for him to bring his books to the attention of teachers and schools. At the same time he should do justice to the bookseller. He should never charge less than his retail price to any consumer, because the minute he discounts to the teachers and schools he is in competition, and takes from the regular dealer, who, if he desires to keep up his business and retain his customers, must sell at the same rate the publisher does, plus freight, cars, cartage, portorage, twine, etc., and at the end of the year he finds his balance a magnificent array of figures—on the wrong side. The way now generally pursued by publishers when they desire to introduce a new book into the schools of our cities and towns is to send an agent to the teachers, who sets forth the merits of the work, and as an inducement for the introduction of the book into the school offers  $\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{1}{3}$  or 40 % discount—does not take bookseller into his confidence, but when the dealer inquires into the discount of the aforesaid book, is told  $\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{1}{3}$  and 40 % is the best that can be done on the book to any one. Consequently the bookseller "ain't in it," or rather "he is in it" badly if he orders the book.

How the trouble is to be mended is the question to be solved. At the present speaking I do not know just what course is best for us to pursue in the premises. Yet there must be some way out of it, and no doubt in due time and in your wisdom, a way will be opened up. I think the first step should be an aggressive move on the publishers. Let us lay the matter plainly before them, and prove to them that it is to their interest in all cases to protect the local dealer. Most of us have large schools dealing with us to which a discount will have to be allowed—but we should be the ones to decide that, and not the publisher. If the schools need the books they will get them, and the publisher is no worse off by dealing with the teachers and schools through the regular bookseller. Let the publisher fix his price, and no deviation from it to any consumer—leave the discount to the dealer. The system heretofore has been for the teachers and schools, with the aid of the publisher, to manage the bookseller. Let that be changed and all will be well. All booksellers in our State should be induced to join the association, for without a hearty co-operation of all dealers we shall not succeed. Just at this time it is not so much "What are we going to do about it?" as "What we are going to say about it." These are only a few crude thoughts jotted down with the hope they may at least point you into the right path in a very difficult business. To speak personally, I may say we have dealings with schools outside of both public and private schools. It has been a constant fight with the publishers of the books they use, for us to hold that trade—some of them will even sell the schools cheaper than they will us. So you see there are exceptions to the general rule which we cannot ignore or get over. No doubt you have similar cases. Therefore I again say it is a subject requiring much careful thought and no hasty action.

Col. Bidgood's address was warmly applauded, and followed by one on

THE BOOK TRADE: RELATION BETWEEN PUBLISHER AND BOOKSELLER—IS THIS INTEREST A MUTUAL ONE?

BY A. GROWOLL.

The interdependence of the wholesale and retail trades is a patent and well-recognized fact. This interdependence is regulated by a well-understood code of ethics, which both wholesaler and retailer must carefully guard, and to which each must conform his conduct. The wholesale merchant has a sphere into which the retailer cannot intrude with impunity; and just as this is true, so is the converse true. The retail merchant has certain rights which the wholesale merchant must recognize, or he will, by curtailing the chances for profit among retailers, destroy their power to carry on the retail business at all.

Strange as it may appear, notwithstanding the fact that this principle has always been thoroughly well understood, the book-trade—wholesaler and retailer—have sinned against it from the earliest beginnings. Indeed, so early as April 11, 1668, we find a protest from the booksellers of Saxony against the evils of insufficient protection of their rights, and the damage to their interests through irregular bookselling. In the Netherlands, where, by the way, book-trade sales had their origin, there existed laws regulating prices and the selling of books, in Plantin's day—or about 1569. Coming down later we meet in the archives of the book-trade in Italy, Spain, France, England and Germany with dissensions among printers, or bookmakers, and booksellers, over abuses besetting their trade, especially through the underselling practices of the book-peddlers and other irregular dealers in books. Indeed, when the history of the book trade of the world is written, the historian will find himself obliged to devote the largest portion of his narrative of the first three centuries of its existence to a record of the struggle between the bookmaker and the bookseller to maintain their respective rights and to break up underselling.

When the future historian sets to work to account for this condition of affairs, I do not think that I go far astray when I claim that he will find that nearly all the evils that beset the book trade, of the present day, at least, are to be attributed to one ultimate and underlying cause—the lack of unity; in other words, the failure to realize that the interests of every person legitimately a member of the book trade are essentially identical.

The fact that the heads of the trade—the manufacturers or publishers—have practically left this out of the question in managing their business, is one of the causes that has led very largely to the present lamentable demoralization of the entire trade.

The commercial purpose of publisher, jobber and retailer alike is to make money by selling books. This means, that as many books as possible should be sold at a profitable price. It may be regarded as beyond question that this purpose is best served by making use of the usual channels of trade, the machinery which every business has found natural and profitable, namely, a well-organized system of retail dealers at all points throughout the country that furnish a field to a retailer. These dealers, when the business is sufficiently remunerative to attract capable men, exert a local influence and create and nourish a local demand beyond the power of the manufacturer or jobber to call into existence, much less to keep alive. The natural system of trade may be likened to the natural system of rivers; little springs gather the individual drops from the rains into streamlets, and these flowing together feed and become the great rivers.

Now in any business which has to deal with goods other than absolute necessities of life, the encouragement of these local agencies for creating demand is a matter of first importance. Every man comes of his own motive to buy flour, muslin and coal, because he must have them; but most men—even those to whom they seem to be a necessity—must be induced to buy books! The subscription-book publisher has long ago recognized the value of personal influence in selling his productions, and he guards the rights of his agents with the most zealous care. Yet this same publisher, when putting on the market a book which he expects to push through the regular channels of trade, forgets altogether that in that branch, fully as much as in the other, it is the retail bookseller alone who exercises the personal influence.

Of very many books the publisher can undoubtedly sell large editions directly by means of the press; but with an undemoralized, healthy retail system, giving the retailer, of course, like advantages by advertising, all these copies would be sold, and one knows not how many more. It is this last element of profit—the people who will buy books if the retailer tries to sell them, but who spend their surplus money for something else, except when personally approached by a bookdealer—an element of very great importance, which the publisher neglects in attempting to sell directly in competition with the retailers, and he thereby helps to break down the retail trade.

In other trades, as I have already pointed out, this need of cultivating best relations with the retail trade is recognized throughout. Wholesaler dealers refuse to sell directly to the consumer for the declared reason that they prefer to protect their retailing customers, and they find the policy thoroughly sound and profitable. Of course it must be borne in mind that the book trade is not entirely analogous to other branches of business, and is not altogether under the same politico-economic laws. The two elements of value in a book, literary and mechanical, are the first difficulty. Then there is the further peculiarity that all but books too old for copyright, and even the several editions of these, are monopolies. There is therefore but limited competition between the manufacturers of this trade. So if a publisher favors one dealer at the expense of another, the latter has only the very limited redress of cutting off his own nose to spite his face, by refusing to sell the books of that house. Again, the book once issued is of a fixed and describable quality, so that the public can safely order it, without seeing it, over the retailer's head; whereas for articles of food or clothing he would have to go about and see who had the best, as well as who sold it on the best terms. These and other considerations of like nature put the bookseller at a permanent disadvantage, and greatly complicate all problems relating to the trade in books.

But it is, on the other hand, to the advantage of the publisher that he sell as many books as a demand can be created for, and in order to accomplish this an educated retailer must, after all, be the one means of reaching those who might or might not buy the book, and with these, those who buy it any way. The disadvantages of the bookseller are thus naturally offset by the necessity that the publisher must be in friendly relations with him. If the publisher at times forgets this, it is at his peril. Already intelligent men are forsaking the book-retailing business, and what little remains is in danger soon of falling into the hands of ignorant shop-keepers who know no more how to push and sell a book than how to write one. And that finally means the very serious crippling, if not the paralyzing of the whole trade.

On the other hand, the publisher is also to be heard. He complains that he is forced to advertise to the public because it is the only way in which the retailer can be compelled to keep his books in stock. In other words, he competes with the retailer to keep him enterprising. Publishers claim that they must find a market for their books, and if the retailer will not offer that market they must go beyond the retailers for their customers. Under the present condition of things the first edition of a new book, save it be by a popular author, or otherwise exceptional, would remain on their shelves unsold if it were not pushed directly into the hands of the public, and an indirect demand thus brought to bear upon the bookseller from those who hear of the new book through those who have bought it from the publisher. It is further claimed that no one would be so foolish as to take the trouble of writing and the risk and chances of the mail both ways, and the likelihood of the book being battered on the way, when he might buy quicker a fresh copy at a bookstore near by. As to underselling, the answer of the publisher is: the retailers themselves do it, and should not complain of us for following their example. In short, the dispute between the publisher and bookseller is that each claims as cause what the other considers to be effect. One says: "We must cut into you because you don't keep up stock!" The other says: "We can't keep up stock because you cut into us!" The truth, as frequently happens, lies half-way between both statements. Cause and effect are here, as elsewhere, relative, and mutually react upon each other.

To sum up: the publisher must be brought to the realization that nothing will serve so efficiently to increase his business and establish it on a basis of growing prosperity as the encouragement of the local bookstore in every community. That through the local bookseller thousands can be influenced to buy books who can be influenced in no other way. That the bookstore with full shelves and counters is the best advertisement, and that it is worth his while to make it the interest of the bookseller to increase his book business instead of neglecting it. That to do this the publisher must foster the bookseller's confidence that he will obtain the advantage of whatever interest in books and literature he can create. And lastly, he must assure the bookseller that he will not, as soon as he has sold him a stock, make it impossible for him to get rid of it by entering on his field and underselling him.

One other important lesson the publisher must learn: to make fewer poor books and more better ones. I hold this one step alone would help the trade and the public more than any two other measures of reform. Better books would demand more cautious business methods, insure better returns; to the authors, more acceptable goods to the reader and better protection to the bookseller. Your shelves are now loaded down with books that ought never to have been published. And you put them there because they could be had at a large discount. Is the inference plain?

On the other hand, the bookseller must learn to undertake his share of responsibilities in bringing about reform as well as in reaping benefits. He must before all educate himself in order that he may raise himself from the level of a mere huckster and shopkeeper to that exalted position that belongs to him if he be true to his calling—a co-worker with the educator in the elevation of the people. It lies in the power of the bookseller—I feel tempted to say it lies in his power alone—to raise our calling out of the slough into which it has been suffered to fall. The remedy I refer to is association—a union of the retail trade, faithful and true, upheld by the honor of every individual connected with it. This will solve the difficulties that beset the bookseller, and lead to fairer and better general conditions of trade. To accomplish this will be slow work at best, and we must face the difficulties and not be disheartened at failure, however often it may overtake us.

All associations in commercial specialties are bound to suffer from one radical flaw—the sense of honor in all concerned is not high enough to hold them strictly to their obligation. Unfortunately, in every large congregation there are some weak brethren. Into the store of one of these a customer comes desiring to buy fifty dollars' worth of books. The brother offers a discount according to rule; the customer says he can do better and is withdrawing, when the brother's cupidity proving too strong for his moral obligation, he calls the buyer back and throws off five per cent. additional. Perhaps seven out of ten brethren might let the customer go, but would the other three do likewise? If they didn't, how long would an obligation, thus rendered partly inoperative, restrain even the most conscientious, who could obey it only by the ruinous sacrifice of their material interests?

Therefore, gentlemen, whatever principle of reform you may adopt, you must keep in mind that a striving for strict good faith in preference to pecuniary profit is as essential in the individual as harmony of action is to the whole body. The individual must learn the lesson that if his association would succeed he must stand by his convictions. Having adopted a line of conduct he must be prepared to live up to it and stick to his prices, regardless of the fact that some of his customers desert him for the time being to help ruin his competitor, who is short-sighted enough to sell goods at cost price or below. Reckless competition has been an evil of all times—it is not pecu-har to our age—but we have yet to learn that it paid in the long run. Let those who doubt this regard the litter of wrecks that is strewn upon the "sands of time." I feel safe in saying that the leaders of this movement are cognizant of these difficulties, and are prepared and willing to hold out in the battle until victory and success shall have crowned their efforts.

Mr. A. D. F. Randolph, who had expected to be present, but at the last moment was detained, sent the following communication on

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION: WHAT CAN IT ACCOMPLISH?

NEW YORK, June 27, 1892.

To the Members of the Virginia Association of Booksellers.

GENTLEMEN: I have already written to your President expressing regret for my inability to meet with you on the 29th inst. I desire to say that I learned of your organization with great satisfaction, and that it would have given me much pleasure to have met you personally, and render such aid as I might in your important movement.

Whatever tends to dignify the ancient and honorable business of the bookseller touches my heart. It has been my privilege, as man and boy, to witness the vast developments of the American publishing business during the last half century, and to have been practically identified with the sale of books during all these years. I have come to be a publisher as well as a bookseller, and I may say to you that I am and ever have been more proud of being the latter than the former. As a bookseller I come in direct contact with the buyer, and all the years have not robbed me of the feeling that came to me in my earlier days, that when I was the direct medium of placing a good book in the hands of a reader, that I was more than a trader and more than a dealer in merchandise; that I was weighted with the responsibility and dowered with the privilege of the educator who seeks to make the world wiser and better by the diffusion of useful knowledge.

A cursory view of the great progress of the nation, especially during the last three decades, conclusively shows that the business of publishing and selling books has not fully shared in that marvellous development. In saying this I do not overlook the enormous and wonderful increase in the production of text-books, works of reference; nor the amazing consumption of what may be termed "light literature," or the increasing and now amazing issues of the periodical press. Neither am I unmindful of the great increase of publications in the departments of miscellaneous literature; and yet the fact remains, that relatively, considering the increase in population and of the purchasing ability, the great body of our American people to-day give comparatively little encouragement to the American author, the American publisher and bookseller, in their all-important work of developing an American literature.

Consider for a moment what has been done during the last thirty years in rearing and maintaining the college, the seminary, the grammar and the common school; consider also the enlargement of the public library system, and the wide expansion along all other educational lines; and then remember how comparatively few people of a refined intelligence, while adorning their homes with all the fads and fancies of the decorative art to set off elegant and luxurious furnishings, make no provision whatever for the bookcase and the book! Take any one of our larger towns and cities, and you will find a score, more or less, of flourishing establishments packed to the full with costly woods and fabrics set in luxurious frames and shimmering in all the dazzling lights of high decorative art, and yet in the town or city where you will readily find all these the business places which minister to the higher wants are languishing for proper support, and, as never before in the history of the country, the bookseller is making a constant fight to keep body and soul together! I am no pessimist, but I know that no city, for its own sake, can afford to be without such an educational centre as yours, where men can go and keep themselves in touch with the intellectual movements of the time; that no home, however rich the owner or how elegant and luxurious its furnishings, can be in the best sense a home where no provision is made for the intellectual wants. The newspaper and the magazine will not supply this want. The paper novel cannot do it. It is only the book—the good book, in the truest sense—that can prevent a sordid, heavy atmosphere from settling down upon such a habitation.

Croesus may be very rich and yet be very poor; for in a home where the new book and the old never enter to cheer, not to inebriate: enter to bring new and weighty thoughts to quicken the dull, to educate the heart and turn the mind from the material toward the spiritual and intellectual; no matter if the floors of that house be polished woods or finest marble, the hangings be woven of Oriental threads, the woods be as mirrors, and the glass and china give back to you their reflecting rays—none of these nor all of these can fill that emptiness of mind and heart which sooner or later must be the fate of Croesus who, debating the question of the free coinage of silver, has lost sight of the fact that the silver dollar must be kept at par with the gold dollar, or the baser metal will ultimately drive out of circulation the pure one. For if his soul and the souls of his children feed only on the grosser things of life, how can he escape mental depression, how escape from himself, having never lifted himself higher than the low range of the mere material?

But let us not be too hard on Croesus. An educator placed by Providence in the centre of a population, either great or small, must not only make himself felt by the very powers within him, but himself must possess a keen sense of his own responsibility to his friends and neighbors. In order to accomplish this he must be a man conscious alike to his opportunity and his duty. He must not sit in an easy-chair and wait until he is recognized as an educator. He must first recognize himself; then insist what he has to give he is prepared to give there and now. He must stand on his calling, not with a supercilious conceit, but with an intelligent and persistent earnestness that will command respect and win success, according to the measure of his individual ability. I hold and ever have held that the bookseller is an educator; but an educator who has never been recognized as he deserved, and the question I now put to you is, Whose fault is it? Is it the fault of the public, or is the fault all his own, that he has come largely to be classed as a mere dealer of merchandise, rather than as an essential factor in the great educational movements of our times? Believe me, "It is not in our stars, but in ourselves that we are underlings."

As an evidence, however slight, of a disposition on the part of the American bookseller to place himself upon his proper level, I hailed with delight the formation of your association. It is a time of organization, of consolidation, and there is danger that we may overlook the rights and the duties of the individual, for, as another has said, "It is the individual that is to leaven the world." I do not want in my calling and yours any organization that would look to the crowding out of the individual. I want no trade union that will interfere with the individual rights, but as men with a common purpose and a common interest, subject to laws of trade with no power to control, while controlled by those laws, you have a right with a duty to perform, in maintaining that a common interest shall not be subject to the control of a monopoly; to make a demand that the ground shall not be dug from under you by a spade of your own making.

As a publisher I must use you as my distributing agent. I cannot reach directly the public of this continent, for while I can make a book for a reader in California, I must use the bookseller to place the book in his hand; and is it not common sense; is it not in the interest of all good fellowship, is it not a good principle in business, that I remember that you are my agent, indispensable to my success, and that I should not only stand by you but make your interest my interest, by seeing to it that all your rights are maintained—in a word, that I use and not abuse you? How far as a publisher have I ever fully done this? After "loading you up," to use a trade phrase, have I by a due recognition of your rights helped you to unload? or have I in all ways possible sought by certain trade methods to win away your customer by offering inducements which you could not afford to offer, but which in order to hold your customer you were compelled to do, even at the risk of not being able to meet my draft when it was presented to you for payment? I need not enlarge on this point. As a bookseller I know all about it, and you all know it too well; and this is a reason, and a sufficient reason, were there no others, not only for a local organization like yours, but for a national one, which by its scope and power would compel a redress not only of all present wrongs, but the establishment of all just rights; and at the same time lift your business and mine to its old-time dignity, and keep it before the public in every city and town and village that the bookstore is an educational institution; one as indispensable, according to its measure, as a school or college, yet placing no tax upon the town or State for its support, and demand from the individual buyer only a reasonable mercantile profit on its sales, which profit after all would represent only a fair wage for an honest day's work.

My friend Mr. Growoll has doubtless already spoken to you—and no one is better able to do so than he—of the relations between publisher and bookseller, and shown you conclusively that it should be a mutual one. But, gentlemen, you must see to it, as the publisher must see to it, that practically the interest be made one. As a publisher I cannot help you out of your present condition unless you will help yourselves. Just now the two interests would seem to be drawing apart. This is not wholly the fault of either side. What is wanted is, that the tendency should be the other way. It may take time to establish the principle, but it can be done, and to this end a general formation of local or State associations would soon lead to a federated organization.

We had such an organization some time ago. Some of us had much pride in it, but it died in a few years. And why did it die? Perhaps it was because we did not keep full faith with each other; or we built too largely on a pure mercantile or selfish ground; or because some of us came to look upon it as an organization that might possibly put a little more money in the individual purse, and so the short candle went out.

No movement for reform can live or flourish if there be not woven in its fibre something more than the symbol of a dollar. There must be connected with it a sentiment to induce; an unselfish motive to attract; a living purpose to confirm and hold. A reform so established will in time work out not only pecuniary benefits, but produce still larger results for the betterment of society, in the building up and broadening of the individual character. Even in these days of fierce competition and broad materialism the old trade proverb, "every man for himself," does not go unchallenged. The world is not as selfish as it was of old, so that now while standing for one's rights there is a growing disposition to recognize the rights of others, and I put it as an axiom, that the man in trade who, without being unjust to himself, seeks always to be just to his neighbor, is the man in the long run who, having the same measure of ability, will win the most and hold the longest. Now in the local or the possible national organization of our honored trade the element of pure individual selfishness must be eliminated at once. The bookseller in the town and the publisher in the city must be true to his neighbor as to himself. Bear in mind that we are not dealers in mere merchandise; that we are educators, each governed by a proper spirit of enterprise and industry, and that if one be favored with a larger success than the other, it is not to be the result of overreaching or underreaching, but rather to a broader intelligence, a clearer recognition of the laws that govern trade, an alert industry, a quickened apprehension that has made two blades of grass to grow where only one grew before.

But I shall weary you. Let me once more emphasize my statement that the American bookseller is an educator, and that the bookstore is an educational institution—so regard yourselves and your business. Begin henceforth to build deeper and broader on this high vantage-ground, with new determination to recover all that was lost while working on a lower level.

I am, gentlemen, yours faithfully,

A. D. F. RANDOLPH.

After passing a vote of thanks to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for its efforts in behalf of the book trade in general; to Messrs. A. D. F. Randolph, Col. Bidgood and A. Growoll for the addresses delivered during the sessions of the convention; to the members of the Petersburg trade for the generous entertainment of the members of the association during their stay in Petersburg; and to the officers of the association for their conscientious, thorough and disinterested work, the convention adjourned sine die about four o'clock in the afternoon, subject to a call from the Executive Committee.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF ALABAMA.

THE Booksellers' Association of Alabama held its first annual meeting at Selma, Ala., June 27. There were present J. S. Randall, of J. K. Randall & Co., of Mobile; L. N. Woodruff, of Joel White, and W. C. Holt, of Montgomery; Mr. Montgomery, of Smith & Montgomery; B. F. Roden, of B. F. Roden & Co., and L. V. Brazier, of Birmingham; and W. S. Butler, S. A. Stearne, Jr., E. S. Gatchell and Jos. Stearne, of Selma. In the absence of the President, J. Q. Burton, of Opelika, Mr. W. C. Holt, the Vice-President, acted as chairman.

The members present seemed to be much interested in their work. They are striving to perfect some plan whereby they can make the prices of school-books much less than they are now to the consumer, and think they are achieving success.

The Association passed a resolution urging upon Congress to pass a bill putting educational works on the second-class postage rates in order to put them on an equality with the class of literature that now passes through the mails at the rate of one cent per pound.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of the following: President, J. Q. Burton; Vice-President, W. C. Holt; Secretary and Treasurer, L. N. Woodruff. Executive Committee: E. S. Gatchell, S. A. Stearne, Jr., and B. F. Roden.

At 2 o'clock the Association adjourned for dinner, which was given at the Parlor Café, tendered by Messrs. Butler and Gatchell and the Selma Book Company. It was a delightful part of the programme, and was enjoyed by all to the fullest extent.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 30, 1892.

To the Book Trade of the United States:

You are cordially invited to attend the first annual meeting of the Northwestern Booksellers' and Newsdealers' Association to be held at Minneapolis July 12 to 16, 1892. Many questions important to the book trade will be considered; among them may be mentioned the question of free text-books, the treatment of booksellers by text-book publishers and their method of allowing limited discounts and the cutting of prices by illegitimate competitors.

An opportunity will be given to meet a large number of the book publishers and jobbers who will be at the West Hotel with a full line of samples. Booksellers and newsdealers who visit the city at that time will not only have the advantage of attending the convention, but of meeting the largest number of publishers' agents ever in the city at one time. Publishers are also requested to have their agents in the city at this date. Those intending to be present will greatly oblige by sending an immediate answer to

243 FOURTH AVENUE, S.

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

THE newly-elected trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association of the United States have organized by the election of the following-named officers: President, C. T. Dillingham; First Vice-President, J. A. Holden; Second Vice-President, Robert Morris; Secretary, W. B. Ketcham; Treasurer, J. F. Vogeliuss.

OBITUARY NOTES.

E. L. SHELDON, better known to readers by his pen-name of "Don Lemon," died on the 26th ult. at his residence, Hampton-on-Thames, England, aged forty-three years. He was born in Michigan, but had made his home in England for the last ten years. He studied law and medicine in early life, and until 1876 was a member of the law firm of Carpenter & Sheldon, in Chicago. He then went to London, where he became manager of the Jarvis & Conklin Loan and Trust Co., of Kansas City, and was also a member of the publishing house of Saxton & Co. He was the author of at least a dozen books, including a "Pocket Cyclopædia," which had a wide sale. His wife, Mrs. French Sheldon, is famous for her daring expedition into Africa, the story of which she is now writing.

JOHN F. E. PRUDHOMME, one of the oldest engravers in America, died at his home in Washington on the 22d of June, in the ninety-second year of his age. He was born in San Domingo, but had lived in America nearly all his life, and was in the service of the Government as an engraver for almost thirty years. He engraved Trumbull's picture, "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence," did considerable illustrating for George P. Morris, N. P. Willis and other authors, and was quite celebrated in his art. He was curator of the National Academy of Design, and for a time was instructor of the life class in that institution.

AMÉDÉE ERNEST BARTHÉLEMY MOUCHEZ, a well-known French naval officer and member of the Institute, died on the 26th of June. He was born August 24, 1821, entered the naval service in 1839, and in 1878 had attained the rank of rear-admiral. He was sent on several important scientific missions by the French Government and by the Academy of Sciences, was a member of various learned societies and a commander of the Legion of Honor. Among his numerous works are: "The Coasts of Brazil," "The Rio de La Plata" and "Researches on the Longitude of the Eastern Coast of South America."

MRS. NETTIE COLBURN MAYNARD died at her home, White Plains, N. Y., on the 27th ult., aged fifty-two years. Mrs. Maynard was well known as a remarkable spiritualistic medium, and was the author of the book entitled "Was Abraham Lincoln a Spiritualist?" published by Hartranft in 1891, which attracted considerable attention. She was born in Bolton, Conn., and for several years during the Rebellion lived in Washington, where her séances were attended by many prominent persons.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

"ANGEVEN OF ANGEVEN" is the title of Baring-Gould's forthcoming book.

THE Emperor of Japan has conferred upon Sir Edwin Arnold the order of the Rising Sun.

MRS. MARGARET DELAND is finishing her third novel, and has meanwhile written for the Atlantic a short tale, entitled "A Story About a Child."

MME. DANIEL WILSON, the daughter of the late President Grevy, is preparing a political memoir of her father. For many years she was his secretary, and he left to her all his private papers.

THOMAS COOPER, the author of "The Purgatory of Suicides," written in jail while he was serving a two years' term of imprisonment for participation in the Chartist movement of 1841, according to The Critic, has been allowed a sum of $1000 from the Queen's Bounty. He is in his eighty-eighth year.

THREE volumes of essays by the late Prof. Freeman, on archæological and historical subjects, collected by the professor before his death, are to be published shortly. The volumes will be edited by Mr. A. J. Evans. Prof. Freeman left some notes for a life of Hannibal in the Heroes of the Nations Series, but these are not in a sufficiently advanced state to warrant the production of the book.

To Chicago, says Harper's Basar, belongs the honor of being the dwelling-place of the first colored woman who ever produced and published a novel. Her name is Sarah E. Farro, and she is twenty-six years old. The title of her book is "True Love." Among other colored women who have achieved some success with the pen are Miss Ida B. Willis, of Washington, D. C., who writes short stories, and Mrs. C. W. Matthews and Mrs. S. N. Monell, who have both done newspaper work.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The British and Colonial Printer and Stationer for June 16 contains a long account of the Leipzig Easter Fair of 1892.

In Harper's Basar of July 2 is begun a new novel by William Black, called "Wolfenberg," with illustrations by W. Hatherell.

In the July Arena Edwin Reed opens what is said to be the most scholarly and complete discussion of the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy ever written.

Babyhood will henceforth be known as the Mother's Nursery Guide. This useful and genuine publication has reached its ninety-second number in vol. VIII.

THE interest of A. C. McClurg & Co. in The Dial has been transferred to Francis F. Browne, who has been its editor and part owner since its commencement in 1880.

Current Literature is fortunate in being able in its July number to give the first adequate account of the process of photographing in colors. This remarkable discovery by Dr. Lippman, of Paris—one of the triumphs of modern science—is based upon the principle of recording the vibrations of light and color, just as the phonograph does those of sound, and emitting these vibrations again to the eye so as to produce the very colors seen in nature. The experiment is fortunately a simple one, and may be performed by any photographer, with little more than the implements in common use.

The Republican Magazine is a new monthly just issued by the Republican Magazine Co., of New York. Its declared purpose is the furtherance of Republican principles, and in carrying out this object it proposes to advocate the election of the Republican ticket, both State and National, the abolition of the Solid South, the making of New York City Republican, the restoration of American shipping, the building of a great American navy, the abolition of the Prohibitionists and of the present system of internal revenue, and a substantial reduction in the rates of postage.

The American Journal of Politics, edited by Andrew J. Palm, 928 Temple Court, New York, is a new venture in the field of political periodical literature. It will be non-partisan, devoted to the discussion of social and political topics of general interest, and issued monthly. The first number, for July, covers 112 pages and contains an article on "Drunkenness," by Dr. Leslie E. Keeley, of "gold-cure" fame; "Ideal Education in Our Cities," by Rev. E. O. Buxton; "Richard Cobden," by Gen. M. M. Trumbull; papers on labor organizations, prison reformatories, the silver question, etc., besides several pages of book notices.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

FREDERICK KEPPEL & Co., 20 East 16th Street, N. Y., have just issued Catalogue 9 of Etchings and Engravings, containing 511 titles. The catalogue is liberally illustrated. (72 p. 8°, pap., 10 c.)

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in press a "Graded and Annotated List of Five Hundred Available Books for the Young," prepared by George E. Hardy, Principal of Grammar School No. 82, New York City. Mr. Hardy for years has laid great stress upon the pupils under his charge cultivating the reading habits. Aided by his teachers and scholars, he has established in his school a library of 500 volumes, carefully graded for each year of school work. It is with these volumes we presume that the promised list deals.

W. H. LOWDERWILK & Co., Washington, announce that they have assumed the publication of "Hickcox's Monthly Catalogue of Government Publications," which they will complete up to date and issue regularly and promptly in the future. Mr. Hickcox will edit the catalogue as heretofore, but all rights in the work have been purchased by the publishers. Up to this time the work has been prosecuted under many difficulties, and the pecuniary returns have been very inadequate, by reason of which facts it was not kept up with the regularity which its importance demanded. It is expected to issue early in July the first six numbers of 1892, under one cover, succeeding numbers to follow early in each month thereafter. As rapidly as the matter can be prepared, the back volumes will be completed and sent to subscribers. It is not expected that the undertaking will prove a remunerative one, but it is hoped that there will be a return sufficient to repay the actual outlay of money. The work is of the utmost value to every person who has occasion to handle or consult the current publications of the government, and these publications are now so varied and comprehensive that persons interested in any branch of science or business must appreciate it.

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—W. E. Benjamin, 751 Broadway, No. 7. Autograph letters. (No. 45, 42 p. 8°).—Gay & Bird, 27 King William Street, London, Monthly list of new publications and importations. (Nos. 1 to 3, April to June, each 12 p. 16°).—Otto Harrasowitz, Leipzig, Bericht über neue Erwerbungen—devoted especially to such works as are not easily obtained through the regular trade channels. (No. 1, 11 p. 16°.)—Max Harwitz, Potsdamerstrasse, 41, Berlin, Photographie, lithographie, typographie (370 titles); Geschichte u. Classiker der Paedagogik, sowie Universitätswesen und Neulateiner (298 titles); Second-hand books on England and America (332 titles); A collection of incunabula, fine prints, etc., valued at 60,000 marks; also, a collection of works and plates of costumes. The celebrated "Luther-Codex," by which name scholars designate a manuscript of rare value, is also for sale by Max Harwitz. This codex was discovered about twenty-two years ago and purchased for 10,000 marks. It bears in Luther's own handwriting the inscription: "Hat mir verehrt mein guter freund | Herr Johann Walther | Componist zu Torgau 1530 | dem Gott gnade | Martinus Luther." ("Given me by my good friend Johann Walther, Composer at Torgau, 1530, whom God may bless—Martinus Luther.") This manuscript contains the oldest transcription of the hymn "Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott." In 1871 Otto Kade, the organist and choir-master, described the great importance of this work to the history of evangelical congregational singing in his "Treatise for Evangelical Christians and Friends of Luther."—Lusac & Co., 46 Great Russell Street, London, Oriental list. (V. 3, No. 6.)—Henry Sotheman & Co., 136 Strand, London, Sotheman's Price Current. (No. 516.)—H. T. Wright, 720 Main Street, Kansas City, Mo., Ancient, mediæval and modern art-books. (New ser., No. 12, 4 p. 16°.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

DENVER, COL.—W. G. M. Stone has sold out his interest in the Stone & Locke Book and Stationery Co. E. R. Locke, President; W. I. Locke, Vice-President, and E. L. Kelly, Secretary and Treasurer, will continue the business under the old firm-name.

FLORENCE, KAN.—Kates & Blackburn succeed E. E. Blackburn, bookseller.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Charles D. Whittall & Co. have incorporated under the name of The C. D. Whittall Co., capital stock, $25,000. They have entirely renovated their store at 125 Nicollet Ave., and now have one of the finest book-stores in the Northwest.

NEW YORK CITY.—W. Quackenbush, formerly with the National Blank Book Company, has gone into business for himself. He has opened an office in Room L, Stewart Building, and will deal in all kinds of office supplies.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Raynor Envelope Company has succeeded to the business of Raynor & Martin.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The business of Hubbard Brothers has been incorporated under the name of the Hubbard Publishing Company. A. H. Hubbard is President; T. S. Meek, formerly an instalment-book dealer in Nashville, Tenn., Vice-President; and H. W. Stringer, Treasurer.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Ritter Brothers have just opened a book and stationery store at 286 Main Street. They carry a full line of choice books, stationery and artists' materials.

SHREVEPORT, LA.—H. P. Hyams' stock of books, stationery, etc., has been sold.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEORGE BELL & SONS, London, will publish immediately Sir Robert Giffen's new book, entitled "The Case Against Bimetallism."

CRAIG LIPPINCOTT, Thomas P. Bacon and H. H. Kimball, of the J. B. Lippincott Company, have just returned from a two months' European trip.

The death of Mr. Osgood, of the London firm of James R. Osgood, McIlvaine & Co., will not lead to any further change in the house. Mr. McIlvaine will now carry on the business alone.

In Part 14 of the Ruskin bibliography collectors are warned that the initials "J. R." at the end of a poem do not necessarily stand for John Ruskin, and that in American editions of his works spurious verses have been thus included.

A REPRINT of Dickens' novels, from the edition corrected by the author in 1867-68—one which practically embodied his latest revision—is to be brought out by his old publishers, Chapman & Hall. The edition will contain the original illustrations and will be issued in twenty volumes.

MR. REGINALD BRIMLEY JOHNSON has edited, for J. M. Dent & Co., of London, a new edition of the novels of Jane Austen, which is on the point of publication. "Emma" and its companions will be appropriately habited in the dainty vestures for which the publishers have become pleasantly famous.

"You perhaps might have an opportunity," lately wrote an ambitious glove-dealer to a successful novelist, "of bringing in my name when writing some of your new works. It would give a tone of reality to the reading, the name and address of my house being so well known." Twelve pairs of gloves were offered in return for the notice.

SOME unpublished letters of Jean Jacques Rousseau will immediately appear from the press of Calman Levy, of Paris. The originals are part of a rich collection of autographs belonging to M. Henri de Rothschild. The correspondence consists of eighty-three letters written to Mme. Boy de la Tour—1702-73, and will be published in an octavo volume, with notes, appendices, three portraits and three reproductions of handwriting.

JOHN HODGES, London, announces a series of non-controversial Christian biographies, to be called Heroes of the Cross. The two first will be "St. Gregory the Great," by the Right Rev. Abbot Snow, and "Christopher Columbus," by Mariana Monteiro. These will be followed by "Hugh of Lincoln," by Canon Perry, and "St. Stephen Harding," reprinted from Newman's "Lives of the Saints."

OUR attention is called to the fact that Mr. Poultny Bigelow's "Paddles and Politics Down the Danube" will not be illustrated by Mr. Frederick Remington, but by Mr. Bigelow himself, reproductions of whose sketches along the river will be scattered through the volume. These sketches were made off-hand on the spot, and while unpretentious as art-work, are full of life and action.

THE edition of Caxton's "Golden Legend," prepared by William Morris, the poet, at his private press, is now almost ready for publication. He has himself designed the ornamental etters and borders; and Burne-Jones has made two full-page illustrations for the volume. The present price of this "Golden Legend" is about $48—a price which is to be raised on the day of publication. The work is a careful reprint of the edition of 1484.

THE next volume in the handsome series of Chiswick Press Editions will be Simon Wagstaff's "Polite Conversation," with introduction and notes by Mr. George Saintsbury, and an engraved portrait of the author, Swift. This may be expected early in July, and will be followed in the autumn by a reprint of Thomas Nash's "Life of Jack Wilton," with a prefatory essay by Mr. Edmund Gosse. These are all issued on hand-made paper, in strictly limited editions.

THE late T. O. H. P. Burnham's stock of books is for sale. The number of bound volumes, not including magazines, serial publications, pamphlets, etc., exceeds 200,000; they are now stored in the basement of the Old South Church, in a loft over store No. 106 High Street, and in house, 35 Beacon Street, where they can be seen and examined upon application at the store in basement of the Old South Church, corner of Washington and Milk Streets.

As a result of the offer of the "American Humane Education Society" of a $1000 prize for the best equestrian drama of "Black Beauty," a drama has been written for which the author has already received an offer of $3000. James C. Fargo, President of the American Express Company (headquarters in New York City), has given an order for 2400 copies of "Black Beauty" on the outside of which is printed, "Presented to stable employees of the American Express Company, with this company's hearty approval of the book."

UNDER the title of The Elizabethan Library, Elliot Stock, of London, is about to publish a series of volumes representing the writings of the great authors of the Elizabethan age. Dr. A. B. Grosart is the general editor of the series; and the first volume, which is just ready for publication, will consist of extracts from the writings of Sir Philip Sidney, edited by Dr. George MacDonald. The volumes are in a small size, suitable for the pocket, printed in antique style on rough paper and bound in Tudor binding. A few large-paper copies will also be issued.

AN original copy of the sale catalogue of Dr. Johnson's library has been found. It is styled "A catalogue of the valuable library of books of the late learned Samuel Johnson, Esq., LL.D., deceased, which will be sold by auction by Mr. Christie (by order of the executors), at his Great Room in Pall Mall, on Wednesday, February 16, 1785, and three following days." There were 662 lots. The auctioneer was Mr. Christie, and the rate of selling must have been much the same as by the Mr. Christie of the present day, for the disposal of the 662 lots took four days.

HENRY STEVENS & SON, 39 Great Russell Street, London, promise for next month Henry Harisse's "Discovery of North America: a critical, documentary and historic investigation, with an essay on the early cartography of the New World," etc. This important work by the foremost investigator in the field will make a quarto volume of 800 pages, with 23 plates and many illustrations in the text, and will be issued to subscribers in three styles, ranging in price from £5 to £12 16s. Only 360 copies are to be printed.

THE first victory under the new international copyright law has been scored by the firm of D. Appleton & Co. Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, on June 30, handed down a decision in the suit brought by that firm to restrain the American News Company from publishing and selling copies of Thomas Carlyle's novel, "Wotton Reinfred." A permanent injunction is granted against the American News Company, prohibiting it from handling the work and also ordering it to pay to D. Appleton & Co. all the profits it has derived from the sale of the book.

C. J. CLAY & SONS, London, have now ready "The Origin of Metallic Currency and Weight Standards," by William Ridgeway, Professor of Greek in Queen's College, Cork, who attempts to arrive at his knowledge by the comparative method, whereby he gets at some new principles and throws fresh light on the first beginnings of monetary and weight systems. They also issue a work on "Illuminated Manuscripts in Classical and Mediæval Times, their art and their technique," by J. Henry Middleton, author of "Ancient Rome in 1888," and "A History of Epidemics in Britain from A.D. 664 to the Extinction of the Plague," by Charles Creighton, formerly Demonstrator of Anatomy in the University of Cambridge.

SWAN SONNENSCHNIG & Co. will publish by subscription "Garibaldi and England," a book on which Malthus Q. Holyoake has been for some time engaged. It will contain an account of the English Legion that fought for Garibaldi in 1860; a complete record of his visit to London in 1864, and a solution of the mystery of its sudden termination, on which point Mr. Gladstone has written an interesting letter to the author. The Duke of Sutherland has permitted access to the private letters and papers, preserved at Stafford House, relating to this now historical visit; and the work will include unpublished letters, poems by Landor and Hugo, portraits and illustrations, and much curious information derived from authoritative sources.

THE GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY of Germany will shortly publish a volume commemorative of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, which will, it is said, be one of the most elaborate publications ever issued by the society. Dr. Konrad Kretschmer, the editor of the forthcoming work, has visited all the principal libraries of Italy in search of material, and has had access to many rare manuscripts hitherto unused. The memorial volume will contain forty-five maps relating to the discovery of America, thirty-one of which are said to have never been published. Emperor William has contributed 15,000 marks towards the expenses of publication, etc., and the work will undoubtedly be a most valuable contribution to the early history of America. It is expected that it will leave the government printing office early in August.

JAMES GLEGG, Aldine Press, Rochdale, England, will shortly publish by subscription "The Complete Works of Tim Bobbin" (John Collier), edited by Lieut.-Col. Fishwick, author of "The History of Rochdale," etc. John Collier must be regarded as the founder of the school of literature in the Lancashire dialect, which has found popular writers for over a century. To the student of dialect the value of his works can hardly be over-estimated, and his stories contain pictures of manners and customs in the eighteenth century wholly true to nature. This Centenary Edition will contain a new and authentic life of the author, the work of the editor, and a complete bibliography. The work will be illustrated with the original designs drawn by Collier, as well as with several by Cruikshank and other contemporaries. The book will be in one volume, printed on fine English toned paper, in old-style type.

A WEALTHY member of the Hungarian Parliament has lately devised a project for the aid of national literature of a truly remarkable kind. He has set aside 150,000 gulden, with a handsome villa in Budapesth, for the use of the "best living Hungarian author." A jury, consisting of two members of the Hungarian Academy of Science, two members of the Kisfelyud Society, two members of the Petöfi Society, and two well-known publishers of the Hungarian capital, will decide upon the man entitled to the prize. The fortunate author is to occupy the villa and have the income of 150,000 gulden, amounting to about 7000 gulden a year, until his death, when the jury or its successors will elect the next beneficiary. It is generally understood that the donor primarily intends, in this delicate way, to make the latter days of Moritz Jokai, the Hungarian poet, historian and statesman, free from care.

PICK-UPS.

BOOKS AND BOOKCASES.

"We are not quite perfect yet," the eminent person said. "At least, we are still capable of improvements. There were more applications for patents last year than during any of the seven preceding years. Now, I've invented lots of things myself, independently of any suggestion whatever—but I have never made anything out of it. It has always happened that the things have been patented before by some one else. The other day I thought of an arrangement for keeping books from falling over in a shelf that is only half-filled. I find out now that the very same arrangement is in quite common use."

"Ah!" sighed the poet, "the perfect bookshelf has not yet been invented. I want a shelf where my books will not get dusty, and where I shall not have to open a door to get at them, and where I can easily remove one volume without deranging the others in any way. A hundred years hence some one will have invented the perfect bookshelf. I am born into an age where literary originality has ceased to be possible, and material comfort is not yet perfected."

"I like the revolving bookcases best," the eminent person answered. "But no book likes to be left on a shelf too long. I fancy. It wants to be handled and dusted every now and then. It wants society; books are very like men."

The poet took up the idea at once.

"Yes, books are very like men. The date of publication is advertised in both cases; and a title is of the first importance."

"And I," the mere boy added, "have known a man who was very like a book."

"In what respect?" asked the poet eagerly.

"Half-calf," was the laconic answer.—Barry Pein in Black and White.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

A SPLENDID EDITION OF

The History of the Ingenious Gentleman

DON QUIXOTE OF LA MANCHE.

The Publishers have much pleasure in announcing the publication of the ILLUSTRATED LIBRARY EDITION of Cervantes' "Don Quixote."

The leading features of this edition are that—the translation is the best, the illustrations are of the highest artistic merit, and the typography, paper, binding, etc., of the first quality.

The translation adapted is that by Motteux, of which Prescott in his "Miscellanies," Edition 1845, pp. 149, 150, says:

"The most popular versions in English are those of Motteux, Jarvis and Smollett. Perhaps the first is the best of all. It was by a Frenchman who came over to England in the time of James the Second. It betrays nothing of its foreign parentage, however, while its rich and racy diction, and its quaint turns of expression, are admirably suited to convey a lively and very faithful image of the original. The slight tinge of antiquity which belongs to the time is not displeasing, and comports well with the tone of knightly dignity which distinguishes the hero."

The illustrations consist of thirty-seven original etchings, specially prepared for this edition by the eminent artist M. Adolph Lalauze, of Paris, who visited Spain for the express purpose of familiarizing himself with the scenery, architecture, costume, manners, etc., of the country and people. The Publishers feel assured that these beautiful etchings, printed by M. A. Salmon, of Paris, will rank among the most spirited and truthful illustrations of the work that have yet appeared.

The printing is in large and legible type. The paper is of the finest tone and quality. The binding is chaste and appropriate.

The present edition of "Don Quixote," strictly limited to 300 copies, signed and numbered, forms four volumes, medium 8vo, and is published in handsome cloth binding at the moderate price of $15.00. Bound specially in half crushed polished morocco, gilt tops extra, by Rivière, $30.00.

THE SECOND EDITION OF ## BABY'S BIOGRAPHY.

One of the most successful books ever published.

This book is an album in which may be recorded the mother's story of the chief events of her child's life. Designed by A. O. Kaplan and illustrated by Mrs. Frances Brundage. In this volume—beautifully printed in colors in Paris, by the most approved methods of photographic reproduction—may be given the little stranger's date of birth, its weight from month to month, the date of the appearing of its first tooth, its first word, its first pair of shoes; when it changed from long to short clothes, its first day at school—in fact, the history of baby from birth to majority. Large quarto, 11 x 9 in size, 72 pages, in a variety of bindings, from white and gold to a handsome combination of gold and different colored cloths, . . . $3.75

A New Book for Boys.

In the Queen's Navee.

By Commander Robinson, R.N. A rattling book for boys, wholesome in tone, yet full of exciting interest, describing a boy's adventures aboard of one of Her Majesty's cruisers, his apprenticeship and subsequent promotion. Large crown 8vo, cloth gilt, . . . $1.50

A Book for Girls.

Alma: The Story of a Little Music-Mistress.

By Emma Marshall. A story designed to stir the tenderest emotions and to quicken the best sympathies as one follows the pathetic incidents of a homely life, ever brightened by a brave and indomitable spirit. 1 vol., 12mo, appropriately bound, . . . $1.00

NEW EDITIONS OF THE ## "SURPRISE MODEL" PICTURE BOOKS.

Upon opening any page in these books the pictures, by an ingenious arrangement, open as it were by magic into model relief, and upon the book being closed, or the page turned, become perfectly flat again. Stiff boards, cloth back, enamelled covers, size, 11¼ x 9, per volume, . . . $0.75

1. Surprise Model Picture Book. By Arthur Penuel and E. Hall.
2. The Tale of an Old Sugar Tub. By Arthur Penuel and E. Hall.
3. Seaside Fun. By Arthur Penuel and E. Gourley.
4. A Visit to the Country. By Arthur Penuel and E. Gourley.

* This series of books embodies the freshest ideas in the way of amusement for children, and forms a most attractive Christmas-box for little ones. The third edition in less than a year.

A NEW AND TIMELY HANDBOOK.A B C of the Swedish System of Educational Gymnastics.By HARTVIG NISSEN,

Instructor of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Boston, Mass.; Instructor of Swedish and German Gymnastics at Harvard University's Summer School, 1891.; Author of "A Manual on Swedish Movement and Massage Treatment," etc.

A Practical Handbook for School-Teachers and the Home.This handy volume is everywhere spoken of as the best book on the subject now in the market. All dealers near schools where Physical Training is given should have it in stock.*

The fullest instructions and commands are given for each exercise, and seventy-seven excellent engravings illustrate them and add greatly to the practical value of the book. Small 12mo, 143 pages, extra flexible cloth, 75 cents, net.

*A BOOK OF SURPASSING INTEREST ISTHE CHINESE:*Their Present and Future; Medical Political and Social.By ROBERT COLTMAN, Jr., M.D., Surgeon in Charge of the Presbyterian Hospital and Dispensary at Teng Chow Fu.

The author has spent many years among the Chinese; lived with them in their dwellings; thoroughly learned the language; has become conversant with all their strange and odd characteristics to a greater extent than almost any other American. The simple, direct, straight-forward style in which Dr. Coltman has written this book makes it entertaining and fascinating as well as profitable reading throughout.

The book is beautifully printed in large, clear type, and is illustrated with fifteen fine engravings from photographs of persons, places and objects characteristic of China. In one handsome royal octavo volume of 212 pages, appropriately bound in extra cloth, with Chinese side stamp, $1.75, net.

THE DAUGHTER:*Her Health, Education and Wedlock.HOMELY SUGGESTIONS TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS CONCERNING CHILDHOOD, MAIDENHOOD, WIFEHOOD AND MOTHERHOOD.*By WILLIAM M. CAPP, M.D., Philadelphia.

This valuable little volume belongs to a most important class of books, and it is everywhere recognized as one of the very best. Beautifully printed, large, clear type, 12mo, 150 pages, handsomely bound in extra cloth, $1.00, net.

"A clear, practical and wholesome volume of hygienic suggestions, without prudery on the one hand, and without technical or unnecessary professional minuteness on the other. The author's purpose is high, and his achievement helpful."—The Sunday-School Times.

CONSUMPTION!*How to Prevent It and How to Live with It.ITS NATURE, CAUSES, PREVENTION, AND THE MODE OF LIFE, CLIMATE, EXERCISE, FOOD AND CLOTHING, NECESSARY FOR ITS CURE.*By N. S. DAVIS, Jr., A.M., M.D.,

Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine in Chicago Medical College, etc., etc.

A plain, practical treatise, thoroughly readable and scientifically accurate. 12mo, 143 pages, extra cloth, 75 cents, net.

THE ST. LOUIS WEEKLY MEDICAL REVIEW says: "He is very thorough in his discussion of the subject, and the practical hints which he gives are of real worth and value. His directions are given in such a manner as to make life enjoyable to a consumptive patient and not a burden, as is too frequently the case."

American Educational Catalogue

For 1892 [Twenty-third Year].

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE, whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its twenty-third year, claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements:

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00 ; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or $1.00 if plate is sent.

\ * * Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.*

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1.00, postpaid.

The American Catalogue

The new volume of the American Catalogue covers the period July 1, 1884, to June 30, 1890. It is in two parts, of which the first contains the author-and-title alphabet, and the second the subject alphabet, List of Government Publications, Publications of Societies, Books in Series, etc.

Price, $12.50 in sheets; and $15 in half morocco binding.

The edition is 1250 copies only, and there will be no re-issue.

"There is scarcely a bookseller in the country who would hesitate a moment to expend twenty-five dollars in advertising his stock; ought he to hesitate a moment about an expenditure that would enable him to sell hundreds of dollars' worth of books in a year? Such an investment would also purchase for him a reputation among his customers for intelligence and trade knowledge that would pay him five times over."—A. D. F. RANDOLPH.

THE FREE TRADE STRUGGLE IN ENGLAND.

BY

GENERAL M. M. TRUMBULL.

Second Edition Revised and Enlarged.

A timely book on the tariff question, of which Mr. Edward Atkinson says, in an article entitled "Common Sense Applied to the Tariff Question" (Pop. Sci. Mo., Aug., 1890):

"Those who choose to discriminate between the leaders of the two parties of the present time may read the perversion of English history by James G. Blaine, in the North American Review, and the true picture which is given by Gen. M. M. Trumbull.

"It would be well worth while for any one who has been misled by the common errors about the influences which brought Great Britain to reverse her policy in 1842, to read up the economic history of that period. All the facts are given by the radical Miss Martineau in her 'History of Fifty Years' Peace,' by the Tory Sir Stafford Northcote, in his 'Twenty Years' Financial Policy,' explaining the changes which Peel brought about; by the economist John Noble's 'Fiscal Legislation in Great Britain;' or in Carlyle's 'Past and Present.' The best summary is to be found in the little book published in Chicago in 1884, by Gen. M. M. Trumbull, entitled 'The American Lesson of the Free Trade Struggle in England.' In this book will be found the whole record of the condition of England from 1838 to 1846. This history ought to be read by every man who desires to make up his mind how to act in this country at the present time. The logic of events is the same. We are repeating history."

Cloth, prepaid, 75 cents; paper, 25 cents.

GREEK AND LATIN DICTIONARIES.

Published by HARPER & BROTHERS.

SPECIAL NOTICE—REDUCTION IN PRICE.

Messrs. HARPER & BROTHERS beg leave to announce that which was formerly sold at $2.00 per copy, will, until further notice, be sold at $1.25 per copy.

This book is the Authorized Edition of this work ; it is printed on good paper, giving a clear type impression, and is the only edition published which contains the Appendix prepared by the Rev. James M. Whiton, Ph.D. This Appendix includes those proper and geographical names which occur in the Greek usually read in American schools in preparation for college, especially those found in Xenophon's Anabasis, in Goodwin's Greek Reader, and in the first six books of the Iliad and the first two of the Odyssey. As these names are not given in the body of the book, the student, in the absence of such an Appendix, is constantly embarrassed in his work by coming into contact with unfamiliar proper names about which he is unable to obtain information.

Special terms will be quoted to the trade, on request, on the ABRIDGED EDITION of LIDDELL & SCOTT'S GREEK LEXICON in quantities.

The following Greek and Latin Lexicons and Works of Reference have long been recognized as standard in the schools throughout the country :

LATIN DICTIONARIES.

Harper's Latin Dictionary. 2030 pages, $6.50, sheep.

Lewis's Latin Dictionary. For schools, 1200 pages, $6.00, sheep.

Lewis's Elementary Latin Dictionary. 952 pages, $2.00, half leather.

Anthon's Lat.-Eng. and Eng.-Lat. Dictionary. 1260 pages, $2.50, sheep.

Smith's English-Latin Dictionary. 754 pages, $4.00, sheep.

GREEK LEXICONS.

Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicon. 1800 pages, $10.00, sheep.

Liddell & Scott's Intermediate Greek Lexicon. 910 pages, $4.00, sheep.

Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicon, Abridged. 832 pages, $1.25, half leather.

Thayer's Greek-English Lexicon. 746 pages, $6.50, sheep.

Yonge's English-Greek Lexicon. 900 pages, $4.50, sheep.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE FOR 1892. [PUBLISHERS' PRICES.]

NOTICE.—In this Catalogue only prices made by publishers themselves are given—retail, if retail, in first column; "net" (wholesale), if "net," in second column; where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk (*), in addition to the wholesale price. When price-columns are left blank, the publisher failed, on application, to furnish price. A double asterisk (**) in price-columns designates books forthcoming. New books, issued since the publication of the Catalogue of 1891, are designated by a single asterisk (*) before title.

In comparing prices or ordering at retail, private buyers should bear in mind that a percentage must be added to prices quoted at wholesale, to cover freight, handling, delivering, etc. Discounts on quantities vary on different lines, according to the kind of prices adopted by the respective publishers.

For subject classification (and for collective references to classic authors entered here under separate editors), see the second part of the Catalogue, following this main alphabet.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 16, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the Weekly solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue," and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereto."—LORD BACON.

THE FACTS AS TO SCHOOL-BOOKS.

THE lack of any accessible or accurate information in regard to the publication and sale of school-books in this country and the general desire for such information make some facts and statistics on the subject of present interest. The issue of the American Educational Catalogue for 1892 contains the names and titles of over 7000 school text-books which are now published in this country and offered in the market to educational authorities for adoption and use in schools. This large list of separate and independent publications includes books of every kind and quality, and adapted to schools of every grade, from the kindergarten to the college. The list of text-books for the common schools, as they are called, is particularly large and varied. The subject classification of this catalogue shows that there are now published in this country different series or text-books fairly to be counted current books, on the several common branches (omitting from the count supplementary or other special books) as follows:

134	Different Readers	or series,
116	" Spellers	" "
151	" Arithmetics	" "
150	" Grammars	" "
88	" Geographies	" "
50	" Copy-Books	" "
80	" U. S. Histories	" "
61	" General Histories	" "
58	" Physiologies	" "
68	" Algebras	" "

According to the statistics of 1881 there were in publication and use at that time 98 readers, 89 arithmetics, 79 grammars, 34 geographies, 32 copy-books and 77 histories. While the comparison between the two years is not exact, because of differences of methods of record, it shows undeniably a large increase in school-book publications within the past decade, and not a decrease as commonly supposed.

The large number of school-books published in this country, as represented annually in the American Educational Catalogue, may be taken as a fair index of the intellectual activities and educational progress of the American people. The contrast between the modern school-books, with their improved methods of instruction, their wealth of literary and artistic illustrations, their superior mechanical execution in print, paper and binding, and the school-books published and used in the first half of the present century furnish a most striking object-lesson of the remarkable growth and development of the American system of free education. Indeed, it is not too much to claim that our improved school-books have been an indispensable factor in the progress of our schools and an invaluable adjunct in the diffusion of knowledge and intelligence among the people. As America to-day stands in the lead of all other nations in popular education, so she leads in having the best and, all things considered, the cheapest school-books in the world.

In the production of American school-books the ablest talent and skill of the country has been employed. Some of the ablest writers and scholars of the age have been engaged in the field of school-book authorship, and their work is recognized as an honor to American scholarship and literature. For many years the publication of school-books has been an important part of the publishing business of this country and has engaged the efforts and resources of many firms and individuals. The publishers of school text-books have kept pace with the educational progress of the times and the demands of the schools, and have prepared and supplied with a liberal hand the best school-books that money, skill and enterprise could provide. And any one turning the pages of the Educational Catalogue must be impressed that the educational public of this country is offered an 'embarrassment of riches' in the way of good school-books, and all at very reasonable prices.

It is a demonstrable fact that school-books, while they have been incomparably improved in merit and quality, have not been advanced in price, but are furnished to-day cheaper than any other class of books of similar quality and excellence of manufacture. There is a common impression that school-books are higher in price than other kinds or classes of books, but this is unfounded and incorrect, as a simple comparison of the books and price-lists will show to any one.

Another erroneous impression prevails in the public mind in regard to the number of publishers of school-books in the United States, it being commonly supposed that the number is smaller than is really the fact. The list of educational publishers represented in the Educational Catalogue of 1892 number 188. Of this large list about one-half are either exclusively or distinctively school-book publishers, and are located as follows: Boston, 15; New York, 27; Philadelphia, 9; Baltimore, 2; Cincinnati, 1; Louisville, 1; New Orleans, 1; Chicago, 5; St. Louis, 6; San Francisco, 2; other places, 16. Total, 85.

Another very common error about school-books is in regard to their aggregate use and cost in different States or sections of the country. Much of the school-book legislation proposed in different States, attempting to control or regulate the price of school-books, is based on wrong impressions or assumptions. It is assumed that each pupil annually purchases all the books required in his school course, and the cost of this entire outfit of books is multiplied by the number of pupils enumerated to find the aggregate cost of school-books used in a given State or city. That such estimates furnish a false basis and lead to wrong conclusions must be apparent to any one. It is obvious that there is a wide difference between the amount required to equip a given number of pupils or the schools of a State with a full outfit of books and the cost of an annual supply of books for such pupils or schools.

What is the amount and cost of books required to meet the annual demands of schools? This question is often asked, but owing to the different methods and channels of supply adopted in different States and cities, and the books being furnished by so many different publishers and supplied by a multitude of dealers, it has been very difficult to obtain the desired information. Fortunately we have in a few cities and States such statistics and reports of the cost of their annual supply of school-books as will furnish approximate data for definite conclusions and calculations, from which we can estimate the use and cost of school-books in any given territory having a known school population.

The city of St. Louis supplies the pupils in the common schools with the adopted books by direct purchase through a public officer called a "supply agent," and the books thus purchased are sold to the pupils at a small advance upon the actual cost as purchased from publishers. A certificate from this officer, dated November 14, 1890, for the school year ending July 1, 1890, shows that during the preceding school year the pupils in the St. Louis public schools purchased books amounting to $20,995.48. The number of pupils enrolled during that year was 55,920. The cost per pupil was, therefore, a trifle over 37 cents.

In the city of Omaha the books are also purchased by the school board, and the average cost for the years 1886-89 was $5550, and the average number of pupils enrolled in the elementary grades of the schools was less than 15,000. This shows the average cost of school-books to have been a little over 39 cents for each pupil per annum in that city. But more books are used in the schools of a city than in average country schools, owing to their longer school terms, greater number of studies pursued, and closer classification. Accordingly we will find a much lower average cost in the schools of a whole State, including a large rural population. For example, in West Virginia the total sales of the adopted books for the common schools amount to about $40,000 per annum. The number of pupils enrolled in the schools, not including the city of Wheeling, was 182,345, according to the latest reports. This shows the annual cost of school-books per pupil to be a fraction less than 22 cents for that State. From the statistics cited and others which might be given, it has been figured that the average cost of school-books for the annual supply of the elementary schools (below the high schools) of any State will not exceed thirty cents per pupil; or, on the basis of population, not over five cents per capita.

But allowing that the above figures may be exceptional—although we have no reason to suppose this to be the case—assuming the annual cost to be twice as great as in the State quoted, the expense per pupil would then be only 44 cents; or, on the basis of population, in the neighborhood of ten cents per capita.

STATE TEXT-BOOK LAWS AND SYSTEMS.*

PUBLIC school text-books have of late years been the subject of much discussion and the object of numerous legislative measures designed to raise the present school-book system to a higher standard of educational value. An unprecedented number of bills relating to the provision of free books by the State and the adoption of cheaper text-books than are at present in use have been introduced in the various State legislatures within the last three years. The majority of these bills have been drawn up with a view to giving the State control of contracts and prices, sometimes of the selection or publication of the books, the latter system being strongly opposed by most school officials and the educational press. Both of these questions are of importance to the publisher of school-books, but the wide variation of text-book laws and systems in different States involves the subject in a legal network difficult to penetrate.

* Based on the Report of the Commissioner of Education for 1888-89, v. 1. Washington, Government Printing Office, 1891 [1892].

It is here attempted to give a brief synopsis of the school-book laws and systems of each State, condensing the subject as far as possible by grouping those States in which there is a general uniformity of system, first giving the leading points common to the group, and then making brief mention of varying individual features.

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, MASSACHUSETTS, RHODE ISLAND, CONNECTICUT, PENNSYLVANIA.—Text-books selected by town boards*; contracts with publishers or dealers made by town boards; all towns furnish free books, excepting in Rhode Island, where books are provided free by a few towns only.

Maine: Uniformity is provided by the selection of a uniform system of text-books, which cannot be changed for five years from date of introduction except by majority vote of the town; free books compulsory.

New Hampshire: No uniform system imposed, but books must continue in use for five years; free books compulsory.

Massachusetts: The free-book system has been in use since 1873 with most satisfactory results, the law is now compulsory; no provision for uniformity; school-books changed by vote of school committee.

Rhode Island does not provide free books, and if furnished by school board parents are taxed with the cost; Woonsocket and Bristol have adopted the free system; uniformity is recommended to be enforced by the State commissioner; books changed but once in three years, except by consent of State board of education.

Connecticut: Text-books of physiology and hygiene are published by the State board, but their use is not exclusive; no book may be changed oftener than once in three years.

Pennsylvania: Text-books selected by town board in consultation with teachers; no change made oftener than once in three years.

VERMONT.—Books selected by county board; county boards make contracts with dealers or publishers, and arrange with booksellers in each town to keep for sale the authorized books at a price of not more than freight and express charges and ten per cent. advance on contract price; free books on physiology and hygiene required; free text-books on other subjects authorized; county uniformity established.

NEW YORK.—Books selected by vote of district meetings and by city boards; several cities have adopted the free text-book system, but it is not provided by State law; no books changed for five years, except by two-thirds vote at school meeting.

NEW JERSEY.—District boards, in connection with county superintendent, select a uniform series of text-books; free books are furnished in the majority of the cities, but are not required by law, and the system is not in use in the country districts.

MARYLAND.—Since 1888 the county boards select, purchase and distribute text-books; free books optional with county board; county uniformity required.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, MICHIGAN, WISCONSIN, NEBRASKA, COLORADO.—Books selected by district board; except in Michigan, no provision made for contracts with publisher or dealer; free books generally authorized.

District of Columbia: Free-book system recommended, but so far only adopted in the six lower grades of the schools; no uniformity.

Michigan: Text-books cannot be changed within five years, except by vote; by law of 1889, free-book system is subject to vote in each district, and where adopted the district board contracts with dealer or publisher at wholesale price; district uniformity established; provision made for extra tax in free-book districts; free-book system is generally adopted.

Wisconsin: Text-books may be changed every three years by district vote; no general uniformity; free-book question subject to vote of each school district.

Nebraska: By law of 1891 district boards contract with publishers of text-books for not exceeding five years, under the usual "lowest price" limitation, and free books are compulsory; contracts must be made directly with those publishers only who file bonds with the State superintendent; no general uniformity.

Colorado: District uniformity required; no book can be changed in less than four years, unless the price be advanced, the mechanical quality lowered or the supply stopped; free books authorized when adopted by a majority district vote.

DELAWARE.—Free books compulsory, and furnished by school boards of all districts; books are paid for out of funds appropriated by the State.

VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA, SOUTH CAROLINA, LOUISIANA, INDIANA, NEVADA, WASHINGTON, OREGON.—Text-books selected by State board; no free books; general uniformity.

Virginia: Advisory committee of teachers recommends books to county board, and there is well-established uniformity; State board contracts with publishers to supply books for four years, and arranges for their introduction at contract prices.

West Virginia: Since 1879 the law requires that text-books shall be sold to pupils at a special retail price, and shall be furnished to dealers at 16½ per cent. discount from the retail price agreed upon; contract price specified must be printed on each book and price-lists posted in each schoolhouse.

North Carolina: Text-books are recommended by the State board of education for a period of three years, and prices fixed by the board for the length of time the books are in use.

South Carolina: The law is materially the same as in North Carolina, text-books being selected by county boards from State book-list.

Louisiana: Uniformity of text-books strictly enforced by State board; books must continue in use four years from date of adoption; contract given to lowest bidder; retail prices are stamped in books, and publishers are obliged to sell them at stamped prices.

Indiana: Law of March, 1889, requires the State board of education to advertise in Indiana and in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis for proposals from publishers of text-books for furnishing books for a term of five years, each book being bid for separately, from authors who have unpublished mss. of text-books for prices at which they will sell mss. and copyright, and from persons willing to compile a book or series of text-books for the price at which they will undertake such compilation. The most satisfactory of these proposals is accepted. Bids from publishers must be accompanied by a bond of $50,000, to guarantee fulfillment of contract, and an affidavit must also be submitted that the bidder is in no way connected with any other publisher bidding under the same advertisement, nor a party to any scheme to avoid competition. A fixed schedule of prices is adopted by the board, and no book is accepted which sells at a price higher than that fixed in the list; provision is made for the punishment of any trustee receiving money for books in excess of the contract price.

Nevada: Text-books changed once only in four years.

Washington: The State superintendent is required to advertise for proposals for a uniform series of text-books adopted by the State board, stating the exchange, wholesale and retail prices that are to be maintained; exchange price not to exceed two-thirds of the contract retail price of the books in use; books must continue in use five years; any district using other than the State books forfeits one-fourth of its State school apportionment.

Oregon: The State superintendent, authorized by the State board, is required every sixth year to procure proposals from publishers of text-books and submit a list of the books and prices to the State examiners and county superintendents for their votes; books receiving the majority of votes must be adopted in all the public schools for six years; publishers of books selected must file bonds to fulfil contract and must place a card in each school-house, giving the price of the books; districts not using the authorized books forfeit their proportion of the school fund.

KENTUCKY, MINNESOTA, MISSOURI, MONTANA.—Laws vary only slightly from those preceding; books selected by the State; no free books; general uniformity.

Kentucky: Text-books can be changed but once in five years; lists prepared by the State board.

Minnesota: State commission contracts for text-books of standard quality and price, which shall remain in use fifteen years; revision every five years if necessary; books sold to pupils by county agents. This law has not proved entirely satisfactory, and two free-book bills were before the legislature in 1891.

Missouri: Text-books selected by a State commission of four appointed by the governor; the State superintendent is an ex-officio member of the commission; the commission contracts for books for a term of five years, and in case of failure to contract, is empowered to compile or have compiled books as required; publishers securing contract are obliged to establish agencies in all cities with a population of over 10,000; they must also secure written authority from the county commissioner, and are obliged to furnish books at not to exceed ten per cent. profit on contract price; the use of books other than those selected is forbidden.

Montana: A series of uniform text-books at specified prices are required for exclusive use for six years; publishers must file bonds to observe conditions as to supply of books to dealers and school boards, and to maintain the contract prices and standard of excellence; also, to provide special map and text relating to Montana in the geography adopted.

GEORGIA, TENNESSEE, MISSISSIPPI, ARKANSAS, OHIO, ILLINOIS, IOWA, NORTH DAKOTA, KANSAS, IDAHO.—No general uniformity; books selected by district boards; county committees, etc.; no free books.

Georgia: County boards select the text-books, which cannot be changed for five years from date of introduction.

Tennessee: Books selected by district boards under suggestion of county superintendent; county uniformity recommended.

Mississippi: A committee of teachers is appointed by each county board every five years to select text-books; county uniformity established; county superintendents contract with publishers, and books must be in use five years; in towns, local boards contract with publishers and books are used four years. Text-books in United States history are recommended by a committee composed of the State superintendent, governor, and attorney general.

Arkansas: Text-books selected by State superintendent; district uniformity; books must continue in use three years.

Ohio: Law of April, 1890, provides in detail for selection of text-books by a "School-book board," composed of the governor, State school commissioner, supervisor of public printing, and two other persons; specified prices are fixed at which the books will be sold to district boards by publishers; publishers must submit proposals for furnishing text-books for periods of five years at prices not to exceed those specified by board; books to be ordered direct from publishers and arrangements made for their distribution to pupils at cost price, and not exceeding ten per cent. additional. If no satisfactory proposals are submitted on the basis designated, the board may advertise for proposals from publishers, authors and compilers, on plan similar to that adopted in Indiana.

Illinois: Books selected by district boards, and district uniformity required; books changed once in four years; no special arrangements for supplying books to pupils.

Iowa: Books selected by district boards and contract given to lowest bidder; publishers required to deposit bonds; books must remain in use five years, except on majority vote of school board meeting; publishers required to file bonds, and when presenting bids are obliged to submit samples of text-books and lists of lowest wholesale and contract price.

North Dakota: Books selected by district boards; a bill is now before the legislature providing for free and uniform text-books.

Kansas: Books selected by district boards or county text-book boards in counties so voting; county uniformity; books must remain in use five years.

Idaho: Uniform county text-books selected by county superintendents with concurrence of at least two county commissioners in each county; books not to be changed for four years; proposals received from publishers, accompanied by samples and guarantee as to quality and price; superintendents and commissioners contract with publishers; in independent districts the school boards select text-books, which cannot be changed for three years.

FLORIDA, ALABAMA, TEXAS, OKLAHOMA, SOUTH DAKOTA, WYOMING, NEW MEXICO, ARIZONA, UTAH.—No State law on text-books; local control prevails, and there is no provision for uniformity; no free books.

Alabama: Every teacher may select his own books and the text-books used vary throughout the State; in cities the local board has control and endeavors to establish uniformity.

Texas: Text-books are prescribed by the board of trustees of each district, who may exclude all books not selected by them; county uniformity is urged.

CALIFORNIA.—In 1884 an amendment to the State Constitution was adopted requiring the State board to compile or have compiled a series of uniform text-books to be used throughout the State; the books to be printed by the State Printer and sold to pupils at cost; books to continue in use four years; books so compiled to be copyrighted by the State board. This system has resulted in greatly cheapening the price of school-books, as here shown: Series of State readers are sold at $1.25; price of former readers, $2.50; State arithmetics, 75 cents; former arithmetics, $1.05; State grammars, 80 cents; former grammars, $1.25. The books are distributed through private dealers.

Such, in brief, are the most general features of the text-book laws of the different States of the Union. Those provisions forbidding sectarian text-books, and relating to free text-books for indigent children, being common to every State and generally known, have been omitted. The California system, by which books are compiled and printed by the State, is unique, and has been adopted by no other State. Although materially reducing the price (but not the cost) of school-books and securing an unvarying uniformity, the plan has not met with the success expected. State Superintendent I. G. Hoitt, in a circular letter of December, 1890, states that although at first a thorough believer in the wisdom of the project, he has come to the conclusion that the results of the experiment have not been satisfactory; that the expense of manufacturing the books is far more to the State than it would be to a private publisher; that the publications themselves lack the spontaneity and competition of authorship shown in ordinary text-books; and that, in conclusion, he would not advise any other State to enter upon the publication of school-books.

JOHN LOCKE'S LAWS OF CONDUCT.

From Gill's "Systems of Education." (Heath. $1.10.)

"CHILDREN should not be informed of evil things. They should never be named in their presence. Evil should not be brought before their minds; for talking of such things sets them thinking, and thus their minds become familiarized with things which otherwise might never enter. Never speak of evil till the necessity for it unfortunately exists. For a similar reason do not warn children against possible faults; and this for the further reason that such warning implies distrust, and distrust is a temptation to pride or bravado. Stimulate children to that which is good and you will more effectually prevent the entrance of that which is evil.

"That we may educate children aright we must study their peculiarities. Differences exist. There are differences of natural endowment, differences of temperament, differences in inherited tendencies, differences in moral and emotional susceptibilities. 'There will always be some predominant qualities, good or evil, and these will more or less forever belong to him.' By which is to be understood that he will ever have certain mental peculiarities that will distinguish him from others and influence all he is and does. This being the case it becomes the duty of the educator to observe and study the child, that he may know these peculiarities; and that he may strengthen that which is weak, correct that which is wrong and rightly guide and improve all that is desirable and good.

"The means of moral education have therefore to be wisely ordered. It is not by rules and precepts that moral intelligence is cultivated, or moral habits formed. 'It is a great fault in education to burden children's minds with rules and precepts about their conduct, which are seldom understood, and therefore soon forgotten; and it is still more unreasonable to visit with punishment the infraction of such rules.' That children may know what is right you must teach by example. It is thus that the precept will have meaning and force. But they must also do what is right. The grand business is to form habits of right practice, and not to depend on the memory of a right precept.

"The first principle that should be implanted in the child's mind is submission to authority. This is what he means by awe of the parent. The parent is to the child in God's place, and his will is the sanction of its actions. He also holds that treatment in early life should be rigid. By this is not meant that it should be severe, but that it should not be lax. There is no hardship in this. A child finds hardship not in law but in laxity. The laws of nature are not relaxed for childhood, and the child soon learns to accommodate itself to them. Principles should be rigidly carried out, else the educator is not a support to the child, when from its ignorance and weakness it needs it. But when childhood gives place to youth, and the reason and habit permit, then a rigid system is out of place. Then the time has come when the co-operation of the youth should be sought by treating him as a rational being. That which is required from him should be explained, so that he may be convinced that it is just and reasonable. The establishment of authority early is the surest way to obtain obedience, respect and then love. This order cannot be reversed. It is impossible to lay a basis of love, and on it to build authority.

"How to establish authority and to secure right practice introduces the question of motive, and consequently of punishment and reward. Pain, for the purpose of reform or to deter, is punishment. Pain is bodily or mental. The former includes corporal chastisement and all other modes of reaching the mind through the body. The latter includes reproof, rebuke, censure or anything else whose direct tendency is to produce shame. The object to be secured by punishment is an ingenuous shame for having done wrong. In the first instance, this painful emotion arises from having forfeited the good opinion of another; then it springs up with the consciousness of having done something which we know would forfeit such opinion; but it finally comes for having done wrong. Now such feeling is one of the strongest safeguards against evil courses."

NEW, SUPERB, COMPLETE
ATLASES. By J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S., F.R.S.E.
 ALL REVISED TO THE PRESENT DATE.

The Graphic Atlas and Gazetteer of the World.

With over 220 Maps, Charts, Plans of Cities, etc., all revised to the present date. Also Gazetteer with nearly 55,000 places and results of New Census. By J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S., F.R.S.E. Quarto (size  $10\frac{3}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{4}$  inches), half morocco, gilt top, \$7.50.

Throughout the Atlas the countries of the world have been treated with fulness in proportion to their commercial importance and interest.

In the United States section a separate map is given of each of the States and Territories.

The results of the new census have been incorporated.

For compactness and portability this volume is, in proportion to its ample contents, quite unique among atlases.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE, April 22, 1892.

"An admirable example of map-making, a thorough work of art in its way, clear, compact, precise, with hardly a broken letter even to be found. . . . The States of this country, and generally the important political divisions of the world, are delineated separately, so that 128 maps afford ample details for close study of all regions likely to be of interest. By printing both sides of the sheet the Atlas and Gazetteer together are brought into the compass of a volume no thicker than one that would contain the maps alone if they were printed in the usual fashion."

PUBLIC LEDGER, Philadelphia, April 5, 1892.

"Of the making of new atlases there is no end, but there is always room and a warm welcome for a good and concise one. The present Atlas is both, and is a perfect example of 'multum in parvo.' The requirements of a geography should be clear maps, a full index, and convenient size for handling and reference. Professor Bartholomew's book fills these conditions with perfect satisfaction. The charts are unusually numerous and complete. . . . In all there are 128 full-page plates. The same degree of care and good editing characterizes the Graphic Gazetteer, the index portion of the book. It is truly named a concise dictionary of geography, for one line is sufficient to give all the required information as to the situation of every province, city, town or village, mountain, river or stream in the four quarters of the globe."

NEW YORK TIMES, Feb. 23, 1892.

"Another valuable Atlas from the Messrs. Nelson is called 'The Graphic Atlas.' It contains also a Gazetteer, and is edited by Mr. Bartholomew. In size it is a convenient large octavo, or small folio. All the various States of the United States are presented, with plans of the leading cities. In looking at the plotting of Chicago, the exact locality of the World's Fair is shown, and this is sufficient to show that the Atlas is up to date. The newest African explorations are presented, with its recent political apportioning. The Gazetteer is of 268 pages of close type, and is comprehensive. We should say that the volume, from its convenient form and completeness, would meet the general demand."

The Globe Hand Atlas.

A Series of Fifty-four Maps, Illustrating Political, Physical, Commercial, Astronomical and Classical Geography, along with Sixty Sectional Maps of Important Cities and Districts, and a General Index giving the Situation, Latitude and Longitude of over Five Thousand Places throughout the World. By J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S. 8vo, cloth, inked sides, $1.00.

This Atlas has been carefully prepared, and contains all Recent Discoveries and Changes, and its Physical and Classical Maps and other Educational Features make it valuable for Schools and Colleges.

"Comprehensive and accurately adjusted to represent the latest discoveries. . . . We have not met with a more complete book of the kind in such a cheap form, and we cordially recommend it."—The Churchman.

"An excellent book of reference for the general student, representing as it does, the latest discoveries in the different departments of geography. It is in a most convenient form for the study table."—Public Opinion.

"A most valuable work in a small compass."—Journal of Commerce.

"These maps are of sufficient size and detail for all ordinary purposes. One map, showing the North Atlantic steamship routes, will attract special attention."—School Journal.

The Popular Hand Atlas of the World.

By JOHN BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S. With Descriptive Index of Thirty-five Thousand Places. This Atlas contains Sixty Full-page beautifully colored Maps, with all Recent Discoveries and Political Changes in the Continent of Africa and other parts of the World, and will be found invaluable for reference and general use. Large imperial 4to, half morocco, $6.00.

"These maps have the prime merit of distinctness, and among maps deserve to rank high. To the minuteness of German work they add greater clearness. In the descriptive index a surprising amount of information about countries, rivers, towns, counties and small villages is given."—New York Times.

"This Atlas is learned, accurate and beautifully clear in drawing."—The Churchman, Nov. 7, 1891.

"An admirable Atlas. . . . All (maps) are exquisite examples of the highest style of engraving and the most tasteful coloring."—New York Tribune.

The English Imperial Atlas of the World.

OLMSTED'S NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

Fourth Revision, by Sheldon.

An Introduction to Natural Philosophy. Designed as a Text-Book in Physics for the Use of Students in College. By DEVISON OL MSTED, LL.D., revised by E. S. SNELL, LL.D., and R. G. KIMBALL, Ph.D. Fourth Revised Edition, by SAMUEL SHELDON, Ph.D. (Würzburg), Professor of Physics and Electrical Engineering, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. 8vo, pp. xiv., 465. $3.12. Copies for examination mailed to Professors upon receipt of Two Dollars.

It is now nine years since Olmsted's "Natural Philosophy" was last revised. In this time many changes have been made in the technical nomenclature of Physics, many improvements in the methods of presentation of complicated portions of the science have been published by experienced educators, and, above all, the whole subject of Electricity and Magnetism has outgrown its former apparel. For the present revision the whole book has been carefully gone over. A comparison between the respective Tables of Contents of the old and new editions will indicate the thoroughness of the work. Many engravings are inserted, from new drawings. These are chiefly in outline, as being thus best able to perform their functions in a text-book.

By THOMAS H. HUXLEY, F.R.S., author of "Man's Place in Nature," "Lay Sermons," etc. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

In this volume Professor Huxley has brought together a number of his more important recent essays, and has added certain new matter. Among the topics discussed are "Mr. Gladstone and Genesis," "The Evolution of Theology," "Science and Pseudo-Science," "Agnosticism," and "The Rise and Progress of Palaeontology."

The Naturalist in La Plata.

By C. H. HUDSON, C.M.Z.S., joint author of "Argentine Ornithology." With 27 illustrations. 8vo, 388 pages, cloth, $4.00.

"Mr. Hudson is not only a clever naturalist, but he possesses the rare gift of interesting his readers in whatever attracts him, and of being dissatisfied with mere observation unless it enables him to philosophize as well. With his lucid accounts of bird, beast and insect, no one will fail to be delighted."—London Academy.

"It would be easy to multiply extracts from this most interesting book. But it is one to buy and read, for matter and style are alike excellent."—London Spectator.

THE NEW Chambers's Encyclopædia.

New Type. New Subjects. New Illustrations. New Maps.

A Complete Dictionary of Art, Science, History, Literature, Fable, Mythology, Biography, Geography, etc. Handsomely illustrated with maps and numerous wood-engravings. Nine volumes now ready. The remaining volume to be issued in the fall. Price per vol., cloth, $3.00; cloth, uncut, $3.00; sheep, $4.00; half morocco, $4.50.

"'Chambers's Encyclopædia,' in spite of the claims of other similar works, still continues to hold its own as a standard reference for the home or school. The new revision brings its articles well up to date, and introduces a large number of entirely new subjects. No expense has been spared in obtaining the co-operation of the best authorities in the special lines, and the result is a complete and comprehensive dictionary of useful knowledge. 'Chambers's' has an undisputed title to be considered one of the most accurate, reliable, convenient, and useful encyclopædias now on the American market."—Boston Journal of Education.

The Principles of Ethics.

Vol. I.

By HERBERT SPENCER. Including (Part I.) "The Data of Ethics;" (Part II.) "The Inductions of Ethics;" (Part III.) "The Ethics of Individual Life." 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

The first part of this volume was published separately some years ago. The author having finished the second and third parts, all are now issued in one book under the above title, changed from "The Principles of Morality" previously used. The binding is uniform with the various other volumes included in the author's system of "Synthetic Philosophy."

For convenience of those who have already purchased Part I., Parts II. and III. are bound together in a separate volume; price, $1.25.

An Englishman in Paris.

Notes and Recollections. In 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $4.50.

"A delightful book about Paris of the immediate past, one of the liveliest it has been our good fortune to read. The author is an Englishman, who lived in the French capital off and on or continuously for a period which we have roughly estimated at forty years. . . . For private reasons he will not give us his name, though he assures us that, if it were known, it would inspire the reader with confidence. Nobody wants his name, if he will allow us to say so. What he has written, in its fascinating anecdotes, is its own sufficient recommendation. It is all well-informed gossip about famous men, women and events, from cover to cover."—London Daily News.

The Historical Reference-Book.

Comprising a Chronological Table of Universal History, a Chronological Dictionary of Universal History, a Biographical Dictionary. With geographical notes. For the use of students, teachers and readers. By LOUIS HEILPRIN. Third edition, revised. Crown 8vo, half leather, $3.00.

"We miss hardly anything that we should consider desirable, and we have not been able to detect a single mistake or misprint."—New York Nation.

Ethan Allen.

THE ROBIN HOOD OF VERMONT. By HENRY HALL. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The aim of the author has been to depict Allen's personality, and to throw some new light upon the character of one who has been often violently assailed. Allen's own letters have been freely drawn upon. The mass of material which has been examined has included matter not utilized before.

The Hope of the Gospel.

By GEORGE MACDONALD, author of "Unspoken Sermons," "Robert Falconer," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

At a time when there is so much inquiry and unrest among thinking people, the frank discussions and strong arguments of this book will be especially pertinent and helpful.

Footsteps of Fate.

By LOUIS COUPERUS, author of "Eline Vere." Translated from the Dutch by Clara Bell. With an introduction by Edmund Gosse. Holland Fiction Series. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"'Eline Vere' is a vivacious and skilful performance, giving an evidently faithful picture of society, and evincing the art of a true story-teller."—Philadelphia Tri-Graph.

"La Bella" and Others.

By EGERTON CASTLE, author of "Consequences." No. 95, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"The author is gifted with a lively fancy, and the clever plots he has devised gain greatly in interest, thanks to the unfamiliar surroundings in which the action for the most part takes place."—London Literary World.

Jean de Kerdren.

By the author of "Colette" and "Straight On." No. 97, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"The love-story of the two young persons is told with the utmost simplicity and freshness, and with an intensity of interest with which mere literary skill seems to have little to do. It gives throughout the impression of a faithful rendering of reality. . . . The core of the story is sound and sweet, and will determine the impression for all healthy readers, to whom we cordially recommend it."—New York Times.

A Little Norsk; or, Ol' Pap's Flaxen.

By HAMLIN GARLAND, author of "Main Travelled Roads," etc. Appletons' Summer Series. 16mo. With novel, specially designed cover and ornamented edges, 50 cents.

"Recent American fiction can show nothing better than Mr. Garland's work."—Chicago Times.

A Tale of Twenty-Five Hours.

By BRANDER MATTHEWS and GEORGE H. JESSOP. Appletons' Summer Series. 16mo, with novel, specially designed cover and ornamented edges, 50 cents.

An ingenious and entertaining novelette by two clever and well-known story-writers.

A Thorny Path.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation a third volume of the speeches of Wendell Phillips, prepared by Theodore C. Pease.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will begin in September a new edition of Bulwer's works in forty volumes, each provided with a frontispiece designed by E. H. Garrett.

JAMES J. CHAPMAN, 915 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D. C., will publish, August 15, McPherson's "Handbook of Politics" for 1892. It will cover the proceedings of the second session of the last Congress (51st), and the first session of the present Congress (52d), and will give the final facts as to every pending public measure passed upon since the publication of the "Handbook of Politics" for 1890.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready a work entitled "An Englishman in Paris" [reported in England to have been written by Sir Richard Wallace], which gives an intimate and most entertaining series of pictures of life in Paris during the reigns of Louis Philippe and Louis Napoleon. It contains personal reminiscences of the old Latin Quarter, the Revolution of 1848, the coup d'état, society, art, and letters during the Third Empire, the siege of Paris, and the reign of the Commune. The author enjoyed the acquaintance of most of the celebrities of this time; and he describes Balzac, Alfred de Musset, Sue, the elder Dumas, Tagliioni, Flaubert, Auber, Félicien David, Delacroix, Horace Vernet, Decamps, Guizot, Thiers and many others, whose appearance in these pages is the occasion for fresh and interesting anecdotes.

SILVER, BURDETT & Co. have just ready "The Revisers' Greek Text," a most valuable critical work on the New Testament, on which the Rev. S. W. Whitney has been at work since the publication of the Revised New Testament. It is an examination of the manuscripts on which the revisers based their translations, some of which Mr. Whitney contends were accepted as authentic on very insufficient evidence. The work is intended for the general reader, and copious translations of all Greek terms enable those interested, even when not expert Greek scholars, to gain valuable and most interesting information. The book has been characterized as an "honor to American scholarship" by a prominent Biblical scholar. It may be safe to say that no critical work on the New Testament has appeared within the last decade calculated to create a deeper or more general interest among Bible students at large than this work promises to awaken. It is issued in two handsome twelvemo volumes and is provided with an excellent index.

HARPER & BROTHERS are about to publish a new volume in the English Men of Letters series "Carlyle," written by Professor John Nicol, author of "Byron," in the same series. They are also about to publish F. D. Millet's "The Danube: from the Black Forest to the Black Sea," the record of a canoe voyage of 1775 miles, made in the summer of 1890, through Germany, Austria, Hungary, Servia, Bulgaria, Roumania and Russia, to be illustrated from drawings made during the voyage by Alfred Parsons and Mr. Millet; D. Christie Murray's latest story, "Time's Revenges;" also, a new illustrated novel, entitled "That Wild Wheel," by Frances Eleanor Trollope, whose stories have won much praise for their originality of design, their skillful characterization and the genuine flavor of the humor with which they are enlivened. An interesting volume by Julian Ralph, "On Canada's Frontier," will also soon be issued from the press of Harper & Brothers. The recent rapid development of the vast western portion of the Dominion, and the increased attention which is being directed to that region will give to this work a special value and timeliness. Mr. Ralph's information regarding the present condition and remarkable resources of the great Northwest is derived at first hand and from personal observation, while his narrative of experiences with the Indian tribes and his sketches of hunting adventures in the Canadian forests have all the interest of romance.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

The editor of the Christian Register views the ethnological, climatic and economic aspects of the race problem. He gives a mass of facts. He believes the two races will eventually get on perfectly well together, whether they are blended in one person or race, or separated into two. He believes education can alone work out the present difficulties, and that the intelligent and refined men of both races will agree together. There was some discussion of the lecture before the Brooklyn Ethical Association, and its substance is shortly stated.

At his mother's request Sir Jasper Keith seeks a wife in the family of the Meyricks of Raybourne. He is accepted by the older daughter, a beautiful but rather stupid blond, who is marrying him for his position and fortune; but he afterwards falls seriously in love with the younger daughter who, though not a beauty, is bright and attractive. The complications which arise, and the mother's attempts to crush the younger girl's romance and to give to the elder one all the good things of life, make the story.

Castle, Egerton. "La Bella," and others: being certain stories recollected. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 8-320 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 95.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Eight short stories, which, with but two exceptions, have been published at different periods in annuals and magazines: La Bella, an incident of the fencing floor; The Renommist; The baron's quarry; The son of chaos; A new sensation; Chaloner's best man; A paragraph in the Globe; Master Huldebrand.

Conklin, Mrs. Nathl., [formerly Jennie M. Drinkwater.] Dorothy's Islands. Bost., Brailey & Woodruff, [1892.] c. 3-435 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Dorothy's Islands were near the mouth of the Kennebec River, and her home was a lighthouse. Here she conceived a fanciful idea about discovering islands even more to her liking than the one on which she lived. The story tells also some incidents of Dorothy's grown-up life, notably the disposition she made of her fortune.

Dorland, W. A. Newman, M.D., comp. A cluster of pearls for Christian Endeavor workers. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. '92. 2+212 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Clusters of quotations suitable for enforcing the vital truths of prayer, humility, love, faith, consecration and service, providence and mercy, peace, gentleness, penitence, reverence, purity, charity, patience, constancy, obedience and many other noble qualities which the Society of Christian Endeavor labors to spread throughout mankind.

Doyle, A. Conan. The doings of Raffles Haw, [and other stories.] N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. '91. 199 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 5.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Raffles Haw, by the discovery of a chemical secret, is able to transmute lead into gold and to command a magnificence of wealth which Monte Cristo might envy. He is eager to benefit humanity, to relieve misery—above all to be loved for himself only. One by one his illusions are dispelled, he sees the shallow avarice of those whose affection he had thought secure, and by his final act he casts down the hopes he had unwittingly raised, and keeps his secret intact forever. Two short stories follow: The redheaded league; The Boscombe Valley mystery.

*Dulcken, H. W. Pictures of London; with short descriptions. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. col. il. 4°, pap., 50 c.

Ebers, G. Moritz. A thorny path, (per aspera;) from the German, by Clara Bell. N. Y., Appleton, 1891. c. 2 v., 378; 962 p. S. cl., $1.50; pap., 80 c.

The turbulent city of Alexandria during the visit of Caracalla, A.D. 214, is the scene of a story in which the fierce emperor plays a leading part. Melissa, the charming daughter of an old gem-cutter, seeks from Caesar the pardon of her father and brother, and becomes the object of a delusion on the part of the half-mad Caracalla. He determines to raise her to his side as empress, but Melissa is already betrothed and shrinks with horror from the dangerous honor. She resolves to test Caesar's love and abide by the result. Her action leads her from thorny paths to peace and happiness, but is a link in the chain of events which culminates in the fearful and historic massacre—Caracalla's bloody vengeance on the fair city of Alexandria. Galen, Philostratus and other historic characters are introduced, and the life of the people—the pleasures, sorrows, terrors and beliefs of that stormy age—is painted with color and power.

Edwards, Mrs. Annie. A vagabond heroine: a novel. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1892. 6-286 p. D. (Madison sq. ser.) pap., 25 c.

Eichbaum, F. A. G. The preacher's scrapbook: a collection of 424 short stories and pithy sayings for the use of busy clergy and teachers. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1892. 6+244 p. D. cl., net, $1.

The "scraps" are drawn from a variety of sources, and the compiler has specially avoided well-known stories.

Gaboriau, Emile. Monsieur Lecoq; from the French. V. 1. N. Y., Seaside Pub. Co., [1892.] 350 p. D. (Lovell's detective ser., no. 27.) pap., 25 c.

Garland, Hamlin. A little Norsk; or, ol' Pap's Flaxen. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 5+157 p. S. bds., 50 c.

A story of every-day Western life, its hardships, anxieties and pleasures. Boomtown, Dakota, is the scene of the blizzard which leaves the "little Norsk" an orphan and leads to her adoption by the two rough men who take the child from her dead mother's arms. "Flaxen" they call her. She becomes the object of their hopes and plans, and the story of her development from childhood to happy womanhood is told with varying pathos and humor.

*Gentry, T. G. Family names from the Irish, Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Norman and Scotch:

considered in relation to their etymology; with brief remarks on the history and languages of the peoples to whom we are indebted for their origin. [Phil., J. B. Lipincott Co., 1892.] 8<sup>c</sup>, cl., $2.50.

Gilman, Stella, (pseud.) That Dakota girl. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 2-240 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"Ranch-to-rest-in," on the Dakota prairies, is the scene of a pretty love-story containing somewhat idealized descriptions of Western life and scenery. "That Dakota girl" is an attractive little person with an Eastern lover and a Western lover, and though one of the rivals must perforce lose the prize, the dénouement is quite satisfactory.

Gilmore, Minnie. A son of Esau. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 6+853 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

The son of Esau, Steele Harriman, sold his birthright of an honorable name and high ideals for success in speculations and association with pleasure-seekers of all kinds. The scene is a thriving Colorado town. His wife's faithful love and far-reaching sympathies finally right many of the wrongs he has committed. The pushing life in our Western settlements is well drawn.

Grandgent, C. H. German and English sounds. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 6+42 p. D. (International modern language ser.) cl., 55 c.

Contains a detailed study of two individual dialects of interest to phoneticians, and also a guide to learners of German or English pronunciation. The English presented is Prof. Grandgent's, formed in and near Boston, the German that of Dr. R. Hochdörfer, now Professor of Modern Languages at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio.

Green, Anna Katharine, [now Mrs. Rohlfs.] Cynthia Wakeham's money. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 4+336 p. il. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A telegram received by a New York lawyer, asking him to come without delay to Flatbush, L. I., to make the will of Cynthia Wakeham, starts a characteristic story by the author of "The Leavenworth case." The lawyer's search for the woman's heirs is rich in mysteries and horrors. The heroine is an exquisitely beautiful woman with a strange scar on her face, who almost falls a victim to the unreasoning hatred of her father and uncle.

Gréville, H., [pseud. for Mme. Alice Durand.] Mam'zelle Eugénie: a Russian love-story. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1892.] c. '84. 17-148 p. S. (Peterson's ser. of choice fiction.) pap., 25 c.

Griswold, W. M., comp. France: a series of narratives of personal visits to places, therein famous for natural beauty or historical association. Cambridge, Mass., W. M. Griswold, 1892. imp. O. cl., $1.25.

This and the three volumes following comprise extracts from books of travel and from magazine articles, descriptive of noted places in France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland. An index, arranged alphabetically under subjects, makes each volume easy of reference.

Griswold, W. M., comp. Germany: a series of narratives of personal visits to places therein famous for natural beauty or historical association. Cambridge, Mass., W. M. Griswold, 1892. imp. O. cl., $1.25.

Hall, H: Ethan Allen, the Robin Hood of Vermont. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 7+207 p. D. cl., $1.

Ethan Allen's cool audacity, the daring raids of his outlawed band of "Green Mountain Boys," his capture of Ticonderoga—all the eventful episodes of his career justly earn for him the title of the "Robin Hood of Vermont." The author's purpose throughout has been to present "a fuller life of Allen than has yet been written, and singling him from that cluster of sturdy patriots in the New Hampshire Grants, to make plain the vivid personality of a Vermont hero to the younger generations." The work was left unfinished in 1889 by the author's death, and has been completed by his daughter, Henrietta Hall Boardman.

Hume, Fergus W. Dowker—detective. N. Y., Seaside Pub. Co., [1892.] 118 p. D. (Lovell's detective ser., no. 30.) pap., 10 c.

Ingersoll, Ernest. The Canadian guide-book. Pt. 2, Western Canada; incl. the peninsular and northern regions of Ontario, the Canadian shores of the great lakes, the Lake of the Woods region, Manitoba and the "Great Northwest," the Canadian Rocky Mountains and National Park, British Columbia and Vancouver's Island. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 8+261 p. map, il. D. cl., $1.25.

Part 1, "Eastern Canada," was recorded in P. W., "Weekly Record," July 11, 1891, [1015.] under Roberts, C. G. D. Ernest Ingersoll's reputation as naturalist, traveller and author is security for the trustworthy character and literary attractiveness of the text. The book is of a size and shape easily carried, and is full of illustrations and useful maps.

Ingraham, J. H. Theodore; or, the child of the sea. N. Y., Seaside Pub. Co., [1892.] 2-113 p. D. (Rugby lib., no. 3.) pap., 10 c.

Interstate commerce reports, v. 3; decisions and proceedings of the interstate commerce commission under the interstate commerce act of Feb. 4, 1887, and amendments, together with all decisions of the courts relating to interstate commerce, with notes. Rochester, N. Y., The Lawyers' Co-op. Pub. Co., 1892. c. 16+83-892 p. O. shp., $5.

Irwin, J. A., M.D. Hydrotherapy at Saratoga: a treatise on natural mineral waters. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 10+270 p. por. S. pap., 50 c.

Offers a correct and unprejudiced valuation of mineral waters generally, and those of Saratoga in particular. Contains chapters on: The origin of mineral waters; Geological conditions at Saratoga; Classification and analysis of mineral waters; Component parts of the Saratoga waters; Metabolism and alterative effects; Balneology; or, the science of bathing; Therapeutic applicability and dietetics; Nosology.

Jacobson, A: An ounce of prevention to save America from having a government of the few, by the few, and for the few. Chic., C: H. Kerr & Co., 1892. c. 8-251 p. D. pap., 50 c.

On current problems in American politics Mr. Jacobson takes the ground that the rapid accumulation of large fortunes is a menace to the future of the republic, and he therefore advocates the imposition of a succession tax on all large fortunes that are inherited. With this tax he also advocates a thorough system of public manual training schools, the money for which should be furnished by the tax just described. He also proposes to compensate parents for their children's time, where the parents are so poor that they cannot spare their children to go to school.

King, J.; M.D. Eclectic obstetrics, 9th ed., rewritten, rev. and enl. by Rob. C. Wintermute. Cin., O., The Ohio Valley Co., 1892. c. '55, '92. 4-747 p. O. shp., $6.50.

First published in 1855 by Moore, Wilstach, Keys & Co. About two years ago Dr. King, feeling his work needed revision, entrusted this labor to his successor to the chair of Obstetrics in the Eclectic Medical Institute of Cincinnati. Numerous additions have been made to every chapter. Especial attention is called to the treatment of the diseases of pregnancy, specific medication being substituted for the old style of prescribing. The work, it is claimed, is now fully up to date in all scientific discoveries.

Kipling, Rudyard. Barrack-room ballads and other verses; with departmental ditties. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] 8+270 p. D. (Strathmore ser., no. 3.) cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 6, 1890, [1891.]

Lewis, G: History of Battery E, First Regiment Rhode Island Light Artillery in the war of 1861 and 1865 to preserve the Union. Providence, R. I., Snow & Farnham, prs., [for sale by the author, G. Lewis, 238 Broadway, Providence, R. I.] 1892. c. '91. 11+540 p. por. map. O. cl., $2.50.

Battery E was organized in September, 1861, and remained in service until June, 1865. The honorable part borne by Battery E in the Army of the Potomac is related with much pride by Mr. Lewis, who was a member of the battery. The picture given of the private side of soldier life is both pathetic and amusing. Contains a complete roster of the battery, besides an appendix giving some valuable statistical records of artillery losses during the war.

*Logan, Celia. How to reduce your weight or increase it: an exposition of the Salisbury plan. N. Y., W: A. Kellogg, 1023 Sixth ave., 1892. 147 p. 12°, cl., $1; leatherette, 50 c.

Luchsinger, J: The planting of the Swiss colony at New Glarus, Wisconsin; [reprinted from v. 12, Historical collections.] Madison, Wis., State Hist. Soc. of Wisconsin, 1892. 334-382 p. O. pap., 25 c.

A revised and elaborated reprint of an article written thirteen years ago, greatly enriched by additional documentary material and brought down to date. The colony of New Glarus was first settled in 1845 by about twenty-six families, numbering 122 men, women and children. At first they suffered untold hardships, but their industry, frugality and morality have now developed them into a thriving community, which has overflowed into adjacent towns and cities, and numbers some 8000 souls.

McCosch, Ja., D.D. Our moral nature: a brief system of ethics. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 6+53 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Dr. McCosch says: "In this treatise I am to show that man is a moral agent, and expound his moral ideas and powers. It is one of the shortest of the common treatises on ethics or moral philosophy. This because the collateral topics usually discussed in ethical works are treated of in my other philosophic works. I can refer those who wish for a fuller exposition of kindred mental subjects to my two volumes on psychology."

MacDonald, G: The hope of the gospel. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 3+242 p. D. cl., $1.

Twelve sermons. The subjects are: Salvation from sin; The remission of sins; Jesus in the world; Jesus and his fellow-townsmen; The heirs of heaven and earth; Sorrow the pledge of joy; God's family; The reward of obedience; The yoke of Jesus; The salt and the light of the world; The right and the left; The hope of the universe.

Macquoid, Katharine S. Appledore farm. N. Y., National Book Co., [United States Book Co., 1892.] 361 p. D. (The premier ser., no. 2.) pap., 50 c.

Appledore Farm lies in the southwest of England. Its owner squanders his substance at races and in speculation. His daughter finds her inheritance gone, and after making the old discovery that the gay, handsome, outwardly-devoted lover is at heart selfish and designing, she accepts a good man's love, eases her father's burdens, and in time becomes a satisfied woman. Some of the story has its scene on the Continent.

Malot, Hector. A story without a moral; from the French by Max Maury. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1892. c. '91. 8-368 p. il. D. (Library of choice fiction, no. 51.) pap., 50 c. Scenes and characters are French. A wife poisons her husband that she may marry her lover; married to the lover she quickly tires of him, and transfers her affections to another man. The guilty woman and her first lover are tried for the murder of the husband, the woman being clever enough to escape punishment, while the man is sentenced to hard labor for twenty years.

*Marbury, Mary E. Orvis. Favorite lies and their histories; with replies from experienced anglers to inquiries concerning how, when and where to use them. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. il. 12°, cl., $5.

Markham, Clements R. A history of Peru. Chic., C: H. Sergel & Co., 1892. c. 6+

556 p. maps, il. O. (Latin American Republics ser., no. 1.) cl., $2.50.

The first of a series of histories of the South American and Central American Republics, countries hitherto known to English and American readers only through the medium of books of travel and histories of limited periods. The complete presentation of the past and present national life of these republics, their enormous resources and the growing closeness of commercial relations will be included in the scope of these histories. In Peru the civilization of the red race attained its highest development. Here the colossal fabric of Spanish dominion was shattered, and for half a century an emancipated people have struggled to establish a national existence based on well-ordered liberty. The author has already written "Cocuzco and Lima," "Peru and India," "War between Chili and Peru," etc.

Mathews, Joanna H. John Thorndyke's prejudice: a novel. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1892. 8-372 p. D. pap., 50 c.

A love-tale which, after the usual complications, comes to a happy ending. The scenes and characters are mostly American. The writer is the author of the "Beesie books."

Mayo, Rev. A. D. Southern women in the recent educational movement in the South. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1892. 300 p. O. (Bureau of Education, Circular of information, no. 1.) pap., n. p.

The object is chiefly to direct attention to the services rendered by the women of the Southern States during the past 25 years in educating the Southern boys and girls, black and white. The three main divisions of the essay are, first, Southern schools for the education of girls; second, the work of Northern and Southern women in the superior schools for colored youth; third, the common school. An appendix contains a number of essays, originally prepared as lectures or magazine articles, bearing upon the subject of education in the South.

*Menaud, L. Autobiography and recollections of incidents connected with horticultural affairs, etc., from 1807 to 1892. Albany, N. Y., Weed, Parsons & Co., 1892. 218 p. il. por. 16", cl., $1.25.

Merriman, Rev. T. M. The Pilgrims, Puritans, and Roger Williams vindicated: and his sentence of banishment ought to be revoked. Bost., Bradley & Woodruff, 1892. c. 12+312 p. sq. D. cl., $1.50.

After presenting a historical survey of the struggle for religious liberty in New England, from the landing of the Pilgrims and during the days of Roger Williams to its final establishment in 1789, the author devotes the second part of his work to a vindication of Roger Williams, "whose doctrines of religious liberty survive, while the theocratic system of the Puritans has dissolved away." Full index.

*Michigan. Supreme ct. Cases decided from Oct. 9 to Dec. 21, 1891. W: D. Fuller, st. rep. V. 88. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1892. c. 69+785 p. O. shp., $3.50.

Milne, W: J. High school algebra: embracing a complete course for high schools and academies, being "Milne's inductive algebra," rev. and enl. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 360 p. D. (Inductive ser.) hf. leath., $1.

The plan pursued is substantially the same as that adopted in the author's "Inductive algebra," of which this is a revision, but the scope of the treatise has been considerably extended. Natural and properly graduated exercises lead the scholar to a thorough comprehension of the principles of the science, and then he is given abundant practice in applying them.

Parr, Mrs. Louisa. The squire. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 2+323 p. D. cl., $1.

An ideal English country place is the home of Squire Royston, a confirmed bachelor, for a reason that to his daily associates remains a mystery. The heroine is the daughter of a London physician, who dies, leaving her a stepmother and an inheritance of debt. As soon as she discovers that her father's people have been induced to furnish money for a style of living far beyond their means by misrepresentations of her stepmother, she breaks off her life of false pretence and goes to gladden her grandmother's heart and meet her destiny.

- This useful little manual is primarily intended as a text-book for civilian and military first-aid classes, but it is also of value as a reference-book for the emergencies of every-day life. The subject is treated with an avoidance of unnecessary technical detail of treatment requiring medical experience. The points and details of minor importance are given in small type. It is divided into four parts: The construction of the human machine; The implements of repair; Accidents and emergencies; The care of the human machine.
- Pinkerton, Allan. The model town and the detectives. [Also.] Byron as a detective. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1888. c. '76. 4-288 p. D. (Allan Pinkerton's great detective books, no. 7.) pap., 25 c.

- Richebourg, Emile. Stronger than death; adapted from the French of Emile Richebourg by Alexina Loranger. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. c. 4-317 p. il. D. (Idylwild ser., v. 1, no. 11.) pap., 50 c.
- Alice de Marcell, the betrothed of George Lambert, suddenly marries the Count de Berne. The interest is in the sensational developments of this unlooked-for act, and in the proof that Alice gives that, in spite of appearances, her love for George Lambert is "stronger than death."
- Riddell, Mrs. J. H. The head of the firm. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. '91. 3-450 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 214.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
- A pretty young English girl, a vender of vegetables and fruits, falls heir to a large fortune, made by her father's uncle in America. She has been supporting her shiftless step-mother and her children by her efforts, but after receiving her fortune pensions them off, and takes a governess to train her for her new position. The story is one of simple homely details, showing the influence of money on the rich as well as the poor. There is the usual love episode, with an unusually lovely heroine.
- Ring, Max. Prince and musician; from the German; by Hettie E. Miller. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] c. 3-317 p. il. D. (Optimus ser., no. 20.) pap., 50 c.
- The hero is a famous musician, the protégé of a German Prince. Women find him irresistible, and he appears successively as the lover of the Countess Ada Harrer and the Duchess Léonie von Taland. The former had been a happy wife before falling under his influence, but fully expiates her sin in the misery that comes to her in finding herself deserted. Norin, the musician, meets his punishment at the hands of the countess' husband.
- Ritchie, Mrs. Anne Thackeray. The story of Elizabeth: a novel. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1892.] c. '78. 224 p. S. (Peterson's ser. of choice fiction.) pap., 25 c.

- *Sargent, C. Sprague. The silva of North America: a description of the trees which grow naturally in North America, exclusive of Mexico. In 12 v., v. 4 Rosaceae-Saxifragaceae. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. 50 pl. 4°, cl., net, per v., $25.
- Shaw, E. R. English composition by practice. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1892. c. 203 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.
- This work is arranged along two parallel lines—first, a study, by means of observation, comparison and inference of the principles generally observed by good writers; and, second, constant practice in connected composition. The work in composition is so designed that the pupil may apply his knowledge of principles as soon as gained, and at the same time acquire those valuable qualities of writing—unity and fluency.—Preface.
- *Sidgwick, Alfred. Distinction and the criticism of beliefs. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 8+279 p. 8°, cl., $1.75.
- *Sinclair, Brevard D. The crowning sin of the age: the perversion of marriage. Bost., H. L. Hastings, 1892. 12°, cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
- *Southwestern reporter, v. 18, cont. all the current decisions of the supreme courts of Mo., Ark. and Tenn., court of appeals of Ky., and supreme court and court of appeals of Texas. Permanent ed., Feb. 1-Apr. 25, 1892; with table of southwestern cases in which rehearings have been denied; with tables of southwestern cases published in v. 47, Ark. reports; 89, Mo. reports; 90, Tenn. reports; 21, Tex. reports; 66, 80 and 81, Tex. (supreme ct.) reports. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 16+1288 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $4.

- A compilation of quotations against drink, gathered from "scientists, statesmen, divines, orators, editors, lecturers, presidents, legislators, authors, generals, judges, bishops, archdeacons, missionaries, evangelists, emperors, queens, lords, doctors, senators, merchants, governors, educators, workmen, canons, cardinals, professors, poets and congressmen."
- Studies and notes in philology and literature.

- Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. 124 p. O. (Harvard Univ. studies.) pap., $1.
- Contents:* The authorship of the English romance of the rose, by G. Lyman Kittredge; Origin of the English names of the letters of the alphabet, by E. S. Sheldon; Lok Sounday, by J. M. Manley; Henry Scogan, by G. Lyman Kittredge; Etymological note, by E. S. Sheldon.
- Sule, Leon. Marshall Mars. N. Y. and St. Louis, I. H. and C. W. Brown Publishing Co., 1892. 2+300 p. D. (Brown lib., v. 2, no. 7.) pap., 50 c.
- A sensational detective story, which opens with a "murder mystery" involving an unsavory coterie of characters. The plot turns on a question of identity.
- Summer-holiday (A). N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. col. il. 4°, pap., 40 c.
- *Tales from Town Topics, v. 4. N. Y., Town Topics, 21 W. 23d st., 1892. 12°, pap., 50 c.
- Thomas, Reuen. Leaders of thought in the modern church. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 2-191 p. por. S. cl., $1.
- Eight character studies of eight famous preachers—namely, Jonathan Edwards, William Ellery Channing, John Henry Newman, Thomas Chalmers, Frederick W. Robertson, Emanuel Swedenborg, Horace Bushnell and Frederick D. Maurice—men of widely differing beliefs and temperaments.
- Thwaites, Reuben Gold. The story of the Black Hawk war; [reprinted from v. 12, Wisconsin historical collections.] Madison, Wis., State Historical Soc. of Wisconsin, 1892. 51 p. O. pap., 25 c.
- Tinseau, Leon de. Thérèse de Quilliane; or, on the convent's threshold; from the French by Frances S. Gray. N. Y., J. Ireland, 1892. c. 8+386 p. D. pap., 50 c.
- Albert Count de Senac, while smarting under the effects of a disappointment in love, believed that his vocation was that of a monk, and accordingly entered a convent. After a short novitiate he confessed the error of these views, and left his religious refuge for Cairo, where he meets Thérèse Quilliane, designed by her aunt to become a nun. The result of this meeting is a romantic love affair, in which Thérèse and Albert are hero and heroine.
- *United States. Supreme ct. Reports, v. 144, Oct. term, 1891. J. C. Bancroft Davis, rep. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1892. c. 23+727 p. O. shp., $2.50.
- Verne, Jules. Topsy-turvy. N. Y., Seaside Pub. Co., 142 and 144 Worth st., [1892.] c. '90. 4-222 p. D. (Rugby lib., no. 7.) pap., 10 c.
- *Verney, Frances Parthenope, comp. Memoirs of the Verney family during the civil war; comp. from the letters and il. by the portraits at Claydon House. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 2 v., 25+362; 15+454 p. 8°, cl., $12.
- Virgil, [Lat. Virgilius.] Maro Publius. Six books of the Æneid; ed. by W. R. Harper and Frank J. Miller. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] 10+461 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
- The text has been made up by a careful comparison of the editions of Conington and other commentators.
- Brambach's decisions as to the best spelling of Latin words have been followed. Material for the literary study of Virgil is supplied by a bibliography, a list of topics for investigation, an account of the Royal House of Troy, rhetorical studies and copious notes on all subjects. The plan gives the student the grammar, notes, and lexicon all in one volume.
- *Virginia. Acts of Assembly, 1891-92. Richmond, Va., J. H. O'Bannon, Supt. Pub. Printing, 1892. 1236 p. 8°, hf. cl., net, $1. (Cor. title.)
- *Visit (A) to Venice. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. col. il. 4°, pap., 40 c.
- *Vogau, Arthur Ja. The black police, [a novel of Australia.] N. Y., Brentano's, 1892. 392 p. 12°, cl., $1.
- *Wallis, Dorothy. Dorothy Wallis: an autobiography; with introd. by Walter Besant. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 12+319 p. 8°, cl., $1.50.
- *Webster's dictionary of quotations: a book of ready reference for all familiar words and phrases in the English language. New ed. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 295 p. 12°, cl., 75 c.
- Weeks, Stephen Beauregard. The religious development in the province of North Carolina. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. 2-68 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, 10th ser., nos. 5, 6.) pap., 50 c.
- The purpose of this paper is twofold. In the first place the writer seeks to show that the earliest settlers in North Carolina were not religious refugees; that they came to the province not from religious, but mainly from economic motives. In the second place he traces the progress of the struggle for an Establishment, and shows that beginning with 1701 the Episcopal Church was for three-quarters of a century the legal church in North Carolina.
- Whitney, Rev. S. W. The revisers' Greek text: a critical examination of certain readings, textual and marginal, in the original Greek of the New Testament adopted by the late Anglo-American revisers. Bost., Silver, Burdett & Co., 1892. c. 2. v., 361; 350 p. D. cl., $5.
- An examination of some of the readings adopted by the late Anglo-American revisers of the New Testament in their Greek text on which their revised English Version is based. The so-called authorities for those readings are cited, so that the English reader of the Revised Version can see and judge for himself what and how much value is to be attached to those readings. The work is the result of over ten years' painstaking labor and research. It has been prepared with special reference to readers of English who are not altogether at home in Greek. Where Greek words are introduced the corresponding English generally accompanies them. The well-made index is the work of Rev. Henry C. Graves, of New Bedford. Rev. S. W. Whitney is pastor of the Baptist Church at Ashfield, Mass.
- *Wisconsin. Supreme ct. Reports of cases, with tables of the cases and principal matters; F. K. Conover, off. rep. V. 80, June 3-Dec. 15, 1891. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1892. c. 48+708 p. O. shp., $2.75.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 23, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XV.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—I.

THE order department of a large retail store is of equal importance with the sales department, and upon the proper management of its manifold details depends to a very considerable extent the successful issue of the business. If it is conducted in a slipshod or erratic way the inevitable result will be a loss of trade not easily won back again; for if there is anything that aggravates a bookbuyer more than disappointment in receiving promptly a book which he has ordered and, possibly, paid for, we do not know of it. Conversely, it is true that the dealer who earns for himself a reputation for promptness and despatch may depend upon the consideration and the steadfast support of his customers. He may have many shortcomings; for the sake of this one virtue they will be overlooked.

The order department of a retail store of any size is a kind of a purgatory, and the position of the chief of it one of infinite worry, application and detail. It calls for a thorough acquaintance with books; a comprehensive knowledge of the trade; executive ability, especially in planning work for his subordinates and managing inferior assistants; a well-trained, equable disposition; self-possession and a cool head in the midst of the greatest confusion; a good memory; quickness of perception—to enable its incumbent to see opportunities and to take advantage of them; and, lastly, a ferret-like, dogged perseverance that will enable him to keep up the chase after the desired book until he has tracked it to its hiding-place, or put himself into possession of undoubted evidence of its non-existence.

Being thus physically and mentally equipped, the next thing for the order clerk to consider is his aids. He must surround himself with the most complete outfit of catalogues he can possibly command. He ought to have a complete set of the "Uniform Trade List Annual" from 1872 to date. We say all, because the earlier years contain many books that have been dropped from the later lists of publishers, and because they also contain many lists of publishers who are no longer in business, or perhaps no longer contribute lists to the "Annual." He should also have complete sets of Roorbach, Kelly, the "American Catalogue" from 1876-90, the English Catalogue published by Sampson Low & Co., Whittaker's Reference List, the various trade and literary journals; in fact, as nearly as possible the whole apparatus, as already described in this series* and brought together in handy shape in "The Bookseller's Library."

He should have all these catalogues bound, and arranged on shelves near his desk. He should keep his current trade papers and others in files and make sure that they are kept strictly up to date. The latter might be kept on slanting shelves so that they may lie flat, and so be handy for reference, saving the trouble of taking them down in handling them. The catalogue most constantly referred to, like the "Uniform Trade List Annual," should be kept on the same shelf; so should also a separately bound copy of the "American Educational Catalogue." It will be found more useful if the latter be interleaved and the added leaves have entered upon them the titles of the new school-books that have been published since the issue of the Educational Catalogue. As the school-book stock of most jobbers is limited to the most important and current text-books, the search after the latest often causes considerable trouble.

The order clerk will also find it a valuable help to keep a large blank-book, indexed throughout, of which he can make an index rerum. In this might be entered by subject, title, author and proper name all the books and odd things that come in his way, and that are not conveniently kept on record elsewhere, such as encyclopædias, dictionaries, subscription-books, odd issues of the regular houses, names of parties who keep out-of-the-way books and specialties, discounts, etc. Such a book will, in the course of years, become a repository of personal information that will render it well-nigh invaluable.

He should also keep several boxes, preferably BB files. One might be labelled "Stock Order Slips," in which are to be kept alphabetically all the order slips sent to the order clerk by the buyer. When the goods come in, the slips may be taken out and the bills compared with them. If correct, let the slips be so marked and filed away in another box labelled "Filled Stock Orders." By following this suggestion the order clerk can keep his regular box clear of all but unfilled orders, and these ready and easy of reference at all times.

The order clerk should also make certain that his firm receives (through him) from every known publishing house its bulletins, circulars and announcements of new and forthcoming books, which ought to be kept as nearly as possible alphabetically in a box, labelled "Announcements." In this box might also be kept newspaper clippings referring to forthcoming books, and such advertisements as appear in special magazines and journals. These should be carefully read before being filed, and referred to and weeded out from time to time, or as often as there may be opportunity for doing so.

A SYNDICATE of publishers has been formed in France with a view to prevent underselling, and has agreed to the following amongst other rules: The publishers bind themselves not to favor any correspondent to the detriment of others, but to allow a uniform discount to all booksellers for orders of the same importance. The publishers require that retail catalogues shall only give the selling prices of books. They undertake to exercise moral pressure on certain retailers and bazaars to prevent an undue reduction of prices. Having taken into consideration the complaints of certain retailers that the discount allowed by some publishers is insufficient, the syndicate has decided, by common accord, to ask retail booksellers to state the minimum of price below which they will provisionally undertake not to descend when affixing prices to books in their catalogues and advertisements until it be possible to return to the selling price. The publishers, on their side, promise to use all means in their power to prevent the cataloguing or selling of their publications at prices lower than those submitted by the booksellers.

NORTHWESTERN BOOKSELLERS' AND NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The first annual convention of the Northwestern Booksellers and Newsdealers' Association was held in the rooms of the Jobbers' Union, Minneapolis, Minn., beginning Tuesday, July 12, 1892. The meeting was called to order by the president, C. E. Musser, at 2:30 P.M. The roll call and the minutes of the last meeting of the Minneapolis branch of the Association were read by Secretary Raymer, who then presented a list of forty-two applications for membership, which were declared approved.

President Musser then addressed the meeting as follows:

"The object of our Association," said he, "is to bring the booksellers, newsdealers, publishers and readers closer together, both in a business and social way. We feel that there is, to some extent, a need of education in some respects among the members of the trade, and we believe we can acquire that education by the intercourse which grows out of this Association. While it may not be altogether desirable or necessary to explain the intricacies of our individual business methods, as each man has to some extent his own methods, still there are many general points upon which we can all agree, and there are many things we can accomplish for the good of all of us by attending these meetings. There are many points which are of mutual interest to us all, as for instance, the matter of cutting prices. Again, we can obtain much information of the methods of the different publishing houses represented here, and can see the publications they put out, learning much about the natural differences which exist in their prices, on account of quality, etc. The points named are some of the reasons for which this Association has been organized, as well as to come to the basis of selling publications at uniform prices."

President Musser then offered his report as chairman of the the Committee on Constitution and By-laws, and the proposed constitution was discussed. Mr. McNie offered an amendment to the by-laws, that five members instead of ten should constitute a quorum; it was adopted. Mr. Ackermann, of Chicago, objected to article 2 of the constitution, which stated that it was the object of the Association "to present an unbroken front to publishers and manufacturers." He thought this ought to be changed, as the Association should not endeavor to present an unbroken front to manufacturers and publishers, but rather try to work with them for the mutual welfare of both the manufacturers and retailers; "there must be no opposition between the two, if it can possibly be avoided." He was therefore of opinion that the article should be so amended as to omit that clause. After a brief discussion it was decided that the sentence following the word "good" in the obnoxious clause should be omitted, and on motion of Mr. McNie article 10 of the constitution was changed to read: "That this constitution shall not be amended except by the vote of two-thirds of the members present." The constitution and by-laws were then adopted as amended.

After the reading of the treasurer's report, Mr. Ackermann suggested that a programme of the next day's session be prepared and copies mailed to the booksellers, publishers and salesmen then in Minneapolis, as well as to the booksellers of Minneapolis, St. Paul and neighboring cities, stating when and where the meetings of the Association were to be held and the subjects which would be discussed.

President Musser approved of the suggestion, and on motion of Mr. McNie the president, secretary and Mr. Ackermann were appointed as a committee to take charge of the matter, making out the programme for the next day's session, and superintending all other necessary arrangements, such as notifying the newsdealers and others interested, both in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and sending the programmes to the newspapers for insertion. On motion of Mr. Sayre, the Association adjourned to meet Wednesday, July 13, at 10 A.M.

[Owing to a delay in the mail, the concluding portion of this report must be deferred until our next issue.—Ed. P. W.]

BIBLIOTHECA SPENCERIANA.

THE announcement of the proposed sale of the library of the Earl of Spencer has naturally awakened considerable interest among the book-collectors of this country, and many have been the speculations as to how a part or the whole of this "pearl among pearls" might be secured for America. Seemingly undaunted by the price asked for the collection en bloc, £300,000, an enterprising firm of booksellers propose the following plan:

"For a certain number of book-collectors to guarantee the money necessary for its purchase.

"The books to be brought to New York and put up for auction either among the members of the syndicate or to the public. . . . Profits divided pro rata."

The ingenious projectors of this scheme feel confident that if the books were put up for auction to the public a good cash profit could be made. Already a considerable sum of money has been guaranteed, and there seems to be reasonable hope that the whole amount asked for will be secured before the offer is withdrawn.

In reply to several inquiries, we can only briefly state that the library in question was collected for the most part by John Earl Spencer. It contains fifty thousand volumes, most of which have been extensively and most interestingly described in Dibdin's "Bibliotheca Spenceriana," his "Ædes Althorpiana," and in the "Cassano Catalogue." Referring to these, we content ourselves with calling attention to some of the chief items to which the library owes its glory.

Taking Dibdin's order, we come first to the block books. Several in number, they include what is probably the earliest edition of the "Biblia Pauperum," two or three editions of the celebrated "Ars Morlendi," and other rare and interesting volumes. Among the other curiosities of the early press are two Papal Indulgences, printed 1450-1455. Following these comes a noble copy of the noblest of books—the Gutenberg Bible. A collector was found in this country willing to pay $14,800 for an imperfect copy. Then to be mentioned is the rarer edition of the Bible, which Dibdin thinks was printed by Albert Pfister before 1460, and which may have been commenced, if not printed, before the Gutenberg Bible itself. But five copies are known. The other Bibles—including the 1535 Coverdale—are, while too numerous to specify—all of great value and interest.

The excitement raised by a London bookseller in paying £4950 for the Mentz Psalter of 1459 is well remembered. In Lord Spencer's collection is a splendid copy accompanied by the first and rarer issue of 1457. The former is a magnificent specimen—on vellum. Many rare Psalters follow, with Missals, Books of Hours, Works of the Fathers and Theology—nearly all monuments of early printing in the finest possible condition. The section devoted to classics is distinguished for its richness. From Æsop to Virgil we have every first edition in matchless state. Here it is hardly possible to distinguish one great book from another—here is the "Boethius" printed by Collard Manson at Bruges in 1477, the "Cicero" of 1465, printed at Mentz by Faust & Schöffer, and on vellum, the unique "Horace" of 1474, printed by Arnoldus de Bruxelles at Naples, and literally hundreds of others. The "Philobiblion" is represented, and, of course, by the first edition.

The section of grammars and lexicons would itself form a library of no mean proportion, and includes everything of interest from the fifteenth century presses. Among these books is the Latin German Lexicon of 1469, of which a copy was sold in New York for $2500. Among other rarities is a beautiful copy of the "Catholicon" of Balbus. This alone is said to be worth $3000. The greatest wonder, however, is excited when we come to the productions of the early printers in England. In all there are ninety-nine books known to have issued from Caxton Press. No collection in the world has all of these books. This collection excels in their possession. It contains more than the British Museum itself—comprising no less than eighty books printed by England's first printer, William Caxton.

More interesting even than these, if that be possible, is the series of works issued by the mysterious and unknown printer of St. Albans. Here is a perfect copy of the "Book of St. Albans" itself, and of the "Book of Hawking and Hunting," by the no less mysterious Dame Juliana Berners, one of the most interesting books ever printed in England. Here also is found "The Rhetorica Nova of 1480"—the first book printed at St. Albans, and in beautiful condition. Scarcely less important is the "Chronicles of England" from the same press.

There was an early press at Oxford, examples of which are so rare as to cause the wealthiest and most courageous book-collector to despair. The Bibliotheca Spenceriana is rich in them. It contains the famous "St. Hieronymus," dated 1468, around which has risen such a storm of controversy, besides the other rare and valuable issues from this, one of the earliest presses set up in England.

The large series of books printed by Lettou, Machlinia, Wynkyn de Worde, Pynson and other English printers is of immense value. There are thousands of other books worthy of mention—the Speculum Humanæ Salvationis, of 1475, the first edition of Aretino's "Florence"; in fact, a whole storehouse of riches—we must refer you to Dibdin. And we have not mentioned the Valdarfer Boccacio, the bidding for which occasioned such excitement during the sale of the Roxburghe library. The Marquess of Blandford was the successful bidder then, paying the fabulous sum of £2260. The Earl of Spencer obtained it later—at a considerably less price, however, owing to the fact that other copies turned up.

* [Since the above was written, and as we go to press, we learn that Sotheby has for the present withdrawn the offer. It is rumored that the German Government is making strenuous efforts to obtain the library.—Ed. P. W.]

THE NEW AGENT OF THE WESTERN BOOK CONCERN.

REV. LEWIS CURTS, D.D.

THE Rev. Dr. William P. Stowe, who for twelve years has been connected with the Western Methodist Book Concern at Cincinnati as publishing agent, was not re-elected to his office this year, and is likely to re-enter active service as a pastor. Under his management the Book Concern enjoyed wonderful prosperity. During these twelve years it has paid a debt of more than $500,000, and advanced in net capital from $330,000 to $1,130,000. It now joins the Eastern Concern in giving a yearly dividend of $125,000 for the benefit of the aged ministers of the church and their dependent families. Dr. Stowe has been honored by his Conference selecting him a delegate to five General Conferences. He has served as a member of the book committee of the church, and for many years as trustee of Lawrence University. He has filled other places of honor in the church. He will now probably return to Wisconsin, in which State he held several pastorates before going to Chicago.

His successor, Rev. Lewis Curts, D.D., is the son of a clergyman, his father being a preacher among the United Brethren in Christ. He was born in Hocking County, Ohio, and moved to Henry County, Ohio, when he was six months old. From that time on, until sixteen years of age, he "grew up" in the woods along the Maumee River. He moved to Lisbon, Ia., in 1863. He enlisted when about eighteen years old as a private in Company F, Twenty-fourth Iowa Volunteers, and served until the close of the war. After his return from the army he attended Cornell College, Iowa, graduating in 1869. In the winter of 1869-70 he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Colfax, Ia., and was by that church proposed for the ministry. He visited Illinois, and was at once appointed by Rev. J. H. Moore, Presiding Elder, as a supply at Lodi, Rock River Conference. He joined that Conference in October, 1870, and has been a useful and prominent member thereof. At the time of his appointment he filled the office of Presiding Elder of the North Chicago District.

COPYRIGHT IN APPLETONS' CYCLOPEDIA OF AMERICAN BIOGRAPHY SUSTAINED.

D. APPLETON & Co. have recently been successful in sustaining their copyright in their "Cyclopædia of American Biography," and in maintaining their exclusive right to the use of all the matter contained in that work, including the cuts and portraits as well as the text.

Some time ago the R. S. Peale Company, of Chicago, published and put upon the market a work which they entitled "American Revisions and Additions to the Encyclopædia Britannica." This work was in three volumes. Shortly after the first volume had been offered for sale, it came to the attention of D. Appleton & Co. that the R. S. Peale Company had inserted in its publication a number of cuts or portraits and a large number of extracts copied from the Appleton Cyclopædia. The Appletons at once employed counsel, and a careful examination was made of the R. S. Peale Company Revisions and Additions to see whether the Appleton copyright had been infringed upon, and if so, to what extent. A careful comparison of the Appleton Cyclopædia and the Peale publication disclosed the fact that the Peale Company had copied various cuts and articles from the Appleton Cyclopædia.

The R. S. Peale Company was at once notified that it had infringed upon the Appleton copyright, and was requested to stop the further printing and sale of its infringing publication, to suppress the copied matter, and to make suitable reparation to D. Appleton & Co. for its past invasion of the latter's copyright. Preparations were made to begin suit against the R. S. Peale Company in case it should not comply with the request of the Appletons.

In answer to this notification Mr. R. S. Peale and his counsel came to New York at once, and a conference was had between the parties, as a result of which the full demands of the Appletons were acceded to by the Peale Company and their rights fully acknowledged. The Peale Company agreed to suppress the piratical matter contained in its publication, and, in addition, paid D. Appleton & Co. all the expenses which they had already incurred in preparation for a suit, and a considerable sum besides in liquidation of damages for past infringement.

The settlement was highly satisfactory to Messrs. Appleton & Co., and it is a matter of general gratification to publishers to know that their copyright has been respected and enforced. The R. S. Peale Company, when it was fully apprised of the situation in which it was placed, came forward promptly and changed its publication, and paid all the claims in full.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MRS. ROSE TERRY COOKE, one of the best-known women writers of New England, died on the 18th inst. at her home in Pittsfield, Mass., after a short illness. She was a member of the well-known Terry family of Connecticut, and was born in Wethersfield, Conn., February 17, 1827. In 1873 she was married to Rollin H. Cooke, a banker of Winsted, Conn., in which town they lived until five years ago, when they removed to Pittsfield, Mass. Mrs. Cooke's first magazine work was done for Putnam's Magazine, before she was twenty years old, and she soon became well known to readers of the Atlantic, Harper's and the old Scribner's Monthly as a contributor of short stories, humorous and dramatic, illustrative of New England country life. She wrote only two long stories, "Happy Dodd," published in 1879, and "Steadfast," a novel of colonial times in New England, issued in 1889, and by many considered her best work. Nearly all her other books are collections of the short tales which have made her famous as an exponent of New England life and sentiment. Of these the best known are "Somebody's Neighbors," published in 1881; "The Sphinx's Children," in 1886; "The Deacon's Week" and "Root Bound," 1885; and "Huckleberries Gathered on New England Hills," her latest work, published in October, 1891. She also wrote several volumes of verse, the first being published in 1860, and in 1886 produced "No! a Story for Boys."

We regret to hear of the death, on the 10th inst., of Marshall W. Waitt, of the firm of M. W. Waitt & Co., booksellers, Victoria, B. C. Mr. Waitt has been long known by reputation to many in this country as the soul of honor in all his transactions.

THOMAS COOK, the founder of the famous "Cook's Tours," who died on the 19th inst., aged eighty-four, was in his youth apprenticed to Joseph Weeks, a Loughborough printer and publisher of Baptist books. In the forties he established the Children's Temperance Magazine, the first of its kind in England.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MARION CRAWFORD'S new novel is to bear the title of "Laura Arden."

LAURENCE HUTTON is preparing for Harper & Brothers a volume of essays on books.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON has nearly completed a novel, entitled "The Pearl Fisher."

MISS WINNIE DAVIS is at work on a book of personal recollections of her father—Jefferson Davis.

PROF. W. M. RAMSAY, of Aberdeen, is preparing a work on "The Early Church in the Roman Empire."

JAMES G. BLAINE is said to be at work on a "Handbook to Politics," projected more than three years ago.

FRANÇOIS COPPÉE has sent to his publisher, M. Lemerre, the manuscript of a new work, entitled "Les Vrais Riches."

CLARK RUSSELL has just finished what is considered by many critics to be the best novel he has yet written. It is entitled "The Convict Ship."

"BETSY," a capital story recently published by Osgood & McIlvaine, is now acknowledged to be by Miss Valentine Munro-Ferguson, of Novar.

J. M. BARRIE is now engaged on two more books—one about Tammas Haggart, who is his favorite among his creations, and one a story of London life.

THE report that Mr. Whittier is to write an ode for the World's Fair is now denied on authority. He says that his health will not permit of any literary engagement.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE, New York, at its recent commencement, conferred the degree of Doctor of Letters upon Mr. Edmund Clarence Stedman, who is, we believe, not a graduate of any university.

SIDNEY DILLON wrote a paper for Scribner's Historic Moment Series, and made his final revision of it only a few weeks before his death. It describes the "Driving of the Last Spike of the Union Pacific."

BRET HARTE has just concluded a new story, entitled "Susy." Admirers of his "Waif of the Plains" will find the new story an account of the further doings of that most interesting creation, "Clarence."

WE regret to hear of the serious illness of Mr. George William Curtis. We trust that the gloomy rumors concerning his condition may prove premature and erroneous, and that the genial incumbent of the "Easy-Chair" may be spared many years more to instruct and delight his vast circle of readers.

UNDER an appropriation recently made by the General Assembly of Ohio, the Archæological and Historical Society of that State has selected

Mrs. Madeline Vinton Dahlgren as the author of the larger portion of the book covered by the appropriation. The volume will treat of "The Boundary Question," and Mrs. Dahlgren's work will consist of editing the famous argument of the Hon. Samuel F. Vinton, her father, as well as a life of the author of the historic address.

IT is not generally known, says The Bookman, that Mr. Haskett Smith, the author of "For God and Humanity," is the first English tax-gatherer or publican in Palestine. He was Laurence Oliphant's great helper in his work amongst the Druses on Mount Carmel, and is now his successor there. In his work he was greatly hindered by the tax-gatherers, who ground down the people till they were in a state of semi-starvation. Mr. Haskett Smith therefore bought the post of tax-gatherer—it is put up to auction by the Government—and has thus been able to improve materially the condition of the Druses. He has written some valuable articles in Blackwood to prove that these Druses are none other than the founders of freemasonry.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. REINHARD VOLKMANN is the agent in this country of the German Börsenverein, and accredited to make arrangements for the works of German authors under the new copyright law. His office is in the store of Breitkopf & Härtel, 15 East 17th Street, New York.

H. GRANFIELD, who has been for nearly five years manager of the subscription and miscellaneous book departments of Charles L. Webster & Co., will organize and take charge of a new subscription-book department for Dodd, Mead & Co.

MR. WARREN SNYDER, buyer for Wanamaker's book department, will be absent from Philadelphia during the month of August. Intending visitors will please make note of the fact.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

GROUP 150 in the Department of Liberal Arts, to which book exhibits will be assigned at the Columbian Exposition, is divided into eleven classes as follows: Class 854, books and literature with special examples of typography, paper and binding. General works—philosophy, religion, sociology, philology, natural sciences, useful arts, fine arts, literature, history and geography; cyclopædias, magazines and newspapers; bindings and specimens of typography. Class 855, school-books; class 856, technical industrial journals; class 857, illustrated papers; class 858, newspapers and statistics of their multiplication, growth and circulation; class 859, journalism, statistics of: with illustrations of methods, organization and results; class 860, trade catalogues and price lists; class 861, library apparatus: systems of cataloguing and appliances of placing and delivering books; class 862, directories of cities and towns; class 863, publications by governments; and class 864, topographical maps, marine and coast charts, geological maps and sections; botanical, agronomical, and other maps, showing the extent and distribution of men, animals and terrestrial products; physical maps; meteorological maps and bulletins; telegraphic routes and stations; railway and route maps; terrestrial and celestial globes, relief maps and models of portions of the earth's surface, profiles of ocean beds and routes of submarine cables.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

A THREE-QUARTERS portrait of the late James R. Osgood leads the series of plates in the July Sun and Shade (N. Y. Photo-Gravure Co.).

HARPER & BROTHERS have at last decided to place their periodicals in limited numbers, "on sale," with the privilege to the dealers of returning unsold copies.

The British Bookmaker for June 30 contains an interesting sketch of the master bookbinder, William Matthews, illustrated with a portrait and two fine reproductions of the "Alhambra," bound by Matthews for the Exhibition of 1853, showing the outer and inside design of the cover.

FREDERIC REMINGTON, the artist, who with Poultney Bigelow was recently expelled from Russia, has returned to New York. The experiences of these two gentlemen in Germany and Western Russia will be narrated in a series of illustrated articles in Harper's Magazine, under whose auspices their expedition was originally undertaken.

The Fortnightly Review for July contains under the title of "Some Recent Novels" an excellent unconventional review of Hall Caine's "The Little Manx Nation," and "The Deemster," Barrie's "Little Minister," and Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." The same issue contains a well-considered essay on Guy de Maupassant, by Edward Leilke.

In order to stimulate American composition, The Ladies' Home Journal has just made public a series of liberal prizes for the best original musical composition by composers resident in the United States and Canada. The prizes call for a waltz, a piano composition, a pleasing ballad and a popular song, an anthem and the four best hymn tunes. The competition is open until November 1 next. The opportunity has an additional attractiveness since the prize compositions will form part of a series for which Strauss is writing an original waltz, and Charles Gounod and Sir Arthur Sullivan each an original song.

THE London Athenaeum for July 2 contains its review of continental literature for the year ending June, 1892. It is as comprehensive and as accurate as usual. At the very outset one change is noted: "This is the first time for twenty-two years that the signature of Emile de Laveleye is not to be found at the foot of The Athenaeum's annual survey of French and Flemish literature in Belgium." This long term of service was terminated only by death, and his place is taken by Paul Fredericq. The other contributors to this series of articles are: V. Tille, Bohemia; Joseph Reinach, France; Robert Zimmermann, Germany; Spyrr, P. Lambros, Greece; Taco H. de Beer, Holland; Leopold Katscher, Hungary; Ruggero Bonghi and Giovanni Zannoni, Italy; Henrik Jæger, Norway; Adam Belcikowski, Poland; Paul Milyounkoff, Russia; Juan F. Riaño, Spain, and Hugo Tigrschöld, Sweden.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATCHISON, KAN.—A bookstore has been opened in the school-building here.

BOSTON, MASS.—We are pleased to learn that the bookstore of the late T. O. H. P. Burnham, under the Old South, which has been so long a unique feature of the trade in Boston, is not to be given up on account of the proprietor's death

After his death the administrators of his estate called for sealed bids from all persons desirous of purchasing the collection, and it is now learned that the successful bidders are three former employees of Mr. Burnham—R. C. Lichtenstein, who was with him for twenty-five years, William H. Greenleaf, who was in his employ for thirty-one years, and Henry F. Dodge, who was with him for nearly ten years. There are said to be 250,000 volumes left by Mr. Burnham, 90,000 being in the present place of business under the Old South and the remainder divided between Mr. Burnham's house on Beacon Street and a store-room on High Street. There are also 125,000 magazines and pamphlets, the whole making one of the largest collections in this section. There are many volumes of early Americana and as many as 50,000 odd volumes, the placing of which upon the market will offer an unusual opportunity for completing broken sets. One of the treasures of the collection is an original copy of the Bay Psalm-Book. It is the purpose of the new proprietors to give renewed youth to the establishment, and make it a Boston institution for the future as well as the past.

BOSTON, MASS.—Mr. William E. Pulsifer, who was for five years with Ginn & Co., and who has so successfully managed their New York office for the past two years, has become a member of their firm.

CHAMBERSBURG, PA.—The bookbindery of the late J. N. Snider has been sold to J. Milford Gordon, a practical bookbinder and ruler, who will continue the business at the same place.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—The Eclectic Publishing Company has been organized, with W. W. Hooper, President; N. C. Steele, Vice-President; and T. P. Jarnagin, Secretary and Treasurer.

CHELSEA, MASS.—Geo. W. Spencer has bought out the bookstore of J. M. Linscott.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The George W. Ogilvie Company, publishers, has been granted a certificate of incorporation. The capital stock named is $50,000, and the incorporators are George W. Ogilvie, Nathan Corwith and Lewis W. Parker.

DULUTH, MINN.—W. S. Albertson succeeds Albertson & Chamberlain, booksellers.

FORT WORTH, TEX.—J. S. Carruthers has sold his stock of books, stationery and notions to a Llano firm, who will ship the goods to that city.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.—John Woods has bought a half interest in the book and stationery business of Louis D. Cooper, and the style of the firm is now Cooper & Woods.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Charles D. Whitall & Co., booksellers and stationers, have been incorporated as the C. D. Whitall Company. The capital is $25,000. The store which the firm occupies at 125 Nicollet Avenue has been recently renovated throughout.

NEW BRITAIN, CONN.—J. H. Miner, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

NEWBURG, N. Y.—A. Stanley Wood has purchased the interest of his partner, Capt. J. M. Hickey, and will hereafter conduct the book and stationery business formerly run by the firm. Capt. Hickey will hereafter devote his time to the care of his real estate interests.

NEW YORK CITY.—Bromfield & Co. have removed their offices to 77 Bible House, where Mr. J. E. Jewett will act as the general agent for the sale of their books. The senior partner, Rev. E.

T. Bromfield, D.D., has retired from the firm to re-enter the ministry.

NEW YORK CITY.—James H. Wood, publisher, bookseller and importer, formerly of 10 East 14th Street, has moved to 176 Sixth Avenue, between 12th and 13th Streets. He will make a specialty of scientific books, and is agent for Lukins' "Turning Lathes, and Screws and Screw-Making."

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Scrantom, Wetmore & Co. (established in 1868) have just removed from the Ellwanger & Barry Building to their new store in the Powers Block, at 21-23 State Street and 20 West Main Street. The new store, including the basement, provides nearly 15,000 square feet of floor. The two entrances, one in 23 State Street and the other in West Main Street, make the new store very convenient and accessible. The entrance on State Street is very impressive in appearance. The woodwork is of fine mahogany and the pillars and plate are of polished brass; the vestibule floor being of Mosaic marble. The interior of the store is finished in natural woods and the arrangement of the stock is not only convenient but greatly tends to brighten the general effect. Of course the book department is a most extensive and complete one. It is divided into many subdivisions, every branch of literature being assigned a special position. This department is under the general charge of E. W. Scrantom and A. C. Walker. The fine stationery and engraving department is an interesting one, and its interests are looked after by Mr. Edward H. Walker and others. The commercial stationery department, constituting an extensive store in itself, is in the charge of F. B. Allen, assisted by Harry Tompkins and George A. Newman. The department devoted to leather and fancy goods is looked after by Mr. Henry B. Gould, and includes a large display of fine pocket cutlery of the finest makes. Occupying a prominent position is the department assigned to athletic goods, summer sports, etc., with Martin B. Gilmore in charge. The wholesale department occupies the basement together with a large space on the main floor. This branch of the firm's business has grown to immense proportions, and it has contributed, in no small degree, to the success and prosperity enjoyed by the firm. L. G. Wetmore manages this department, assisted by Charles P. Wilkin. The road representatives of this department are Messrs. Charles Perry and V. I. Wood.

SHREVEPORT, LA.—The stock of H. P. Hyam, bookseller, has been sold.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—The firm of S. B. Fisher & Co. was dissolved July 6, S. B. Fisher buying V. Pervost's interest. S. B. Fisher will continue under his own name at 143 State Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

The eighteenth annual edition of Lockwood's Directory of the Paper and Stationery Trades, 1892-3, is now ready.

THE BANCROFT-WHITNEY Co. have just ready vol. 3 of the "Washington Reports," and vol. 93 of the "California Reports."

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, New York, has become the sole New York agent for the publications of the Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and is now prepared to fill all orders at the same rate as though ordered direct.

THE ARENA COMPANY, Boston, have in preparation

"The Rise of the Swiss Republic," by William D. McCrackan; also, "Sultan to Sultan: my adventures among the Masai and other native tribes of East Africa," by Mrs. French-Sheldon.

THE WORTHINGTON Co. will publish in their International Library "The Heiress," by Henri Greville, translated by Emma C. Hewitt and Julien Colmar, and in the Fair Library Ossip Schublin's story, "The Hand of Destiny," translated by Mary A. Robinson.

M. J. SABIN has now in type parts cxv to cxvi of Sabin's "A Dictionary of Books Relating to America." The work, as unfortunately all undertakings of this kind are doomed to be, has not yet reached the stage at which it is self-supporting—hence the long intervals of publication.

THE report of Postmaster Van Cott, of the New York Post-Office, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1892, shows that the total receipts of the office were $6,783,201.99, and total expenditures $2,568,699.82 (including $1,151,126.82 for free delivery service), giving a net revenue of $4,214,502.17, and an increase of $396,681.75 over the previous year's receipts.

Two theological books of importance will be issued this week by Thos. Whittaker. Canon Cheyne's "Aids to the Devout Study of Criticism," and a volume of sermons by the late Henry Allon, the famous Islington preacher, entitled "The Indwelling Christ." A melancholy interest attaches to the last book, the author having died a few days after the proofs were finished.

ANDREW GEYER has in preparation "Geyer's Directory of the Wood Pulp and Fibre Mills of the United States" for 1892. This directory, as its name implies, will contain a list of all the wood pulp and fibre mills in the country, with their equipment, capacity, officers, and much additional information as to location, railroad, telegraph and banking facilities, etc.

DUPRAT & Co. will publish in the fall "Romeo and Juliet," with illustrations by Jacques Wagrez and a preface by Richard Henry Stoddard. The edition is limited, and similar in size and type to the "Antony and Cleopatra" that was illustrated by Paul Avril, with a preface by W. J. Rolfe, and published by the same firm. Duprat & Co. sold before it was printed the whole edition of W. L. Andrews' "Jean Grolier."

By an oversight our printer in the issue of the WEEKLY for July 2 placed a dividing rule between two advertisements on page 18, so that J. H. Vail & Co.'s announcement was left without an address, and John M. Scudder made to appear as though he had removed to 135 Eighth Street, N. Y. Our readers will please remember that Mr. Scudder's address is still 228 West Court Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, and that Vail & Co. are at 135 Eighth Street, N. Y.

THE week in Chicago from July 4 to 11, according to all accounts, was the most remarkable and successful for many years for the representatives of the publishing houses of this country. With but few exceptions (and these were reported to be on their way) every house was represented, and did a much better business than in any previous year. One who was present said it reminded him more of the annual book fair at Leipzig than anything he has yet seen in this country.

KEPPLER & SCHWARTZMANN, the publishers of

Puck, announce that they will issue a limited edition (to be sold by subscription only) of "Cartoons from Puck," by Joseph Keppler, "being a choice selection of the most noteworthy of Mr. Keppler's cartoons that have appeared in Puck from 1877 to 1892." Mr. H. C. Bunner will provide explanatory and historical notes. They will also issue Bunner's humorous story, "The Runaway Browns," now appearing weekly in Puck, as soon as it is concluded in that publication.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in preparation, under the general editorship of Mr. J. W. Clark, University Registrar at Cambridge, and Mr. S. F. Harmer, Superintendent of the Museum of Zoölogy, a series of eight volumes upon the natural history of vertebrate and invertebrate animals, which, as being edited and written almost entirely by Cambridge men, will bear the title of The Cambridge Natural History. An attempt will be made to combine popular treatment and popular language with the most modern results of scientific research.

A. P. T. ELDER, of Chicago, was lately sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment at Joliet and to pay a fine of $500. The charge upon which he was convicted was that of carrying on a fraudulent publishing business under the name of the Elder Company. This is the man who several years ago started a monthly magazine called the Literary Life, and who induced Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland to become its editor. After a few numbers were published she discovered the true character of the man and refused to be further connected with it.

GINN & Co. will publish August 1 "A German Grammar for High Schools and Colleges," by George Hempl, Ph.D., assistant professor in Michigan University, and formerly instructor in German in the Johns Hopkins University. They announce a condensed edition of Hugo's "Les Misérables," prepared by Prof. F. C. De Sumichrast. This follows the same plan as Prof. De Sumichrast's edition of "Les Trois Mousquetaires;" the best parts will be given intact, and the place of the others supplied by a concise summary, in French, of each omitted chapter.

It will be recalled that at the time of the sale of the earliest printed copy of Poe's "Tamerlane" no one seemed to know anything about the printer, Calvin Thomas, of Boston. Mr. C. F. Libbie, the auctioneer, has, however, recently received a letter from A. H. Coit, of St. Louis, in which the writer says: "I knew Calvin F. S. Thomas, the printer. He came to Buffalo about 1836. He was a great musical man, and was a publisher; and in the stationery and paper business. During the war—1861 to 1865—he had Government contracts for wrapping-twine."

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have several novels in preparation for early publication. These are: "Sarchedon," by the late Geo. J. Whyte Melville, an Assyrian romance of the time of Semiramis; "Vae Victis," a novel dealing with the last days of Moorish rule in Spain, translated from the German of Paul Berkow; Paul Lindau's "Mr. and Mrs. Bewer," a story of modern life, translated from the German; and "Squaw Elouise," the story of an Indian girl, in which Marah Ellis Ryan tells of Indian life on the Columbia River and relates the adventures of two ladies in a British Columbia mining camp.

H. J. SMITH & Co., 234 S. 8th Street, Philadelphia, will publish early in August a new work, entitled "The Quest of Columbus," a memorial heroic poem in twelve books, by the Rev. Henry Illowizi, of Philadelphia. According to the author "'The Quest of Columbus' is intended to portray the almost superhuman endeavors of the world's greatest discoverer to realize his lofty goal, and his final triumph over well-nigh insurmountable difficulties. Interwoven with this forever memorable 'Quest' of 1492, are the other two remarkable events of the same year, which concern the three great creeds, the siege and the fall of Granada, and the expulsion of the Jews from Spain."

THE CENTURY Co. announce for fall publication several volumes which will be warmly welcomed by lovers of good fiction. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's "Characteristics," which has made many friends during its course as a Century serial, and "The Chatelaine of La Trinité," Henry B. Fuller's charming story of Italian life, will be issued in October. In the same month a new volume of short stories by Mrs. Burton Harrison, entitled "Crow's Nest and Belhaven Tales," and a collection of Viola Roseboro's capital stories, to be called "Old Ways and New," will be forthcoming. A new five-volume edition of Frank Stockton's works is also announced. The autumn juveniles are: "Tom Paulding," by Brander Matthews, a boy's book, telling of a search for buried treasure in the streets of New York; "The Admiral's Caravan," by Charles E. Carryl, a delightful book of the "Alice in Wonderland" order; "A Book of Cheerful Cats and Other Animated Animals," a collection of J. G. Francis' amusing "cat pictures;" "Strange Corners of Our Country," in which Charles F. Lummis tells of some of the wonders of New Mexico, Arizona and other Western States; a new edition of "St. Nicholas Songs," and the bound volumes of St. Nicholas for 1892. Other publications will be: "Old Italian Masters," engravings by Timothy Cole, with letterpress by W. J. Stillman, the whole forming a gallery of the masterpieces of Italian art; "English Cathedrals," by Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer, illustrated by Joseph Pennell; "Play in Provence," in which Joseph and Elizabeth Pennell tell of their life in Provence, illustrated with clever sketches by Mr. Pennell; "Christian Science, Faith-Healing and Kindred Phenomena," a thoughtful presentation of this vexed subject by Rev. J. M. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate; "The Love of the World," religious meditations by Mary Emily Case; "Love in the Calendar," poems by Robert Underwood Johnson; and "Cheap Money Experiments in Past and Present Times," a collection of the admirable papers first published in The Century.

THE fourteenth congress of the International Literary and Artistic Association will begin at Milan on the 17th of September next. One of the chief subjects for discussion will be the changes that may be necessary in the Convention of Berne in view of a diplomatic conference on the subject which is to be held in Paris next year.

THE LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL have passed the plans of the forthcoming Papermakers, Printers, Stationers and Allied Traders' Exhibition and Market, to be held at the Royal Agricultural Hall, London, N., September 20 to October 1. It is anticipated that the forthcoming show will be fully representative of the vast interests concerned. Arrangements have been made for a fine exhibit of Christmas cards, etc.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

A NEW AND TIMELY HANDBOOK.A B C of the Swedish System of Educational Gymnastics.By HARTVIG NISSEN,

Instructor of Physical Training in the Public Schools of Boston, Mass.; Instructor of Swedish and German Gymnastics at Harvard University's Summer School, 1891.; Author of "A Manual on Swedish Movement and Massage Treatment," etc.

A Practical Handbook for School-Teachers and the Home.This handy volume is everywhere spoken of as the best book on the subject now in the market. All dealers near schools where Physical Training is given should have it in stock.*

The fullest instructions and commands are given for each exercise, and seventy-seven excellent engravings illustrate them and add greatly to the practical value of the book. Small 12mo, 143 pages, extra flexible cloth, 75 cents, net.

*A BOOK OF SURPASSING INTEREST ISTHE CHINESE:*Their Present and Future; Medical Political and Social.By ROBERT COLTMAN, Jr., M.D., Surgeon in Charge of the Presbyterian Hospital and Dispensary at Teng Chow Fu.

The author has spent many years among the Chinese; lived with them in their dwellings; thoroughly learned the language; has become conversant with all their strange and odd characteristics to a greater extent than almost any other American. The simple, direct, straight-forward style in which Dr. Coltmán has written this book makes it entertaining and fascinating as well as profitable reading throughout.

The book is beautifully printed in large, clear type, and is illustrated with fifteen fine engravings from photographs of persons, places and objects characteristic of China. In one handsome royal octavo volume of 212 pages, appropriately bound in extra cloth, with Chinese side stamp, $1.75, net.

THE DAUGHTER:*Her Health, Education and Wedlock.HOMELY SUGGESTIONS TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS CONCERNING CHILDHOOD, MAIDENHOOD, WIFEHOOD AND MOTHERHOOD.*By WILLIAM M. CAPP, M.D., Philadelphia.

This valuable little volume belongs to a most important class of books, and it is everywhere recognized as one of the very best. Beautifully printed, large, clear type, 12mo, 150 pages, handsomely bound in extra cloth, $1.00, net.

"A clear, practical and wholesome volume of hygienic suggestions, without prudery on the one hand, and without technical or unnecessary professional minuteness on the other. The author's purpose is high, and his achievement helpful."—The Sunday-School Times.

CONSUMPTION!*How to Prevent It and How to Live with It.ITS NATURE, CAUSES, PREVENTION, AND THE MODE OF LIFE, CLIMATE, EXERCISE, FOOD AND CLOTHING, NECESSARY FOR ITS CURE.*By N. S. DAVIS, Jr., A.M., M.D.,

Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine in Chicago Medical College, etc., etc.

A plain, practical treatise, thoroughly readable and scientifically accurate. 12mo, 143 pages, extra cloth, 75 cents, net.

THE ST. LOUIS WEEKLY MEDICAL REVIEW says: "He is very thorough in his discussion of the subject, and the practical hints which he gives are of real worth and value. His directions are given in such a manner as to make life enjoyable to a consumptive patient and not a burden, as is too frequently the case."

MEMORIAL HISTORY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

The Most Elaborate Work Ever Prepared on an American City.

To be completed in four royal octavo volumes of about 600 pages each and illustrated with not less than 1000 portraits, views of historic houses, scenes, statues, tombs, monuments, maps, and fac-similes of autographs and ancient documents.

The work will be printed by the De Vinne Press, which is equivalent to saying that so far as presswork, illustrations and general manufacture are concerned it will be unsurpassed by any publication ever issued in New York.

The entire work will be edited by Gen. JAMES GRANT WILSON, with the co-operation of the following well-known and scholarly writers, all of whom will contribute one or more chapters:

Hon. John Bigelow.
Mr. Moncure D. Conway.
Hon. Charles P. Daly.
Gen. Emmons Clark.
Rev. B. F. De Oosta, D.D.
Rev. Morgan Dix, S.T.D.
Dr. Theodore W. Dwight.
Mr. Berthold Fernow.
Mr. Robert Ludlow Fowler.
Hon. James W. Gerard.
Mr. Andrew H. Green.

Mr. Ohas. R. Hildeburn.
The Rev. Dean Hoffman, D.D.
Gen. O. O. Howard, U.S.A.
Hon. John Jay.
Prof. Henry P. Johnston.
Prof. Eugene Lawrence.
Hon. Seth Low.
Capt. A. T. Mahan, U.S.N.

Gen. Alexander S. Webb.

PRESS ENDORSEMENTS.

"The first volume of the 'Memorial History of New York,' edited by Gen. James Grant Wilson, aided by a large corps of distinguished writers, fully justifies the claim that it is to be an exhaustive work, and in all respects worthy the importance of its subject. No pains or expense have been spared in the preparation of this book. It is printed on heavy laid paper in large type and is illustrated with fine steel full-page engravings, hundreds of wood-cuts in the text, and a large number of fac-similes, maps and plans. Many of these fac-similes, and many also of the historical documents which appear in the work, are now published for the first time. The archives of Holland have been ransacked to furnish new material for the history of the Dutch occupation, and many interesting and important facts have been ascertained through search among the family papers which have been preserved for generations by the descendants of distinguished early colonists, both Dutch and English.

"At such a distance in time, and after so many laborious inquiries as have been made into the beginnings of New York, it might be thought that the last word must have been said on every really important event and question. But this is not the case. The researches of General Wilson and his contributors have resulted in the discovery of much new evidence materially affecting the conclusions to be drawn in several matters of consequence, so that an element of novelty enters into this history which differentiates it from all its predecessors. . . . In short, the memorial history has been written and made mechanically in the most careful and thorough manner, and the first of its four volumes gives conclusive evidence that it is to be a monumental work, and standard."—New York Tribune.

"The local importance alone of this superb undertaking lifts it above the ordinary field of mere 'book notices.' It is sufficient to say of the work itself that it will cover and include every item of importance, or even of interest in our whole history. In paper, typography, illustrations and binding it is unsurpassed by any previous publication of the kind from any press in this city."—New York Advertiser.

"Nothing has been neglected to produce a work of the greatest beauty and substantial usefulness."—The Independent.

"An elaborate and valuable work. It will be a permanent literary treasure."—New York Observer.

"Of the books called forth by the approaching celebration of the discovery of the New World none will commend itself more strongly than the 'Memorial History of the City of New York.'"—New York Sun.

"It will be welcomed not only by the people of the great metropolis, but by the citizens of the country generally."—New York World.

"A work any New Yorker would be glad to have in his library."—New York Herald.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE TRADE

"The Little Minister" is a copyright book and can only be procured in the following editions:

"Illustrated Series," paper..... 50 cents.
 "The Century Series," without illustrations, cloth.. 75 cents.

THE LITTLE MINISTER.

By J. M. BARRIE, author of "My Lady Nicotine," "A Window in Thrums," etc. New edition, with full-page illustrations. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"J. M. Barrie's 'The Little Minister' is a great novel."—New York Press.

"The story is sweet and human from the first word to the last."—St. Paul Globe.

"An extraordinarily good book. It is the style in which the story is written that charms."—Buffalo Courier.

"A work of front-rank importance, both as a love-story and as an album of carefully finished character-studies."—Philadelphia Press.

"The Little Minister" is really a masterpiece. There is not a mistake in it. Every character is perfectly natural, not a word nor an action is artificial."—Kansas City Star.

"It is indeed an uncommonly strong novel, full of the most effective contrasts and the most piquant scenes of Scotch life."—New York Tribune.

A WINDOW IN THRUMS.

By J. M. BARRIE, author of "The Little Minister," "When a Man's Single," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"A work which will long retain many admirers, for its cleverness, delightful character-drawing and freshness are more than fleeting."—Boston Times.

"In itself, it is enough to make the reputation of any writer, for in no work are the salient qualities of the canvas Scot brought out with genuine humor and pathos."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"The simplicity which marks 'A Window in Thrums' is delightful. The quaint scotch dialect adds to the pathos and dignity, and it is full of homely wit and sympathy in its simple annals."—Boston Globe.

WHEN A MAN'S SINGLE.

By J. M. BARRIE, author of "A Window in Thrums," "The Little Minister," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"A remarkably interesting novel, because of its vivid character-drawing and the skill with which a scene is brought before the eye by a few sharp touches. It can scarcely fail to increase respect for its author's strongly pronounced gifts as a writer of fiction."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

"The word 'racy' is a well-worn and often misused critical term, but it has no synonym that could so fittingly be applied to Barrie's story 'When a Man's Single.' The book is a budget of quaint conceits, witty epigrams, and Barrie's own peculiar humor."—New York World.

"The language in 'When a Man's Single' is undefiled by one extravagance or indifference, and his delicious sketches of English newspaper routine are brimful of life-like color and rich humor."

AULD LIGHT IDYLLS.

By J. M. BARRIE, author of "The Little Minister," "A Window in Thrums," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A charming collection of studies of Scotch peasant character written in a delightful manner. There is uncommon power in the delineation of character, and the pathos and humor of the book are in Barrie's best vein. In brief these studies are of exceptional merit; remarkable for their vivid word picturing and fidelity to nature.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE NEW YORK HISTORY CO., 132 Nassau St., N. Y., have just ready the second volume of the "Memorial History of the City of New York." This second volume more than fulfils the promises of the first, and helps to strengthen the impression that this is indeed the most elaborate work ever prepared on an American city.

W. B. SAUNDERS, 913 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, have just ready "A New Pronouncing Dictionary of Medicine," by Dr. John M. Keating and Henry Hamilton. The work is a voluminous handbook of medical, surgical and scientific terminology, containing concise explanations of the various terms used in medicine and the allied sciences with phonetic pronunciation, etymology, etc.

THE F. A. DAVIS COMPANY, Philadelphia, have just ready a new edition (the tenth) of the "Book on the Physician Himself, and things that concern his reputation and success," by Dr. D. W. Cathell, of Baltimore. The author's final revision of this most useful volume has been careful and most thorough. The Davis Company will publish early in September "The New Pocket Medical Dictionary," compiled by Dr. David Braden Kyle from the latest authorities, and containing words recently introduced into medicine; also, addenda of abbreviations, affixes, list of diseases known by proper names, list of poisons and their antidotes, etc.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation what promises to be a handsome volume. Its title is "In Gold and Silver." It deals with outdoor life, and its author is George H. Ellwanger, whose "Garden Story" is one of the delights of the lovers of nature. It is to be illustrated by W. H. Gibson, A. B. Wenzel and W. C. Greenough; and there will be an édition de luxe of 200 numbered copies printed on Japanese vellum. The Appletons have in press Richard Malcolm Johnston's new book, "Mr. Fortner's Marital Claims, and other stories." In the fall they will publish a new volume of short stories by Rudyard Kipling.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will publish on August 31, the four hundredth anniversary of Columbus departure from Palos, an epic poem entitled "Columbus," by Samuel Jefferson, F.R.A.S., F.C.S. It will be strictly historical, and illustrated with a portrait of Columbus, engravings of Ferdinand and Isabella and of the Santa Maria, the chief caravel of the "Great Admiral's" fleet. They announce for publication on Aug. 6 "England and Its Rulers," by H. Pomeroy Brewster and George H. Humphrey; and "Eclectic Short-hand Phrase-Book," by J. G. Cross, M.A., containing 8000 important phrases, legibly and briefly written. They have recently issued some important books, among which may be mentioned "A Study of Greek Philosophy," by Ellen M. Mitchell; "Hindu Literature," by Elizabeth A. Reed, and "Mens Christi," by John Steinfort Kedney.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "On Canada's Frontier," by Julian Ralph; "Carlyle," by Professor John Nichol, a new volume in the English Men of Letters Series; a collection of essays "From the Books of Laurence Hutton," uniform with George William Curtis' "From the Easy-Chair," etc.; W. D. Howells' parlor comedy, "A Letter of Introduction" (Harper's Black and White Series); "Aunt Anne," a novel, by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, author of "Love-Letters of a Worldly Woman;" "That Wild Wheel," a novel, by Frances Eleanor Trollope; a new collection of short stories for young readers, "Young Lucretia, and other stories," by Mary E. Wilkins; and a new, revised edition of William Black's "Three Feathers." A collection of short stories by Walter Besant, entitled "Verbena Camellia Stephanotis, and other stories," is the latest volume in Harper's Franklin Square Library. It will be followed by Mrs. Avery MacAlpine's interesting novel, "A Man's Conscience."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (O. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abarbanell, J. R. The rector's secret; or, love conquers all: a study from life. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1892.] c. 179 p. D. (Peerless ser., no. 61.) pap., 25 c.

The prologue pictures a forsaken woman committing suicide by drowning after depositing her two-weeks old boy-baby in a crèche in Abington Square, N. Y. City. This boy reappears at twenty-five, the adopted son of a much-loved clergyman, goes to Europe to find comfort after a sad love experience, and there comes upon the secret of his parentage.

*Acts of the Apostles: an account of the first age of the Christian church; with chronological appendix. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 136 p. map, 12", cl., 80 c.

Adams, Rob. C. Travels in faith from tradition to reason. N. Y., Truthseeker Co., [1892.] c. '84. 3 + 238 p. D. (Truthseeker lib., no. 9.) pap., 25 c.

Published in 1884 by G. P. Putnam's Sons. See notice, "Weekly Record," F. W., June 28, 1884, [648].

*Allies, Mary H. History of the Church of England, from the beginning of the Christian era to the accession of Henry VIII. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 12", cl., net, $1.60.

Austen, Jane. Emma. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 2 v., 2-319; 4-315 p. il. S. hf. cf., $2.50. Édition de luxe, 2 v., 8", $4. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

Balzac, Honoré de. Pierrette. [Also,] The Vicar of Tours; tr. by Katharine Prescott Wormeley. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 4 + 337 p. D. hf. mor., $1.50.

Pierrette, the tenderly loved little grand-daughter of a ruined Vendée lumber merchant, is forced to accept the charity of rich cousins. The story of her miserable life, which ends in a startling tragedy, is told with Balzac's genius for detail at its very best. "The Vicar of Tours" illustrates the perpetual struggle going on between the individual and the social system. Balzac asks and answers the question, "Will the brotherhood of man prove to be only a sublime error?"

Barrie, J. M. Auld licht idyls. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 3-249 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 6.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," F. W., Oct. 10, 1891, [1023.]

*Beddard, Frank E. Animal coloration: an account of the principal facts and theories relating to the colors and markings of animals. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 8 + 288 p. il. pl. 8", cl., $3.50.

*Bible. The Holman new self-pronouncing Sunday-school teacher's Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments. Memorial ed. (in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.) Phil., A. J. Holman & Co., 1892. c. min. ed., 1084 + 324 + 12 p. maps, D. cl., $2.25; French seal, $3.25 to $4.75; Persian seal, $5.50; Palestine levant, $6; levant, $7.

Bierbower, Austin. Was Christ crucified? N. Y., The Truthseeker Co., 1892. c. 24 p. D. (Truthseeker lib., no. 15.) pap., 10 c.

The author argues the Jews were a subject people who were especially deprived of jurisdiction over capital offences and could not have crucified Christ. He also claims the Romans would not have inflicted capital punishment for heresy to a foreign religion which the Romans themselves did not accept.

Blackmar, Frank W. Indian education. Phil., American Acad. of Political and Social Science, [1892.] 81-105 p. D. (Publications of the American Acad. of Political and Social Science, no. 59.) pap., 50 c.

The author is Professor of History and Sociology in the University of Kansas. He proves that thorough and efficient education is the only means to help the Indian permanently. The great difficulty now is to insure the usefulness of educated powers. Many cases are cited of educated Indians, men and women, for whom no fitting work was found when they were ready for it.

*Bosanquet, Bernard. History of aesthetics. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 23-502 p. 8", (Library of philosophy.) cl., $2.75.

*Brooke, St. George T. Notes on common law pleading and practice, designed as an aid to the students of law in the West Virginia University. Charlestown, W. Va., St. George T. Brooke, 1891. c. 152 p. D. pap., $1.50.

*Chandler, Jos. Everett. The colonial architecture of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, photographed and arr. under the direction of Jos. Everett Chandler. Bost., Bates, Kimball & Gould, 1892. F. portfolio, $12.

Cheyney, E. P. A third revolution. Phil., American Acad. of Political and Social Science, [1892.] 49 p. O. (Publications of the American Acad. of Political and Social Science, no. 57.) pap., 50 c.

About four hundred years ago European society entered upon an intellectual revolution. One hundred years ago it was drawn into the current of political revolution. The third revolution, the author thinks will be against the present economic order and will bring about more substantial justice, wider opportunities for more men, and greater possibilities in life for all mankind.

Clemens, W. M. Mark Twain—his life and work: a biographical sketch. San Francisco, Cal., The Clemens Pub. Co., 1892. c. '91. 4-211 p. 8" (Pacific lib., no. 1.) pap., 50 c.

The career of Mark Twain is a romance. He was a bold, reckless boy, a poor printer, an adventurer, a wanderer. He then became a wit, a scholar, a public speaker, a man of family and a millionaire. In this volume the humor of Mark Twain is not analyzed. The interesting facts of his life are given and some of his best-known works described. Originally published in The Library and Studio.

*Constantinides, Michael. Neohellenica: an introduction to modern Greek in the form of dialogues: cont. specimens of the language from the third century B.C. to the present day; [with] appendix giving examples of Cypriot dialect: tr. into English by Prof. M. Constantinides in collaboration with Maj.-Gen. H. T. Rogers. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 16+470 p. 12°, cl., $1.90.

*Cook, Ja. The voyages of discovery of Captain James Cook, describing his discoveries and adventures in Tierra del Fuego, Tahiti, New Zealand, Van Dieman's Land, Australia, etc., partly narrated by Capt. Cook himself and partly comp. from his notes and journals, by Dr. Hawkesley. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 2 v., 1176 p. maps, il. 8°, cl., $3.50.

Couperus, L. Footsteps of fate; from the Dutch, by Clara Bell; with introd. by Edmund Gosse. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 14+272 p. D. (Holland fiction ser.) cl., $1.

Returning from America, where he has been farm hand, supernumerary at a theatre, etc., Robert West-her works his passage and reaches London in rags. He hunts up an old school-mate who is living a rich bachelor's life. This friend takes him in and keeps him for two years in idleness and luxury. How Robert rewards him and in the end meets his own ghastly fate is told with power and unflinching realism.

*District of Columbia. *Digest of decisions of the courts of last resort, from 1 Cranch to 19 D. C., incl., together with a compilation of the laws of Md., British statutes, the rev. statutes relating to the D. C., [etc.]; by T. S. Cogley. Wash., [The Law Reporter Co., prs.], 1892. c. 29+686 p. Etting, Frank M. An historical account of the old State House of Pennsylvania, now known as the Hall of Independence. 2d ed., with continuation. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1891 [1892.] c. 74. 10+221 p. il. Q. cl., $2.50.

First published in 1876 by James R. Osgood & Co. The continuation is devoted chiefly to the celebrations of the centennial anniversaries of the most important events which happened within the walls of this State House: the passage of the Declaration of Independence and the formation of the Constitution of the United States. Appendices, index.

Farjeon, B. L. Aunt Parker: a novel. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 268 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1969.) pap., 25 c.

Farjeon, B. L. Dr. Glennie's daughter: a story of real life. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 4-162 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1988.) pap., 25 c.

A second edition of this pamphlet, first published two years ago. New names have been added and sixty-two death-bed scenes are now included. Arranged alphabetically.

Forrester, Mrs. —, [pseud. for Mrs. Bridges.] Of the world woe. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 371 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 218.) pap., 50 c.; cl., $1.

A tale of London, the Riviera and Monte Carlo, of which the heroine is a "professional beauty."

Gardener, Helen H. Pray you, sir, whose daughter? Bost., Arena Pub. Co., 1892. c. 10+188 p. D. (Arena library ser., v. 1, no. 6.) pap., 50 c.

An arraignment of the injustice of men who pass laws affecting women without allowing them representation. A girl college graduate who has held her own with the men with whom she has associated for four years, fights against holding the position of dependence in her father's household to which her mother has become resigned.

Gardener, Helen H. Pulpit, pew and cradle. N. Y., The Truthseeker Co., [1892.] c. 30 p. D. (Truthseeker lib., no. 16.) pap., 10 c.

"There are just two strong props under the church to-day—the sentiment of women and the ignorance of children. So long as the pulpit speaks to believing pews composed chiefly of mothers, the cradle will be rocked by ghosts." Helen Gardener tries to convince women that they especially have been ill-treated by Bible doctrines.

*Gordon, H. Panmure. The land of the almighty dollar; il. by Irving Montague. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1892. 216 p. 12°, cl., $2.50.

Huiginn, Rev. E. J. V. The graves of Myles Standish and other pilgrims. Boonville, N. Y., Herald and Tourist Steam Print. House, 1892. 35 p. O. pap., 50 c.

The writer disagrees with Justin Winsor, and Mrs. Jane G. Austin in turn disagrees with the writer, as to the exact location of Duxbury Cemetery, where Myles Standish is requested to be buried. The various arguments are fairly stated. The little pamphlet is a plea for more care in preserving the resting-places of dead heroes.

- An elaborate presentation of the more recent explorations among the prehistoric mounds of the Ohio Valley, accompanied by detailed diagrams and illustrations. One hundred and seven mounds, graves and cemeteries were opened during the four seasons of exploration which Mr. Moorehead records; careful field notes were made of every excavation, and the result of each day's labor was fully written out. These notes form the basis of the volume, which is a valuable contribution to American archaeology.

- Selections have been made from the sermons of ten years, extending from 1849 to 1859, and embrace a wide range of topics. Parker's most striking peculiarities were his happy faculty of making the most abstruse and complex themes interesting to thousands; and his continual and varied illustration of his favorite idea that religion is to be applied to every department of human thought and action, to the most trivial actions of the individual.

Parr, Mrs. Louisa. Hero Carthew. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 3+211 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1997.) pap., 25 c.

T. The Dearborn speaker: original and selected readings, recitations, declamations and dialogues; with introd. observations of eminent elocutionists and dramatists on the study and practice of elocution. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., 1892. c. 2-186 p. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 65.) pap., 25 c.

An introductory chapter gives the observations on the study and practice of elocution. Poetic selections by far outnumber the prose pieces and dialogues.

Largent, Epes. A pronouncing spelling-book for beginners and advanced classes, containing new and imp. system of notation. Balt., Md., W. J. C. Dulany Co., [1892.] c. 2-168 p. D. bds., 25 c.

Originally published by John L. Shorey. Has been some time out of print. It has been revised and carefully annotated with references to the latest accepted pronunciation.

Schubin, Ossip, [pseud. for Lola Kirschner.] The hand of destiny; tr. by Mary A. Robinson. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 3-272 p. 1 il. D. (Fair lib., no. 2.) pap., 25 c. The characters are Austrians sojourning in Rome during the season of Carnival, Lent and Easter-tide in the early seventies. The heroine's young dream is destroyed by a duel. Later, after a quiet life in her Bohemian home, she is granted a happy marriage.

Schultz, Jeanne. Jean de Kerdren. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 2+270 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 97.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Jean de Kerdren, fabulously rich and universally popular, is commanding officer on one of the ships of the Mediterranean squadron. From motives of chivalry he offers the protection of marriage to a young girl who is insulted by officers at a fête given by a family in which she is governess. This marriage leads to ideal love, cut short by death within a year. Jean ends his life as a Roman Catholic priest.

Scriptures (The) of Benjamin, the giant-killer; revised version: [a political satire.] Detroit, Mich., The Journal Pub. Co., 49 Larned st., 1892. c. 8-62 p. D. (People's lib., v. 1, no. 1.) pap., 25 c.

Biblical language is parodied in an attempt to describe the revolt of the American colonies against Great Britain, and the subsequent attempt of that nation, in conjunction with the Democratic party and the people of the Southern States, to break down the protective tariff policy of the United States.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, N. Y.—The old printing-house of Weed, Parsons & Co. was placed in the hands of Amasa J. Parker as receiver by Judge Herrick yesterday. Sic transit gloria mundi!

BALTIMORE, MD.—The contract for furnishing books and stationery for the public schools of Frederick County, Md., during the next two years, has been awarded to the W. J. C. Dulany Co., of Baltimore.

DES MOINES, IA.—Redhead, Norton, Lathrop & Co. announce that their retail department will hereafter be carried on by a stock company, to be known as The Redhead, Norton, Lathrop Co., the stockholders of which are the present members of their firm, viz.: Mrs. Wesley Redhead, M. M. Norton, Geo. R. Lathrop and C. C. Rhoades. The wholesale department will be continued by the same partners as before and under the same firm-name.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—Edw. R. Brandow, for several years with Ernst & Brill, has bought stock in the Graham Book and Stationery Co., and is now at the head of their book department. The Graham Book Co. have been awarded the contract to supply the St. Joseph School Board with school supplies.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is proposed to organize the W. H. Morrison Book and Stationery Company with a capital stock of $60,000. Of this amount $20,000 in cash and $20,000 in paid-up stock goes for the business and stock in trade of Mr. William H. Morrison, the balance to be used in enlarging and developing the business in its various branches and providing additional facilities for its proper conduct. Mr. Morrison's business was established in 1830, and has enjoyed uninterrupted success for over sixty years. Starting thus under such favorable conditions, and still under Mr. Morrison's personal supervision, backed by an able corps of assistants, the new company will have every reason to anticipate a rapid increase in trade and great financial success.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 30, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XVI.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—II.

THE order-clerk should make it an inflexible rule never, under any circumstances, to accept verbal orders for books. Let him insist that every order be given in writing, and that it be signed by the person giving it. If this rule is not strictly adhered to the order clerk will frequently find himself in hot water; because, in case an error occurs, he may rest assured that the other party will always be in the right, and if no evidence to the contrary exists, he must bear the brunt of the mistake.

There are various methods in vogue of registering orders taken by salesmen—some of them elaborate, others more or less slipshod. Some use printed slips of the size of a No. 6 envelope, with lines for name and address of customer, title and name of publisher of book wanted, and the signature of salesman who has taken the order. Others use a large bound blank-book; others again use a manifold book, and many more simply odd slips of paper. We incline to the use of the bound blank-book. So far as we know everything is in its favor. Only one objection to its use may be cited, and that is that as several salesmen may want to use the book at the same time it may cause delay. At a casual glance this seems a very serious drawback; but, as a matter of fact, it rarely happens that two salesmen want to use the order-book so urgently that one of them might not wait without seriously delaying business. In fact, it would not call for half as much delay as when one salesman waits for another to make an entry in the "charge scratcher" in a store where no entry clerk is kept on the floor, and where all charges are made in lead-pencil by the salesman in a book provided for that purpose. Besides, there is nothing to hinder keeping two or more order-books in the busy seasons, or, if the store is large enough to warrant such a system, the year through.

The slip system on the other hand would cause no delay in making out orders, but who can compute the chances of the slips being mislaid, lost, or for some mysterious reason never reaching the order-clerk? We know of many cases where serious loss has resulted through the loss of an order-slip. And who was to blame in these instances? The salesman? Not he; he was positive beyond a doubt of having made out the slip and forwarded it to the order-clerk's desk. The order clerk? He was ready to make an affidavit to prove that he had never even so much as laid eyes on the missing slip. In a few cases such missing slips were found, weeks after it was too late to remedy the loss tucked away (very likely by the salesman) in a book in stock; or one turned up in a lot of scraps near the order-clerk's desk. How it got there, who can tell!

The chances of losing even a small blank-book are much less than losing the largest-sized slip, and for this reason, as against all objections that may be brought against it, we favor the use of a bound order-book. If more than one book be used let them be marked with a number or letter. An order entered in such a book is there a permanent record. The orders are transcribed from it to the order-clerk's own book, with page and volume number of the salesman's order-book, thus: A-236, meaning book A, page 236. By this system the salesman and order-clerk both are protected, and an error committed may easily be traced to the real offender. We hold, on general principles, the loose memorandum slip to be the bane of the book business.

As a remarkable instance of how far one idea will carry an otherwise clear-headed and fair thinker, we quote the following remarks of Mr. Walter Besant from a recent issue of the Author:

"What does a publisher get paid for? Is the book his book? Not at all, unless he buys it outright. It is the author's property. Why is he to get anything out of it at all? Why is he to take any share in a work in whose creation he had no part? For services rendered? He says: 'I will publish your book. I must be paid so much for it.' Since he does not do everything himself, as John Ruskin's publisher used to do, he must have his machinery. Are we to pay him first for his machinery and then for himself? Certainly not. Do we pay the carrier so much for taking a parcel and so much more for the cart and horse? Do we pay the lawyer so much for his work and so much more for his rent and his clerks, and the red tape and the ink? In business of all kinds the machinery does not count. If it is too expensive it can be cut down. The first carrier was a messenger who carried parcels under his arm. Then he started his cart. That is exactly the position of the publisher. And that is the common-sense of the matter. It is only a question of the proportion which is justly due to the publisher."

It seems strange that it does not occur to Mr. Besant that there is no law in England or America which forces an author to make an arrangement with the publisher. But if, of his own free will, he does make such an arrangement, he will find that he must pay for his ride, including carriage and coachman's hire—or else get out and walk. Or, he may buy an outfit of his own, in which case he soon finds that he also has to pay the piper, both for the piping and the pipes. It is a general law of economics that somebody has to pay something for service rendered.

NORTHWESTERN BOOKSELLERS' AND NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.—II.

FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION.

EARLY in the afternoon of Wednesday, July 13, the association convened in the rooms of the Jobbers' Association in Minneapolis, and after disposing of the regular routine business, entered into a discussion of trade topics. Communications were read from the Newsdealers' and Booksellers' National Association, the American News Company and several other associations, in regard to the action of the dry-goods houses that do a department business and make cut rates in magazines and other publications. On motion of Mr. Ackermann, the secretary was instructed to communicate with all publishers of magazines that are thus cut and request them to notify the American News Company not to furnish dry-goods houses and other cut-rate firms with their publications, except on agreement to sell same at regular prices only. Mr. Iddings, of Grand Forks, N. D., proposed that the secretary be instructed to correspond with publishers, requesting them not to sell to subscription agents who cut prices to consumers. The motion was carried.

Mr. E. C. Rahme, of Philadelphia, representing the Executive Committee of the National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association, was called upon to speak. He warned the association against the petty jealousies that were apt to creep into such organizations as theirs. Then he pointed out the importance of a strong money backing. "You must first get money into the treasury," he said, "and then make your organization a benevolent one. Do all your business as an organization direct with the publishers. I have nothing to say against the American News Company. What you want to demand of it is your right, nothing more. You want all that is properly due you. You pay for every service; you don't want to make any demands that are unjust. Simply demand what is right, and you must receive it. Do not use coercion, but simply arguments. You may not gain all at once; but keep at it. In the Eastern States much has been gained by the policy of proper arbitration. Let your secretary write communication after communication until you achieve what you are after. When you have thoroughly organized in this or other cities, send delegates to our National Association. It would cost but a trifle, and will put you in communication with the East, South, North and West. Any information that you wish can be obtained by sending a communication to the National Committee; your prices can be adjusted East, West and South, and you can work harmoniously. Fifteen cents for each individual allows you one delegate to every twenty members. Send delegates to our national convention, which will be held in Philadelphia October 12 and 13. All the different grievances of the trade can be remedied, as we have learned in the East."

Mr. Ackermann, of Chicago, moved that the association affiliate with the National Association. The motion was carried.

Mr. C. B. Swift, chairman of the National Association, spoke of the needs of the trade, emphasizing the necessity of local societies affiliating with the National Association through which the best results were obtainable. He said in part:

"In the last ten or twelve years our trade has been like a ship without a rudder, buffeted from one side to the other by the waves. Through the union of a few men all this has been changed. I am pleased to be here to-day, to see that the work of organization is going on through the country and that our work is not being lost. The National Association has done considerable work, and will be able to do a great deal more in the future if there is organization in different cities, and if these local organizations affiliate with the National Association, and thus make one unbroken chain from ocean to ocean, from the gulf to the lakes. We have had to contend with many things for the last few years—postal laws, the return system, and the cut-throat system, much of which is done as an advertisement. In many cases books and magazines are sold below cost to catch a penny. If that one evil is wiped out in the coming convention, the National Association has done good work. In reference to syndicate buying and to some of the lines of books and newspapers now being handled, the National Association is a tremendous syndicate power in local organizations, forming in a small way a news company. Let the dealers themselves buy through that source. The system is now in operation in New York City, Brooklyn, Providence and Philadelphia. It does away with the combine, and you reap the profits yourselves.

"The National Association does not come out and say that it is going to right every evil and grievance that exists. We have tried to right a great many in the past and will try our best to do so in the future; but it will only be by local organization and co-operation existing in different cities of the Union, by your working with the national organization and feeling that this is your source of remedy for the evils that beset the trade."

The officers for the coming year were then elected: Alex. McNie was chosen President; M. F. W. Iddings, Vice-President; C. D. Raymer, Secretary; T. Alexander, Assistant Secretary, and G. W. Sayre, Treasurer. The newly-elected officers were called upon for acknowledgments and responded with short and well-turned speeches, after which the association adjourned.

On Wednesday evening the last meeting of the convention was held at the Guaranty Loan Building, where the members assembled to discuss a banquet prepared for them and to listen to speeches on pertinent subjects. The first speaker was Mr. Ackermann, of Ackermann & Eyler, Chicago, who delivered an address on

OUR IDEALS.

Learning, literature and science are the foundations and springs of civilization. The book trade is the medium through which these forces are popularized and by the aid of which alone they can attain to the best educational results. The book trade has, therefore, not solely a commercial aspect; it means more than the selling of books as so much merchandise; it has a higher vocation and an educational mission. And it is this mission, I regret to say, that so many of our fellow-booksellers overlook or neglect. If we all—publishers and booksellers—would stand firmly together, feeling that we were united in one great educational organization; if all members of our trade would recognize the importance of their calling; if, above all, the younger men, from apprenticeship onward, could be induced to regard their trade from an ideal point of view, to elevate their minds, to educate themselves in literature, art, history, geography and languages, the entire business would soon feel the effect. What is needed first of all is one strong association throughout the United States, not local clubs or unions only, but one great association which every bookseller and publisher should be invited to join. I may mention here the Börsenverein, that powerful booksellers' association of Germany, which makes the transaction of business harmonious and uniform throughout the country. It has its centre in Leipzig, where all the booksellers and publishers of Germany are represented by agents, one agent acting for many firms. It is through this centre that all business is transacted on a clearing-house system which I cannot now enter into.

The second need, which I have already mentioned, is the better education of assistants. And in regard to this also I can justly point to the German bookseller as an example. I am a German bookseller myself, and I certainly do not wish to seem egotistical, but I think I may be allowed to make a few criticisms and comparisons, for I have also been a practical worker in our trade in England and France, and I am proud to say that I am now an American bookseller.

In Germany any customer dealing with a bookseller expects his attendant not only to sell him a certain book or to give the publisher, price and different editions, but also to be able to give him information of the various works and authorities on any subject. The German bookseller is supposed to know the history of classical and modern literatures; he is expected to be conversant in general history and geography; he has in most cases some knowledge of French, English and Latin, and is, in fact, generally posted in the details of his business. In Germany a young man cannot find employment in a bookstore unless he has learned the book trade, nor will he be accepted as an apprentice if he has not a good school education. Therefore the bookseller in Germany is generally looked upon as holding a higher rank in business life than the general merchant. That a man should as readily obtain a position in a bookstore as in a dry-goods or grocery store, is an impossibility in Germany.

Among American book-clerks, unfortunately, on the contrary, very few will be found with sufficient ambition for self-education, or interest enough in their business to read the trade and literary papers, or to study trade matters in their leisure hours; while on the other hand, the German bookseller never forgets that he is a "bookseller," and is proud of his station.

A great factor in elevating the minds and strengthening the aims of the bookseller in Germany is found in the booksellers' and booksellers' assistants' clubs and associations that are common throughout that country, and which would undoubtedly have an equally good effect in this country. In even the smallest towns in Germany may be found clubs of a social character, exclusively for booksellers, who gather there to seek recreation after business hours, to talk about trade matters, literature and art. To the library attached to each club, publishers willingly contribute desirable publications, and in the club itself visiting booksellers from other cities always find a home and sympathizing trade friends. Thus a strong fellowship is maintained throughout Germany among the booksellers, a fellowship of the greatest benefit to the material as well as the ideal interests of the book trade.

A very good plan, and one that the board of this association should take up and try to perfect, would be the establishment of preparatory examinations for booksellers' assistants. Enlist the interests of well-known booksellers and publishers, whose names carry weight in the trade, and organize a board of examiners. Then issue examination papers and invite all industrious young booksellers to enter the lists. The examination might be held once or twice a year in different cities; the certificate awarded at these examinations would be a most valuable reference, and the system would turn out good booksellers of whom the trade might be proud and who might be proud of their vocation.

But let us turn to the present state of our trade and consider how we can most materially advance its interests and gain for it public respect. One grievance is the discount question. Why should we share our due profits with the consumer? What reason is there in advertising a price and selling a book below that price? What would the butcher say who sells a pound of meat for 20 cents if a customer were to ask him for a discount? We should by all means maintain a fixed list price! A uniform list price is one of the foundation-stones of our business; we should realize this and fight with all our might to uphold it. I believe that if the majority of the booksellers and publishers of the United States could be united in one strong co-operative association, and would rise in general opposition to the discount system, they could easily induce all the large publishers (and the smaller ones would soon follow) to make it a rule not to sell to any dealer known to cut prices. Such a step was taken some time ago by the German Booksellers' Association and it has worked most successfully.

But it is not my intention to lecture on foreign institutions; I have merely touched upon a few points that might be changed for the better by co-operation. And I sincerely hope that this gathering will have a good effect upon our trade in general. Let us uphold the ideas of our vocation; let us stand together as united members of one great organization; let us work harmoniously in the interest of our trade.

Mr. Raymer responded to the toast "The Booksellers." His remarks were of the same order as those expressed by Mr. Ackermann. He, too, advocated a higher standard of education among the booksellers and their assistants, and gave several amusing stories and reminiscences illustrative of the subject, and showing the necessity for practical adoption of his sentiments.

Mr. Swift followed with a brief résumé of the work done by the National Association; Mr. Williams, of Minneapolis, spoke of the necessity of organization, not only for mutual protection and interest, but as a means of raising the profession to a higher educational standard and exerting a beneficial influence over the community. Mr. Iddings then gave an interesting account of some of his own experiences in the trade, of which the following is a brief epitome:

"I am a new member of this association, but by no means new in the book business. When still a boy I began in my father's store, and in looking back over many years of business I can see a difference and a change. In those good old times, in Muscatine, Ia., in 1858, they had two good bookstores, run by men who understood the business, and who made a profit of 33½ per cent. in school-books and 40 to 50 per cent. in miscellaneous books. As the years have gone by we notice a change in this respect. The profits have been cut down so that the stationery business has gone to the drug-stores; and unless a town has from 10,000 to 20,000 inhabitants there is no bookstore. It seems to me that even should this organization accomplish nothing further, if we can build up the business so that there can be a well-supported bookstore in every town of two, three or five thousand people, we will have accomplished a great thing for the country at large. I began in a small way in Grand Forks, North Dakota, succeeding the news-dealer of the place, whose principal literature was the Police News and the Police Gazette, which with five and ten cent libraries, I carried away by the armful. After this change the outlook was gloomy; dimes and quarters did not come in very fast, and it took a year of hard work to change the tone of the stand—to change the demand for the news literature alone. I tried to keep posted on miscellaneous books, and without boasting, I think that my bookstore has been of educational value and has raised the standard of the people in that community. I believe that it is necessary that we understand our business—that we know the inside of the books as well as their titles, for I think that if we study our business more it will pay better. I came to this convention partly out of curiosity and hardly knowing what its aim was, fancying that it was a competitive scheme to fight the American News Company and publishers in general. But I hoped—and I have not been disappointed in my hopes—that the other direction would be assumed by the association, and I believe if we continue in the way we have begun we will make a success of our organization and benefit the whole country."

After passing a vote of thanks to Mr. H. R. Hardick, T. Alexander and others who had generously contributed to the entertainment of the convention, the association adjourned sine die. The following board of directors was elected:

Edward Ackermann, Chicago; C. E. Musser, Mankato; A. Isaacson, St. Paul; N. McCarthy, E. P. Parcher, C. D. Whitall and S. M. Williams, Minneapolis.

R. T. Green, of Sauk Centre, E. Parcher and S. M. Williams were elected to act as a grievance committee, and Messrs. Sayre and Ackermann were chosen as delegates to the national convention at Philadelphia.

CHICAGO AS A BOOK-DISTRIBUTING CENTRE.

A VISITOR in Chicago during the week from July 4 to 9 says that Chicago has become a great distributing point for the wholesale book trade. During the last three weeks many of the rooms at the Palmer House have presented the appearance of a great literary bazaar. There were in this hotel about sixty representatives of Eastern publishing houses. Each had his own room for the display of his particular lines of books, which were spread out in attractive form upon long tables. Here buyers were entertained, and there was of course great rivalry among the representatives of different publishing houses.

Not only the local buyers of Chicago houses, but buyers from Kansas City, St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Grand Rapids, Milwaukee and many other inland cities and towns come to this bazaar to make their purchases for the autumn and holiday seasons. This was an object lesson on the greatness of Chicago as a distribution point. Buyers from all these surrounding inland cities are compelled to go no farther than Chicago to get books at wholesale from any of the big Eastern publishers. Agents of these publishers would hardly visit all the smaller cities, but are willing to set a time to meet the buyers at this central point.

The New York, Boston and Philadelphia publishers have been in the habit of sending representatives to Chicago for several years past with full lines of their publications to show buyers. Buyers are given as favorable terms and prices as they could obtain by visiting the Eastern houses.

This method of supplying the Western book trade seems to be increasing in popularity, and Chicago is becoming more important as the point where interests may be concentrated. Books are usually delivered by slow freight, by water and otherwise, at very low rates, and those sold now will reach their destination about September 1.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A BOOKSELLER'S BADGE.

NEW YORK, July 7, 1892.

To the Members of the Association of Booksellers and Stationers of N. Y.:

THE idea having occurred to me that a badge to be worn by the members of the Association would be appropriate and desirable, I take pleasure in suggesting the same, and would be pleased to learn the opinion of members on the subject.

It would not only be a sign of membership, but such a badge is generally worn by all leading societies and would also bring a certain revenue to the reserve fund, as these little badges would be sold by the Society's officers with a certain benefit.

LOUIS MEYER.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MOSES S. BRACH, for many years the publisher of the New York Sun, died at Peekskill, N. Y., July 25, aged seventy.

JOHN REED died July 26 at his home in Pinckney Street, Boston, at the age of eighty years. He was a son of the Honorable John Reed, of Yarmouthport, who was a member of Congress for some years and afterward Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts. Mr. Reed went to Boston at the age of twenty years, and he lived there for about sixty years. He was for some years a member of the firm of W. D. Ticknor & Co., afterward Ticknor, Reed & Field, at the "Old Corner Bookstore." He left that firm about forty years ago to become Vice-Treasurer of the Provident Institution for Saving, with which bank he remained until compelled about eight years ago by ill health to give up active business.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MISS RHODA BROUGHTON's forthcoming novel is entitled "Mrs. Bligh."

EX-SENATOR INGALLS' volume of political recollections is rapidly approaching completion.

EMILIE EDWARDS, a rising Western actress, has written a book entitled "A Heart Laid Bare."

THE Duke of Argyll will publish in the fall a book called "The Unseen Foundations of Society," which is described as an examination of the fallacies and failures of economic science due to neglected elements.

MR. BOK has unearthed a quantity of unpublished material by Henry Ward Beecher, which will shortly be published as a series of articles in The Ladies' Home Journal. The co-operation of Mrs. Beecher and Professor Ellinwood, Mr. Beecher's private reporter, has been secured in the editing of the material.

A CORRESPONDENT corrects our impression that Mr. E. C. Stedman was not a college graduate. "The fact is," says he, "that Mr. Stedman got his A.B. degree at Yale in 1853, along with Wayne McVeigh, G. W. Smalley, of The Tribune, 'Ike' Bromley, Senator Randall L. Gibson (La.), Andrew D. White, George Shiras and others equally well known."

HARRY DE WINDT has written a book entitled "Siberia as It Is," which appears to be a defence of the Russian system of prison management, and is intended to be a reply to Mr. George Kennan and other travellers and writers who have attacked that administration as a system of "cruelties and atrocities which is a disgrace to a civilized country and to the nineteenth century."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Retail Booksellers' and Stationery Clerks' Association has been incorporated at Chicago; capital stock, $1000; incorporators: C. Stoner Hitchcock, L. E. Bower and others.

BENZIGER BROTHERS have in press an English-German edition of Deharbe's "Large Catechism;" "Meditations for Advent," by Rev. R. F. Clarke, and "A Primer for Converts," by Rev. J. F. Durward.

GINN & Co. will publish this summer in their College Series of Latin Authors "Livy, Books xxi and xxii," edited, with introduction and notes, by Professor J. B. Greenough, of Harvard University, and Professor Tracy Peck, of Yale University.

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY will publish in the fall in their Science Series "A French Method of Obtaining Slide Valve Diagrams," by Lloyd Banston, Ass't Naval Constructor, U. S. Navy, and "A Graphical Method for Swing Bridges," by B. F. La Rue.

FOUR bookstore proprietors at Atlanta, Ga. recently asked the City Council to have all bookstores closed on Sunday. It was explained that the bookstore men wanted to close up one store, which sold Sunday papers. The matter was referred to the Police Committee.

ESTES & LAURIAT have just ready an important handbook for yachtsmen, entitled "The Official Register of American Yachting," edited and compiled by W. B. McClellan. It is an authentic and fully revised register of American yachting, prepared upon the basis of the latest and most accurate information obtainable from official sources.

MAURO & WILSON, Burlington, Iowa, will shortly issue a "Columbian Calendar," compiled by William Salter. The calendar covers the period of Columbus' voyage, from August 3, the day on which he sailed from Palos, to October 12, when land was reached. Two or more appropriate selections, either prose or poetic, are given for each day.

JUDGE GREEN, of the United States Circuit Court, has just decided that the Waverly Company, of New York, have a right to sell their fifty-cent edition of H. Rider Haggard's last novel, "Nada the Lily," pending the suit upon the copyright of the work. It is said that the Waverly Company will institute suit against Longmans, Green & Co. for damages for alleged interference with the sale of their book.

THE valuable compilation, by Mr. Paul Leicester Ford (97 Clark Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.), of "Pamphlets on the Constitution of the United States Published During its Discussion by the People," is to be followed by a companion volume of "Essays on the Constitution," published at the same period. Among the better known of the essayists are James Sullivan, Elbridge Gerry, Oliver Ellsworth, Roger Sherman, George Clinton, Alexander Hamilton, Hugh Williamson and Charles Pinckney.

AT the meeting of the American Pulp and Paper Makers' Association, held in Saratoga on July 27, Mr. Russell stated that the value of the output of American mills last year was $125,000,000. In 1840 it was $5,000,000, and the selling price is only one-third what it was then. The new President is the Hon. Warner Miller. The next meeting of the association will be held in Chicago.

during the World's Fair, and arrangements will be made for a pulp and paper exhibit.

MR. A. B. YOHN, of Yohn Brothers, Indianapolis, is East for a short vacation. He has held a position at the head of the Bowen-Merrill Company's retail book and stationery department for the past year, but on account of poor health was compelled to give it up. He hopes to be able to resume it before the fall business begins. Mr. Yohn is one of the ablest book-men in the United States, and has, we were pleased to learn in conversation with him, great hopes for the future of the trade in America.

THE MELBOURNE PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, is bringing out a twenty-five-cent illustrated paper-bound edition of Charles Reade's novels, of which "The Cloister and the Hearth" and "Foul Play" are already issued. "Put Yourself in His Place" and "Very Hard Cash" are now in preparation. They have also published Adolphe Belot's novel, "The Lady's Maid," now translated for the first time, and a twenty-five-cent edition of "For the Term of His Natural Life," by Marcus Clarke. The books are all illustrated, well printed, and bound in specially designed covers.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will soon issue "Elements of Plane and Spherical Trigonometry" and "A Treatise on Plane and Spherical Trigonometry," by Edward A. Bowser, Professor of Mathematics and Engineering in Rutgers College. The former is a brief course in the elements of trigonometry, particular attention being given to the numerical solution of plane and spherical triangles. It is prepared especially for high schools and academies. The latter is for more advanced work and covers the entire course in higher institutions. They will issue the last of this month "Shaw's Practice-Book in Business Forms and Elements of Book-Keeping." The object of this book is to familiarize the student with the best methods of keeping simple accounts and acquiring a necessary knowledge of ordinary business forms.

THE Board of World's Fair Managers of Virginia invite, for exhibit in the Virginia Building (which will be a duplicate of the Mount Vernon residence of Washington) at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, contributions from publishers, authors, learned societies, and from all sources, of the works of Virginia authors, books and pamphlets relating to Virginia and Virginians, and books, magazines or newspapers published in Virginia. It is proposed to make the collection as complete and representative as possible, covering a period of nearly three centuries, from the establishment of the colony to the present time. The entire collection will be properly catalogued, and at the close of the Exposition deposited in the Virginia State Library. Contributions should be forwarded to T. C. Morton, Secretary, 1103 Main Street, P. O. Box 361, Richmond, Va., who will make proper acknowledgment and see that they are properly placed.

W. J. KELLY, New York, has an interesting list of fall and holiday announcements. In the Quaint Volume Series will be issued: "The Woman of Arles," by Alphonse Daudet; Swinburne's "Laus Veneris, poems and ballads," illustrated; "Rab and His Friends," together with Douglas Jerrold's "The Preacher Parrot," and "Sappho and Phaon," by Mrs. Mary Robinson. The following will be issued in Illustrated Classics: "Tam O'Shanter," "Rab and His Friends," and Edward Morris' "Fables for the Female Sex," which was originally published in 1746. Four art volumes are announced, each containing six large full-page photogravure illustrations of the best work of foreign artists. They are: "Historic Pictures," "Meyer von Bremen Gallery," "Lion's Bride and Other Gems" and "Classic Gems," "One Girl's Triumph," a novel by Helen Cohen, is the only announcement thus far in the line of fiction. New "holiday quartos" will be: "Gems of Poesy," from Longfellow; "Christmas Lyrics," "Gate in the Wall," a poem by Ernest Vincent Wright, and "Cracklings from a Christmas Fire," a story in verse, by Ruth Ledge. A reissue of the Valpy edition of Shakespeare is also included in the list; it will be entitled "The American Valpy." Other publications announced are: "Charles Dickens," a biography, by William Minto; "Character Sketches from the Works of Charles Dickens;" "Mary Anderson in Her Dramatic Roles," with a sketch of her life; "Christmas Carols," an exhaustive collection, edited by Joshua Sylvester; "As You Like It," in prose form, as told by Charles and Mary Lamb, and "Romeo and Juliet," in the same style.

HENRY SELL, of London, is preparing a World's Fair edition of his "Sell's Dictionary of the World's Press." W. Wattenberg, 21 Park Row, New York, is the American agent for this work.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & Co. have in the press and will publish shortly an authorized translation of "Antagonismus der englischen und russischen Interessen in Asien," with a map embodying the latest information. This work created considerable stir when published in Vienna.

JOHN MURRAY, London, will publish early in the fall the "Life of Sir Henry Sumner Maine," upon which Sir M. E. Grant Duff is now engaged. Whitley Stokes has written the chapter dealing with Maine's legal work. He will bring out a small memoir called "Jenny Lind, the Artist," abridged from the long biography by Canon Scott-Holland and Mr. Rockstro.

It is thought that it may be possible to bring out additional volumes of Freeman's "History of Sicily," so large is the mass of MSS. left by the historian. The MS. referring to the Norman conquest is practically complete, and would form a volume by itself. Besides all this, Freeman left more or less complete materials for a history of Rome down to the time of Mithridates; considerable fragments of a history of Greece; a work on King Pippin; a fragment of Henry I., and some other manuscripts.

MR. SHERARD, the Paris correspondent of The Author, reads his countrymen a lesson in justice: "We are constantly reading, and some of us writing," he says, "about the misdeeds and dishonesty of American pirates. But what about the reverse of the medal? Is it not a fact that American authors are shamefully plundered by English publishers? Do not scores of English journals annex without acknowledgment—and it goes without saying, without compensation in any form—all the best work of the American periodical press? Soyons justes."

THE CLARENDON PRESS has just issued a collection of the principal speeches delivered during the French Revolution, edited by Mr. H. Morse Stephens, the English historian of that period. The orators chosen are eleven in number, including Mirabeau, Barère, Danton, Robespierre and St. Just. Prefixed to each is a short life and explanatory comment; while a general introduction deals with French oratory in general and the oratory of the Revolution. Many of the speeches have not before been reprinted, even in France; and special attention has been paid to securing an accurate text, and to the spelling of proper names.

W. H. ALLEN & Co., London, are going to bring out with all speed Dr. Steingass' "Persian-English Dictionary," which has been six years in preparation, and which has been subsidized by the Secretary of State for India. Another book is to appear in October, viz., two volumes on the history of the land revenue of Bombay, by Mr. A. Rogers, a retired civilian, who has searched the records at the India Office and traced the various changes introduced since the days when the Marathas handed over the task of gathering the revenue to the highest bidder. The work will be illustrated by a map of each collectorate, reduced from maps supplied by the Government of Bombay. Mr. Demetrius Boulger is going to write for Messrs. Allen a popular history of China.

THE French edition of Zola's "La Débâcle" is prefaced by some very curious statistics of the product of his fertile brain and the sale of his works. The present is the nineteenth of the series Les Rougon-Macquart, or, The Natural and Social History of a Family under the Second Empire. The series opened rather modestly with "La Fortune des Rougon," which reached only 24,000. It was not until the seventh of the series, the noted "L'Assommoir," that Zola's work gained much vogue. Then it leaped from 26,000 to 124,000. This was followed by 75,000 for "Une Page d'Amour," and then came the most remarkable sale of all, that of "Nana," 160,000. The next volume, "Pot Bouille," reached 82,000; "La Terre" climbed to 100,000. In all, this series is credited with 1,288,000. Besides these, Zola's writings comprise nine other novels, three dramas and eight "critical works," most of the latter devoted to the exposition of his own methods and very lively denunciation of those who differ from him.

THE MINISTRY OF EDUCATION, of Germany, named some time since a committee of scholars to discuss the publication of a Latin dictionary on a greater scale than has ever yet been attempted. The chairman of the committee was State Privy Counsellor Althoff, and among the members were Professors Mommsen, Vahlen, Diehls and Hertz. Professor Hertz was authorized to complete the plans and make preliminary arrangements. This has now been done, and it is estimated that the total cost of the work will not be less than 500,000 marks. The lexicon will embrace ten large quarto volumes, each volume containing about twelve hundred pages. It is expected that the preparation and publication will occupy eighteen years. The work of collecting the materials is to be distributed among some fifty thorough Latinists, who will work under the direction of an editing committee, which again is to be assisted by ten specialists. The aim is to record every Latin word, not only of the classical period, but from its first use, following its course through the Latin literature of all ages. It will include also late and vulgar Latin, and its promoters hope to make it a dictionary worthy of the place which the language occupies among the tongues and literatures of the world.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusives of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

SUMMER BOOKS.

LAST ISSUE IN THE "METROPOLITAN SERIES."

FOR THE SAKE OF THE FAMILY.

By MAY CROMMELIN, author of "Goblin Gold," "The Freaks of Lady Fortune," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A new novel by this delightful author will be eagerly welcomed. "For the Sake of the Family" is a story that has both power and beauty, and is to be regarded as an exceptionally able, entertaining and wholesome novel.

THE EXPERIENCES OF A LADY HELP.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER, author of "Bootles' Baby," "Regimental Legends," etc. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Since the appearance of that clever and pathetic story of English army life in barracks, "Bootles' Baby," this author's productions have never lacked readers. "The Experiences of a Lady Help" is in every respect fully up to her average of excellence, and is calculated to sustain the author's already well-established reputation.

A Fatal Silence.

By FLORENCE MARRYAT, author of "There is No Death," "Blindfold," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

One of the most prolific writers of the day, and one who is rapidly making enviable reputation, is Florence Marryat. "A Fatal Silence" is an excellent example of her style.

Actæon.

By LAURA DAINTREY, author of "Fedor," "Eros," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Few well-informed people can truthfully take exception to Laura Daintrey's views of New York society as indicated in her new novel, "Actæon." Miss Daintrey has left the reader to form his own conclusions from a series of situations only too plausible, artfully embodied in a narrative of undeniable interest.

A Strong Novel by The Duchess.

NOW IN ITS EIGHTH EDITION!!

THE O'CONNORS OF BALLINAHINCH.

By THE DUCHESS. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"A highly important and useful contribution to contemporary literature."—The Sunday Mercury.

"A novel possessing all the characteristics of this prolific and popular author."—Denver News.

"In the 'O'Connors of Ballinahinch' the characters are original, well sustained, and the literary workmanship is excellent."—Providence Journal.

THE MAN IN POSSESSION.

By RITA, author of "A Vagabond Lover," "The Doctor's Secret." 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Rita" has rarely given us a prettier or more agreeable story than "The Man in Possession." It is a thoroughly enjoyable novel."—Charleston News.

"The Man in Possession" tells a bright and interesting story in an attractive manner. The plot is well constructed and the style is breezy, making a novel which is notably clever and readable."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

IN PRESS:

COLUMBUS,

An Epic Poem, giving an accurate history of the Great Discovery in rhymed heroic verse.
By SAMUEL JEFFERSON, F.R.A.S., F.C.S.
1 vol., illustrated, cloth, $1.25.

An Epic Poem of great power. While the author never departs from what is strictly historical, the rhythm and fire of heroic verse are nobly sustained throughout. Mr. Jefferson has infused a wonderful amount of enthusiasm into his work which will take high rank in the Columbian literature of the present century. A fine portrait of Columbus, engravings of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain, and an accurate representation of the "Santa Maria" enrich the volume.

New, Revised and Enlarged Edition of a Remarkably Successful Book.

A Natural Method of Physical Training,

Making Muscle and Reducing Flesh without Dieting or Apparatus. By EDWIN CHECKLEY. With instructive illustrations by H. D. Eggleston. Cloth, $1.50.

The quick popularity of this novel treatise has suggested to authors and publishers the propriety of a somewhat enlarged and revised edition, with two new chapters and additional illustrations. The new cover-design emphasizes the fact that this is a book for both men and women.

"A Natural Method of Physical Training," while a book that every athlete naturally reads, is not a work designed for athletic readers, but for the general reader—for all who want to feel strong and light and energetic. It is a book for the sedentary worker, and a book for those who are active; a book for those who need more muscle, better lungs, more physical self-command, less dyspepsia, or who are troubled with an excess of flesh.

No book on the subject of hygiene or physical culture ever received such wide and enthusiastic endorsement. Both the medical and general press has been exceedingly cordial. Here are some of the comments:

- "Worth its weight in gold."—N. Y. Herald.
- "We commend the book."—The Critic.
- "It is truly the natural method."—Public Opinion.
- "A decided hit."—The Journalist.
- "Appeals at once to the good sense of the reader."—Science.
- "Promises, by the proper control of the muscles, much better results than can be obtained by the exclusion of different kinds of food."—N. Y. Medical Times.
- "A new gospel of strength."—Chicago Herald.
- "You must soon have an army of followers."—WILLIAM BLAIRIE, author of "How to Get Strong."
- "Should be in the hands of every one who loves health."—University Voice.
- "He does not teach one to become an athlete so much as to become healthy."—Medical Review.
- "The writer is not acquainted with any treatise on the art of preserving health and comfort, or of regaining them when lost, by natural and inexpensive means, which is so sensible, so practical and so clear as this little book, which is heartily recommended to the public."—Journal of the Franklin Institute.
- "His methods and his discoveries are marvellous."—DR. BUCHANAN, in the "Anthropologist."

A Natural Method of Physical Training has been a good selling book from the start, and its career has only just begun.

Terms and discounts, and descriptive circular furnished on application.

CAPT'N DAVY'S HONEYMOON. A MANX YARN.

By HALL CAINE, author of "The Deemster," "The Scape-Goat," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"If proof were needed of the firm hold Mr. Hall Caine's latest story, 'The Scape-Goat,' has taken of the novel-reading public, it might be found in the rush for the cheap edition of that work. No fewer than 6000 copies were taken up by the trade before publication. An earlier novel, 'The Deemster,' has run through a dozen editions."—London Literary World.

ETELKA'S VOW.

By DOROTHEA GERARD, author of "A Queen of Curds and Cream," "Orthodox," etc., and joint author of "A Sensitive Plant." No. 98, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.

"We heartily commend 'A Queen of Curds and Cream' for its naturalness and for the skill with which the various characters are portrayed."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

"'A Queen of Curds and Cream' is a singularly original, interesting and powerful novel, which cannot fail to augment the author's already well-established reputation."—London Figaro.

AN ENGLISHMAN IN PARIS.

NOTES AND RECOLLECTIONS. In two volumes, 12mo, cloth, $4.50.

"Accomplished man of the world that the author was . . . much travelled, much learned in human nature, in French ways of life and in the science of living well . . . he writes out of a mind well stored with the choicest knowledge of Parisians and of Parisian life. We cannot conceive of any man writing a more interesting book of personal reminiscences for the same period. The author not only saw and remembered much, but he was a wise man and a sane one. All the operations of his mind were clear, strong and wholesome, and we see in his book much of that social charm and weight which in the Englishman at his best can be found as nowhere else in the world."—N. Y. Times.

NOTES IN SEASON.

B. WESTERMANN & Co. will publish in September the third volume of Conway and Crouse's translation of Karl Brugmann's "Comparative Grammar of the Indo-Germanic Languages." The fourth and concluding volume, with a full index, will be issued next year.

THE D. D. MERRILL CO., of St. Paul and New York, have purchased from John Wiley &

Sons the plates of their various editions of Ruskin's works and their entire stock of the same in sheets and bound. All orders for the Wiley editions and for any further volumes that may be issued will from this date be furnished by the D. D. Merrill Co.

LONGMANS, GREEN, & Co. have just published "Dorothy Wallis: an autobiography," a story of theatrical life, with a preface by Walter Besant; "Abraham Fabert," by G. Hooper, a most interesting biography of the first Marshal of France who rose from the ranks to that position; also, "Distinction and the Criticism of Belief," by Alfred Sidgwick, a consideration of the difficulties arising from acceptance of the doctrines of evolution.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will issue on August 8 Stevenson's long-expected book on Samoa, entitled "A Footnote to History," being a graphic and interesting narrative of the varied history of that island for the past eight years. They will also publish on the same date "Five Hundred Books for the Young," a carefully graded and annotated list of juvenile reading, compiled by George E. Hardy, Chairman of the Committee on Literature of the New York State Teachers' Association.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a new edition of W. H. Herndon's "Abraham Lincoln." The work has been thoroughly revised, and will be brought out in two volumes, with new illustrations, and an introduction written by Horace White. The first volume of Appletons' forthcoming military series, Captain Mahan's "Admiral Farragut," will be followed by Gen. O. O. Howard's "General Taylor." Gen. Bradley T. Johnson is writing a volume on "Washington," Gen. Fitzhugh Lee is preparing one on "General Lee," and "General Hancock" is to be dealt with by Gen. Francis A. Walker.

HARPER & BROTHERS' latest announcements include "The Woodman," a novel, by Jules de Glouvet (M. Guernay de Beaurepaire, famous for his prominence in connection with the trial of the anarchist Ravachol and with the case of Gen. Boulanger a few years ago), translated by Mrs. John Simpson (née Senior); "The Desire of Beauty," devoted to subjects connected with art and art criticism, discussing among other matters the invention of beauty, the various kinds of criticism, the education of the eye, etc., by Theodore Child; and "A Family Canoe Trip," the story of a summer tour through the lakes and rivers of northern New York, by Florence Watters Snedeker, illustrated.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, will issue this month "La Chute," from Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," edited with introduction and notes by Prof. Huss, of Princeton. Though taken from a large work, this book is an independent and well-rounded whole in itself. They also announce a work by Prof. Albert S. Cook, of Yale, entitled "The Bible and English Prose Style," and intended for use in schools, colleges, theological seminaries, and wherever there is a desire to approach the subject of Biblical study from the literary side; "The Teacher's Manual to Sheldon's Studies in American History," also, an abbreviated edition of De Vigny's "Cinq Mars," edited with introduction and notes, dealing quite largely with historical matters, by Prof. Sankey of Harrow School, England.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to; under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Apgar, Austin C. Trees of the northern United States: their study, description and determination, for the use of schools and private students. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 224 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The author is Professor of Botany in the New Jersey State Normal School. The ground covered is that of the wild and cultivated trees found east of the Rocky Mountains and north of the southern boundary of Virginia and Missouri. The illustrations are taken from original drawings from nature by the author, and the size of the illustration as compared with the specimen is indicated by fractions. A conservative course has been adopted in nomenclature. Scientific names are marked to indicate pronunciation.

Austen, Jane. Novels; ed. by Reginald Brimley Johnson. In 10 v. V. 1 and 2, Sense and sensibility; il. by W: C. Cooke. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 32+163; 4+218 p. S. cl., ea., $1.

Bardeen, C. W., comp. The song patriot: a collection of national and other songs for school and home. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1892. 80 p. sq. D. (Song budget music ser., no. 3.) pap., 15 c.

The Song Budget Music Series aims: 1. To give only the best music; 2. To give music just as it was written; 3. To give only songs that are strong, healthful and helpful. This instalment is specially intended for celebrations of Arbor Day, Decoration Day, etc.

Baring-Gould, Sabine. Margery of Quether, and other stories. N. Y., Lovell, Gestefeld & Co., [1892.] c. 4-286 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50c.

Although the time of the first story is the nineteenth century, it is evidently founded on an old superstition. George Rosedohn, of Foggaton, Lamerton Parish, Devonshire, tells of matrimonial intentions in which Margery Palmer, of Quether, was the centre of attraction until an eventful Christmas Eve, on which a meeting with another Margery transforms him strangely, and results in an exciting experience in which both "Margerys" are important figures. Included with this are four other short stories called "Tom A' Tudlams," "At the Y," "Major Cornelius," "Wanted a reader."

Baring-Gould, Sabine. The origin and development of religious belief. Pt. 1, Polytheism and monotheism; Pt. 2, Christianity. New ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 2 v., 16+422; 20+388 p. 8" (Silver lib.) cl., ea., $1.25.

Beant, Walter. Verbena Camellia Stephanotis, and other stories. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 8+338 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new series, no. 728.) pap., 50 c.

Verbena Camellia Stephanotis was the name the cemetery gardener of West Finchley was desirous of conferring on his only daughter, heroine of the first of a collection of stories, now first published in book form. "The doubt of Dives, a recital of a strange metamorphose" is the second story of the collection. Following this are "The demoniac," based on the harrowing experience of a man who suffered from an hereditary vice; and "The doll's house and—after," which is an answer to Hendrik Ibsen's "Doll's House."

Beant, W. H. Elementary hydrostatics; with chapters on the motion of fluids and on sound. 15th ed., rewritten. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 8-264 p. 12", cl., $1.25.

Black, W. Three feathers: a novel. New [uniform] and rev. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 6+334 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Blakie, Ja., and Thomson, W. Text-book of geometrical deductions. Bk. 2, corresponding to Euclid, Bk. 2; with miscellaneous deductions from Bks. 1 and 2. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 8+57 p. 16", cl., 80 c.

Bosworth, Franke Huntington, M.D. Diseases of the nose and throat. In 2 v. V. 2, Diseases of the throat. N. Y., W: Wood & Co., 1892. 832 p. il. O. cl., $6.

Brunton, T. Lauder. An introduction to modern therapeutics: Croonian lectures on the relationship between chemical structure and physiological action in relation to the prevention, control and cure of disease, delivered before the Royal College of Physicians in London, June, 1890. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 7-195 p. 8", cl., $1.50.

Buckley, J. M., D.D. Ingersoll under the microscope: Col. R. G. Ingersoll's reckless misstatements exposed, and his mental and moral characteristics analyzed. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1892. c. 36 p. S. pap., 6c.

The editor of the Christian Advocate refutes the statements made by Ingersoll in the N. Y. Evening Telegram in 1891, under the title "Colonel Ingersoll preaches a Christmas sermon." He follows this with a short treatise on the character and talents of Ingersoll, and gives some opinions held by noted men relative to him.

Clifford, Mrs. W. K. Aunt Anne: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 2+335 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Aunt Anne is almost seventy when she appears at the house of her nephew and his sweet young wife. She is old-fashioned, extravagant, tender-hearted and penniless, but has prospects of inheriting a large fortune from her cousin, an ex-Lord Mayor of London. A selfish, lazy man under thirty, knowing of her prospects, marries her. She adores him, and slaves and borrows for him. Mrs. Clifford is the author of "Love letters of a worldly woman."

leads to comical complications which the Englishman who suffers from them sets down as incomprehensible American humor.

Hume, Fergus. Miss Mephistopheles. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co.,] 1892. c. '90. 2+300 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1992.) pap., 25 c.

Hutton, Laurence. From the books of Laurence Hutton. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 5+182 p. por. T. cl., $1.

Half a dozen pleasant essays on "the oddities and curiosities of books," as exemplified in the author's library, which is "comfortably rich in literature of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries." The chapters have been published previously in different magazines and now appear revised and in some cases rewritten. They deal with "Some American book-plates," "Grangerism and the Grangerites," "Portraits of Mary Queen of Scots," "Some portrait inscriptions," "Poetical dedications" and "Poetical inscriptions."

*Illinois. The rules of court, as established by the several state courts of Ill., embracing the supreme and appellate cts., and the circuit, superior, criminal, county and probate cts. of Cook Co.; comp. and annot. by Robert L. Elliott. Chic., The Wait Pub. Co., 1892. c. 118 p. O. cl., net, $1.50.

Keating, J. M., M.D., Hamilton, H.; Da Costa, J. Chalmers, and Packard, F. A. New pronouncing dictionary of medicine: a voluminous and exhaustive handbook of medical and scientific terminology, with phonetic pronunciation, accentuation, etymology, etc. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 1892. c. 6-818 p. O. cl., net, $5; shp., $6.

Besides giving clear and concise definitions and fully covering the subject, the authors aim to establish a system for the pronunciation of the medical vocabulary in accordance with the pronunciation of English-speaking physicians. The Latin pronunciation is commended, but the Anglican preferred. In regard to accentuation the general rules of "Webster's Unbridged" are followed. There are included a table of medical abbreviations and an appendix containing important tables of bacilli, micrococci, leucococci, drugs and material used in antiseptic surgery, etc.

Nichol, J. Thomas Carlyle. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 8+257 p. D. (English men of letters.) cl., 75 c.

A concise and readable record of Carlyle's life and works, based on a careful study of his writings, on personal impressions and reminiscences, and on information supplied by previous biographers. In the general arrangement of the volume the intention has been to give prominence to the lesser known episodes of Carlyle's life, and to pass over the details of events with which all readers are familiar. The itinerary of Carlyle's foreign journeys is included, and the three last chapters are devoted to a critical consideration of his writings, philosophy, ethics and influence.

Perram, Annie Frances. That boy Mick.

N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, [1892.] 2-193 p. D. cl., 72 c.

"That boy Mick" worked all his life in the cause of temperance. He was a baker's errand boy, and devoted to everything in trouble.

Political platforms (The). N. Y., Miller Pub. Co., [1892.] 28 p. T. pap., 10 c.

The Republican platform as adopted at Minneapolis June 9, 1892; the Democratic platform as adopted at Chicago, June 23, 1892; the Prohibition platform as adopted at Cincinnati, June 30, 1892, and the Peoples' platform as adopted at Omaha, July 4, 1892.

*Poor, H. V. Poor's manual of the railroads of the United States for 1892: in which is incorporated Poor's Directory of railway officials and directors. 25th year. N. Y., H. V. & H. W. Poor, 1892. 1500 p. 8", cl., $6.

Ralph, Julian. On Canada's frontier: sketches of history, sport and adventure, and of the Indians, missionaries, fur traders and newer settlers of Western Canada. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 8+325 p. il. O. cl., $2.50. The chapters that compose this book originally formed a series of papers which recorded journeys and studies made in Canada during the past three years. They were published chiefly in Harper's Magazine. In the newer western parts of Canada the same mixed surplunge of Europe that settled the Western States is elbowing the fur trader and the Indian out of the way, and is laying out farms in the far north. The reader can get an insight into the almost departed life of the plainsmen and woodsmen, and of the newer forces of nation building on our continent.

*Richardson, M. T. Practical carriage-building. In 2 v. V. 2. N. Y., M. T. Richardson Co., 84 Reade st., 1892. 280 p. 12", cl., $1.

Rickoff, Rebecca D. A supplementary first reader. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 6+123 p. il. D. bds., 25 c.

The distinguishing features are: Words by sight learned first in sentences; analysis and synthesis combined in two interchangeable parts of one whole; comparisons of forms to cultivate the sight, and lead to a correct seeing of words. The complete reviews are most important, being the setting forth in tabulated forms of the stages of the work done.

Riddell, Mrs. J. H. The head of the firm. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., 1892. c. '91. 3-450 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., July 23, 1892, [1069].

Trollope, Mrs. Frances Eleanor. That wild wheel: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 4+410 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

That wild wheel of fortune brings many ups and downs to a great variety of characters. The scene shifts between London and Vevey, Switzerland. An old maiden lady and a bachelor artist, brother and sister, who have devoted their lives to taking care of other people's children, live their lives of perfect unselfishness to the end, bringing happiness into many hearts. The inheritance of a great fortune occupies many possible heirs.

Trumbull, M. M., ["Wheelbarrow," pseud.] The free-trade struggle in England. 2d ed., rev. and enl. [Also,] Making scarcity. Chic., Open Court Pub. Co., 1892. c. 2+288+9 p. D. cl., 75 c.; pap., 25 c.

By the free-trade struggle in England is meant the campaign from 1888 to 1890, or from the formation of the Anti-Corn Law League to the final overthrow of the protective system. This book was first published in 1892 and dedicated to John Bright. To keep it abreast of the debate on the issue between free trade and protection, the questions of the hour in the United States, the author has revised it and given some additional facts.

*United States. Department of the Interior. Official register of the United States, cont. a list of the officers and employees in the civil, military and naval service on the 1st of July, 1891; with a list of vessels belonging to the United States. V. 2, Post-office department and postal service; comp. under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior by T. S. Ames. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1892. 6+1424 p. Q. leath., n. p.

United States. (State Department.) Bureau of American Republics. Bull. no. 41, Commercial information concerning the American republics and colonies, 1891. Wash., D. C., Government Print. Office, 1892. 286 p. O. pap., n. p.

Selected extracts from daily bulletins furnished to the press of events in the American republics and colonies, arranged in classified form. The information covered is of permanent value to manufacturers, merchants, historical students and others.

*Weismann, A.; M.D. Essays upon heredity and kindred biological problems; authorized tr., ed. by E: B. Poulton and Arthur E. Shipley. V. 2. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 8+226 p. 12", cl., $1.30.

Weyl, Walter E., Luce, Rob., Hall, Bolton, [and others]. Equitable taxation: six essays; with introd. by Jonathan A. Lane. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 94 p. D. cl., 75 c.

In the autumn of 1891 Public Opinion offered three prizes for essays in answer to the question: "What, if any, changes in existing plans are necessary to secure an equitable distribution of the burden of taxation for the support of national, state and municipal governments? Six of these, short and pithy, are here given. The introduction is by the President of the Boston Merchants' Association.

Wilkins, Mary E. Young Lucretia, and other stories. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 4+258 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Young Lucretia was so called to distinguish her from an aunt of the same name. Her career is that of a bright child, who fails to live up to the standard of her guardians, two prim New England maiden ladies. She appeals to her aunts and the reader in her own quaint and individual way. This story, followed by twelve others, entitled: How Fidella went to the store; Ann Mary, her two Thanksgivings; Ann Lizzy's patchwork; The little Persian princess; Where the Christmas tree grew; Where Sarah Jane's doll went; Seventeen's ghost; Little Mirandy; and how she earned her shoes; A parsnip stew; The Dickey boy; A sweet grass basket; Mchitable Lamb.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 6, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue," and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XVII.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—III.

THE order-clerk must refuse all orders that are not clearly written, intelligible, or complete in every particular. Imperfect orders should be returned at once to the salesman offering them; any delay in filling such, or loss that may result through an oversight on the part of the salesman, must be charged to him. Every order should be written out so that it may be comprehended by the order-clerk without loss of time.

It should be dated and give full name (not forgetting initials) and address of the customer. The short title of the book should be given in full (not abbreviated); and the salesman should make it a practice whenever possible to give the name of the publisher, and any other information that will assist in hunting for the book wanted. Of course it is not necessary to do this latter in the case of current and well-known books, but only in the case of such as are out of the common run. Instruction should also be plainly given whether the order when filled should be sent C.O.D., or be charged, or should bear the stamp of the cashier showing that the goods have been paid for. All these details being attended to properly, when the order is signed by the salesman his part of the transaction is completed, and his responsibility at an end.

In cases where the salesman sells part of an order from stock, and has to procure one or more books by "pick-up," the order should be made out for the entire bill sold, the books on hand being checked off with some mark agreed upon which signifies that they are laid out and will be sent to the order department. The order-clerk will also transcribe the entire order in his book, so that the transaction becomes a matter of record. He then procures the books wanted and ships them with the books already laid out.

We will endeavor to illustrate by an example the method of treating an order by the order-clerk, which we have in mind. The order book may be of any convenient size and number of pages, and ruled or not as may be desired. The date should stand at the top of each page, and each page should have a folio number. The following order found in the salesman's order book should be transcribed by the order-clerk as follows:

March 30, 1891.

[or Slip No. 375, as may be used.]

Mrs. John Jones,
1798 Lexington Ave.,
N. Y. City.

- 1 Fair God.
- 1 Essay on Temperance Question, by Swingle, paper.
- 1 Satan in Society.
- 1 Wallace, Adirondacks.

Charge.

H. Bancroft.
[Salesman's name.]

The foregoing shows the order as first entered in the order-clerk's book. Two lines, at least, or a space of half an inch should be left between each title or item to allow of notes being added as progress is made in filling the order. Several lines also should be left between each order, and a red line drawn between them clear across the page to make a complete and distinct separation that may easily be followed by the eye. The order book must have an index, in which every name should be entered as soon as the order has been transcribed. If to the name the address is also added as : the index will be found useful in more ways than one. If the index be kept in a separate book it might also answer the purpose of an address book.

Jones, Mrs. J. (1798 Lexington Av.) 185

The process of filling Mrs. Jones's order may be something like the following, and in the course of a few days or months the original entry may look like this :

the search thus far has failed to discover the book ; also, that he has advertised for the book and hopes that through that means he may yet be able to procure a copy. " Satan in Society " is out of print, hence the well known sign, o.p. Tried everywhere, means that the order-clerk has resorted to all possible methods to pick up a copy. Later a copy turns up, and so a memorandum is made in the margin, s 5/2, that is, sent May 2. The publishers of Wallace's " Adirondacks " report the book out of print, and announce that a new issue may be expected shortly. By reference to the margin it will be seen that the customer received a copy May 18. Thus after a lapse of nearly two months the order has been worked off, with the exception of Swingle's " Essay on the Temperance Question," which is still missing.

Thus a reference to the order-book gives at all times the exact standing of an order and a record of what has been accomplished and why the open orders can't be filled. In this case every

	Charge.	H. Bancroft. [Salesman's name.]

Wallace's " Fair God " being easily procured, it is sent to Mrs. Jones on the day the order is received, and so marked in the space ruled off on the left hand of the page s 3/30, i.e., sent March 30. The other books, however, have given some trouble. By the note under " Essay on Temperance Question, by Swingle," it appears that the National Temperance Publication Society doesn't know the book, and that inquiry at the Prohibition headquarters, at Leggat's book-shop and elsewhere has proved equally fruitless. So the order-clerk has added the hieroglyphics, c.f.; notified 4/5. Adv. P. W. 4/20; i.e., can't find; notified customer April 5 what efforts have been made to find the book, and that item but one has been disposed of. In the case of the missing book (Swingle's essay), the chances are that the customer has given a wrong title, and that no such book is in existence. However, it will not do to give up the search. Indeed, the order-clerk must learn to say " Never die." It is the discovery of just such books that helps to make the reputation of a firm for enterprise—and helps the order-clerk to prosper. As the order book becomes filled, and here and there an order is left open, the latter are transferred to another book, which we will call the Balance Book. Into this are transcribed all unfilled orders, marking against such in the margin of the original Order Book, as in the present case, the abbreviation B. 291, i.e., Balance Book, p. 291. In the Balance Book the folio of the Order Book is marked against the transferred order thus: O. B., A-185; i.e., Order Book A, p. 185. The entry in the Balance Book would then read:

sale," was finally bought by the house that disposed of the $6000 copy, and sold by them for $6500.

I did not say there were no leaves in fac-simile in the $6000 copy, as I thought it unnecessary. In describing the President of the United States it Cancelled.

1 Essay on Temperance question, by Swingle, paper.

Published privately by O. S. Williams, 700 Beekman Street, N. Y., at 5c. Notified 8/10. Reply: Don't want now; too late.

Jones, O.B., A-185.

By this method the order-clerk may keep before him all unfilled orders for easy daily reference. In this case it appears that after a long hunt Swingle's essay has been hunted to its cover. It was privately printed by O. S. Williams, 700 Beekman Street, New York, at 50 cents. On notifying the customer August 10, word was received that it was too late and that he had no longer any use for the book. Hence there is nothing left but to cancel the order, and to make a memorandum in the order-clerk's index rerum of "Swingle, 'Essay on Temperance Question.' O. S. Williams, 700 Beekman St., N. Y. 50 c.;" and under "Temperance, see Swingle."

The order-clerk may save himself worry and time by inquiring of his customer, after the lapse of three or four weeks, whether he wishes the search continued. Often certain books are wanted for a special purpose and at a certain time, or not at all.

MR. SMALLEY AND THE $6000 FIRST FOLIO SHAKESPEARE.

"It would be interesting to know the size of the $6000 [First Folio Shakespeare] copy, its condition and the reason for the extraordinary price asked and given."—G. W. S., in N. Y. Tribune.

In the issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for June 18, 1892, may be found full answers to all the above queries, but for the benefit of Mr. Smalley I will repeat all of what is known of the copy in question.

It came from Mr. Brayton Ives' library. At the sale of his collection it fetched \$4200. Where Mr. Ives got it I never heard, but doubtless he has no objections to giving the information. The size was  $12\frac{3}{8} \times 7\frac{1}{8}$  inches. It was sound and clean (not cleaned), which is quite a different thing.

By sound I mean that it was, with the exception of being cut and rebound, just as issued. Not a corner had been patched or mended, and it was in the slang of the trade a "crackling" copy. The binding was crimson morocco, by Bedford.

Mr. Smalley is wrong in thinking such prices without precedent in England. Mr. Quaritch advertised a copy not more than four years ago for £1200. This, though marked "not for would hardly be worth while to mention the fact that he was not born in China.

If Mr. Quaritch, as charged by Mr. Smalley, is not in the habit of calling attention to imperfections which do exist, it shows he is a man to be avoided by all bookbuyers. At the same time it is a very dangerous charge to make unless it can be substantiated. Mr. Quaritch can well look after himself in a quarrel. He is the "bad man" of the book trade. Witness his killing of the Ellis-Ives Columbus letter, and to him will I leave the answering of G. W. S.'s charges.

BIBLIOPHILUS.

EX-LIBRIS.

THE affixing of the book-plate, says a writer in the London Saturday Review, completes, in a certain manner difficult to describe, which most book lovers must readily recall, the subtle joy of book possession. And inasmuch as once pasted in, the label becomes an integral part of a cherished volume, it is in all but rare cases meant to be in itself a thing of definite beauty. Here is one of the many interests offered by a book plate to the collector.

Furthermore, "Style is the man," said Buffon, largely. This truism may be paraphrased with reference to other than literary style. A "bibliophile's" plate often does (always should) reveal special tastes, peculiarities of fancy, personal bias, details that might not otherwise have been perpetuated. This is most particularly the case with the style of ex-libris known as the "Library Interior," the "Book Pile," the "Allegorical," in which much of the owner's personality has scope to appear.

The present may be said to be distinctly a collecting age; it is also very perceptibly a book-loving one. Now the study of book-plates is a humble, but by no means useless or even closely restricted, branch of bibliography, and the collecting of ex-libris is a pursuit which it were wrong to compare, as men have lightly done, to the "hoarding of postage-stamps."

The book-plate has an interest which covers three and three-quarters centuries; and, whether ancient or modern, it may have one or all of the following heads of value to the antiquarian, the artist, the littérateur. It may bear a date, and thus help to fix a definite taste in graving and ornamentation; it may appear as a record of some well-known person in the past; it may offer special information to the herald and genealogist; it may be a remarkably handsome thing in itself.

NEW YORK INVADED BY BOOKWORMS.

CLOSE upon the recent invasion of Manhattan Island by thousands of enthusiasts in the cause of the elevation of the human race, comes the dread news of the stealthy entry of two enemies that has struck terror into the heart of every man who owns a book worth having. So wily has been their insinuation into our midst that it would be difficult to fix the exact date of their immigration. Their history really begins with the fine morning, last week, on which Mr. W. E. Benjamin, of 751 Broadway, New York City, took from his shelf a worn leather-bound copy of Seneca, published in London in 1675, and found two healthy specimens of the genus Aglossa pinguinalis ensconced in a burrow through the bottom of the precious book. Instantly Doraston's verses on the "Bookworm" (for the reader will have guessed by this time that we are occupying his attention with an account of that enemy of books) recurred to him:

"There is a sort of busy worm
That will the fairest books deform,
By gnawing holes throughout them,
Alike through every leaf they go.
Yet of its merits naught they know,
Nor care they aught about them.

"Their tasteless tooth will tear and taint
The Poet, Patriot, Sage, or Saint,
Not sparing wit or learning.
Now, if you'd know the reason why,
The best of reasons I'll supply:
'Tis bread to the poor vermin.

"Of pepper, snuff, or 'bacca smoke,
And Russian calf they make a joke.
Yet, why should sons of science
These puny, rankling reptiles dread?
'Tis but to let their books be read,
And bid the worms defiance."

An ante-mortem inquest, held by a number of bibliophiles at Mr. Benjamin's store, revealed the following:

THE SENECA.

The copy of the Seneca, which, by the way, belonged to John Carey in 1782, lay on a small table, open at page 46. In the lower right-hand corner of the page, a small, white worm lay buried in a hole it had eaten in the pages. The worm was motionless. Protruding over the edge of the leaves and attached to the tail of the worm was a conical cocoon. The worm and its companion, which began at the end of Seneca to eat forward while the other began at the front and is working toward the end, are the first of their kind known to have visited New York City. The worm eating in the front of the book is about three-eighths of an inch long and one-eighth of an inch in diameter. Its head ends bluntly, while its tail tapers to a sharp point. It is the color of water mixed with oatmeal. It lay motionless, until through the carelessness of one onlooker the cocoon was torn from the paper. The worm then raised itself suddenly, but almost instantly resumed its former position, buried in the pages.

The cocoon, when examined under a microscope, appeared to have six legs, or leg-cases, and a white median line, barely perceptible, on its under side. At the end from which the worm had emerged were two fine horns, thinner than silk thread. There were five rings around the tail. The structure of the shell is so thin that one can easily see through it. With the worm in the back of the book no shell could be found.*

Heretofore all authorities on the bookworm—and there are many scientists who have devoted much time to the pest—have agreed that he was not known anywhere in the United States. According to Ringwalt's "Encyclopædia of Printing," published in Philadelphia in 1871, the bookworm is a stranger in this country and is supposed to have been introduced into England in hog-leather binding from Holland. It says that "there is now in a private library in Philadelphia a book perforated by this insect." Mr. Ringwalt does not say whether the worm was found. That bookworms are becoming scarcer and rarer year by year is evident when one recalls that Bernard Quaritch, when he found a bookworm in one of his books five years ago, gave a dinner to all his customers. It remains for Mr. Benjamin to do likewise.

Since the above was written death has overtaken one of the invaders. Mr. Benjamin ascribes its death to the carelessness of one of the bibliophiles who examined it on Saturday last. The bookworm was weaving a cocoon and had it about half finished. The bibliophile was examining it through a magnifier when he carelessly let the glass fall. It struck the cocoon and tore it from the worm. The bookworm, which had hitherto lain motionless, rose upright, but almost instantly sank again into its nest among the leaves. The cocoon was put back as nearly as possible in its former position and the book was closed. When Mr. Benjamin opened it on the morning of the 1st inst. the bookworm's body protruded half way over the edge of the book. As its owner watched it it fell clear off Seneca, and died. The remaining member of the family is still alive.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THEODORE H. VULTREE, Secretary of L'Artiste Publishing Company, at 7 Warren Street, New York, died suddenly in his office on the 2d inst. He had just returned from lunch. Mr. Vultee left his home, 327 York Street, Jersey City, in the morning, in apparently good health. He had been complaining lately of heart trouble, and it is supposed that heart disease caused his death. He was born in New York City sixty-six years ago.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE portion of the Althorp Library which Lord Spencer has been obliged by his circumstances to dispose of, was sold July 28 at private sale to an Englishman whose name has not been given, and who will, it is understood, provide a suitable building for its reception, to which the general public shall have free access.

GINN & Co. have nearly ready "German Orthography and Phonology," by George Hempl, Asst. Professor of English in Michigan University. They will publish in the fall "Fourier's Series, and Spherical, Cylindrical and Ellipsoidal Harmonics," with applications to problems in mathematical physics, by W. E. Byerly, and "Analytics of English Prose and Poetry," by L. A. Sherman, Professor of English Literature in the University of Nebraska.

THE famous Poe Cottage, at Fordham, N. Y., has again passed into other hands. A wealthy Catholic publisher has just bought the quaint and fast-decaying house, and as soon as the present litigation over the title to the property is settled the new owner will have the cottage lifted up and carried to his country-seat a few blocks away. There it will receive a thorough overhauling, several hundred dollars will be spent in its complete renovation, and the whole thing transformed into an art studio and library for the use of the new owner.

BERNARD QUARITCH, London, will publish in October an edition of 500 copies of Caxton's "Golden Legend," in three volumes, quarto, printed from type of William Morris' designing, with ornamental letters and borders also of his invention, besides two full-page woodcuts from designs by Burne-Jones. Mr. Morris and Mr. Frederick S. Ellis will edit the work, furnishing a glossary and some bibliographical memoranda. Caxton's "Recuyell of the Histories of Troye," as already noted, will be brought out in similar style in January, and his "Hystorie of Reynard the Foxe" is in contemplation.

A NEW edition of the Waverley Novels announced by A. & C. Black, Edinburgh, will comprise twenty-five volumes, one to appear each month. It will be known as the Dryburgh Edition. Each volume will be intrusted for illustration "to an artist whose qualifications seem specially to fit him for illustrating the period with which the novel deals," and will contain ten illustrations. The text will be collated word for word with the copy on which Scott made his last notes, now in the possession of the publishers. Glossaries will be appended to each volume, and volume xxv. will contain an index to all the novels.

THE prize of one hundred pounds offered for guessing the author's title of a shilling story issued some months ago from the Leadenhall Press has not been gained, according to the London Academy. The title is suggested in the opening sentence in the book—"I have only one eye but I was born with two"—and again in the frontispiece which represents a human eye with the legend "I lost the other without knowing how." More than one-half the competitors thought that the word "eye" had something to do with it; and among the guesses were "An Eye for an Eye"—by far the most numerous—"Eye & Eye," "I and I," "I," "I and Eye," "Two Eyes," "A Black Eye," "Eyes Right" and "Eye Owe You." The author's title is "An Eye and an I." The story itself is by Mr. Andrew Tuer, the director of the Leadenhall Press, who, now that the prize is withdrawn, seems to think that even sixpence is more than the little book is worth; at any rate, he has scored out "one shilling" on the cover and has substituted the lower price with satis superque printed underneath.

THE firm of Benziger & Co. was founded in 1792 in the town of Einsiedeln, Switzerland, and on June 12 celebrated its centennial anniversary with much pomp and festivities, in which the entire German book trade took active interest. The founder of the business was Josef Karl Benziger. In the early thirties his two sons, Karl and Nikolas, inherited the establishment. Their specialty was Catholic devotional books, and has remained so to the present day. Their sons in turn took charge of the business and are now at the head of the great book-house. In the early fifties the first American branch of the house was established in New York, under the firm-name of Benziger Brothers. A second branch followed in Cincinnati in 1860, and a third was located in St. Louis in 1875, which has since been removed to Chicago. The publications of this firm include upwards of 400 different prayer-books and books of devotion and Bibles and Bible stories in almost every language. They also publish a great number of Catholic works of art, and make a specialty of color printing. The description of the festivities, which lasted two days, is given at length in the Börsenblatt for June 27.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BATAVIA, N. Y.—Joseph Spellman, bookseller, has sold out to Frank Spellman.

CARSON CITY, NEV.—John G. Fox, bookseller, intends closing out.

CHEYENNE, WYO.—John K. Jeffrey, bookseller, has sold out.

CHICAGO, ILL.—William T. Keenan, bookseller, has failed.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Automatic Newspaper Distributing Company, of Chicago, was incorporated July 20 with a capital stock of $200,000. The general principle of the machine to distribute newspapers is similar to the "nickel-in-the-slot" machine. A cent or two cents, as the case may be, is dropped into a slot and a handle pulled. Forthwith the purchaser is confronted with the paper he desires. The machine will also make change when required.

CLINTON, MASS.—George S. Harris & Co., booksellers, have sold out.

HARTFORD, CONN.—James H. Minor, bookseller and stationer, has sold out to George M. Parsons.

IONIA, MICH.—R. Ward & Co., booksellers, have sold out.

KENANSVILLE, N. C.—J. B. Whitaker, bookseller, has advertised his business for sale.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—T. Alexander, at 215 Washington Ave., S., has taken an assistant and proposes to handle a complete line of all school-books that are being used in the universities as well as the public and private schools of this city and vicinity. His new store is one of the best in the city.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusives of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1892 (Twentieth Year).

Large 8vo, 3430 pages. With Duplex Index. Cloth, net, $2.00.

The Trade List Annual for 1892 will contain:

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.
2. A complete list by author, title and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from January to June, 1892, supplementing the ANNUAL CATALOGUE, 1891.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1892, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Only those subscribing and forwarding amount now are entitled to subscription rate of $1.50; after publication day and on orders which we have to collect after that date the regular price is $2.00 NET. The edition is limited.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 90 cents per copy extra. Address

Longmans, Green & Co.'s New Books.

THE HOUSE OF THE WOLF. A romance. By STANLEY J. WEYMAN. New edition. (Silver library.) With frontispiece. 12mo, $1.25.

"It is brief, vigorous and exciting, while the characters, though very much the reverse of common-place, seem literally to breathe and move."—The Independent.

NEW STORY OF THEATRICAL LIFE.

DOROTHY WALLIS. An autobiography. With preface by Walter Besant. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

"Miss Wallis' autobiography has the great merit of being original. Others may have had her experiences, but few have had the courage to tell them in so ungarlished and ingenious a style."—Saturday Review.

ABRAHAM FABERT: Governor of Sedan, Marshal of France (the first who rose from the Ranks); His Life and Times, 1599-1662. By G. HOOPER, author of "Waterloo; the Downfall of the First Napoleon," etc. With a portrait. 8vo, $3.50.

DISTINCTION; and the Criticism of Beliefs. By ALFRED SIDGWICK, author of "Fallacies." Crown 8vo, $1.75.

"* This book is intended to be a plain statement of the difficulties arising from accepting doctrines of evolution with especial reference to the question of their removal.

THE BLUE POETRY BOOK. Edited by ANDREW LANG. New edition. Printed on india paper, with notes. Fcap., 8vo, extra cloth, gilt edges, $2.00.

"* To this edition a few notes, mainly on points of anti-quarianism connected with the traditional songs and ballads, have been added by Mr. Lang. The design of the cover is taken from an Italian binding of the fifteenth century, figured in Libri's "Monuments Inédits."

BEGGARS ALL. A novel. By L. DOUGALL. Sixth edition. Crown 8vo, cloth, ornamental, $1.00.

"This is one of the strongest as well as most original romances of the year. . . . The plot is extraordinary. . . . The close of the story is powerful and natural. . . . A masterpiece of restrained and legitimate dramatic fiction."—Literary World.

"To say that 'Beggars All' is a remarkable novel is to put the case mildly indeed, for it is one of the most original, discerning, and thoroughly philosophical presentations of character that has appeared in English for many a day. . . . Emphatically a novel that thoughtful people ought to read. . . . The perusal of it will by many be reckoned among the intellectual experiences that are not easily forgotten."—Boston Beacon.

"A story of thrilling interest."—Home Journal.

"A very unusual quality of novel. It is written with ability; it tells a strong story with elaborate analysis of character and motive. . . . It is of decided interest and worth reading."—Commercial Advertiser, N. Y.

NOTES IN SEASON.

SAALFIELD & FITCH, New York, have issued a story of modern American life, entitled "A Little Game with Destiny," by Marie St. Félix. It is the story of a young girl in "fast" society, told partly in the form of a diary, partly in letters, and it has elicited a strong letter of appreciation from Albert Ross, author of "Speaking of Ellen."

F. J. SCHULTE & Co., Chicago, have in press for early publication "The Monk and the Hangman's Daughter," by Ambrose Bierce and G. A. Danziger, with illustrations by Theodor Hampe;

"Winged Victory and Other Tales," by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, illustrated by Will Chapin; "A Lodi Girl," a story of the Canadian rebellion, by Forrest Crissey; and "A Luminous Face," a story of the Canadian wilderness, by William Armstrong.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued "Capt'n Davy's Honeymoon: a Manx yarn," by Hall Caine; also, a new volume in Appletons' Summer Series, by John Seymour Wood, entitled "Gramercy Park: a story of New York." They have in preparation "The Story of Columbus," by Mrs. Seelye, a daughter of Dr. Edward Eggleston, who has edited the work, illustrated by Mrs. Seelye's sister, Miss Allegra Eggleston; and a new novel by Miss Woods, the author of "Metzerott, Shoemaker," which is to be called "From Dusk to Dawn," and which partly turns upon the relation of the individual to the community.

MORRILL, HIGGINS & Co. have just issued "Fair to Look Upon," by Mary Belle Freeley, in which the Old Testament stories of Eve, Hagar, Rebekah, Sarah, Lot's wife and other wives are told by a prospective bride to her intended husband to prove to him that women never did obey, and that with the exception of the case of Lot's wife their disobedience remained unpunished, for they were "fair to look upon." It contains numerous illustrations in different colors. Among the newest books of the house are a second series of "In Friendship's Name," by Volney Streamer; "An Unwedded Wife," by Genevieve Kirk, and "The Crime of Philip Guthrie," by Lulah Ragsdale.

FUNK & WAGNALLS Co. have now ready the first two volumes of the "Columbian Historical Novels," by John Musick, of which there will be twelve, to be issued bi-monthly. The first novel is entitled "Columbia, a story of the discovery of America;" the second is "Estavan, a story of the Spanish conquests, treading the ground cleared by Prescott in his Conquest of Peru." The remaining volumes will be "St. Augustine, a story of the Huguenots;" "Pocahontas, a story of Virginia;" "The Pilgrims, a story of Massachusetts;" "A Century Too Soon, the story of Bacon's rebellion;" "The Witch of Salem;" "Braddock, a story of the French and Indian Wars;" "Independence, the American Revolution;" "Sustained Honor, the War of 1812;" "Humbled Pride, the Mexican War," and "Union, the story of the Civil War."

HARPER & BROTHERS have in preparation an illustrated edition of Green's "Short History of the English People," a work which has probably been more widely read and enjoyed than any other of its kind. The illustrations have been selected with the purpose of carrying out the favorite wish of the author, to interpret and illustrate English history by pictures which should show how men and things appeared to lookers-on of their own day, and how contemporary observers aimed at representing them. Besides a large number of elegant wood-engravings, the work will contain several colored plates, including reproductions from manuscripts, illuminated missals, etc., executed in the highest style of chromo-lithography. An exhaustive series of portraits of eminent persons will also be a prominent feature. The first volume may be expected shortly.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles. D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: P. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (8mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fc. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*Appleton's general guide to the United States. New ed., rev. to date. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 12°, flex. mor., tucks, $2.50; or in 2 v., ea., $1.25.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. Chronicles of the builders of the commonwealth: historical character study. V. 7. San Francisco, Cal., The History Co., [N. Y., Frank M. Derby, 149 Church st.,] 1892. c. 90. 12+680 p. pors. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus. or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor. or tree cf., $10.

This volume treats of the rise of commercial towns on Puget's Sound. Among their builders were Francis E. Warren, Watson C. Squire, George W. Hunt, Milo A. Smith, Bernard Goldsmith, Murray D. Foley, Asa D. Childress, Albert H. Denny, Jerome Churchill, Hugh H. Toland, William F. McNutt, Marion M. Bovard, Daniel Ream, Nathaniel Gray, William F. Edgar, Alonzo E. J. Horton, William Reid, Rodney Gilman, Moses Hopkins, James P. Treadwell, Ozro W. Childs, Robert W. Waterman and Charles S. Dole.

Barrie, J. M. Auld licht idylls. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 1+249 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 10, 1891, [1028.]

Barrie, J. M. An Edinburgh eleven: pencil portraits from college life. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 187 p. D. cl., $1.

The subjects of these eleven pen portraits are Lord Roseberry, Profs. Masson, Blackie, Calderwood, Tait, Fraser, Chrystal, Sellar, Mr. Joseph Thomson, Robert Louis Stevenson and the Rev. Walter C. Smith, D.D.

*Bartholomew, J. The world at home atlas; with descriptive index. N. Y., T. Nelson & Son, 1892. 232 p. 8°, hf. mor., $8.

Caine, Hall. Cap'n Davy's honeymoon: a Manx yarn. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 207 p. D. cl., $1.

The wild coast of the Isle of Man is the scene. A Manx sailor leaves his home and makes a fortune in Peru. After ten years he returns and marries the girl who has waited for him and who had become superficially refined and educated during those years of separation. The sailor's rough manners irritate her; they quarrel and separate. The ingenious means by which another pair of lovers bring them together make quite a laughable tale.

*Carlyle, T. The French revolution: a history. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 624 p. 12°, cl., $1.50.

*Carpenter, R. C. Text-book of experimental engineering. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1892. 16+709 p. 8°, cl., $6.

*Chadwick, F. E. Temperament, disease and health. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. 12°, cl., 75 c.

Clarke, F. M. A maiden of Mars. Chic., C. H. Sergel & Co., 1892. c. 254 p. D. (Sergel's international lib., v. 1, no. 17.) pap., 50 c.

The introduction depicts the meeting of two friends, one of whom entrusts to the other a manuscript which is to remain unopened for six years. At the appointed time the packet is unsealed and proves to be a fantastic autobiographical narrative, abounding in mysticism and metaphysics. The hero studies among the "adepts" of India, is enabled at will to transport himself to the planet Mars, which he finds in every way superior to this workaday world, and, finally, by at earthly death enters into a life of happiness among "the greater glories of the higher plane."

Collins, Mabel. Morial the Mahatma. N. Y., Lovell, Gestefeld & Co., [1892.] c. 92. 270 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

Morial the Mahatma is supposed to be the chief of the seers, magicians and theosophists, and has his dwelling-place in the highest mountains of Thibet. He appears in spirit to a young English painter, who, following the call, leaves his country and the girl he is to marry and sets out for Thibet. The story describes the dangers of his journey and the life of the girl he leaves in England, who is also worked upon by a designing guardian ostensibly under the occult influence. The climax is dramatic.

*Daniels, G. F. History of the town of Oxford, Mass.; with genealogies and notes of persons and estates. Oxford, Mass., published by the author, G. F. Daniels, with the co-operation of the town, 1892. 846 p. il. 8°, cl., $4.

Denison, Mary A. Barbara's triumphs: or, the fortunes of a young artist. N. Y., Seaside Publishing Co., [1892.] c. 90. 197 p. S. (Rugby lib., no. 9.) pap., 10 c.

Dorothy Wallis: an autobiography; with intro. by Walter Besant. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 9+319 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In the form of letters to her lover Dorothy Wallis, a gifted, ambitious girl tells the history of her going to London to earn her living. She aims to be an actress, but supports herself at many occupations before her dreams are realized. She does office work, stands behind a counter, addresses wrappers, and finally gaining a foothold in a provincial company, by hard work reaches a good position and artistic success.

Dougall, Miss Lily. Beggars all: a novel. 6th ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 461 p. D. cl., $1.

By means of a dramatic plot the author enforces the lesson that all human beings have some affinity with goodness, and that no matter what their position in life, there is a point at which every human being becomes a beggar for sympathy, kindness, food or shelter. The story is a sustained psychological analysis, full of realistic detail and a spirit of broad humanity.

Emerson, G. H., D.D. God and the Bible: fundamental principles briefly stated in answer to special questions put forth by the Boston Investigator. Bost., Universalist Publishing House, 1892. c. 61 p. S. cl. net, 25 c.

A compilation of a few editorial articles which appeared in the Christian Leader in the spring of 1882. They are now printed in book form, "In the belief that they may meet the needs of those who are as yet not distinctly informed in regard to the basal principles of Theism and the Scriptures as these are now held by later thinkers and scholars."

Englishman (An) in Paris: notes and recollections. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 2 v., 13+332; 13+352 p. D. cl., $4.50.

The reminiscences of an Englishman who resided in Paris from the time of Louis Philippe to the downfall of the Commune. Though the work was published anonymously, the author is evidently a man of rank and importance in the social world, as he was admitted into the confidence of public men, diplomatists, ministers and even crowned heads. He was also on familiar terms with the great artists and authors of his time as well as the celebrities of the stage. Fresh and interesting details, taken from his own experience, are given of Napoleon III., Rachel, Dumas, Balzac, Louis Philippe, Lola Montez, Tagliani, Eugène Delacroix, the Princess Demidoff, Félicien David, Auber, Guizot, Lamartine, Béranger, Queen Victoria, the Empress Eugénie and others. The report started by the English papers that the late Sir R. Wallace was the author of the book is now authoritatively denied by the London Spectator.

Flather, J. J. Dynamometers and the measurement of power: treatise on the construction and application of dynamometers; with a description of the methods and apparatus employed in measuring water-power. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1892. c. 6+215 p. D. cl., $2.

Presents in convenient form, for the use of technical students and engineers, a description of the construction and principles of action of the various types of dynamometer employed in the measurement of power. A chronological presentation of the subject has not been attempted, as many of the forms once used have entirely disappeared. With very few exceptions the types discussed are those now in use. The work has been used as the basis of a course of lectures to engineering students, and is the outgrowth of a series of articles published in the American Machinist.

*Florida. Supreme ct. A complete table of Florida cases, cited, approved, modified, distinguished, denied, doubted or overruled, from v. 1 to 26, incl., by Hugh E. Miller. Ocala, Fla., H. E. Miller, 1892. c. 89 p. O. pap., $2.

Frealey, Mary Belle. Fair to look upon; il. by W. L. Dodge. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. 7-180 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The Old Testament stories of Eve, Hagar, Rebekah, Sarah, Lot's wife, and others are related in a familiar and rather irreverent style to prove an assertion made by a prospective bride to her intended husband that she "didn't believe a woman ever lived who ever obeyed any one." While she shows that her heroines were generally disobedient, she offers testimony that they were all "very fair to look upon." There are numerous illustrations printed in different colors.

*General digest of the decisions of the principal courts in the United States: digests all reports, official and unofficial, published during the year ending Sept., 1888, together with the N. E., central and western reporters from 1888. 2d ed., rev. and annot. [V. 1, A-H, v. 2, H-W.] Rochester, N. Y., The Lawyers' Co-op. Pub. Co., 1892. c. 2 v., 119+894; 2012 p. O. shp., $6.

Gerard, Dorothea. Etelka's vow: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 2+228 p. S. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 98.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Two officers of an Austrian regiment stationed at Donnerstadt are about to fight a duel in what they call the "American" style, which means that two pellets shall be drawn for, the one drawing the black one being required to shoot himself. Géza Paloghy was young and life was very sweet to him, so when he found himself the drawer of the black pellet, he made a proposal to his opponent, Viktor Riden, that his self-immolation should be postponed for ten years. When the ten years have elapsed the scene has changed to Hungary, and a beautiful woman, who has won the hearts of both men, gives a more serious aspect to a piece of youthful folly, which finally affects the fates of all three characters.

Goodwin, W. W. A Greek grammar. New ed., rev. and enl. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 36+451 p. D. cl., $1.65.

The present work is a revised and enlarged edition of the "Greek grammar" published in 1879, which was itself a revised and enlarged edition of the "Elementary Greek grammar" of only 235 pages published in 1870.—Preface.

Gréville, H.; [pseud. for Mme. Alice Du-rand.] The heiress; [from the French] by Emma C. Hewitt and Julien Colmar. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 318 p. il. D. (International lib., no. 28.) hf. leath., $1.25; pap., 75 c.

Marcelline Lemartray is left an orphan at eighteen. Her father's testament specially cautions her against marrying a sailor. She is put in charge of kind guardians who, however, are tempted from time to time to let the fortune of the heiress enrich their near friends and relatives. At last Marcelline's heart goes out to an officer in the Mediterranean Squadron, and a careful reading of her father's will justifies her in following its promptings.

*Hellprin, L. Historical reference-book: comprising a chronological table of universal history, a chronological dictionary of universal history, a biographical dictionary; with geographical notes; for the use of students, teachers and readers. 8d ed., rev. and brought down to 1892. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 8°, hf. leath., $3.

Henry, Arthur. Nicholas Blood, candidate. 2d ed. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] c. '90. 6+200 p. S. cl., $1.

The author believes that America has among her possibilities a "Reign of Terror," the cause of which lies in the natural characteristics and rapid increase of the freed slaves. He gives his views with a slight thread of story, of which the scene is laid in Memphis, Tennessee. Nicholas Blood is a full-blooded negro.

Hume, Fergus. A creature of the night: an Italian enigma. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 4+208 p. S. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 57.) pap., 25 c.

Hugh Cranston, wandering at midnight in the old cemetery of Verona, sees a cloaked woman emerge from one of the tombs. He follows her and stumbles upon a mystery, which is unravelled with considerable dramatic power.

Huxley, T. H. Essays upon some controverted questions. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 5+489 p. D. cl., $2.

"Most of the essays comprised in the present volume have been written during the last six or seven years, without premeditated purpose or intentional connection, in reply to attacks upon doctrines which I hold to be well founded, or in refutation of allegations respecting matters lying within the province of natural knowledge, which I believe to be erroneous; and they bear the mark of their origin in the controversial tone which pervades them."—Prologue. First published in the Nineteenth Century and the Fortnightly Review.

Jefferson, S. Columbus: an epic poem; giving an accurate history of the great discovery in rhymed heroic verse. Chic., S. C. Griggs & Co., 1892. c. 289 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Author of "The epic of the Invincible Armada." Mr. Jefferson does not depart from the historical account of the discovery of America, though the rhythm and fire of heroic verse are sustained throughout.

Levis, Norman Van Pelt. Poetical works. Mount Holly, N. J., Walters & Hand, prs., 1892. c. 188 p. O. cl., $1.

Comprises a religious drama in blank verse called "The triumph of life," telling the story of Christ, and some miscellaneous verses.

Longshore, T. Elwood. The higher criticism in theology and religion contrasted with ancient myths and miracles as factors in human evolution, and other essays on reforms. N. Y., Truthseeker Co., [1892.] c. 3+538 p. O. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The author is a member of the Society of Friends. This book is a denunciation of bigotry and sectarianism.

Macalpine, Avery. A man's conscience: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. '91. 5+

308 p. il. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., extra, no. 724.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Aug. 1, 1891, [1018.]

McClellan, W. B., comp. Official register of American yachting. Bost., Estes and Lauriat, 1892. c. 16+818 p. il. obl. D. cl., $4.50.

An authentic and fully revised register of American yachting, prepared upon the basis of the latest and most accurate information obtainable from official sources.

Machar, Agnes Maule. Marjorie's Canadian winter: a story of the northern lights. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] s. 5-375 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Marjorie Fleming is a pretty, interesting little girl of thirteen, with a literary father engaged upon a New York periodical. The sympathy between the two is very beautiful; and it is a difficult task for Marjorie to permit her father to leave her after his recovery from a serious sickness for a winter in the South. The same time is spent by Marjorie in Montreal with her aunt and cousins, the reader obtaining a graphic picture of Canadian winter sports, such as tobogganing, snowshoe tramping, skating, etc., and also of the Ice Palace and the Winter Carnival.

Maxwell, S. Treatise on the law of pleading under the code of civil procedure, designed for all the code states; with forms and directions. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1892. c. 46+872 p. O. shp., $6.

First published in 1871. An historical romance of Assyria in the time of Semiramis and Ninus, dealing with the adventures of the young warrior, Sarchedon, and Ishtas, his betrothed. Presents vivid pictures of ancient Babylonian, Egyptian and Assyrian life.

Miller, Cincinnatus Hines, ["Joaquin Miller."] Songs of the Sierras. [Also, Sunlands. [New rev. ed.] Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. c. 309 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

Miller, Cincinnatus Hines, ["Joaquin Miller."] Songs of summer lands. [New rev. ed.] Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. c. 254 p. por. D. cl., $1.50.

Musick, J. R. Columbia: a story of the discovery of America. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. [New issue.] c. '91. 6+351 p. il. D. (Columbian historical novels, v. 1.) cl., $1.50.

The first of a series of twelve volumes planned to give a complete history of the United States from the discovery of America to the present day. They will represent 12 ages of progress. The historical divisions are: 1, The age of discovery; 2, Conquest; 3, Bigotry; 4, Colonization; 5, Reason; 6, Tyranny; 7, Superstition; 8, Contentment of powers for supremacy; 9, Independence; 10, Liberty established; 11, Supremacy abroad; 12, Union. The present volume was first published by the Worthington Co., in July of 1891. Besides relating the trials of Christopher Columbus and his discovery of America, embraces a pleasant love-story.

Musick, J. R. Estevan: a story of the Spanish conquests. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. c. 5+388 p. il. D. (Columbian historical novels, v. 2.) cl., $1.50.

The second volume of this series, "Estevan" covers the whole period of the conquest; treading the ground cleared by Prescott in his "Conquest of Peru." Estevan, a Spanish boy of noble family, is introduced in the first volume. The story of his boyhood is a romantic one, and as a youth he accompanies Columbus on the voyage of discovery. In the second volume he is recognized as an old acquaintance whose fortunes inspire a lively interest, he and his son after him being among the chief actors in the moving scenes of history.

*New York. Code of civil procedure, carefully annot. to June 1, 1892, and fully indexed; complete in 1 v., chapters 1-23 as enacted and amended to June 1, 1892; together with the repealing acts, table of corresponding sections, and a supp. cont. notes and references to all decisions down to June 1, 1891. 16th ed. Parr, Mrs. Louisa. Loyalty George. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Bk. Co., 1892.] 358 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 1998.) pap., 25 c.

Ragsdale, Lulah. The crime of Philip Guthrie. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. 179 p. il. D. (Midland ser., v. 4, no. 33.) pap., 25 c.

Two lovers part in anger, and the woman, a high-spirited Southern girl, burning with jealousy under a misapprehension of circumstances, marries another man, a Dr. Guthrie, a specialist in mental diseases. The scenes which follow present a strange and weird study of a singular psychological condition both in the husband and wife.

Riddell, Mrs. J. H. A mad tour. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. '91. 334 p. D. (Strathmore ser., no. 4.) cl., $1.35; pap., 50 c.

Through the Black Forest and the adjacent country is the ground covered by "a mad tour." The characters are a young woman and a young man who take advantage of a month's holiday in the summer season to take a walking tour in Germany on a very economical plan and with very light baggage. The tone of the book is light and amusing throughout, the characters themselves contributing most of the incidents.

Ridpath, J. Clark. United States: a history of the United States of America from the aboriginal times to the present day. Columbian ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., The United States History Co., [W: B. Perkins, Clinton Hall], [1892.] c. '89, '91. 789 p. il. por. sq. O. cl., $3.75.

A popularly written history, illustrated with many pictures; covers the Harrison administration. Gives the complete census of 1890 and other valuable statistics.

Roberts, Margaret. Noblesse oblige. N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 4+386 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2000.) pap., 25 c.

*Rodon, K. Origin of modern culture languages and their derivation from the Hebrew; ed. by Jul. Silversmith. Chic., The Occident Pub. Co., 1892. 204 p. 18", cl., $2.

Russell, Dora. The other bond. N. Y., J: A. Taylor & Co., 1892. c. 372 p. D. (Broadway ser., no. 11.) pap., 50 c.

In the prologue a disinherited daughter dies at her father's door. Her fifteen-year-old son is disinherited by his grandfather and becomes an errand-boy in an iron mill. Twenty years later he reappears, a prosperous M.P., in love with one woman, but bound to another. He fulfills his bond, and the girl he loves marries another man. After years of suffering they are finally united.

*Savage, R. H. The little lady of Lagunitas: a Franco-Californian romance. N. Y., American News Co., 1892. 12", pap., 25 c.

Seligman, Edwin R. A. On the shifting and incidence of taxation. Balt., Md., American Economic Assoc., 1892. c. 191 p. O. (Publications of the American Economic Assoc., v. 7, nos. 2 and 3.) pap., $1.

The author, who is Professor of Political Economy and Finance in Columbia College, attacks the problem considered in these pages, "first by giving a detailed history of the doctrine, secondly by taking up the chief separate taxes one by one, and finally by showing the general conclusions applicable to the science of public finance."

Stevenson, Rob. L. A footnote to history: eight years of trouble in Samoa. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 8+322 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The long residence in Samoa of Mr. Stevenson, the author of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," etc., has given him an unusual opportunity to investigate a people little known. In the present volume he gives a history of the internal troubles of the Samoans during the past decade; describes the personalities of the leading chiefs and kings; and the dramatic events of the hurricane of March, 1888; and offers a brief sketch of the habits, language, domestic life, laws, etc., the interference of the English and German nations, etc.

*Stoddard, J. L. Glimpses of the world: a portfolio of photographs; with descriptive text. Chic., R. S. Peale Co., 315-321 Wabash ave., 1892. 550 p., 265 full-p. views, por., in portfolio; 11 in. x 18 in., cl., subs., $4.75; hf. mor., $6.50; full rus., $7.50; full mor., $10.

Tenger, Mariam. The Hungarian girl: a novel; from the German, by S. E. Boggs; il. by Warren B. Davis. N. Y., Robert Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 325 p. D. (Choice ser., no. 66.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A romance of the Hungarian revolution of 1848. It gives a picture of the society and manners of the period. The heroine is allied to a noble family who participated in the struggle for independence of Kosuth and his compatriots.

Vigilans, [pseud. for M. N. Patrick.] Drifting: a novel. Denver, Col., The Chain & Hardy Co., 1892. c. 2+311 p. O. pap., 50 c.

Wilbur Lothorn first appears as a young man of twenty-one just leaving his Western home to study medicine in New York City. He becomes a rich, successful physician, and the incidents scattered through the story are supposed to come under his eyes as he follows his profession. Waifs and strays of all kinds tell him their sorrows. The author evidently has a very low opinion of the good performed by charitable institutions.

*Vos, S., comp. Experience at the office desk; cont. the law for the service of summons and other legal papers, general information, [etc.] Alb., N. Y., Weed, Parsons & Co., 1892. c. 57 p. (one side of leaf,) sq. D. cl., 75 c.

Warden, Florence, [pseud. for Florence Alice Price, now Mrs. G. E. James.] Ralph Ryder of Brent: a novel. N. Y., National Book Company, [1892.] c. 1892 p. D. (Premier ser., no. 8.) cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

A young country girl, who marries in haste a man apparently of rank and means, is met at the very threshold of her married life with an alarming and puzzling mystery which promises to destroy her happiness. Her husband's identity is questioned, and he suffers frightfully for the misfortunes of another man. Who is the real "Ralph Ryder of Brent" is cleverly concealed until the last chapter. The characters are English, the scenes taking place in England and on the Continent.

Winter, J. Strange, [pseud. for Mrs. H. E. V. Stannard.] Experiences of a lady help. N. Y., Hovendon Co., [1892.] 2-298 p. D. (Metropolitan ser., no. 4.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. The daughter of a well-to-do English rector, upon her father's death, accepts a situation to help her mother and younger sisters. She lives in three families as "lady help" and then becomes Viscountess d'Eclie.

Wood, J. Seymour. Gramercy Park: a story of New York. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 8+218 p. S. (Appleton's summer ser.) bds., 50 c.

A story of the life of a young Wall Street broker whose wife is ordered to the mountains in summer and to Florida in the winter. The wife's father and mother, old-fashioned residents of Gramercy Park, represent the real, honest life that built up American cities, the younger generation the weak imitation of foreign customs that is sapping the strength and morality of modern home life.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

"MITCHELL'S LIBRARY GUIDE" is a collection in one bound volume of the catalogues issued from time to time by Mitchell's bookshop (Bowden & Smith, 830 Broadway, N. Y.). As they included valuable Americana, as the "Voyages" of De Bry, the Martha Washington Bible, "Colonial Records"; valuable manuscripts, as "Books of Hours of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries"; the first edition of Shelley's "Queen Mab," the first edition of Molière's "Œuvres," and a quantity of other scarce works, it was well to preserve them in this form. There are 3375 consecutive numbers in the volume.
An index may be easily made, and will doubtless be issued in the future.

THE BULLETIN OF THE BOSTON PUBLIC LI-BRARY for July, 1892 (new series, vol. 3, no. 2), is an exceedingly interesting and valuable number. Besides the accessions from May to July it contains an instalment of "a chronological index to historical fiction," revised and enlarged; a bibliography of the Franklin portraits belonging to the library; and a catalogue of the Lewis library, a collection of books, chiefly early New England imprints, presented to the library by the widow of the late John A. Lewis. (97-180 p., Q. issued quarterly at $1 per year.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 13, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

THE ENGLISH BOOKSELLERS' EXAMINATIONS.

THE proposition of the London Booksellers' Society in reference to examinations for booksellers' assistants seems thus far to have met with little encouragement from the class whom it is expected to benefit—namely, the assistants themselves. From time to time, during the past two months, we have noticed letters in our English trade exchanges from booksellers' assistants ridiculing or throwing cold water on the project. For the greater part the arguments have about as much reason in them as there was in the protest of the laborer of forty years ago against the introduction of machinery into workshops. Curiously enough the general apprehension seems to be that the examinations will not help the successful candidates to obtain better pay. They certainly will not reduce the salary they are now getting, and by encouraging greater efficiency in the ranks they may tend to improve the financial condition of those who take enough interest in their profession to qualify themselves for it.

The council of the London Booksellers' Society, however, seems to be undaunted by the cavilling spirit with which its movement has been met, and have fixed upon September 14 for the Preliminary and upon September 21 for the Advanced Examination. The former is for assistants under twenty-one years of age, and the latter for those above that age. Each candidate will be required to give his answers in writing. Successful candidates for the Preliminary Examination will be entitled to a certificate as to their proficiency in replying to the questions, which will be called First Class Certificate, Preliminary Examination. There will also be three money prizes of 20s., 15s., and 10s., for the three most successful candidates, but these money prizes may be withheld at the option of the examiners if the results of the examination do not prove satisfactory to them.

The same method will be adopted for the Advanced Examination as for the Preliminary, but the examination will be of a more advanced character. Successful candidates will be entitled to a certificate, which will be called First Class Certificate, Advanced Examination. Three money prizes of 40s., 30s., and 20s., will be awarded, on same conditions as for the Preliminary Examinations. The subject for both examinations will be as follows: 1. Authors and their Works: Example.—Give the names of George Eliot's novels, with the prices of the different editions, and the publishers. 2. The Published Price of Books: Example.—Give the prices of the various Editions of Macaulay's "History of England," and the publisher. 3. The Best Works on Stated Subjects: Example.—Give the name of the best works, in your opinion, on the Flower Garden, with their authors, publishers, and prices. 4. The Writing of Business Orders and Calculation of Prices: Example.—Write out neatly a miscellaneous order for a Commission House, with author's name, correct title, and publisher's name when known. 5. Technical questions to show proficiency in business. The examiners are David Stott, D. B. Friend, J. Shaylor and J. Ellis. We trust that the experiment may meet with success and that it will be tried in this country.

CANADA'S COPYRIGHT ACT.

ACCORDING to despatches from Ottawa dated August 5, the Imperial authorities have thus far refused to sanction the copyright act passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1889, and consequently it has not been put in force. The concluding clause stipulates that the act is to be put in force by proclamation of the Governor-General, the understanding being that the assent of the British Government to the principle of Canada's right to legislate upon the subject should first be obtained.

Correspondence has been carried on between the Dominion and Imperial Governments in reference to the matter for over two years without any result, the Minister of Justice insisting upon Canada's right to pass the act of 1889, and Lord Salisbury declining to admit such a right.

Some months ago Lord Salisbury sent a communication to the United States Government stating that under the conditions of the international arrangements with respect to copyright matters made between Great Britain and the United States American authors were entitled to obtain copyrights in Canada on the same terms as British subjects. This the Dominion Minister of Justice denied, though he admitted that American authors might obtain copyrights in the United Kingdom which would be valid in Canada.

Some time ago the British Government referred the whole subject to a commission of experts, who have made a report, intimating that the matter may be settled if the Government will make complete arrangements for the collection of royalties payable to British authors upon books republished and sold in the Dominion.

ANTHONY COMSTOCK has a rival as a press censor in the manager of the American News Company. The latter's first act—the suppression of Truth on the 3d inst.—was, we are inclined to think, hasty and ill-advised. And so, as Byron predicted of it, Truth, "though crushed to earth," rose straightway and found circulation through other channels. However, it was a start; and now that a beginning has been made we hope that Mr. Farrelly will proceed to make a clean sweep, and wipe from the lists of his company all that stuff which, while it may not, within the letter of the law, be classed as obscene, is nevertheless trash and does more harm to the minds of the young than such matter as that for which he persecuted the publisher of Truth.

LITERARY FACTORIES.

E. W. Bok, in the Boston Journal.

OF course we all know that all kinds of factories exist in New York, but until last week I never knew that the great metropolis boasted of such a thing as a real and fully equipped literary factory. I ran across this wonderful place accidentally, but when I did I was glad to spend an hour beside the desk of the manager and watch the modus operandi.

This literary factory is hidden away in one of the by-streets of New York, where one would never dream of finding anything in the shape of literature. It employs over thirty people, mostly girls and women. For the most part these girls are intelligent. It is their duty to read all the daily and weekly periodicals in the land. These "exchanges" are bought by the pound from an old-junk dealer. Any unusual story of city life—mostly the misdoings of city people—is marked by these girls and turned over to one of three managers. These managers, who are men, select the best of these marked articles, and turn over such as are available to one of a corps of five women, who digest the happening given to them and transform it to a skeleton or outline for a story. This shell, if it may be so called, is then referred to the chief manager, who turns to a large address-book and adapts the skeleton to some one of the hundred or more writers entered on his book. Inclosed with the skeleton is sent a blank form, of which the following is an exact copy:

To _____:
Please make of the inclosed material a _____ part story, not to exceed _____ words for each part.
Delivery of copy must be by _____ at the latest.
A check for $_____ will be sent you upon receipt of manuscript.
Notify us at once whether you can carry out this commission for us. Very respectfully,

Now the most remarkable part of this remarkable literary manufactory to me was that manager's address-book of authors upon whom he felt at liberty to call for these "written-by-the-yard" stories. The book was handed to me to look over—for my private examination, of course. There were the names of at least twenty writers upon that book which the public would never think of associating with this class of work—men and women of good literary reputation, whose work is often encountered in some of our best magazines.

"Not such a bad list of authors, is it?" laughingly said the "manager," as he noted my look of astonishment.

I was compelled to confess it was not.

"Why, those authors to whose names you have pointed are glad to do this work for us. Their willingness is far greater than our ability to supply them with 'plots.'"

"What in the world do you do with these stories?" I asked.

"We sell them to the cheaper sensational weeklies, to boiler-plate factories and to publishers of hair-curling libraries of adventure."

Upon further inquiry I found that very good prices were paid the authors, and that, of course, even better rates were received by the "factory" from their customers. The fact is, this business is of the most profitable character to its owners. Were it a stock company, a handsome dividend could be declared each year. The "factory" does not care where its authors get their material from, so long as the story, when finished, is calculated to please the miscellaneous audience for which it is intended. "Situations," and of the most dramatic and startling character, must be frequent, and two or three murders and a rescue or two in one chapter are not a bit too many.

Talk about writing stories to order! Here is a completely equipped factory which actually cuts them out with a hatchet!

[The idea of "literary factories," if we are not mistaken, originated in Berlin immediately after the success of the translations of Sir Walter Scott's novels. Dumas the younger, too, was accused of such methods as Mr. Bok describes, and we suspect that the author of "Mr. Meeson's Will" had in mind, as a matter of fact, a similar institution in London.—ED. P. W.]

WHOM NOT TO TRUST.

"Do not trust a man who habitually and continually sells his goods for less than average cost of doing business.

"Do not trust a man who drinks to excess.

"Do not trust a man who lives beyond his means.

"Do not trust a man for more than one-quarter of his visible assets."

A SOUVENIR OF THE CHICAGO BOOK FAIR.

WE take pleasure in presenting in this week's issue, as a souvenir of the memorable gathering of the book men in Chicago last month, a plate representing a number of well-known representatives of the book trade. The background will be easily familiar to every guest of the Palmer House as the entrance to the dining-room of that famous hostelry. Beginning at the left hand of the group the first figure that strikes the eye is Mr. A. Turner, of the Cassell Publishing Co. Those who do not recognize him at once will bear in mind that he wears a light coat and vest, and is the first of the six in the front row that are seated. The first man standing behind Mr. Turner is Mr. Noble, of A. C. McClurg & Co.; standing to the right of Mr. Turner the Bismarckian features of Frank Allen (of Brentano's) will be easily made out. Sitting to the right of Mr. Turner is the veteran representative of George Routledge & Sons—H. M. Reed. Behind Mr. Reed we note Mr. David McKay, and to the right and a little back of the latter is Mr. Wright, of Eaton, Lyon & Co. Sitting next to Mr. Reed is the familiar figure of Joseph Knight, formerly of Nims & Knight, and now the head of the Joseph Knight Publishing Co. Behind Mr. Knight stands R. K. Smith, of A. C. McClurg & Co., who, we are pleased to see, has recovered from his severe illness. Next to Mr. Knight we notice John May, the popular representative of Porter & Coates, whose smile almost overshadows George Sully, of De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., who stands immediately behind him. Sitting to the right of Mr. May is jolly Charles E. Brown, of Charles E. Brown & Co., Boston, standing behind whom is August Eckels, of the Chicago house of Brentano's, and Mr. Beecher, of the firm of Eaton, Lyon & Co. The figure seated at the extreme right is Jack Hovendon, President of the Hovendon Book Co., probably one of the best-known and most popular men on the road. Standing behind Mr. Hovendon are J. T. Wherrett, of F. Warne & Co., and Herbert M. Caldwell, of Henry Altemus. Taken altogether, we doubt whether there is a finer-looking or more intelligent—not to say jollier—body of men than that which represents the book trade on the road. Of the first part of this statement our readers will be able to judge for themselves, notwithstanding the fact that a reproduction, however successful it may be, seldom does justice to the original portion of our assertion—the latter we hold ourselves ready to defend at any moment.

DIFFICULTY OF WEEDING A LIBRARY.

THE London Spectator, in commenting on the sale of the Althorp Library, touches upon a subject which will be appreciated by all who have accumulated a greater or less collection of books. For their benefit we make the following extract:

"It is a fact which every owner of a library will confirm that the reluctance to weed one is the greatest of all obstacles to its collection. A private man who loves books, unless exceptionally rich, is always, as he advances in life, tormented by the difficulty of finding room for them. They grow and grow, and the wall-space does not grow, and the shelves do not grow either; and unless he resorts to the unspeakably detestable expedient of reduplicating the books on each shelf—a device which not only destroys the back rows, but im-perils their owner's chance of heaven, the book wanted being invariably lost for the time being, with results in evil wishes and language—there comes a time when he is at his wit's end. Not one room in ten will allow of shelves being set at right angles to the walls instead of along them, though that quadruples book-space; and the collector, with weary sighs, either heaps books above each other, or leaves them in packing-cases, or, in desperate emergencies, puts them on the floor. All this while, if he would only weed them, there would be plenty of room, and the opportunity of weeding is almost limitless.

"We venture to say there are not five men in England possessed of 3000 books apiece who do not know perfectly well that half their volumes are lumber—books which they will never read or consult or open for any purpose whatsoever. They are the books of forgotten periods of life, the books of whim, the books of abandoned studies, or, more numerous than all, the books about which their owner's only thought is a wonder how the devil they ever got there, books he can no more account for than he could account for the foolishness of early day-dreams, or for the morsels of absolutely useless knowledge packed away in his memory. He knows perfectly well the lumber ought to go to the auctioneer, but he never sends it, unless, indeed, he changes his house; nor, if he is rich enough to keep a 'librarian,' or library clerk, will that invaluable person send it; he is, indeed, insulted or made lachrymose by the very suggestion. Master and servant have both contracted a feeling which they would never defend, a feeling of respect for the library as a library, and independent somehow of what is in it."

LITTLE TRANSACTIONS IN BOOKS.

THE man who goes exploring in old bookshops, says the Washington Book Chronicle, sometimes makes discoveries which prove of value finally. Many keepers of these old places not only are ignorant of the value of many of their books, but do not even know what stock they have in trade. A man who "picks up" good bargains frequently, found a good edition of a certain history in a basement bookshop the other day. "What is the price of this?" he asked, holding fast to his discovery.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the owner, "what do you think it is worth? What will you give me for it?"

The would-be purchaser hesitated. He was human, and did not want to pay more than was necessary.

"Will you give me a dollar?" asked the bookseller.

"Yes," answered the other, promptly, and he handed over his dollar and took his volume of history.

Four days later he received a call from a stranger.

"I was in a bookshop to-day," said the caller, and the owner asked me what —'s history was worth. I told him, and then he confessed that he had sold it to you for $1. Now, I'll give you $11 for it. Will you take it?"

The new owner was satisfied to make a clean $10 so easily, and consented. He is now wondering, however, if the third purchaser has disposed of the work, and if so, how much he has made on his bargain. You can't always be sure of such things.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS IN RELATION TO BOOKS, ETC.

THE summary statement of the imports and exports of the United States for the month ending June 30, 1892, and for the twelve months ending the same, compared with the corresponding periods of 1891 (corrected to July 27, 1892), makes the following showing as regards books, etc.:

COMMUNICATIONS.

IN RE MR. BENJAMIN'S BOOKWORMS.

MR. EDITOR: Is not Mr. Wm. Evarts Benjamin clearly liable, under the Alien Labor law, for bringing his bookworms into this country?

I solicit your opinion as being the court of last resort in all matters appertaining to the book trade.

GRUB.

[When "Grub" is able to inform us as to whether the aglossa pinguinalis were "assisted" to this country; or, whether they immigrated of their own free will and as self-supporting "bugs;" or, whether they did not owe their existence to spontaneous generation, and thus are perhaps more of a native than "Grub" himself—when, we say, he can answer these few simple questions we will take into consideration the measure of Mr. Benjamin's guilt.—ED. P. W.]

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GRAHAM WALLAS is at work on a history of the Chartist movement.

SUDERMANN, the author of "Die Ehre," is at work on a story entitled "Es war."

MISS ELLEN TERRY will publish in the autumn her volume of reminiscences with the title "Stray Memories."

MR. RUDYARD KIPLING has been writing a series of Japanese stories. He proposes also to write a new Mulvaney story.

"ANNIE ARMITT," author of "In Shallow Waters," is, according to the London Bookman, understood to be Mrs. A. M. Harris.

A MEDALLION of Lord Lytton, by Albert Gilbert, is to be placed as a permanent memorial in the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

COL. THOMAS A. KNOX has in preparation a new volume of the Boy Traveller series; a story of adventure in a bygone period; and a story to be entitled "A Close Shave."

THE Italian writer, Edmondo de Amicis, is writing a Socialist novel, to be called "Il primo Maggio" (The First of May). It will be published in the fall by Fratelli Treves, of Milan.

"J. S. OF DALE" has for the past year turned aside from fiction to the compilation of a new law-book, soon to be issued, which will be the first corporate code for all the States and Territories ever attempted.

CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON, author of "East Angels," "Anne," etc., is now living quietly at Oxford, England, where, in spite of that most isolating affliction of deafness from which she suffers severely, she has made many friends.

It is rumored that John Wanamaker is at work on a book to be devoted to his personal experience as Postmaster-General. We presume the book in preparation is Mr. Wanamaker's annual report, which thus far have always been different from the general run of public documents of this character.

CHARLES SANTLEY, the famous singer, has also been writing his reminiscences, which will be published in the fall by Mr. Edward Arnold of London. For many years Mr. Santley was prominent on the operatic stage as he is to-day in oratorio or concert-room; and his book is full of anecdotes of the Dii Majores, whose names are a household word in "the profession."

PROF. BERNARD BOSANQUET, of London, whose "History of Aesthetics" has recently been published by Macmillan & Co., has just completed a course of fifteen lectures at the School of Applied Ethics, Plymouth, Mass. His theme was an historical survey of Greek ethics, tracing to the present day the influence of Plato and Aristotle. In clearness, precision and in power to interest and stir his hearers Mr. Bosanquet proved as effective a teacher as England has ever sent across the sea. His ability as a thinker has been familiar to American students through his work on logic, which takes high rank as an authority. A recently published volume in the Contemporary Science Series presents his "Essays and Reviews," showing him to be one of the most incisive and sympathetic writers of the time in the fields of ethical and philosophical inquiry. Mr. Bosanquet intends to visit Colorado and the Yellowstone region before returning to England next month.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE S. CARSON CO., San Francisco, Cal., has just ready a second edition of Dr. Albert Abram's "Manual of Clinical Diagnosis."

COL. JOHN C. BUNDY, the widely-known spiritualist and editor and publisher of the Religious Philosophical Journal, died on the 6th inst. at his home in Chicago, Ill., aged 51 years.

THE NEW YORK HISTORY COMPANY announces that the third volume of their valuable "Memorial History of the City of New York," will be ready in October. Some of the most important chapters are still to be appear.

J. G. CUPPLES COMPANY, Boston, will publish at once "Christus Judex: a legend of the White Mountains," by Edward Roth, with an introduction by W. C. Prime. This is a reprint, neatly printed, and illustrated in colors, of one of the most famous books written on the White Mountains.

LAIRD & LEE, Chicago, again remind the trade that they are the sole owners of the copyrights of the standard novels of William H. Thomas. They have now issued these ten exciting stories of adventure by land and sea in specially designed paper covers and added them to their Library of Choice Fiction.

ELSIE GARRETSON, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has sued Archibald Cuthbertson, of "The Physical Culture Magazine Company." Miss Garretson alleges that the defendant sold her five shares of stock in the magazine, which she claims were worthless when she invested her money. Mr. Cuthbertson was held under $1500 bonds for trial.

THE Statistician of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has prepared a report on the wages of farm labor, the result of nine investigations from 1866 to 1892, with prior records of wages as far back as 1840. The report shows the monthly rates, both with and without board, for the season or year, and also by the day in harvest time.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish shortly in their Golden Treasury series William Watson's anthology, "Lyric Lore." Mr. Watson's selection is not a large one; he has confined himself to verses of the first rank, and he has done the work entirely without assistance. This house will also bring out the third part of "Palgrave's Dictionary of Political Economy."

THERE is now in press a work specially written for the Jewish Publication Society by Israel Zangwill, of London. It is entitled "Children of the Ghetto, being pen pictures of a peculiar people." It will be forwarded to members in the forthcoming autumn. Arrangements have also been made for the publication, this year, of the second volume of Graetz's "History of the Jews."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. inform us that they have commenced an action against the Waverly Company for infringement of the copyright of "Nada the Lily." While it is true that the court has refused a preliminary injunction, no other decision and no opinion whatever has been rendered. The suit must be tried upon the merits, and Messrs. Longmans, Green & Co. intend to press it to the end.

THE NEW YORK NEWSDEALERS' AND STATIONERS' PROTECTIVE AND BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION will hold its second annual summer-night's festival on September 2, at Lion Park, New York. The officers of the association are: A. Michaelman, President; George Bancker, Vice-President; W. H. McKiernan, Treasurer; A. Beggs, Financial Secretary; J. W. Dunn, Recording Secretary; J. Jackson, Sergeant-at-Arms.

GINN & Co. have in preparation "The Classic Myths in English Literature, based chiefly on Balanch's Age of Fable (1855)," adapted to school use and to the needs of beginners in English literature and in the classics, in part rewritten; accompanied by interpretative and illustrative notes, by Charles Mills Gayley, Professor of the English Language and Literature in the University of California, and formerly Assistant Professor of Latin in the University of Michigan.

THE HISTORICAL PRINTING CLUB, Brooklyn, N. Y., has just issued an important reprint entitled "Essays on the Constitution of the United States, published during its discussion by the people, 1787-88." The collection consists of fifteen essays by James Sullivan, James Winthrop, Elbridge Gerry, Oliver Ellsworth, William Williams, Roger Sherman, George Clinton, Alex. Hamilton, Robert Yates, Hugh Henry Brackenridge, Samuel Chase, Daniel Carroll, Spencer Roane, Hugh Williamson and Charles Pinckney. The collection has been edited and furnished with a bibliography by Paul Leicester Ford, who has already laid the student of American history under many obligations by the issue of similar publications.

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' CLUB of New York has made arrangements with the committee controlling the Columbus parade of October 11 and 12 next, whereby a division will be set aside in which it proposes to have the commercial travellers of New York march. President Knott says that all trades will be represented, each of which is to have a battalion to itself, with commander and officers. Applications have been received already from the dry-goods trade for the right of line, and from the boot and shoe trade for the left of line. The stationery and book men should turn out in large numbers and give this effort their entire support. The next smoker of the Commercial Travellers' Club will be held during the latter part of August. President Knott wants it known that every traveller in the book and stationery line will be made welcome at the club-house, 15 West Thirty-first Street.

JAS. A. HEARN & Co., 92 Federal Street, Boston, will publish on the 15th inst. John L. Sullivan's book, "Reminiscences of a Nineteenth Century Gladiator." The book is made up of reminiscences in America, Canada and other parts, with Sullivan's opinion of prominent pugilists he has met, their styles of fighting, his meetings with prominent politicians and other public men at home and abroad, also a general and complete history of pugilism from the earliest Greek and Roman records to the present time, showing differences in the modes of fighting and training, besides rules for physical development and training. It will also contain notes on physical development and training and charts of muscles and muscular measurements by Prof. D. A. Sargent, of Harvard College. It is the author's aim that his book shall bear the same relation to pugilistic and kindred sport that Hoyle sustains towards sport of a more refined character.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will shortly publish "Outlines of English Grammar with Continuous Selections for Practice," by Harriet Mathews, State Normal School, Trenton, N. J. The application of principles is made by directions for the composition of original sentences by the pupils, and by the use of selections and extracts from the best authors. Analysis is fully treated, also simple terminology and punctuation. They have just ready the primary book of the "Pupils' Series of Arithmetics," by W. S. Sutton and W. H. Kimbrough. The authors believe in a minimum of theory and a maximum of practice, and this series is constructed on the principle that teachers have knowledge and skill and that pupils are industrious and intelligent. Each volume is filled with problems of such practical matters as pupils will be called upon to meet in their everyday life. The "Primary Book" embraces the four fundamental operations in all their simple relations. The intermediate and higher books will follow at an early date.

"THERE is a prospect that the supply of school-books may be short when the children return to the public schools this fall after the vacations, owing to a strike of the book-binders in the employ of Ivison, Blakeman & Co., at 54 South Fifth Avenue. The strike is for an advance in wages from $16 to $18 a week. This firm is part of a corporation known as the American Book Company, which controls nine-tenths of the school-books. Pending the settlement of the strike, which may last some time, the books are printed by the firms in the corporation and are piled unbound upon the shelves."

The above item has been going the rounds of the New York daily press, and contains about as little fact as it is possible for a newspaper item to have and yet keep alive. In the first place, as every bookseller knows, Ivison, Blakeman & Co. are out of existence as a firm. They never owned a bindery, and are not known in the American Book Company except as the individual members of that firm are now stockholders or employees in the American Book Company. As to the American Book Company, there should be no danger of a scarcity of supply of school-books, for they had on the 1st of July enough books in stock to supply all their customers—the schools and the trade—for the whole of this year. The item has probably been inspired by a walking delegate who has been trying to make trouble in the bindery of Gilbert H. McKibbin, 84 South Fifth Avenue. Mr. McKibbin does binding for the American Book Company, and so do J. J. Little, A. S. Barnes & Co. and D. Appleton & Co. Mr. McKibbin, however, is sending in all the books the American Book Company wants from him, and is handling all the printed sheets as fast as they go to him from the printer. And that is about all the truth there is in the matter.

ELKIN MATHEWS, London, will publish in the fall a volume of essays and criticisms by William Watson.

HUGO STEINITZ, Berlin, announces a book with the sensational title of "Wie Bismarck entlassen wurde" (How Bismarck was dismissed).

HUTCHINSON & Co., London, will publish Mrs. Oliphant's new novel, which is entitled "The Cuckoo in the Nest." It has appeared in the Victorian Magazine.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, will shortly make an addition to his International Library in the shape of a Norwegian novel by Björnsterne Björnson, entitled "The Heritage of the Kurts."

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH, TRÜBNER & Co. have just issued in their series of Familial Faces Blanche Roosevelt's "Victorien Sardou: poet, author and member of the Academy of France: a personal study."

JOHN MURRAY, London, announces a new work by the Duke of Argyll, entitled "The Unseen Foundations of Society: an examination of the fallacies and failures of economic science due to neglected elements."

THE next volume of the Great Writers series will be on Voltaire, by F. Espinasse. Mr. Espinasse many years ago issued the first part of an elaborate life of Voltaire which as yet has not been completed. The results of his long investigation will be put in the forthcoming work.

ANOTHER literary monument is gone (says a London journal). Those who knew Grub Street—now Milton Street—will remember a quaint little square which stood on its western side. It was a poor kind of square, writes Mr. Besant, standing round a paved court; vehicles—except the coster's barrow—could not enter there. The houses were small and mean; yet they had the eighteenth century air. The rest of the street was built up with vast warehouses. This alone remained of the glorious past. Into this corner had been driven the real associations of Grub Street. One knew every room in every house. In this starved Boyes; in this, Otway. Here two translators occupied one room, and shared one bed, one blanket and one shirt. Johnson knew this square. Goldsmith often came here, when he had any money, to give it away among his poorer brothers. Very few of them went about the streets in complete absence of anxiety concerning the sheriff's man and the compter. Sunday was a day of relief. Here Smollett made the acquaintance of my Lord Potatoe. The square was fragrant with the memories of the starveling bards. Sham travellers abounded here who had never been beyond Greenwich; Greek scholars, who knew not the alphabet; essayists on polite society, who never advanced beyond a sixpenny ordinary. But now the square is gone, and a great warehouse stands upon the spot. Grub Street is, indeed, no more.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, N. Y.—The business of the late S. R. Gray, bookseller, 42 State Street, has now been closed out.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—Mechen & Geddis, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

CHICAGO, ILL.—William T. Keener (not Keenan, as stated in our last week's issue) made an assignment July 21 to Matthew P. Gilbert. Creditors must file their claims before October 21.

FLORENCE, KAN.—E. E. Blackburn, bookseller, has been succeeded by Kates & Blackburn.

JACKSON, MICH.—George S. Dewey, bookseller, has given a chattel mortgage for $1690.

MARYSVILLE, KAN.—Hagar & Wherry have sold out their stock of books and stationery.

MAYFIELD, KY.—Gregory and Langston, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The National Commercial Co. (incorporated) has changed its name to Chas. D. Raymer Co., and combined its stock of books with Chas. D. Raymer & Co.'s. The latter firm will in future be known as the Chas. D. Raymer Co., with a capital stock of $50,000, and will remain at the old stand, 243 Fourth Ave., S. The officers are Chas. D. Raymer, President and Manager; C. E. Purdy, Vice-President, and Axel Johnson, Secretary and Treasurer.

NEWTON, IOWA.—Dickson Brothers, booksellers, have sold out to W. N. Merritt.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Campaign Publishing Company has been incorporated, and has opened a large store at 766 Broadway. The business will be the manufacture and sale of the portraits of the several candidates of the political parties.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS.—The Banister-Carly Company, booksellers, has been succeeded by E. H. Banister.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y.—The retail book and stationery business of the Edgar A. Newell Co. has been sold to Eugene Smith. Mr. Smith is a man of long experience in this business, having entered the employ of H. F. Lawrence, then conducting the wholesale business in this line, forty-two years ago. The wholesale business of Edgar A. Newell Co. has, during the last six months, increased considerably, due to the fact that in the new wholesale department in Newell's Block on State Street, the company has increased facilities for doing a large jobbing business and carrying an increased stock. They have a number of travellers on the road, and hereafter will do an exclusively wholesale business in books, stationery, notions and the same general stock as heretofore carried.

OLATHE, KAN.—J. R. Brown & Son, booksellers, have given a chattel mortgage for $500.

SHERIDAN, WYOMING.—S. T. Gardiner, bookseller, has sold out.

WATERBURY, CONN.—George N. Ellis' Book Haunt, 74 Bank Street, Waterbury, Conn., has never been enlarged since it was built by the late William Patton, founder of the business. The building at present is about 50 x 25 on the ground, which is the size of the store. An addition is now being placed in the rear. The increase of Mr. Ellis' book and stationery business demanded more space, and this enlargement will do for the present.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exquisites of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 5 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Right words may be secured to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or send postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Those that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

THE FREE TRADE STRUGGLE IN ENGLAND.

BY

GENERAL M. M. TRUMBULL.

Second Edition Revised and Enlarged.

A timely book on the tariff question, of which Mr. Edward Atkinson says, in an article entitled "Common Sense Applied to the Tariff Question" (Pop. Sci. Mo., Aug., 1890):

"Those who choose to discriminate between the leaders of the two parties of the present time may read the perversion of English history by James G. Blaine, in the North American Review, and the true picture which is given by Gen. M. M. Trumbull.

"It would be well worth while for any one who has been misled by the common errors about the influences which brought Great Britain to reverse her policy in 1842, to read up the economic history of that period. All the facts are given by the radical Miss Martineau in her 'History of Fifty Years' Peace,' by the Tory Sir Stafford Northcote, in his 'Twenty Years' Financial Policy,' explaining the changes which Peel brought about; by the economist John Noble's 'Fiscal Legislation in Great Britain;' or in Carlyle's 'Past and Present.' The best summary is to be found in the little book published in Chicago in 1884, by Gen. M. M. Trumbull, entitled 'The American Lesson of the Free Trade Struggle in England.' In this book will be found the whole record of the condition of England from 1838 to 1846. This history ought to be read by every man who desires to make up his mind how to act in this country at the present time. The logic of events is the same. We are repeating history."

A Little Game With Destiny.

By MARIE ST. FÉLIX.

A fin de siècle novel in the form of a terse and brilliant diary. Penelope Gray, a young girl of our own day and generation, tells the story of her life in a way that is sometimes humorous, always interesting, and at times startling in its candor. Considered from a literary standpoint, "A Little Game With Destiny" has much to recommend it, while to the student of human nature it offers food for much serious reflection. It has caused a sensation because it tells the plain, cold truth. It is a book that will be read by all men and some women.

THE MOST UNIQUE BOOK OF THE YEAR.

FAIR TO LOOK UPON

By MARY BELLE FREELEY.

Exquisitely Printed in Eight Colors, and Handsomely Bound in Cloth, Gilt Top, $1.50.

Mrs. Freeley, in her remarkably clever series of sketches of the women of the Old Testament, called "Fair Look Upon," has sounded a note of defiance to the tyrant man which points her out as a leader and staunch bearer of the cause of women. The answer to her question, "Do women obey?" is not only given in the dull negative, but demonstrated by historical illustrations of unimpeachable force. From Eve to Bathsheba, from wife of Abraham to the wife of Boaz, not one of these historic women ever did as their husbands told them, with the exception of Lot's wife, every one of them got the best of it.

IN FRIENDSHIP'S NAME.

Compiled by VOLNEY STREAMER. Sixth edition. Golden Rod Series. 12mo, printed on best linen paper, with boards, sewed extra strong on tape, Japanese and Chinese bond paper covers, $1.25.

"The compiler of these dainty volumes seems to have laid all literature under contribution to secure really fine collections of testimony to the sacredness of friendship."

"These tributes to friendship evidence the wide reading and fine appreciation of its compiler, as well as ability to cull and offer only the best."—The Chicago Tribune.

"Collections of brief passages, in prose and verse, in one way or another touching on the beauty and nobleness of friendship. The selections have been made with care and taste, all being of sterling merit."—The Chicago Times.

"They have the rich lustre of pure gold, and should strengthen the reverence for the rich and rare quality of friendship."—The Inter-Ocean, Chicago.

AN UNWEDDED WIFE.

By GENEVIEVE KIRKE. Idylwild Series. With eight half-tone illustrations and cover printed in five colors, paper, 50 cents.

"'An Unwedded Wife' is one of those kind of books that when one reads a part of the story they want to read the rest. It is a thrilling love-story, and is handsomely illustrated."—Philadelphia Item.

THE CRIME OF PHILIP GUTHRIE.

By LULAH RAGSDALE. Midland Series. Paper, 25 cents.

"The author has produced an interesting book. In warmth of expression her literary thermometer is at a higher degree than the ordinary emotional writer, and in word-painting she occupies no mean ground. The story commences on a 'glowing, golden, palpitant day;' 'the intense, quivering heat seemed almost tangible;' 'the sea was like a topaz sea.' The heroine, Phyllis, quietly reposed in a graceful hammock, surrounded by the fiery reds and intense yellows of tiger lilies, salvias, poppies and other midsummer blossoms. She appeared to be a maiden, who developed her true personality only when summer came; and at this particular time 'a warm, glowing light crept deliciously through her blood.' As a psychologic study the book has some rivals and but few superiors."—Denver Sun.

"There have been few better judges of fiction than Charles Dickens, and had he lived to read his granddaughter's first novel the veteran writer would have found pleasure in the thought that, after he was gone, the name of Dickens would still be honorably associated with imaginative literature. 'Cross Currents' is not only an excellent novel, but it is distinguished by a kind of excellence which is exceedingly rare in the work of a beginner. Every page of 'Cross Currents' inspires one with a desire to meet its author again. . . ."—London Spectator.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "The Danube: from the Black Forest to the Black Sea," by F. D. Millet, illustrated by the author and Alfred Parsons; and "The Principles of Ethics," by Prof. Borden P. Bowne, of the Boston University.

THE brightly clever story, "The Runaway Browns," by H. C. Bunner, which has been running for the past three months in the pages of Puck, will be published in book form as the initial volume of Puck's Mulberry Series, in which the humorous fiction of that jolly paper is to be permanently preserved.

D. APPLETON & Co. have added "Cross Currents" to their remarkably excellent Town and Country Series. This book deals in a deeply interesting manner with the old, old problem of the irreconcilable claims of love and art upon an earnest woman's life and soul. The heroine is a young, gifted actress, and the scene is laid in modern London society.

THE HOVENDON COMPANY have just ready "The Nobler Sex," by Florence Marryat, discussing the vexed question of the supremacy of sex, said to be fully equal to her successful stories, "There Is no Death" and "A Fatal Silence." They also call attention to their most recent publications, "Actæon," by Laura Daintrey; "The Man in Possession," by "Rita;" "For the Sake of the Family," by May Cromelin, and "The Experiences of a Lady Help," by John Strange Winter.

THE NATIONAL BOOK COMPANY have just issued "Wedded to Sport," by Mrs. Edward Kennard, dealing with the disastrous effect upon a noble woman of life with a morally weak man, and introducing many English hunting scenes; and "Berris," by Katharine S. Macquoid, a story of peaceful country life, said to be full of peculiar interest. Among their more important recent publications are "Appledore Farm," also by Katharine S. Macquoid; "Ralph Ryder of Brent," by "Florence Warden," and "In the Roar of the Sea," by S. Baring-Gould.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just ready "Practical Ethics," by William De Witt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College, intended "both to satisfy the intellect and quicken the conscience at that critical period when the youth has put away childish things and is reaching out after manly and womanly ideals," and which aims to blend theory and practice of faith and works; and also "Natural History Lessons," in two parts, the first section, treating of shelter, food and clothing, being written by George Ashton Black, formerly teacher in the N. Y. Workingman's School, and the second, covering plants and animals, being by Kathleen Carter, Assistant in Botany at Barnard College.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS regret to announce to the purchasers of their edition of the "Talleyrand Memoirs" that two papers printed in the French edition of the fifth and concluding volume have been omitted from the editions appearing in London and New York. These two papers comprise the "retractation" or confession written by Talleyrand the day before his death, for transmission through the Archbishop of Paris to the Pope, and the letter to the Pope that accompanied this "retractation." The responsibility for this omission rests with the French publishers or with the French editor. The translation was prepared in London from proofs furnished for the purpose from the office of the publishers, Messrs. Calmann Levy & Co. These proofs were revised for the use of the English translator by the editor of the work, the Duc de Broglie, or under his instructions. The publishers of the American edition, believing these papers to be of special interest and importance, take the ground that American readers of the work are entitled to have the same included in their own copies. They have, therefore, printed a leaflet of four pages containing the two papers in question, and are prepared to furnish the same, on application, to any correspondents who have purchased their edition of the "Memoirs."

Bible. Old Testament. Genesis printed in colors, showing the original sources from which it is supposed to have been compiled; with introd. by Edwin Cone Bissell, Hartford, Ct. Belknap & Warfield, 1892. c. 59 p. O. cl., $1.25.

A unique and practical method has been adopted in this work to show the positions of higher critics as it respects Genesis. By means of ink of different colors, of which not less than seven kinds are used, not only are the three principal sources from which Genesis is supposed to have been compiled independently displayed, but, in some cases, the alleged source of those sources. Also, passages where the analysis is still in question, and even the part in minutest detail which the ancient editor is conjectured to have had in the work. The particular form of analysis presented is that found in the German work of Kautzsch and Socini; but it is held to be fairly representative of current views.

Black, G. Ashton, and Carter, Kathleen. Natural history lessons. Pt. 1, For primary grades: shelter, food and clothing. Pt. 2, For grammar grades: plants and animals.

N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1892. c. 9+98 p. D. (Teachers' handbooks.) cl., 54 c.

Pt. 1 presents a course of natural history lessons which children of six and seven may learn by help of experiments with the objects and operations that have so engrossed the man-child in his efforts to feed, clothe and house himself. Pt. 2 presents a course of instruction in botany and zoology which, it is believed, possesses the best features of the new science teaching.

Bloede, Gertrude, ["Stuart Sterne," pseud.] The story of two lives. N. Y., Cassell Publishing Co., [1892.] c. '91. 4+303 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 123, extra pap., 50 c.

*Brown, I. H. Child's speech-book: a collection of choice pieces in prose and poetry, adapted for children from 5 to 12 years, suitable for home, school, church and public entertainment. St. Louis, Mo., I. H. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 62 p. S. (Brown's lib. of speakers, no. 4.) pap., 10 c.

Buchanan, Rob. Squire Kate; or, come, live with me, and be my love: an English pastoral. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. '91. 324 p. D. (Lovell's illustrated ser., no. 18.) pap., 50 c.

Also published by the same house under the story's original title of "Come live with me, and be my love." A picturesque tale of English pastoral life, with two heroes and two heroines, whose love affairs for a time do not run very smoothly. Catharine and Bridget Thorpe are two sisters, of most opposite characters, who both love the same man. Catharine or "Squire Kate"—a woman of strong character, as vehement in her love as in her hate—is loved hopelessly by her overseer, Geoffrey Doona. The tragic element is furnished in a suspected attempt of one sister to poison the other.

Cox, Maria McIntosh. Jack Brereton's three months' service; il. by Mente. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 4-274 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Jack's father was a soldier, one of the men who went into the army purely from a sense of duty and from love of country, leaving his little family to the care and protection of his oldest son. How the boy who had been duly sworn into home service suddenly became a man in his prudent forethought and his tender consideration of the delicate little mother and the young children, how he worked for them, watched with them for tidings of the soldier father—in short, how Jack Brereton proved himself a hero is all told in this simple, unstudied, yet intensely realistic story.

Dickens, Mary Angela. Cross currents: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 8+840 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 99.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A careful character-study of a young girl who possesses great dramatic genius, and who is tempted for a short time to sacrifice her career to her love for a fine, manly, but unintellectual young fellow who has asked her to be his wife, and at the same time expressed his wish that she will give up the stage. The background is taken from London fashionable and theatrical life. Artists and actors play their part, the strongest influence in Selma Malet's life coming from John Tyrrell, a famous English society actor, evidently drawn from life. The writer is the granddaughter of Charles Dickens.

A young Russian girl who has led the conventional, fashionable life of well-to-do young women of good position in large cities is forced by her father's dishonesty and crime to accept the position of school-teacher in a little village on the wild plains of Russia. After arriving, with her mother in the most rebellious humor, she finds the diary of her predecessor, the general's daughter, whose memory is revered among children and parents. Manitchka learns to long for higher motives in life, and is more and more repelled by her frivolous, pleasure-seeking mother. The end is tragic.

- St. Felix, Marie. A little game with destiny. N. Y., Saalfeld & Fitch, 1892. c. 152 p. D. pap., 50 c.
The girl who plays "the little game with destiny" confides her repulsive history to the pages of her journal. She is but sixteen when her story begins, and for several years afterwards leads a dual life. To her parents, rich Boston people of social importance, she is an innocent school-girl pursuing her studies. To a certain fast set she is "Mrs. Gammell," the mistress of an elderly married man who has ruined her, and a reckless drinker and gambler. Her career henceforth is a downward one to the end, no detail of which is spared the reader. The story is said to be "a vivid picture of what is happening about us every week in the year."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 20, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

POLITENESS IN BUSINESS.

ONE of the largest and most successful retail houses of New York City furnishes its employees with a set of rules, among which the following is the one most rigorously insisted upon, as it has been found to contribute more to the success of their business than probably all the others put together:

"Be invariably polite and obliging to every one, not only for the benefit of the company, but for your own good. Remember that civility, while it may be one of the scarcest articles in the market, is also one of the cheapest, and the net profit on it to you, in the end, will be greater—not only from a social and moral point of view, but in dollars and cents—than on anything else you may have to offer a customer."

This is a sentiment which we firmly believe it will pay every business man and his clerks to learn by heart and to make it the rule of their lives. Pleasant manners are of the most inestimable value to business men, and especially to those who are brought into direct contact with the public. In the retail line many a business has suffered materially, while others have been entirely ruined by the inability of the proprietor to show a pleasant face continually while being subjected to a badgering by a half-dozen whimsical and shallow-brained customers. A customer may be fully aware that one may "smile, and smile, and be a villain," and that a courteous disposition and affable manners may be no criterion of a person's character; that, in fact, he stands more of a chance of being cheated by the polite dealer than by one of morose and surly temper; yet such is human nature that nine out of ten people, particularly those of the gentler sex, would actually prefer, if they had a choice, to be cheated by a pleasant-mannered man, rather than to patronize a surly, disagreeable dealer of the most undoubted integrity.

And yet one frequently finds enterprising dealers who are punctilious in the matter of stock and its display, and who are strenuous in their efforts to extend their trade by every channel open to them, who allow that trade to be hampered and new patrons repulsed by neglecting so small an essential as common politeness.

Affability and pleasant manners do not by any means imply servility, and there can be no excuse for the dealer or clerk who fails to display them in the interests of the business. Politeness is one of the few weapons that the small dealer especially has at his command to meet the competition of larger dealers, as the larger the business the greater number of assistants required, and the less chance of the customers being treated with uniform deference—clerks being apt to be more wanting in this respect than the proprietors of stores. Those who doubt our assertion that this advantage is not fully utilized by the average retail dealer will find by observation that our remarks are not altogether founded upon theory.

ON THE ADVERTISING OF BOOKS.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER, editor of The Critic, in a recent issue of Printers' Ink makes the following sensible remarks on the subject of publishers' advertising:

Publishers not infrequently complain that the advertising of books is about the only advertising that must not be sensational. They cannot devise catchwords such as "You touch the button, we do the rest," nor would they care to dwell upon "That tired feeling" after reading a book: it may be felt by the reader, but must not be mentioned by the publisher. A publisher may not even advertise "Bargains in books," though there is nothing to prevent the bookseller from doing so, no matter how little the publisher may like it.

The one glaring attempt to advertise a book sensationally that I can recall was that in which Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" was described by an enterprising young man in a publisher's house as "a daisy—and don't you forget it." The person who didn't "forget it" was the young man, whose employers dispensed with his services immediately after the appearance of this startling announcement.

There has been something of a break from the old methods of advertising made by The Century Company, Scribner's, the Ladies' Home Journal and the publishers of Webster's Dictionary. These concerns have adopted ornamental borders for their advertisements that are very picturesque in a decorative way. Scribner's Magazine has gone so far as to use a catch-phrase: "When in loubt, buy Scribner's," which is sure to catch the eye, as any oft-repeated phrase is. But this may be done with a magazine more easily than with a book.

Some seven or eight years ago the Cassell Publishing Company, then Cassell & Co., Ltd., advertised a novel by means of "sandwich men." The idea was not regarded as "legitimate advertising" by more conservative firms, but it had the effect of attracting attention not only to the book but to the house, for authors who were interested in the sales of their books said, "Hello! Here's a publisher who goes in for pushing our wares. Let's try him!" To flood the country with life-size lithograph portraits of their authors was another scheme of this house, and the boardings of the principal cities were gay with the portraits of Max O'Rell, Chauncey M. Depew and Ward McAllister.

As a rule, books that are sensationally advertised are not worth buying. The schemes for "guessing the author" and "guessing the title" that some firms have employed to sell their books have not, I fancy, succeeded in their object. A publisher may, however, employ unusual methods legitimately, it seems to me, and I never could understand the want of variety in book advertising. I do not think that black-faced type or grotesquely arranged letters do any good in the advertising of books, for they merely attract attention to the bad taste of the publisher. The well-displayed, well-worded advertisement is the one that does the most effective work. Publishers make a great mistake when they crowd too much matter into a given space. It is money thrown away. I can readily understand the temptation to do it, but it should be resisted. One of the most effective advertisements now before the public is of a certain shoe. "The Blankford Shoe" is all the reading-matter, and it is given generous space on all sides, so that no one in taking up the paper that it is in can fail to see it. Suppose that the same space was filled with glowing descriptions of the shoe and testimonials from Tom, Dick and Harry indorsing it: the advertisement would be lost and the money spent for it thrown away.

I believe that there will be more effective means invented for advertising books before long, and whatever it is I should like to have a patent on it, for it will fill "a long-felt want." It must not be too sensational; no portrait of the author, with, for example, "Yours for fame, W. D. Howells," below it; or "Take a Book Home in a Box," or "If You Are a Lover Read 'Pansies of Passion,'" or "Rudyard Kipling, Fresh Every Hour." Book advertising must be done decorously, there is no doubt about that, but it can be done more strikingly than it is to-day.

I have always had a theory that an author could write the best summary of his book for advertising purposes, but some experience I have had recently has knocked this theory on the head. You may think that publishers sometimes overstep the bounds of modesty in puffing their books, but they are nothing to some of the puffs I have seen written by the author's own hand. I recall an instance in which the author so far put himself in the place of the advertiser as to speak of his book as a "great production" and a "masterly setting forth of the case," etc., etc., etc., ad nauseam. I suppose that, while he deprecated such egotism, he thought it was the proper thing to do in the circumstances. In the same way I remember a lady of refinement who went upon the stage, and who, in her effort to be "professional," far exceeded the limit of modesty set by the veterans of the stage. Her intentions were excellent, but she didn't know just where to draw the line. So with the author in question. He thought it "business" to forget himself in puffing his work.

Advertising may be made an art, and where it is, the "artist" will find that his profession pays him much better than that of most professors of the art that is spelled with a capital A.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO.'S NEW BUILDING.

MANY of the leading daily papers in various parts of the country have shown great enterprise in erecting fine buildings for their offices. But few of the publishing houses have turned their attention to this idea, and therefore the new building, just started at No. 61 on the north side of East 9th Street, near Broadway, for the offices of E. L. Kellogg & Co., educational publishers, deserves special notice. We present a cut reduced from drawing by the architect. The front of the basement and first story are to be of Indiana limestone, tool-dressed. The rest of the front is mottled brick and terra-cotta matched and specially modelled. The roof is of chocolate-colored tiles. The size of the building is 26 x 86 feet, with basement covering full lot, 92 feet deep. A sixth story has been added showing dormer windows in roof, not in drawing. The building is to be equipped with fine plumbing on each floor, hot-water heating, plate-glass windows; seven open fireplaces and electric elevator and lighting. The offices of the publishers are to be fitted up to correspond with the interior finish. A novel feature is the flooring of so-called mill construction. The original drawing has been for some time on exhibition at the Alpine Club.

A NEW WAY TO SELL BOOKS.

AN enterprising grocer, according to the New York Herald, has discovered a novel and highly successful way to secure and retain the custom of all the servant-girls in his neighborhood. He bought at the price of waste-paper a large quantity of yellow-covered "penny dreadfuls" and uses the single sheets for wrapping purposes in such a manner as will enable the girl after a certain amount of trade to secure the complete story. Some very strange dialogues can be heard in the store. The following will suffice for examples:

"A loaf of bread, please, and wrap it in 'The Orphan's Woe,' page No. 5."

"A lamp-chimney, and give me the 'Blind Man's Curse,' third sheet."

"Oh, my dear sir!" pleads another girl, "couldn't you give me another copy of 'Slim Jim, the Boneyard Terror'? Our dog has eaten the other."

"Why, how was that?"

"Well, you see, sir, my missus did not know the value of the story and wrapped some scraps in it for the dog, and he swallowed the whole lot, paper and all."

"Here, miss, is your soap," continues the grocer, turning to a third customer. "And please observe the wrapper. It contains the thrilling story of 'The Crimson Stain, or, the marble bride.' You shall have the continuation when you come again." And, turning to his assistant, he continues: "Here, Hans, mark down the lady for 'The Crimson Stain,' second sheet. She has bought the soap."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PRINCESS PAULINE METTERNICH, who is well known in aristocratic circles on the Continent, and especially in Paris and Vienna, is said to be about to publish her reminiscences.

It is thought that after Mr. Justin McCarthy finishes his history of the Georges—two more volumes of which are yet to come—he will take into consideration the matter of writing a history of modern Irish politics.

FRANK STOCKTON, it is reported, intends to write a book about England as a result of the long visit he has been paying to that country. He has made a special study of the London cabman, and is much struck with the amount of humor he finds in that worthy.

THE Rev. S. J. Stone, the author of "The Church's One Foundation" and other well-known hymns, is engaged on a religious novel. Mr. Stone long devoted himself with rare self-sacrifice to clerical work in the East End, refusing to be tempted away by offers of preferment.

AN American woman is the author of "Green Tea," a novel which was published in London not long ago and found an immediate success. "V. Schallenger," the name on the title-page, according to the N. Y. Tribune, means Vista Schallenger Simmons, the wife of Edward Simmons, the artist. This young lady is herself an artist as well as a writer.

AFTER the publication of "Le Docteur Pascal," on which he is now at work, M. Zola intends to write a book based on studies he will make at Lourdes. In September he intends to visit the place, going on one of the "pilgrim's trains," and taking notes from his own observations. He made a similar visit to Lourdes last year, and was amazed to find people who were dying around him retaining their faith till the last in the healing power of the waters. Another novel which M. Zola has in contemplation will turn upon the decrease of population in France.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—S. W. Harman, who for many years kept his book business at 14 East Fayette Street, has been obliged, on account of the widening of the streets in that portion of the city, to remove to 320 North Charles Street.

CINCINNATI, O.—John M. Scudder & Son have succeeded to the firm of John M. Scudder, and will continue the publication of eclectic medical works at the old stand, 228 West Court Street.

LAKE CITY, FLA.—S. B. Thompson, bookseller, according to the American Stationer, has been closed out by the sheriff.

NAPA, CAL.—L. M. King has succeeded to the business of W. L. Burbeck, booksellers.

NEWTON, IA.—Dickson Brothers, booksellers have sold out to W. N. Merritt.

PEORIA, ILL.—Brown, Page & Hillman Company have sold to Jacquin Book and Music Company their entire stock of books, stationery, music and news, retaining only such goods as are exclusively connected to the piano and organ department. The business will continue as before, the two firms using the same building, at 309 Main Street, in common. Mr. Jacquin having had entire control and buying all the goods in this department for the past four years, is not a stranger to the book trade.

SEWARD, NEB.—J. S. Kittle, bookseller, has sold out to Fred Bruce.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Blackwood's Magazine for August (Leonard Scott Publishing Co.) contains a review of the Riverside Edition of the works of Oliver Wendell Holmes, which criticises in detail all his best-known writings.

A VERY interesting paper in the September Scribner, on "The Education of the Blind," is contributed by Mrs. Frederic R. Jones. She has studied very carefully the development of the various modes of instruction, and with the illustrations gives the reader an intelligent idea of the progress of improvement in the methods of printing, writing, musical notation, etc., that have opened the outside world to the sightless.

PICK-UPS.

AT THE SEASHORE.—He: Heavens, sister! what are those great books? They'll nearly fill your trunk. Sister: Why, Dun and Bradstreet blue-books. One cannot guess the standing of people here, you know.—Judge.

THE PLAGUE OF CUSTOM.—Von Schubbel: I just wish to leave these few short stories with the editor. What is customary? I've never done any work for the papers before. Office Boy: Well, it's the general custom to leave 'em, as then come back in a day or two—an' get 'em.—Puck.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

"LESSONS in Right Doing," v. 2, by Emma L. Ballou, one of March Bros.' most notable educational publications, was, through erroneous information furnished us, credited to William Beverley Harrison in our Educational Catalogue of 1892.

CHARLOTTE M. YONGE's next story will be entitled "The Cross Roads, or, a choice in life," a story for young women and older girls. Thos. Whittaker will publish it Sept. 1. He will also issue "Imogen, or, only eighteen," by Mrs. Moleaworth.

LOVELL, CORYELL & Co. have just issued an edition in paper of Marie Corelli's "The Soul of Lilith," the story founded on the mystical lore of the Orient, which was so favorably received by the critics last spring. They also call attention to their newest books, "Vanitas," by Vernon Lee; "A Creature of the Night," by Fergus Hume; and "Squire Kate," by Robert Buchanan.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation the volume of poems by Clinton Scollard which he names "Songs of Sunrise Lands," suggestions of his travels in Egypt, Syria and Greece. Mr. Whittier has gathered the poems he has written since the publication of "Saint Gregory's Guest" in 1886. They will be issued by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. early in the autumn under the appropriate but somewhat pathetic title "At Sandown." Mr. Garrett has made several attractive illustrations for the volume.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING Co., New York and New Orleans, have just added to their school text-book publications the Practical Educational Series, comprising the following books: Hansell's "School History of the United States" and "Higher History of the United States;" Hempstead's "History of Arkansas;" Nicholson's "Arithmetics;" Chambers' "Book-keeping," etc. The University Publishing Co. has established a branch office with Messrs. F. F. Hansell & Bro., the former publishers of the series, and all their publications may be obtained through this agency.

JAMES J. CHAPMAN, Washington, D. C., has in press "Military Government and Martial Law," by William E. Birkhimer, First Lieut. and Adj. Third United States Artillery. The work points out the distinction between the rights, duties and responsibilities of military officers when exercising authority over the civil community, first abroad and then at home. It was the result of martial-law experiences years ago, and the recent events at Homestead show that the subject-matter has lost none of its importance. Intended to be a practically useful manual for military officers.

J. R. WELDIN & Co. have almost ready "Early History of Pittsburg, Pa.: Fort Pitt," which contains the complete journal of Celeron, 1749, with notes by the late William M. Darlington; Major Grant's letter to General Forbes on the affair of Sept. 14, 1758; Colonel Boquet's letter to General Forbes, Sept. 23, 1758; the journal and letters of Captain S. Ecuyer; Commandant at Fort Pitt, 1763; life of General James O'Hara, including letters from General Henry Knox, S. Hedgton, Generals Wayne and Wilkinson, Alexander Hamilton, Timothy Pickering, etc., etc., from originals in possession of the family. A large Whatman paper edition, limited to one hundred copies, will also be issued.

BENZIGER BROTHERS have in press, "The Sacramentals of the Holy Catholic Church," by Rev. A. A. Lambing, LL.D.; "Socialism," by Rev. Victor Cathrein, S.J.; a chapter from the author's "Moral Philosophy," edited by Rev. James Conway, S.J.; "Analysis of the Gospels of the Sundays of the Year," from the Italian of Angelo Cagnola, by Rev. L. A. Lambert, LL.D., author of "Notes on Ingersoll," etc.; "A Primer for Converts," by Rev. John T. Durward; a German-English edition of Deharbe's large catechism, with the German and English versions on opposite pages; "Meditations for Advent," by Rev. R. F. Clarke, S.J.; and a new edition of Müller's "Catholic Priesthood." They have in preparation: "Words of Wisdom," a concordance to the Sapiential books.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co., New York, supply to the trade a pamphlet on English copyright, entitled "Copyright Law Reform," by J. M. Lely, published by Eyre & Spottiswoode, London. The author is a member of the Copyright Committee of the London Authors' Society, and his purpose has been to present a description of the scope and object of the Monksell copyright bill, presented to Parliament in 1890. He gives the leading features of the existing law, points out its defects, summarizes the remedies proposed in the bill, devotes separate chapters to "The Copyright Commission," "The Manners and Other Bills" and "Lord Monksell's Bill," and concludes with an appendix containing the Treasury minutes on government copyright, the articles of the Berne Convention, and the text of the American Copyright Bill.

"WHAT America Owes to Woman" is the title of a work being prepared for the Woman's Department of the World's Columbian Exposition, by Lydia Hoyt Farmer, author of "The Life of Lafayette," "A Short History of the French Revolution," "A Knight of Faith," "A Moral Inheritance," "Famous Rulers and Queens," etc. This work by Mrs. Farmer will be divided into the following topics: What America Owes to Isabella of Castile; To Madame Lafayette; To the Women of the American Revolution; To the Women of the Sanitary Commission of the Civil War; To the Wives and Daughters of Presidents, Statesmen, Citizens and Pioneers; To Women Writers; To Women Philanthropists; To Social Leaders; To Women Teachers; To Women Workers. As it is desired to make this a book of general interest, if any one can furnish an item regarding women in any of these departments, either personal facts of interest or statistics of the number of women engaged in philanthropy, education or any line of labor, mental or physical, they will confer a favor by sending the item to Mrs. Lydia Hoyt Farmer, 781 Prospect Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

THE report has now been confirmed that Mrs. Rylands, the widow of the millionaire member of Parliament, who recently purchased the famous Althorpe library of Lord Spencer, purposes to give this immensely valuable possession, augmented by modern books to the value of £20,000, to the city of Manchester. In addition to the priceless gift Mrs. Rylands will furnish the library to store it, and has already bought the site on which she intends to erect suitable buildings. Mrs. Rylands is perpetuating her husband's memory in strict accordance with his wishes.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

NOW READY:

Last issue in the "Metropolitan Series."

The Nobler Sex.

By FLORENCE MARRYAT, author of "The Master Passion," "There Is No Death," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Nothing could testify to a writer's versatility more strongly than three recent novels from the pen of Florence Marryat. "There Is No Death," "A Fatal Silence," and a work the tenor of which can be taken from the title, "The Nobler Sex." No quotation from the book, nor brief criticism can cover the ground upon which this author discusses the question of the supremacy of sex. The book must be read.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

MISS DAINTREY'S POWERFUL SOCIETY NOVEL.

Actæon.

By LAURA DAINTREY, author of "Fedor," "Eros," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Few well-informed people can truthfully take exception to Laura Daintrey's views of New York society as indicated in her new novel, "Actæon." Miss Daintrey has left the reader to form his own conclusions from a series of situations only too plausible, artfully embodied in a narrative of undeniable interest.

The Experiences of a Lady Help.

By JOHN STRANGE WINTER, author of "Booties' Baby," "Regimental Legends," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"This particular 'Lady Help' is a charming girl, her 'Experiences' are varied and interesting, and they are told with a fresh vivacity that leaves no opening for dullness."—Boston Times.

The Man in Possession.

By RITA, author of "A Vagabond Lover," "The Doctor's Secret." 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"'The Man in Possession' tells a bright and interesting story in an attractive manner. The plot is well constructed and the style is breezy, making a novel which is notably clever and readable."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

For the Sake of the Family.

By MAY CROMMELIN, author of "Goblin Gold," "The Freaks of Lady Fortune," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A new novel by this delightful author will be eagerly welcomed. "For the Sake of the Family" is a story that has both power and beauty, and is to be regarded as an exceptionally able, entertaining and wholesome novel.

A New (Tenth) Edition, Author's Last Revision,

OF THE

Book on the Physician Himself,

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

Bound in Extra Cloth, - - - - - $2.00 net.

EVERY DEALER SHOULD ORDER A SUPPLY OF THIS FAMOUS BOOK AT ONCE

*READY EARLY IN SEPTEMBER.The New Pocket Medical Dictionary.

Compiled from the latest authorities, and containing words recently introduced into medicine; also Addenda of Abbreviations, Affixes, List of Diseases known by proper names, List of Poisons and their Antidotes, etc., etc.

By DAVID BRADEN KYLE, M.D.,

Assistant Demonstrator of Pathology and Instructor in Clinical Microscopy at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Visiting Physician to Philadelphia Home for Incurables; Associate Editor of the "Annual of the Universal Medical Sciences."

This compact and complete little dictionary will be a thing of beauty as well as of use. It will be neatly printed on extra thin, but opaque and durable paper, with red marginal lines on every page, thus bringing out the type clear and distinct. In strong, flexible leather binding. Size,  $2\frac{1}{2} \times 5\frac{1}{4}$  inches, easily fitting in the vest-pocket.

HAVE JUST READY:

WEDDED TO SPORT.

By Mrs. EDWARD KENNARD, author of "The Girl in the Brown Habit," "Matron or Maid?" etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Wedded to Sport," as the title indicates, deals with hunts and hunting after the true English style; but the main thread of Mrs. Kennard's thoroughly entertaining story runs along the disastrous effort of a high-souled woman to live with a morally weak and vicious unrefined man. There are many touches of real pathos in the book, and the conclusion is as happy as any old-fashioned novel reader could desire.

BERRIS.

By KATHERINE S. MACQUOID, author of "Elizabeth Morley," "Miss Eyon of Eyon Court," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

In "Berris" the author has strongly emphasized that peculiarity of style which presents to the reader a quiet and peaceful picture of pastoral life, but which nevertheless contains within its pages a sufficiently strong love element to maintain the interest from first to last.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS:

Appledore Farm.

By KATHERINE S. MACQUOID, author of "Miss Eyon of Eyon Court," "Elizabeth Morley," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A well-written novel, showing an excellent knowledge of human nature and a familiarity with rural scenes which lends animation and faithfulness to the descriptive passages. It is a piece of fiction worthy of its popular author."—Providence Journal.

Ralph Ryder of Brent.

By FLORENCE WARDEN, author of "A Witch of the Hills," "The House on the Marsh," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

Florence Warden is among the best of modern English romancers. In "Ralph Ryder of Brent" she has written a most pleasing and fascinating story, the treatment of which is in her usual original, bright and interesting vein.

IN THE ROAR OF THE SEA.

A Tale of the Cornish Coast. By S. BARING-GOULD, author of "John Herring," "Urith," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A story that for interest is seldom surpassed."—Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin.

"An exceedingly dramatic story, with impressive power and vivid picturesqueness."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY

NOW HAVE READY

A NEW EDITION IN PAPER OF

THE SOUL OF LILITH.

By MARIE CORELLI, author of "Ardath," "Wormwood," etc. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

May also be obtained in cloth, 12mo, illustrated, $1.25.

"The Boston Times, in speaking of this work, says: 'It is original in essence, radical in suggestion, startling in development. 'The Soul of Lilith' is not a book to hurry through and dismiss. It deserves and demands thought and repays it. There must be many who are waiting for such a vindication of the ways of God to men, and to whom the book will bring a strength and comfort that no words can express.'"

Vanitas.

Polite Stories. By VERNON LEE, author of "Hauntings," "A Phantom Lover," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Vernon Lee wields an ingenious and fascinating pen, and the three delightful stories which compose this volume are written in a style admirable for its grace, strength, and rich ornateness.

A Creature of the Night.

An Italian Enigma. By FERGUS HUME, author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "Madam Midas," etc. Square 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

"A Creature of the Night" is a story of a strange and gruesome adventure in sunny Italy, remarkably well told and worked out from a highly interesting incident that breathes strongly of the supernatural.

SQUIRE KATE;

Or, "Come, Live With Me, and Be My Love." By ROBERT BUCHANAN, author of "The Master of the Mine," "The Shadow of the Sword," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

May also be obtained in cloth, 12mo, illustrated, $1.25.

"A charming story, natural, fresh and restful—a pastoral to quiet one in weary hours, and inspire the wish that literature had more such."—Boston Times.

"An English Pastoral, written with all the dramatic force, all the poetic insight, all the conscientious reproduction of local coloring for which the author is noted."—Detroit Free Press.

For 1892 (Twentieth Year).

Large 8vo, 3430 pages. With Duplex Index. Cloth, net, $2.00.

The Trade List Annual for 1892 will contain:

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.
2. A complete list by author, title and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from January to June, 1892, supplementing the ANNUAL CATALOGUE, 1891.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1892, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Only those subscribing and forwarding amount now are entitled to subscription rate of $1.50; after publication day and on orders which we have to collect after the date the regular price is $2.00 NET. The edition is limited.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 90 cents per copy extra. Address

SEASONS 1892=3.

MISCELLANEOUS PUBLICATIONS.

Magical Experiments; or, Science in Play. A book for the young and old. By Arthur Good. A series of 300 amusing, popular, scientific experiments, meant for the recreation of young and old. 1 vol., square 12mo, fancy cloth, fully illustrated, $2.00; same, with gilt edges, $2.50.

Many of these are simple pastimes, others possess a really scientific character, while the whole of these experiments may be performed without any special apparatus whatever. This entertaining book, written in language that every one can understand, gives the best answer to the so often repeated question, "What shall we do to-night?"

Napoleon's Life and Character as Illustrated by His Conversations, Letters and the Writings of His Associates. By E. O. Chapman. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth extra, with steel portraits, $2.25; half morocco extra, $2.50.

A collection of sentences, maxims, anecdotes, table talk and opinions of Napoleon I., giving an insight into his character and inner life. Selected from the highest as well as latest authorities, such as Marbot, Macdonald, Mme. de Rénusat, Bourrienne, Las Casas, Montholon, Gourgaud, Ségur, Antommarchi, Duchesse d'Abrantes and others.

Chesterfield's (Lord) Wit and Wisdom. Maxims selected from letters to his son, grandson, and miscellaneous works, by E. O. Chapman. With portrait, 1 vol., 12mo, extra cloth, $1.25.

A judicious choice of the most striking passages from the works of Lord Chesterfield, the "undisputed sovereign of wit and fashion," whom Voltaire praised for his gracefulness, in which quality, he said, no Englishman surpassed him.

Intellectual Pursuits; or, Culture by Self-Help. By Robert Waters. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.25.

A series of highly spirited and entertaining essays on the acquiring of knowledge and culture. Now first collected from the Christian Advocate, Home Journal, Far and Near, etc.

Heimbürg's (W.) Works. 11 vols., 12mo, illustrated with photogravures, cloth, new style, $13.75; handsomely bound in half calf extra, $27.50. 1. Gertrude's Marriage. 2. Two Daughters of One Race. 3. Lora, the Major's Daughter. 4. Magdalen's Fortune. 5. The Pastor's Daughter. 6. Lucie's Mistake. 7. A Sister's Love. 8. Short Stories. 9. Misjudged. 10. A Maiden's Choice. 11. A Poor Girl.

Columbus Library (The). By Elise L. Lathrop. Illustrated with photogravures. In 3 vols., 12mo, $3.75; half calf extra, $7.50. Vol. I. With Columbus in America. Vol. II. With Cortez in Mexico. Vol. III. With Pizarro in Peru.

A series of highly dramatic historical novels, treating of the discovery and conquest of this continent.

Bernhard (Marie) Novels. In 2 vols., 12mo, illustrated, extra cloth, $2.50; or in half calf extra, $5.00. Vol. I. The Rec. or of St. Luke's. Vol. II. The Household Idol.

Eschstruth (Nataly von) Novels. In 2 vols., 12mo, illustrated, cloth extra, $2.50; half calf extra, $5.00. Vol. I. The Wild Rose of Gross-Staufen. Vol. II. The Evil Queen.

Ossip Schubin's Novels. Illustrated with photogravures. In all 4 vols., 12mo, cloth, $5.00; half calf extra, $10.00. Vol. I. Asbein. From the life of a Virtuoso. Vol. II. Boris Lensky. (Sequel to above.) Vol. III. Felix Landsberg's Expiation. A story of Vienna. Vol. IV. The Hand of Destiny.

Leon de Tinsseau's Novels. 2 vols., 12mo, illustrated, extra cloth, $2.50; half calf extra, $5.00. Vol. I. Jennie's Ordeal. Vol. II. Love Knows No Law.

NOTES IN SEASON.

AS WHITTAKER will publish at once "Vir-re: a romance of the sixteenth century."
 B. S., and "At the End of the Rain-
 Colorado story, by Julia A. Sabine.

UNITED STATES BOOK Co. publish this the Strathmore Series a new novel by Mrs. called "Diana, the History of a Great " which offers a charming character-a very charming heroine.

B. LIPPINCOTT Co. issue this week in ies of Select Novels "Mrs. Alexander's" latest work, "For His Sake," a clever, wholesome love-story, with an attractive background drawn from English country life.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM has just issued the fourth edition of "Aleph, the Chaldean," E. F. Burr's powerful story about "the Messiah as seen from Alexandria." This new edition is printed on super paper and bound in covers with new dies, making it a desirable gift-book.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued "People at Pisgah," by Edwin W. Sanborn. Pisgah is in Northern Vermont, and Dr. Van Nuyntlee, the pastor of a rich church in Murray Hill, spends a few days there preparing an address to be delivered at the close of the Ecumenical Congress, soon to meet at Saratoga. The "people" are very varied in character and drawn with skill and much humor.

LOVELL, GESTEFELD & Co. have nearly ready
 "The Woman Who Dares," a novel by Ursula
 N. Gestefeld, author of "The Prodigal Son,"
 "The Popular Craze," etc.; "The Island of Fantasy," by Fergus Hume; "The Princes of Peele," by William Westall; and "Suggestions," by Mabel Collins, author of "Ida," "The Blossom and the Fruit," etc. The publishers also call attention to their complete stock of occult and metaphysical publications, of which they make a specialty.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. have just ready
 R. L. Garner's "The Speech of Monkeys." It is a wonderfully interesting work, recording the progress of Mr. Garner's researches along the line of the theory he confided to the world some time back, that all animals, and especially monkeys, have modes of speech, or methods through certain sounds of communicating with each other.
 The work is in two parts, the first recording some of his experiments, the second defining what he means by "speech," and giving his deductions.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "Silhouettes of American Life," by Rebecca Harding Davis, the first appearance in book form of some of the short stories of this author, who always draws with insight, feeling and humor the types of humanity characteristic of American life and customs; "The Study of Animal Life," by J.
 Arthur Thomson, which is brought out as a University Extension Manual; and "The Case Against Prof. Briggs," being the official papers in the trial before the New York Presbytery and General Assembly, and also his arguments in his defence.

THE SCIENTIFIC PUBLISHING Co. have just issued "The Mining Laws of the Republic of Colombia," never before translated into English, but now gathered, translated and edited by Charles Bullman, with a short explanation of their application and official forms for notices, denouncements and applications for title. These laws cannot be procured in book form even in Spanish, and the editor's work has been most arduous in hunting up his information from official records. By special permission the book is dedicated to the President of the Republic of Colombia. The Scientific Publishing Co. will also be sole agents in this country for "Florida, South Carolina and Canadian Phosphates," by
 C. C. Hoyer Millar, which gives a complete account of their occurrence, methods and cost of production, quantities raised and commercial importance.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in lieu of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (2mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., ob. nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*American and English corporation cases; a coll. of corporation cases, both private and municipal (excepting railway cases), decided in the courts of last resort in the U. S., Eng. and Canada; ed. by W: M. McKinney. V. 86. Northport, N. Y., E: Thompson Co., [1892.] c. 7+722 p. O. shp., $4.50.

*American and English railroad cases; a coll. of all the railroad cases in the courts of last resort in America and England; ed. by W: M. McKinney. V. 49. Northport, N. Y., E: Thompson Co., [1892.] c. 8+746 p. O. shp., $4.50.

Bazán, Emilia Pardo. A Christian woman; tr. by Mary Springer. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 91. 10+368 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 127.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., April 18, 1891, [1008.]

Bishop, Emily M. Americanized Delsarte culture. Wash., D. C., published by the author [Emily M. Bishop], 1892. c. 3-202+6 p. sq. S. cl., $1.25.

By Americanized Delsarte culture is meant the Delsarte art of expression broadened so that it may be of general benefit to all. The Delsarte expression exercises have been proved to be health agencies as well as helps to art, and from this standpoint they can be used even by those not musically or dramatically gifted. The little book treats of health and grace, how we stand, poise, of relaxation, respiration, walking, sitting, insomnia, nervousness, etc. It embodies the "whys and hows and wherefores" of the author's methods of practical instruction.

Bobrick, G. A. Hygienic requirements of school furniture. N. Y., [G. A. Bobrick, 150 Nassau st., 1892.] c. 4+51 p. il. O. pap., 50 c.

Round shoulders, curvature of the spine, difficulty of respiration, distortion of the upper part of the body, and other physical deformities are traced by the author to the use—while the body is yet unformed and susceptible to all external influences—of desks and seats in school and at home that are not properly adjusted to the height and size of the pupil. In every school pupils are classified by intelligence, not by stature, and the same seats and desks are provided for the entire class. The evils of this system are clearly stated.

Browning, Rob. Browning year-book: selections for every day in the year from the prose and poetry of Robert Browning, by C. M. T. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1892. c. 179 p. S. cl., $1.

These selections comprise short readings for the days from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, including a selection for Feb. 29, when leap year is due.

Burgess, Edwin H. Loyalty. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892] c. 3+54 p. D. pap., 25 c.

A sermon preached before the Moses Dennis Post, No. 588, of the Grand Army of the Republic, on Memorial Sunday, May 26, 1890.

*California. Supreme ct. Reports of cases: C. P. Pomeroy, rep. V. 93, [1892.] San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1892. c. 81+770 p. O. shp., $4.

*Cathrein, Rev. Victor. Socialism: a chapter of the author's moral philosophy; ed. by Rev. Ja. Conway. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892, 12", pap., net, 75 c.

*Deharbe, Jos. German-English edition of Deharbe's catechism; with the German and English versions on opposite pages. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 16", cl., 35 c.

Dickens, C. Life and adventures of Martin Chuzzlewit: a reprint of the 1st ed., with the illustrations and an introd., biographical and bibliographical, by C: Dickens, the younger. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 22+796 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Dickens, C. The old curiosity shop, and Master Humphrey's clock: a reprint of the 1st ed.; with the illustrations and an introd., biographical and bibliographical, by C: Dickens, the younger. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 20+654 p. D. cl., $1.

Edwards, J. T., D.D. The silva of Chautauqua Lake. Buffalo, N. Y., H. H. Otis, 1892. c. 5-79 p. il. obl. S. cl., $1.

Chautauqua Lake is situated eight miles from Lake Erie, and four hundred and fifty from the sea. No trees have been included except those which are indigenous to the soil. Fifty-four distinct species are found upon the grounds, which bear 10,264 trees, including fruit trees and catalpas, which are cultivated varieties and not included. A selection from the words our best writers have said on trees forms an important part of the volume.

Fish, Everett W., M.D. Biography of Ignatius Donnelly: reprinted from "Donnelliana." Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] c. 8-144 p. por. D. pap., 25 c.

Mr. Donnelly is the well-known author of "The great cryptogram," "Ragnarök," "Atlantis," "Dr. Hugen," and "Caesar's column." He was b. in Phila., 1831, and has since arriving at manhood lived largely before the public, both as writer and politician. His career will be found minutely described in this little volume.

French, H: W., ["Abd el Ardavan," pseud.] The lance of Kanana: a story of Arabia; il. by Garrett. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 3-173 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The story of Kanana, the brave Bedouin boy whose name has come down through the ages as the deliverer of Arabia from her enemies, is full of interesting details of the home of the Arabs and the great intelligence of their faithful servants, the white camel and the dromedary. Kanana gave his life for his people and for Allah.

Garner, R. L. The speech of monkeys. N. Y., C: L. Webster & Co., 1892. c. 8+217 p. por. D. cl., $1.

Mr. Garner divides his work into two parts. The first part is devoted to an account of his numerous experiments with monkeys in various parts of the world in his attempt to learn if certain sounds that they used resent what he calls "speech." The deductions from his experiments are that we keys "the rudiments from which all the uttered by man could easily develop, insight, reason, speech and the moral and so man." The second part defines what Mr. ns by "speech"—that is, he explains "the characteristics that mark the sounds made as speech and distinguish them from mere sounds."

Klaus Bower, whose business interests were in Suma- tra, so longed for the pleasures and life of his native Germany that he obeyed an irresistible impulse and settled for a time in Berlin. Here he becomes in- fatuated with a music-hall singer, whom he makes his wife. The marital experiences of this mismatched pair convey several morals.

Horace Swanson, attorney of Smithville, was pro- posed as a candidate for Congress by the Labor party, and as his nomination was seconded by his own party he was unanimously elected representative of his district. His political action causes dissatisfaction among the workmen of his native town, who voice, through Mason and Nixon, able mechanics, some theories as to the political needs and present condition of the American laborer, and forecasts for him a sad future if the existing political evils are not abolished.

A new French writer, whose name is not given but whose methods are very like those of Jules Verne, is the author of this story. The characters are five patriots—a Pole, an Alsatian, an Austrian, a Frenchman and a Dane—all imbued with an intense hatred of Germany. A great inventor, who has solved the problem of submarine navigation, filled with a similar desire for vengeance, places his great submarine warships at their service. Its construction is described in scientific terms, which make everything seem plausible, and its wonderful destructive power and its equally wonderful deeds under water are graphically portrayed.

The first of a collection of poems, tells of a beautiful frivolous woman, who was induced to lead a life of vice by her love of idleness and luxury. Mixing in a wanton's career she falls in love, and through a new and pure sentiment realizes the stinkiness of her past; then overcome by despair and remorse she takes her own life. This tragic act is attended by weird consequences that end the poem. The other verses are of varied topics.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 27, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach us by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The next important reason is that the Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY forms the basis of "The American Catalogue" and so the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XVIII.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—IV.

In the larger cities, where there are a number of large bookstores or jobbing houses, it is customary in filling pick-up orders to buy of these. To enable the order-clerk to do this he must employ a number of messengers whose duty it is to go from house to house, as directed, to obtain such books as he may be able to procure. This particular branch of the business is the bane of the order-clerk, particularly if he must depend upon boys. Indeed, the evils resulting from the employment of indifferent boys from eight to twelve years of age have been so aggravating that a few houses have preferred to enlist the services of better-paid youths and men intelligent enough to know what they are after and to get it, or at least to bring back an intelligent answer. In employing these it has also been found that they are able to carry more and that they may be depended upon to use their own judgment, which they are frequently called upon to exercise, and which very few boys are capable of. Another objection to the employment of boys is that as soon as one is trained and becomes really useful he is apt to become tired of his job or has found something else more to his liking, and the order-clerk has the task of going over his work again in training the next raw recruit that may offer his services. Efficient work can hardly be expected from such material, and in consequence the order-clerk is very often behind with his orders. How often must he not hear his list-boy bring the exasperating report, "Ain't got it!" "What did they say about it?" "Didn't say nuthin'." "Why didn't you ask?" "Forgot it." And so to the end of the chapter. If it is insisted that a report be written against each order, very likely the boy, smoking a cigarette in some cool retreat, will be able to evolve from his inner consciousness a more or less satisfactory and relevant report. Then, too, list-boys entertain a peculiarly fraternal feeling towards one another, and what one has not learned in the slighting of his work some past master in the art will quickly teach him.

If the order-clerk must put up with boys help the best system of making up his orders will be to enter the books wanted in a well-bound blank-book under the names of such houses as he may think keep them. Nearly every house makes a specialty of one or more lines, as religious, medical, law, school-books, etc. Let him divide his corps, so that some shall go down-town while the rest may cover other sections of the city. This will insure despatch and allow the boys to cover the most ground possible. It is a good plan to keep the same boys on one route, because in so doing they become better acquainted with the houses and the men whom it is desirable to consult as to the books wanted.

The order-clerk must make it a rule to request the firms with whom he deals to refuse to supply any one not presenting the regular order-book of his house. The name of his firm and the number should be indelibly stamped upon the cover of the book, and printed in some conspicuous place on the inside. This will help to prevent fraud on the part of the evil disposed, and make it almost impossible for them to obtain goods without the book or written order, as most houses now refuse to deliver books to persons unknown to them without such credentials. The order clerk must also insist that the messengers bring bills with the goods and deliver them to him before going out on another errand. Negligence in this respect will cause the order-clerk much annoyance when charging up the goods.

returned by the order-clerk for any should always be charged back and a with them; not returned to be credited m. ## THE COLONIAL RECORDS OF NORTH CAROLINA.

THE ten bulky quarto volumes, issued under the general title of "The Colonial Records of North Carolina, for which we are indebted to the courtesy of Mr. J. C. Birdsong, State Librarian of North Carolina, bear very substantial testimony to the eleven years of laborious work spent in their compilation and editorship by the accomplished Col. Williams L. Saunders, late Secretary of State of North Carolina. This almost invaluable collection of transcripts of original records and documents found in the offices of the Secretary of State at Raleigh and in the British Public Record Office in London, was undertaken by Col. Saunders as a labor of love towards his own State, "without reward or the hope of reward," other than the hope of rescuing "the fair fame and good name of North Carolina from the clutches of ignorance," and of letting coming generations learn "what manner of men their ancestors were." Col. Saunders deserves the earnest thanks of all lovers of their country, and all future historians of his State. The manuscripts and documents he has gathered together form a consecutive history of remarkable interest that it would have been a severe loss not to have placed in an easy form for reference and study. They not only tell of North Carolina's hundred years' struggle with the mother country for constitutional government, but the no less wonderful story of her hundred years' struggle with the savage Indian for very life.

The volumes cover the period from 1662 to 1776, each volume containing the papers of certain important events which make an epoch in the State's history, preceded by thirty or forty pages of notes, briefly relating the history of these years. Volume first offers copies of the various grants of lands made to the first settlers, the MSS. referring to the Cary Rebellion, and documents of other important events of the years between 1662 and 1712. Volume second begins with the year 1713, and closes with the Proprietary government in 1728. Volume third covers the period from the surrender of the Lords Proprietors to the end of Burring's administration as Royal Governor. Volume fourth covers Governor Johnston's administration, the longest ever known in the annals of North Carolina. Volumes fifth and sixth cover the period from the death of Governor Johnston to the death of Governor Dobbs in March, 1765. Volumes seventh and eighth contain records of Governor Tryon's administration, its salient points being the Stamp Act trouble, the Palace and the debt it created, the Cherokee Boundary line and the extravagant cost of running it, and the Regulation troubles. Volumes nine and ten contain documentary history of the royal governments between 1771 and 1775, before the adoption of the State constitution in 1776.

This work was published under the supervision of the Trustees of Public Libraries, by order of the General Assembly of North Carolina. It sets a valuable example to other States. There was only a limited number printed, and the type has been distributed, and owing to the size of the work it will never be reprinted. The few sets remaining unsold should be ordered at an early day by those desiring them, or the opportunity will be gone. Typographically the volumes are all that can be desired. The price of the work complete—ten volumes—is $50.

COMMUNICATIONS.

QUARITCH'S REPLY TO "G. W. S." IN RE THE $6000 FOLIO SHAKESPEARE.

LONDON, 15 PICCADILLY, August 4, 1892.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

SIR: G. W. S. has a B in his bonnet, and a Q in his gizzard. His ability to find sermons in stones and B. Q. in everything must have been acquired in the days when he dwelt in Arden with the Duke—he is terribly fond of Dukes! He tried to make the melancholy Jacques his pattern, but has succeeded only in becoming solemnly tiresome. His London letter of July 13 deals with a costly first-folio Shakespeare sold by Messrs. Dodd & Mead. He reproaches them mournfully for taking a high price. He chides a writer who, in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, described the copy as "a really fine one," for making such a statement anonymously. Towards the close of his jeremiad he drags me in à propos de bottles by declaring that Mr. Quaritch thinks the bibliophile a poor creature, and delights in deceiving his customers. Lo! in the twinkling of a paragraph, the melancholy Jacques is transformed into Mr. Dick, and B. Q. is as usual the head of King Charles. I do not want to insinuate that G. W. S. is in the same case as Mr. Dick. All crockery is not necessarily cracked, but the oracle of The Tribune has only himself to blame if we think of delf rather than Delphi. Those who believe in G. W. S. see probably more beauty in an earthenware jug than in a porcelain vase.

I love and admire the bibliophile—that is, the true bibliophile, not the poor creature whose only apparatus is the inch-measure and the Ready-Reckoner. Indeed, so far as G. W. S. gives us to understand, it would not seem necessary for his kind of bibliophile to know how to read.

The bibliographer is another being whose functions are misunderstood by G. W. S. Panzer, for instance, was a great bibliographer, but the men of the G. W. S. school would fail to appreciate him. Better for them the wisacre who speaks of an incunabula, and confines his intellect to studying the accidental size of this or that copy of a book, than the man who describes a book scientifically according to its editions.

BERNARD QUARITCH.

CHICAGO NOT BEHIND GOTHAM.

August 17, 1892.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

NOT to be outdone by Bro. W. E. Benjamin, we have "excavated" a bookworm, and of course feel proud 'cause its a bigger one than his. See the Chicago Evening Post of August 16, which I mail you this day. It contains the "details." Very truly, F. M. MORRIS.

The "details" tell that a Chicago bookworm, learning with horror of Chicago being behind New York even in the matter of bookworms, tumbled himself out of an old copy of A. Fabri's "Conterus Civills" on to the counter in Mr. Frank Morris' bookstore. He seemed to have a great liking for Roman law, for it was found he had devoured many pages, beginning at the conclusion of the work and eating backwards, until, desiring to make sure of the premises, he had eaten down through the binding and begun at the beginning. Mr. Morris' find measures three-fourths of an inch. Its color is distinctly white. Its head is blunt and its body tapers down into a thin, scaly tail that ends with two sharp, bony forks.

That was all Mr. Morris was able to make out of the worm until he placed it under a microscope. There it looked like a hideous, terrible little beast, that reminded one of a sea-serpent. There appeared to be no flesh on the thing, and its entire body seemed to be composed of great scales. It has six legs, and eighty scaly rings that lap over each other for a tail. There have been any number of two-legged bookworms in to talk it over with him, but he gives them no sign of recognition. He is a rare sight for the old bibliophiles. They come into the store, and just their spectacles and lean for hours over microscope gazing at the curious little enemy of good bindings.

Bookworms of the kind Mr. Morris has discovered are decidedly rare, says the Chicago Evening Post. Taking no account of the two-legged species, they are classed in the genus aglossa pinguinalis. Ringwalt's "Encyclopedia of Printing," published in 1871, says that they are entirely unknown in this country, and that the first came into England in the hog binding from Holland. The volume in which Mr. Morris' bookworm was found was in stamped pigskin, with thick paper of excellent quality, and altogether a handsome book. It was brought over from London several years ago. Indeed, so rarely are bookworms found in these days, that when Bernard Quaritch found one five years ago he gave a banquet to all his customers.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MARTIN LUTHER EDWARDS, of the Barrow Brothers Co., Cleveland, Ohio, died at his home on August 11. Mr. Edwards was born September 20, 1859, and was a most promising business man.

SERGEANT FREDERICK ELSAESSER, employed by the wholesale department of Otto Ulbrich's book store, Buffalo, was shot while doing duty with Co. F, of the 65th Regiment of the N. Y. State Militia, at the Lackawanna trestle, Cheektowaga, Buffalo. It was entirely an accident, and the strikers are in no way responsible. A gun had been left loaded and was discharged accidentally while being handled by the sergeant. He died at 1 P.M. on August 17.

REV. DR. JOHN VAN NEST TALMAGE, brother of the great preacher of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, died at Bound Brook, N. J., on Friday, August 19. He was born at Somerville, N. J., in 1819, and was educated at Rutgers College. He studied theology, went as missionary to China, and has done good work in the Reformed Church for nearly forty years. Among his published works are a "Chinese-English Dictionary" and a translation of several books of the Bible into the Amoy colloquial dialect.

JOSEPHINE POLLARD, the successful writer of religious stories for children, died at her home in New York City on Monday, August 15. Miss Pollard was about fifty years of age. Her father was an architect and her grandfather a soldier who met his death at Bunker Hill. Among Miss Pollard's best-known books are: "Bible Stories for Children," "The Old Testament in Words of One Syllable," "The New Testament in Words of One Syllable," and "The Life of Christ for Young People." She also wrote hymns, and one of her best was called "Outside the Gate." She did editorial work for the Sunday-School Times.

GEBBIE, the well-known publisher of non-books, died at his home in Philadelphia, Saturday, August 13, after an illness last weeks, of which the primary cause was from heat. He was supposed to have from the first attack, but again succumbed to the oppressive temperature of last week, complicated with Bright's disease, led to his death. Mr. Gebbie was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on May 18, 1832, and came to this city in 1860. He was engaged in the dry-goods business, but he became well known as a bookseller. Twenty-five years ago he began as a publisher, and a few years later entered into partnership with George Barrie, the firm being Barrie & Gebbie. The partnership was dissolved in 1881 and the members carried on as individuals. Mr. Gebbie was a publisher of subscription-books at 900 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, continued till his death.

JOURNALISTIC.

St. Nicholas Magazine for September will contain an article on "California Journalism," by George Young, and a dialogue concerning "Horton's Novels," by William S. Walsh.

CENTURY Co. is starting a "Fresh Literature." It offers all the readers of St. Nicholas two copies of that paper for every one received, to some hospital, or other institution, where many children may have their health, their happy contents.

SON & SON, of Grace-Church Street, Philadelphia, announce for August 31 the first issue of record for publishers and booksellers to appear in The Publishers' Weekly. We regret the omission invited by adopting our name with- out distinguishing nationality.

Fortnightly Review for August (Leonard Publishing Co.) contains an appreciative article of "Mr. Henley's Poetry," by Arthur George Moore contributes a rather interesting review of Zola's "La Débâcle," and Adams has an interesting paper on "The Strike."

Literature lives up to its name, month after month. It surveys the whole field, quoting from magazines and periodicals, but giving telling and timely selections from the best books and treating editorially of current events. The issue for September will contain its "Celebrities of the Day" a sketch of W. D. Frick, the manager of the Carnegie Library at Homestead, whose life was attempted by a "strike."

Venus for September will contain the first of a series of separate stories, each dealing with a different form of crime or sin, written by Mr. Kernahan, who achieved great success with "Dead Man's Diary." These stories will be published in book-form next spring by the Leonard Publishing Company, according to agreement with Ward, Lock & Co., who will be the English publishers.

Vestminster Review for August (Leonard Publishing Co.) is specially rich in literary "Some Aspects of Sentiment" is a notable paper by J. B. Firth on the development of the English novel; Frederick Reuter contributes a thoughtful article on "Education in Germany," and there is an interesting series of "Glimpses of Tom Moore," by J. Petrie O'Byrne.

THE HON. CHAUNCEY F. BLACK, of Pennsylvania, has written for the September Forum a frank review of the trouble at Homestead, in which he makes an effort to point out a remedy for such conflicts. He proposes the incorporation of labor organizations on the same plan and plane with organizations of capital. David A. Wells will publish in the same issue an explanation of the "Real Meaning of a Tariff for Revenue," in which he sets forth the Democratic doctrine in a style meant for a scholarly and thorough campaign document.

THE Educational Review, now in its fourth volume, will maintain its national character and broad scope and contain articles on all grades and phases of education by Professors Hart and Hall, of Harvard, Seymour, of Yale, B. I. Wheeler, of Cornell, Newcomb, of Johns Hopkins, Hinsdale, of Michigan, Boone, of Indiana, Patrick of Iowa, Presidents Hyde, of Bowdoin, and Coulter, of Indiana, Hon. Andrew S. Draper, Dr. Emily M. Mosher, of Brooklyn, Dr. Emerson E. White, of Cincinnati, Messrs. James Sully, of London, F. A. Waterhouse, of Boston, and Wm. B. Shaw, of Albany. The controversy about religion in the schools will be treated for the first time from the agnostic standpoint by Lewis G. Janes, of New York.

THEODORE CHILD will conclude his series of discriminative papers on "Literary Paris" in the September number of Harper's Magazine. Among the writers of whom he treats in his final paper are Guy de Maupassant, H. A. Taine, Jules Verne, François Coppée, Francisque Sarcey, Victor Chervuliez, and several other living celebrities. A number of portraits will accompany the article. James Russell Lowell's paper on Chapman, the old English dramatist, will also appear in this number. Harper's Weekly for August 24 contains a complete set of illustrations from photographs of the riots in Tennessee and around Buffalo, and Harper's Bazar relates what women have done for the world's great fair.

MRS. MARGARET H. WELCH, the widow of the lamented humorist, Philip H. Welch is, according to the Philadelphia Ledger, winning laurels in her husband's profession of journalism, which she entered upon at his death three years ago. For three summers she has successfully conducted the Saratoga correspondence of the New York Times, and for two years she has written the department in the Sunday edition of that journal known as "Her Point of View." This department is unique among the "Woman's Columns" which nearly all newspapers carry nowadays, and is widely quoted from by the press all over the country. Mrs. Welch also writes New York letters under her own signature, which are among the very best of their kind. She also contributes not infrequently to the columns of Life, Puck and Harper's Bazar. Mrs. Welch is a graduate of the long-established Gardner School, in New York, and is, undoubtedly, one of the most promising and brilliant among the younger generation of newspaper writers.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

EDMUND F. BROWN, agent for Professor H. C. Bolton's "Scientific Correspondence of Joseph Priestly," has changed his address to 55 West 33d Street, New York City.

GINN & Co. will issue shortly "An Introduction to Narrative Greek Composition," by Morris H. Morgan, Assistant Professor of Greek and Latin in Harvard University.

THE HISTORY COMPANY, of San Francisco, will supply the index to the first seven volumes of Bancroft's "Chronicles of the Builders," free of charge to all subscribers to that great work.

THE State Department will supply the Behring Sea Commissioners with the "Century Dictionary," and it is to be the standard in their deliberations. This great work is also now the authority at Chautauqua.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will soon have ready in their Heroes of Nations Series, "John Wyclif: Last of the Schoolmen and First of the English Reformers," by L. Sergeant, which will shortly be followed by "Napoleon Buonaparte," by O'Connor Morris.

LEE & SHEPARD have arranged with William Beverley Harison, No. 59 Fifth Avenue, to take care of their educational interests in and about New York City; also to carry a full supply of their school and text books to be furnished schools and school-boards at their introduction rates.

MORRILL, HIGGINS & Co. have just ready in their Idylwild Series the third edition of "A Modern Quixote," by Miss S. C. McCay, which has been highly praised by the Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar, Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will soon issue the complete edition of the late Philip Bourke Marston's works, edited by Louise Chandler Moulton. It will contain some verses not before published in volume form, and an appendix—much interesting criticism on Marston's work made by some of the most distinguished men of letters of our time.

A GRAY-HAIRED woman who gave the name of Mrs. Mary Parisen and her address in Brooklyn, has been caught stealing books in the store of Charles Scribner's Sons. They pressed the complaint because she had already been caught stealing in Leggatt's and the American News Co. She claims she was unconscious when she took the books.

A RECENT number of Nature says of Prof. Dana's "System of Mineralogy" that "in the whole history of scientific literature it would be difficult to find a parallel" to it, "for there is probably no work which, like it, has maintained for more than half a century its position as the best and most complete work of reference on a branch of natural history."

CHARLES H. KERR & Co. announce for immediate publication, "The Last Tenet Imposed Upon the Khan of Tomathoz," by Hugo Genone, author of "Inquirendo Island," who lays his scene in Central Asia, in the fifteenth century, and is said to have written an amusing book. The house also announces: "No Beginning, or, the fundamental fallacy," by William H. Maple, who will present an argument against the orthodox doctrine of the creation; and, "First Steps in Philosophy, Physical and Ethical," by William Mackintire Salter.

THE Convention of the United Typothetis of America which has been held at Toronto, Ontario, adjourned on Friday, August 19. They have discussed the apprenticeship question and decided to refer the matter to a special committee to report at Chicago next year; also, on recommendation of the Executive Committee, the convention determined to take a test case into court, to settle the rights of the employers and the men, and the question whether labor organizations shall have the right to intimidate non union men who wish to work, and the case will be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States if necessary.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have brought out a new issue of their lovely "St. Nicholas Songs," a volume that has been a never ending source of pleasure in many homes since it first appeared nearly seven years ago. The words of the songs were gathered from the poems scattered through St. Nicholas for several years. The musical setting was in every case an original composition seeking to be truly interpretive of the words. Composers of such prominence as the late Leopold Damrosch, Harrison Millard, Richard Hoffmann, Samuel P. Warren, Joseph Mosenthal and many others eagerly competed for the honor of having their work appear in this beautiful book. This music is not issued in any other form. The printing is by De Vinne, and the Century Company planned the cover.

MR. PAUL LEICESTER FORD has for the first time collected in one handy volume, entitled "Writings of Christopher Columbus," translations of those letters, etc., of the voyager which describe his experiences in the discovery and occupation of the New World. The book will be published immediately by Charles L. Webster & Co., in their Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series. The same publishers will shortly issue, in the same series, "Autobiographia, or, the story of a life," by Walt Whitman. These selections from the bulk of the poet's prose writings have been made by Mr. Arthur Stedman, and are arranged as to give a consecutive account of Mr. Whitman's career in the latter's own picturesque language. The "Autobiographia" is published as a companion volume to "Selected Poems," and, like that book, was authorized by the poet shortly before his death.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING COMPANY have just issued "War Under Water," a translation by Mary J. Serrano of a story by a new French author in the vein of Jules Verne, in which science plays the leading rôle and makes impossibilities seem easy; "The General's Daughter," by the author of "A Russian Priest," translated by W. Gausson, describing the dull daily life of a remote Russian village; and "The Making of a Man" by the Rev. J. W. Lee, of Atlanta, Georgia, a volume of sermons by an earnest, eloquent preacher. The newest additions to the Sunshine Series are the popular stories "The Story of Two Lives," by Stuart Sterne, and "A Christian Woman," by Emilia Pardo Bazán. The publishers have in press "Leona," a novel by Mrs. Molesworth; and "The Career of Columbus" by Charles Elton, an English Member of Parliament, said to be prepared with great care after scholarly research.

THE WORTHINGTON CO. will issue for the first time "Chesterfield's Wit and Wisdom" and "Napoleon's Conversations and Opinions," to of extracts and anecdotes, compiled by Chapman; "Intellectual Pursuits," a series on self-culture, by Robert Waters; and Columbus Library, three novels by Elise L. entitled "With Columbus in America," "Cortez in Mexico," "With Pizarro in Their list of juvenile publications in number of artistic books in colored design which are "Little Ways and Great with twenty-four colored illustrations, by S. S. Tucker; "For Baby and Me;" "s," illustrated in water-colors; and "A sea," charming pictures from doll life, by S. S. Tucker. "Worthington's Annual 93" maintains its usual excellence, and "ical Experiments, or, science in play," good gives directions for over two hundred experiments in "natural magic." It also be "Bits of Prominent People," amusing book of laughable transformation portraits; a "Handy Book for Boys," showing how to build and construct useful articles, and a large number of illustrations for little folks. New issues of very the well-known books of the house will be ready, and in many instances will have attractive covers.

ER UNWIN will issue immediately a humorous, entitled "Golf in the Year 2000," C. K.

AN NIGHTS' ENTERTAINMENT" is the new volume of folk talks announced for publication by Mr. Elliot Stock. The columns been made by Mr. Charles Swynner, oral narration, and will be copiously illustrated with drawings by native artists.

cy's "Diary of Two Parliaments" is become a "Diary of Three." The following with the Disraeli and Gladstone events will be supplemented by one covering period of the late Parliament under the ship of Lord Salisbury. Mr. Harry Fur- illustrate the volume, which Messrs. Co. now have in the press.

AS & TRAYNOR, 3 Calle de Santa Catalina, invite subscriptions to a reproduction of the first geographical chart of America by Juan de la Cosa, Columbus' sailing- his first and second voyages. It will resemble at scale, and in the original colors, which black, by the way, is absent. The the popular edition, on satin paper, is in billings. There will also be editions on vellum, hand-colored (£20), and on vellum OWN & SONS, Hull, England, have received a valuable contribution to the study of the biological history of England in Dr. J. Lambert's laborious and accurate account of the Thousand Years of Gild Life, or an of the history and development of the from early times, with special references application to trade and industry: together with a full account of the gilds and traditions of Kingston-upon-Hull, from the 18th century."

JOHN UNDERHILL is engaged upon an of Gay's Poems, which will be published by Lawrence & Bullen in the early autumn will fill two volumes of the Muse's

Library, and will contain practically everything that Gay wrote in verse, including, of course, the songs which form part of his plays and operas. Mr. Underhill has arranged the poems in sections, to each of which a short bibliographical note is prefixed. A life of Gay, embodying the results of independent research, will occupy some sixty pages of the first volume, in which will also be contained an engraved portrait of the poet, after Aikman. Each volume will have a number of notes.

It is said in London that the large collection of manuscripts belonging to the late Sir Thomas Phillips originally included "a series of strictly confidential letters respecting the private affairs of the royal family, addressed to Gen. Grenville, who for many years held a high office at the Court of George III." When the collection came up for sale at Sotheby's a few weeks ago the auctioneer announced that they "had all been withdrawn, having been privately sold for 150 guineas." It is understood that the letters were purchased by the Queen, who, instead of adding them to the collection of manuscripts in the royal library at Windsor Castle, caused most of them to be destroyed.

EDOUARD ROUYEYRE, Paris, has published within the past year a number of books about books, by Henri Bouchot, which have great interest for the bibliophile, both for their subject-matter and their exquisite style of publication. Their separate titles are: "Books with Engravings," in two volumes, the first covering books from the fifteenth to the eighteenth centuries, the second those of the nineteenth century (Livres & Vignettes); "Modern Books It Is Expeditious to Acquire" (Livres Modernes qu'il Convient d'Acquerir); "On Binding" (De la Reliure); and "Book-Plates" (Les Ex-Libris). The volumes are all illustrated and full of valuable information. M. Bouchot is an enthusiast, but an authority on books, especially on editions, bindings, etc.

PUBLISH TO-DAY:

Silhouettes of American Life.

By REBECCA HARDING DAVIS. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This is the first collection that Mrs. Davis has made of her charming short stories. They portray, with artistic unity of design, different phases of American life and character, the types being national rather than local, and being drawn with feeling, insight and humor.

The Study of Animal Life.

By J. ARTHUR THOMSON. Illustrated. University Extension Manuals. 12mo, net, $1.50.

Professor Thomson's book discusses, in an instructive and interesting manner, first, the every-day life, social, domestic, industrial, etc., of animals, next their internal activities, and finally the evolution of animal life.

The Case Against Prof. Briggs.

12mo, paper covers, net, 50 cents.

In response to many requests, it has been thought best to publish the official papers in the case against Prof. Briggs, with his arguments before the New York Presidency and the General Assembly.

THE STRATHMORE SERIES

Diana :

The History of a Great Mistake. By Mrs. OLIPHANT, author of "The Perpetual Curate," "The Open Door," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

Mrs. Oliphant has many staunch admirers. Her latest book, "Diana," will be read with the interest that always attends this popular author's creations. Diana's character is drawn on very broad lines, standing out in bold relief beside the "Nortons"—conscientious, fervent, selfish little nobodies that they are. The book throughout is full of the calm beauty that its heroine's name suggests.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED :

The Talking Horse.

By F. ANSTREY, author of "Vice Versa," "The Tinted Venus," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. (Second edition.)

"Originality and geniality are combined to a marked degree in F. Anstreya's writings, and both qualities are pre-eminent in the present volume."—Boston Times.

Barrack-Room Ballads,

And Other Verses. By RUDYARD KIPLING, author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," "Soldiers Three," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"The finest things of the kind since Macaulay's 'Lays' it is in their rhythm that his Ballads are especially striking, their hearty exhilarating march is as irresistible as the Marseillaise."—London Daily Chronicle.

Daughters of Men.

By HANNAH LYNCH, author of "Troubled Waters," Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A novel surpassing in art and strength anything the gifted author has produced. The writer of this pleasant story is strangely and gracefully at home in Greece, and her familiarity with its patrician society is evidently affection."—New York World.

A Mad Tour.

By Mrs. J. H. RIDDELL, author of "Prince Sunshine," "Above Suspicion," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper 50 cents.

In "A Mad Tour" Mrs. Riddell has written an amusing record of a tour on the continent of Europe which will be appreciated both by lovers of travel and by votaries of fiction.

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

Author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the book is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to equal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

Scenes from Roman Life and Story.

By Professor A. J. CHURCH, author of "Stories of Homer," "Stories from Virgil," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

In picturesque and graphic manner which distinguishes the work, Professor Church has drawn a series of scenes of the lives and times of the Roman emperors, bringing up before the reader Horace and Seneca, and other contemporaries of the great Caesars, as well as the triumphs and tragic excesses of the emperors themselves. He writes in a simple, but always readable, and his book is a fine example of history presented intelligently and in popular form.

His Life's Magnet.

By MARGARET ELMSLIE, author of "The Little Lavender," "A Queen of Roses," etc. 12mo, cloth, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This work, which is one of sustained interest and power, presents a vivid character study, depicted in the surroundings of English country life.

John Davy's Honeymoon.

A Manx Yarn.

By JAMES CAINE, author of "The Deemster," "The Scape-Goat," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

When the books were needed of the firm hold Mr. Hall took of the public, it might be found in the rush for the publication of that work. No fewer than 6,000 copies were taken up by the trade before publication. An illustration of "The Deemster," has run through a dozen London Literary World.

Appletons' Summer Series.

Each, 16mo, tastefully bound in special design, 50 cents.

Mr. Fortner's Marital Claims, and Other Stories. By RICHARD MALCOLM JOHNSTON.

People at Pisgah. By EDWIN W. SANBORN.

Gramercy Park: A Story of New York. By JOHN SEYMOUR WOOD.

A Tale of Twenty-five Hours. By BRANDER MATTHEWS and GEORGE H. JESSOP.

A Little Norsk; or, Ol' Pap's Flaxen. By HAMLIN GARLAND.

A Chronological Table of Universal History.

Extending from the Earliest Times to the Year 1892. For the use of students, teachers and readers. By LOUIS HEILPRIN. 12mo, 200 pages, cloth, $1.25.

Cross Currents.

By MARY ANGELA DICKENS. No. 99, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"There have been few better judges of fiction than Charles Dickens, and had he lived to read his granddaughter's first novel the veteran writer would have found pleasure in the thought that, after he was gone, the name of Dickens would still be honorably associated with imaginative literature. 'Cross Currents' is not only an excellent novel, but it is distinguished by a kind of excellence which is exceedingly rare in the work of a beginner. Every page of 'Cross Currents' inspires one with a desire to meet its author again."—London Spectator.

D. APPLETON & CO., NEW YORK.

SOME RECENT SUGGESTIONS.

Told in the Gate.

By ARLO BATES, author of "Albrecht," etc.
Square 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Picturesque Oriental stories, framed in the author's most vigorous verse.

Far from To-Day.

By GERTRUDE HALL. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

Six dainty bits of a remote century, by a new author.

J. & BROTHERS have just ready in their Square Library a new novel by Alan titled "Charming to Her Latest Day."

LETON & Co. will publish immediately el by Mrs. J. H. Needell, the author of Ellicott's Daughter," in their Town
ry Library. The title is "Passing the Women," and the novel is described as in ects the strongest work of this popular

RENA PUBLISHING Co., Boston, have "A Spoil of Office," a realistic novel, western life, by Hamlin Garland, author of "Travelled Roads" and "Ol' Pap's." The new story is said to be radically different. The heroine is the type of woman developed in the West within the last ten years. The hero is a self-educated man who climbs from the plough to Congress.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "The Economy of High Wages," an inquiry into the cause of high wages and their effect on methods and cost of production, by J. Schoenhof, late United States Consul, commissioned by the Department of State to inquire into the economy of production and the state of technical education in Europe, with an introduction by the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, late Secretary of State. The scope and purpose of Mr. Schoenhof's investigations were to indicate and establish the power of education of the human hand and brain, and the application of sense and feeling in the expansion and improvement of the products of human industry; to show how "the sweat of the brow is lessened by the conception of the brain," and increased wages accompany increased efficiency.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING Co. have just ready some very interesting volumes. "The Career of Columbus," by Charles Elton, M.P., is an important contribution to the Columbus literature of the year. The remaining books are works of fiction. "Out of the Jaws of Death," by Frank Barrett, tells the story of a young London barmaid's sacrifice and devotion in the cause of a Russian Nihilist, whom she rescues from his enemies and then follows through all his hard career, until he rewards her faithfulness by making her a princess; "A Ring of Rubies," by Mrs. L. T. Meade, and "Leona," by Mrs. Molesworth, are full of the well-known charm of these gifted writers for girls just entering womanhood; and "The Rovings of a Restless Boy," by Katherine B. Foot, is a good boy's story, dedicated to the late Russell Sturgis, of New York City.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will begin the issue of their fall publications on the 17th of September with quite an armful. A new volume on Autumn has been prepared from the journals of Thoreau by his editor, H. G. O. Blake, and this concludes the Seasons, volumes on Spring, Summer and Winter having previously appeared; Bradford Torrey contributes another of his admirable and interesting outdoor books, which he calls the "The Foot-Path Way"; Mr. James Breck Perkins, an American who has lived many years in France, and has already written very acceptably on topics of French history, has prepared a book on "France Under the Regency," with a review of the administration of Louis XIV. It is not merely a reproduction of what others have written, but is based to a considerable extent upon official documents and diplomatic correspondence which Mr. Perkins has consulted. An édition de luxe of Longfellow's "Evangeline" will appear at the same time, with photogravure reproductions of Darley's remarkably beautiful designs printed on India paper; a new edition in three volumes of Dr. John Brown's charming series of Spare Hours, which include "Rab and His Friends," "Marjorie Fleming" and other essays which good readers either have read or ought to read; Mrs. Marbury's "Favorite Flies and Their Histories," which contains numerous illustrations of the different kinds of flies which anglers use; a new volume of the Gentleman's Magazine Library, devoted to English topography; a Family edition of Tennyson's "Princess," uniform with the Family editions of Longfellow, Whittier, Lowell, etc.; and, in the Riverside Paper Series, Hawthorne's "The House of Seven Gables."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., oblong, designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Alarcón, Pedro A. de. The child of the ball; tr. by Mary J. Serrano. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 4+833 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 124.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

Manuel Venegas, the "Child of the ball," is supposed to be the incarnate devil by his fellow-citizens. His father lost all his possessions to a usurer. Manuel fell in love with this man's daughter, but was driven from his Spanish home and found a fortune in the West Indies. After eight years he returned and found the girl married but still loving him. The exciting story of fêtes, processions, balls and religious ceremonies that end in bloodshed shows the natures of Manuel and Soledad to be totally uncontrolled, but not wholly evil.

Allen, Grant. What's bred in the bone. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 2-238 p. il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 69.) pap., 50 c.

*Arnold, Matthew. A French Eton; or, middle-class education and the state. [Also] Schools and universities in France: being a part of a volume on "Schools and universities on the continent," published in 1868. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 416 p. 12°, cl., $1.75.

Austen, Jane. Lady Susan. [Also] The Watsons; with a memoir, by her nephew, J. E. Austen Leigh. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 3-351 p. por. il. S. hf. cl., $1.25. Édition de luxe, 8°, $2. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

"Lady Susan" is a posthumous novel, permission to print it having been given by Jane Austen's aunt, Lady Knatchbull, in whose possession was the autograph copy. It is written in the form of letters, and is supposed to be an early production. "The Watsons" was left by its author a fragment without a name. It is also printed for the first time. The memoir by her nephew includes the cancelled chapter of "Persuasion," and a short specimen of her childish stories.

Austen, Jane. Letters of Jane Austen, selected from the compilation of her great nephew, Edward Lord Brabourne, by Sarah Chauncey Woolsey. Bost. Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 338 p. por. il. S. hf. cl., $1.25. Édition de luxe, 8°, $2. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

Jane Austen's letters reflect her quiet uneventful life, the only sensation in it being the writing of her novels, the details of which are full of interest. This and the preceding volume contain portraits of the author and a view of her burial-place in Winchester Cathedral.

*Austen, Jane. Novels. In 10 v. V. 1 and 2, Sense and sensibility; ed. by R. Brimley Johnson; il. by W. C. Cooke. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 16°, cl., $2.

Description of a cruise made by Mr. Bigelow in an American sailing canoe the whole length of the Danube during the summer of 1891. Danubian politics are discussed in the light of information gained at first hand, and the people of the countries which border on the great highway are pictured with pen and pencil.

*Bluntschli, J. K. The theory of the state authorized English tr. from the 6th German ed. 2d ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 25+550 p. 12°, cl., $3.

Brewster, H. Pomeroy, and Humphrey, G. H. England and its rulers: a concise compendium of the history of England and its people. Chic., S. C. Griggs & Co., 1892. 37+313 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Written for American readers who have not the time or opportunity to read an extended and exhaustive history; hence only those facts which relate to the permanent forces of the nation have been recorded. Special attention is given to the growth or decline of the monarchy, the aristocracy and the democracy; the agricultural, manufacturing and commercial interests, and to the origin and increasing power of Parliament, and the influence of the church. Contains a number of lists of notable events and notable persons, etc., and a carefully compiled index.

*Bunner, H. C. The runaway Browns: a story of small stories; il. by C. Jay Taylor. N. Y., the office of Puck, 1892. 12° (Puck's mulberry ser.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Dr. Borchert is Assistant professor of German in the University. He presents the more important aspects of German syntax from the point of view of the English language. What is quite natural in no serious difficulty is omitted, as well as all irregular forms and constructions, both in English and German. The directions will enable the student to esed in phosphates. The phosphate mining industry is carried on with the hope of obtaining satisfactory results from a pecuniary rather than a scientific point of view, yet thus far the practical side has been neglected in literature of geological formation and chemical analysis. The author bases his work on personal investigations during the past few years.

Miller, C. C. Hoyer. Florida, South Carolina and Canadian phosphates: a complete account of their occurrence, methods and cost of production, quantities raised and commercial importance. N. Y., Scientific Pub. Co., [1892.] 2-223 p. O. cl., $2.50. The book is addressed to those commercially interested.

Miller, A. B., D.D. Doctrines and genius of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Nashville, Tenn., Cumberland Presb. Pub. House, 1892. c. 7+320 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Sets forth the cardinal and distinctive doctrines of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church as the author interprets them. There is also a chapter on the "genius of the church."

*Miller, F. Max. Sacred books of the East; by various oriental scholars. V. 80, pt. 2, The Grihya-Sutras, rules of Vedic domestic ceremonies, tr. by Hermann Oldenberg; v. 87, pt. 4, Pahlavi texts, tr. by E. W. West; contents of the Nasks. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. V. 80, pt. 2, 89+376 p. 8° cl., $3.25; v. 87, pt. 4, 50+506 p. 8° cl., $3.75.

Oliphant, Mrs. Marg. O. W. Diana: the history of a great mistake. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 2-306 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

Diana was a poor school teacher when she came under the notice of an old couple named Treilwyn, who discovered in her a second cousin and bequeathed her large estates and a vast fortune. She is thirty when she is introduced to the reader, a noble woman, proud of her position and extravagant in her kindness to all who come in her way. She sends an aunt and niece to Pisa for their health, then follows them and gathers around her a delightful circle. In ideal Italian surroundings "the great mistake" is made.

*Otts, J. M. The fifth gospel: the land where Jesus lived. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 367 p. map, 12°, cl., $1.50.

*Parkin, G. R. Imperial federation: the problem of national unity. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 12+314 p. map, 12°, cl., $1.25.

Patton, Jacob Harris. Political economy for American youth; written from an American standpoint. N. Y., A. Lovell & Co., [1892.] c. 8+297 p. D. cl., $1.

Aims to present the study in a clear, concise, practical and attractive manner so as to win the interest and attention of young American students. Certain phases of political economy—such as free trade and protection—about which there are differences of opinion, have the arguments for and against, as set forth by their respective advocates, fairly and concisely given.

Payn, Ja. A modern Dick Whittington. N. Y., J. A. Taylor & Co., [1892.] c. 334 p. D. (Broadway ser., no. 12.) pap., 50 c.

Lawrence Merridew was the poor relation of a wealthy Englishman, who destined him for a business career in Singapore. Lawrence, however, had other views, and, with the aid of Sir Charles Walden, he sought his literary fortune in London.

*Payne, E. J. History of the new world called America. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. V. 1. 27+605 p. 8°, cl., $3.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 17, 1892, [716.]

Sanborn, Edwin W. People at Pisgah. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 3+185 p. S. (Appleton's summer ser.) bds., 50 c.

The Rev. Dr. Van Nuyntlee sought Pisgah in northern Vermont that he might be in absolute seclusion for a couple of weeks while writing an important address. A valuable diamond left in his care, and which he accidentally loses, is the cause through which his figures as the hero of a most ridiculous series of adventures. The "natives" of Pisgah are described with racy humor.

Schoenhof, J. The economy of high wages: an inquiry into the cause of high wages and their effect on methods and cost of production; with introd. by T. F. Bayard. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 18-414 p. D. (Questions of the day ser., no. 72.) cl., $1.50.

The author, late U. S. Consul, was commissioned by the Department of State in 1887 to make an intelligent study and personal examination of those industrial centres of Europe where technical education had been most highly developed and had proved itself to be productive of the highest economy and best results. His report of his investigations refutes the theory that human being is a mere machine, and proves that the cheapest labor is the labor that is most productive, and that "the more the forces of cultivated intelligence, conscientiousness and hopefulness infuse themselves into human industry, the more abundant and valuable are the results."

Scovill, Elisabeth Robinson. A baby's requirements. 2d ed. Phil., Curtis Pub. Co., 1892. c. 3-55 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Containing full directions for a baby's first wardrobe also for the toilet-basket and its contents, the bed and bath, food and feeding, the treatment in a few common ailments, and the preparation necessary for the mother's own comfort.

JEALOUSY IN BUSINESS.

COMPETITION with all its advantages develops in human nature that is brought out under other conditions under which business, labor, and one that is seldom accused. It is an apprehension of the of a rival in business, or, to be plain, of a rival. There are few merchants who have not experienced it at one time or another during their business career and suffered from the follies of jealousy. Jealousy in business, however, is peculiar to young men whose confidence in their own abilities blinds their discretion. They are apt to find, after a short experience, that competition stands more in the way of their success than anything else, and that a little more than they had calculated on. The location may be admirable, and the dealer, but a dealer in the same neighborhood is bound to be very popular with the public, and it is difficult for his rival to attract the same

The new dealer soon finds that his rival is the only man in the neighborhood who does not have a kindly feeling, and that of disappointment he sometimes finds that he is giving expression to his feelings in the presence of customers, or endeavoring to deprecate his rival's success by criticising his methods and in other ways "running him down."

The exhibition of such a disposition not only falls short of accomplishing its object, but it is in exceedingly bad taste and is a cowardly measure besides. No one is so quick to recognize a weak point as a prospective customer, and nothing causes him to lose confidence so quickly as to hear one dealer decry another, or indulge in personalities.

The most successful men of all times have been those who stood by principle and allowed their actions to be governed by honest and open competition. In doing this it is by no means necessary to allow competitive dealers to take advantage by unscrupulous methods. We do not agree with that merchant who used to say, "If a man slaps you on one cheek, don't turn the other for him to slap, but knock him down immediately." Men who indulge in abusing their competitors do not need any knocking down. They knock themselves down in the eyes of fair-minded people.

Those dealers succeed best who take advantage of the better influences of competition and strive to increase their trade by maintaining business principles and liberal ideas. These in time will so penetrate every department of their establishment that the customers cannot fail to become impressed with them.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1892, has grown upwards of 200 pages beyond last year's issue and weighs exactly twelve pounds.
 It contains 194 lists and catalogues against 189 of last year. No large firm is missing this year.
 Thirty-one of the minor firms which appeared in the index of 1891 have dropped out, but their places are filled by thirty-six new names, among which are several of importance. We hope by hard work in time to bring all publishers, especially the smaller ones, to a realizing sense of the importance of being in their appointed place in the index to the "Publishers' Trade List Annual."
 It is up-hill work, but year by year we get a little further. Some of the reasons given for refusing are amusing and original. One firm this year, anxious to go in, would not consent to take its proper place in alphabet. If we would consent to put them among the "A's" they would go in, but they did not care to go in the second half of the volume, where their initial letter necessitated putting them. With most of the names we have lost it was a question simply of time. Many had not the facilities for being ready at the date given, and the great bulk of the volume and the technical difficulties of binding made it impossible to put off the closing day.

PUBLISHERS' RESPONSIBILITY TOWARDS EDITORS.

THE St. James' Gazette notes, according to the N. Y. Tribune, that a question of great interest to men of letters has been discussed but not decided in a case just heard in an English court. The plaintiff, Sidney Lee, is a well-known writer and the successor of Leslie Stephen as editor of the great "Dictionary of National Biography." "Some years ago," says the Gazette, "Mr. Lee prepared for Mr. Nimmo, the publisher, an edition of the 'Life of Lord Herbert, of Cherbury.' Mr. Nimmo sold the copyright to another publisher, who brought out the book, with the omission of the introduction and other portions of Mr. Lee's original work, and in a form which he complained of as incomplete and unscholarly. Mr. Lee, as a conscientious editor and student, naturally objected to being considered responsible for a book issued with these 'maimed rites,' and tried to restrain the publication by injunction; and most literary men must have hoped that he would gain his case, in the interests of accurate and scholarly work. But the judge refused the injunction, and Mr. Lee is mocked with the information that he may, if he pleases, sue the publisher for libel, and try to recover (from a jury who probably never heard of Lord Herbert, of Cherbury) damages for the 'injury to his reputation.' This is very unsatisfactory, and seems to show that the owner of an author's copyright, under the legal rules which prevail as to literary property, can practically do pretty much what he pleases with the author's book; and an author who objects to scamped work and loose editing has no real redress. It is a pity that Mr. Lee's public-spirited action was not rewarded by a victory in the law courts."

LITERATURE AS MERCHANDISE.

George William Curtis, in the Editor's Easy Chair, in Harper's Magazine for July.

It was a wise and friendly, not a vulpine remark which the old publisher made to the young author who offered him the first-fruits of his literary aspiration: "It may be the best book ever written, but to us merchants it is only merchandise."

That is the truth which the author does not always consider. If the relation or transaction be one of co-operation, yet all the risks are taken by one side. That side undoubtedly looks out for itself. Caveat emptor. It is the rule of trade. But if it is not to be justified, it is a rule which is as fair in one case as in another; and if a man offering stock for sale does not ask a stockbroker to be merciful, why, offering a manuscript, should he expect mercy of the buyer? The prosperity of the seller undoubtedly depends upon the buyer. But the buyer in turn buys to sell again, and he will pay as little as he can. Now there is not a dealer in wares of any kind—let us say, for instance, "men's wear"—who does not seek what is most attractive of its kind. He is avid of delicate designs, charming hues, novelties of convenience, a certain "shik" or "style," because he knows that his customers will prefer them, and he is surer of his profitable return. The manufacturer who can best gratify this taste and satisfy this demand of the buyer will sell to him the most silken and linen and woollen wares at the highest prices.

The publisher is that buyer. He anxiously awaits the literary wares which will satisfy demand of the moment. It is by selling that he lives, and consequently he wishes to sell them. But still he will buy them on the lowest terms possible, in order to make the highest profit, for he is a merchant. The histories, novels, the epics and lyrics, the essays and philosophical systems, are merchandise. If Plato and Shakespeare are famous, their fame alone makes their merchandise merchantable. But if they are unknown the marketable value of their merchandise must be tested by the current public taste. Can we fairly select one class of tradesmen and insist that they shall be philanthropists? Dealers in chinaware, for instance; may they not justly require that they shall buy at the highest prices all the bowls we paint, or offer them on commission, and pay us large annual profits, because decalcomania is an art so elevating and refined, and most of the artists are so poor?

OBITUARY.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS died Wednesday, August 31, at his home at West Brighton, Staten Island, at the age of 68.

Mr. Curtis became ill about two months ago when he began to complain of pains in the abdomen. The best physicians were consulted, but disagreed as to the cause of his condition, though some inclined to think cancer of the stomach was producing the suffering, which at times was severe. Only within the last few days was Mr. Curtis' condition deemed critical, and at the end he sank with unexpected rapidity but remained conscious and apparently suffered no pain at the time of death.

George William Curtis was born in Providence, Rhode Island, February 24, 1824. His father was a man of pronounced business faculty, destined him for a mercantile career, and at the age of fifteen he was placed in a German import and export house in New York City. At this time the transcendental movement was at its height and young Curtis soon became more interested in it than in the routine of business. He broke away in 1843 and went to Brook Farm, where he remained about four years. Here he came under the influence of Hawthorne, Margaret Fuller, Ripley Emerson, Alcott, Parker and other original thinkers, and determined to become a man of letters. From Brook Farm he went to Concord and came intimate with Emerson and Thoreau. In 1846 Mr. Curtis went to Europe for the purpose of regular study at the University of Berlin, and before his return he travelled leisurely for many months, extending his journey into Egypt and Syria. Upon his return he began that long career as journalist, essayist, lecturer, critic and independent political reformer, which has been closed by death at a time when he was still doing good and much needed work. In 1851 Mr. Curtis published his first book, "Nile Notes of a Howadji," followed immediately by "The Howadji in Syria." This book resulted in a request by Harper's Monthly for some sketches of social life, and in 1852 Mr. Curtis began an association with the Harpers which, with a brief interruption, continued for forty years.

This interruption was a most unfortunate experience from a commercial view-point. Parke's New Monthly Magazine had been started by Mr. Curtis, Parke Godwin and Charles were associated in its editorial conduct. The magazine "Prue and I" and "The Papers" were written. After a few unprofitable existence the magazine came into the hands of Dix & Edwards, from Mr. Curtis became associated as a writer for a limited liability. They failed disastrously in 1857. Mr. Curtis lost his private fortune, though not legally responsible, he worked for many years until he had paid the last of his liabilities. For this purpose he became lecturer, and made annual tours, visiting chief cities and many smaller places, soon recognized as one of the leading orators of the time when Henry Ward Beecher, Chapin, Emerson and Phillips were rivals in the

Mr. Curtis renewed his engagement with Harpers, writing the "Easy Chair" monthly and becoming editor of Harper's in which he wrote the political editorials within a few weeks. The "Easy Chair" was the vehicle for his views and recollections in essay form, which have made him best known to the general public. He has occupied the "Easy Chair" for thirty-five years, chatting in a lighter vein and always in kindly spirit to the attention of listeners who have come to regard him as a personal friend. In 1856 Mr. Curtis has taken an active part in politics, first as an earnest Republican, and then as an Independent and Civil Service Reform. As Regent and Vice-Chancellor of the University of the State of New York, Mr. Curtis has accomplished a great deal in the province of education.

His best-known published writings are: "Hows of Syria;" "Lotus Eating, a summer's story;" "Nile Notes of a Howadji;" "Potiphar's Story;" "Prue and I;" "Trumps;" "Life, Letters and Writings of William Cullen Bryant;" "Wendell Phillips, a eulogy;" "Our Country;" "From the Easy Chair," a selection containing among many other gems the "Edward Everett" and "Robert Browning in Florence;" and "James Russell Lowell published as recently as last June. Mr. Curtis' funeral was a strictly private one. He was buried in the Moravian Cemetery on West 12th Street.

JOHN ROEMER, Vice-President of the College of the City of New York, died suddenly at Lenox, on August 31, at about 80 years of age. In 1846 Prof. Roemer has lived in the United States. In 1848 he became professor of the French language in the college, then called the College of the City. In addition to articles and lectures on agriculture, education and linguistics, he published a "Dictionary of English-French" and "Polyglot Readers" in French, German, Italian, Spanish and English; "Cavalry: its history, management and uses in war;" "Principles of Lecture et de Traduction;" "Principles of General Grammar" and "Origins of the English People and of the English Language."

JOHN LINDSAY, for many years at the head of the great firm of Lindsay & Blakiston, Philadelphia, now P. Blakiston, Son & Co., publishers of the most valuable medical works, died on Sunday, August 27, at his residence, 1601 Locust Street, Philadelphia. The funeral took place on Wednesday, August 31. We shall give next issue a full account of the business career and a portrait of Mr. Lindsay, who reached the great age of 89.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GEORGE MACDONALD (who now lives and does most of his work in the south of France) is about to publish a new novel, called "Heather and Snow."

PROF. D. S. MARGOLIOUTH, of Oxford, has undertaken to translate the great Arabic geographical dictionary. This probably will necessitate his abandonment of his announced purpose of criticising the conclusions of the higher critics about the Bible, which certainly is to be regretted.

MARIE CORELLI, the author of "The Soul of Lilith," who has already made a fortune by her writings, is the adopted daughter of Charles Mackay, but no relation to the Mackay family. She is of Italian extraction and Marie Corelli is her legal name. She intends visiting America, says the Journalist, and will probably give readings from her works.

STEPHANIE, the widow of the Archduke of Russia, whose sad end is still fresh in all minds, has written a book on "Lacoma," a picturesque islet in the Adriatic. Lacoma is a sort of Adriatic Madelra, an evergreen fairy islet, scarcely a league distant from the mainland, rejoicing in a splendid climate and revelling in a semi-tropical vegetation and gorgeous scenery. Illustrations by the imperial and royal marine painter, A. Perko, accompany her text and also point out the marvellous beauty of a spot as yet unvisited by travelling parties.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES celebrated the 83d anniversary of his birthday on Monday, August 29, at his summer residence at Beverly Farms. He was feeling well, though slightly troubled with asthma. The annual tribute from his publishers, Houghton, Mifflin & Co.—a basket of beautiful flowers—arrived in the early morning. An exquisite present that Dr. Holmes received during the forenoon was a nautilus shell from Mrs. William H. Moore, of Chicago. The shell was polished and set in a silver case on a silver stand and in silver script letters bore a stanza from the Doctor's favorite poem, "The Chambered Nautilus."

"MR. GLADSTONE, the head of the new British Government, is a distinguished author," remarks "The Lounger" in The Critic of August 27; "Mr. Morley, the Irish Secretary, is one of the ablest of living writers of English; Prof. Bryce, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, is an historian of high rank; Sir George O. Trevelyan, Secretary for Scotland, nephew and biographer of Macaulay, is a littérateur of unusual gifts; the young Viceroy of Ireland, Lord Houghton, is himself a poet, as well as the son and successor of a well-known man-of-letters; and even Lord Rosebery, the Foreign Secretary, has written at least one book, a life of Pitt."

JOURNALISTIC.

AN article, entitled "A Newspaper Man's Man," by Richard Harding Davis, appears in Harper's Weekly for August 31.

THE special fall and holiday number of The American Stationer is dated August 25. It is fully up to its standard in value of contents and finish of get-up.

THE CHRISTIAN LITERATURE CO. have become the American agents for The Thinker, an English periodical already in its second volume, which aims to present its readers with well-considered though brief reviews of the different movements of religious thought the world over.

THE Boston Civil Service Record and the Baltimore Civil Service Reformer have been merged in a single publication, which is to be known as Good Government, and which is to represent and carry on the work of both the older journals. The office of the new publication is in the Corcoran Building, Washington, D. C.

The Open Court begins this week a series of articles by Charles S. Peirce, entitled "The Critic of Argument." Mr. Peirce is an American scholar and a mathematician whose thoughts are for the most part locked up in the proceedings and reports of learned societies. In these articles he will make his ideas on the value of right-thinking comprehensible to the general philosophical student.

We have received a sample copy of the Buchgewerbeblatt (Book-Trade Journal), a monthly publication for all branches of the book trade, published by K. Burger, Custodian of the Book-Trade Museum of Leipzig. A specialty of the new journal will be an exhaustive review of all important articles appearing in German and foreign trade journals. The paper will be illustrated and give special attention to all new inventions offering practical help to all branches of the book trade.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—The business heretofore conducted under the name of Fred H. Allen & Co., of Boston, Mass., has been sold and transferred to Fred H. Allen Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of Massachusetts the 23d day of August, 1892. All persons having claims against Fred H. Allen & Co. will find their accounts properly accounted for and transferred to the Fred H. Allen Company, where they will receive due attention by the treasurer.

NEW YORK CITY.—A disastrous fire broke out about 10 A.M. Saturday morning in the varnish-rooms of J. H. Goldberg's picture frame-factory, 124-126 Wooster Street. The flames spread with great rapidity, and in less than half an hour the buildings at 120, 122, 124 and 126 Wooster Street, including a rear factory, and at 118, 120, 122 and 124 Prince Street were enveloped. William J. Kelly, of 26 University place, who has his factory on the third floor of 126 Wooster Street was entirely burned out, and as yet cannot figure his loss. He had no insurance. He is sending out the following letter:

NEW YORK, Aug. 30, 1892.

To the Trade:

The undersigned deeply regrets to announce that in the recent disastrous fire at the corner of Prince and Wooster Streets, New York, everything pertaining to his business was totally destroyed, including orders for the fall trade and samples which were ready for shipment and which would otherwise have gone out this week.

A list of publications is herewith enclosed (the plates of which were fortunately at the printer's), and if you will kindly send a new order, granting me until the 1st of November for delivery, I shall then be ready to fill it to your entire satisfaction.

Trusting that you will be willing under the existing circumstances to grant me this encouragement and waiting your order by early mail I am

Yours truly,

W. J. KELLY.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A COMPLETE library edition of Miss Mary E. Wilkins' stories is about to be published in England.

GEORGE J. STEINMETZ, JR., who has been conducting the literary and advertising department of Fleming H. Revell Co., has left his position and gone with the Christian Literature Co., New York.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will soon publish for Dr. James Morris Whiton a new book on the Trinity, under the title "Gloria Patri." It will treat the subject in the spirit of modern thought, using the dialogue form for simplicity of expression.

HENRY SOTHERAN & Co., London, have in press and will shortly issue a new angling work, "By Hook and By Crook," by Mr. Fraser Sandeman. It will be illustrated with colored plates of flies and other illustrations from drawings by the author.

MACMILLAN & Co. will issue during the month a second edition of "Calmire," in which the anonymous author has made many changes; R. Marion Crawford's new story, "The Children of the King," and "Under Pressure," a novel of existing Roman society, by the Marchesa Theodora.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have arranged for the early publication of a new story by Amelia Rives, whose celebrated work, "The Quick of the Dead," created such a sensation a short time ago. The new novel is in the nature of a sequel to this famous story, and is entitled "Barbara Dering."

THE great English "Dictionary of National Biography," planned to be ready in sixty volumes, is said to have nearly killed its first editor, Leslie Stephen. A "Biographical Encyclopedia of the Austrian Empire" has just been finished, and also in sixty volumes, on which the editor's work was begun and finished by Dr. von Wurzbach.

THE WORTHINGTON CO. will bring out immediately, in their Rose Library, "Enthralled and Released," by E. Werner, translated by Dr. Raphael, a story of life among mountain fastnesses amid glaciers and snows; and "One Year: a Tale of Wedlock," translated from the Swedish, discussing many problems of love and marriage under peculiar circumstances.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, will issue shortly "Faust, Part I," edited with introduction, explanatory and critical notes and a bibliography by Professor Calvin Thomas, of the University of Michigan. This edition of Faust by one of the foremost Goethe scholars of the country, whose edition of Tasso (published by the same firm) is well known, will be welcomed by the many who have been expecting it.

STREET & SMITH, 31 Rose Street, New York City, have discovered that their book-keeper and cashier has robbed them to the extent of $7000. For a considerable time the firm have been suspicious of wrong-doing in their financial department. An examination of the books proved a shortage of $20,000, of which $7000 were directly traceable to A. J. Price. The latter is an Englishman, 43 years old, said to be a man of very quiet habits.

ORTNER'S MARITAL CLAIMS," a new story of Malcolm Johnston, which is accompanied by a few short stories, will be the last book of Appleton & Co.'s dainty Summer Series for the current year. In this book Colonel Johnston is introduced to the quaint scenes of Georgia life, which he describes with so much humor and pathos. Like the other books of the charming Series, this volume appears in an original and attractive dress.

There has been some criticism on the part of others regarding "The United States Postal Guide of New York," which is being widely distributed at the General Post Office sub-stations of New York City. It is true that as the book is clearly gotten up in a neat and advertising scheme, its official endorsement by the Postmaster of New York lowers the value of the service. The Postmaster is not alone in the service in making any use of the scheme, and he does not compensate out of books from Post-Office funds a violation of the new regulations.

APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a new edition of W. H. Herndon's "Abraham Lincoln," which has been thoroughly revised, and will be put out in two volumes, with new illustrations and an introduction written by Horace Bushfield. The first volume of Appleton's Fourth Military Series, Captain Mahan's "Admiral Mahan," will be followed by Gen. O. O. "General Taylor." Gen. Bradley T. Johnson is writing a volume on "Washington," and Hugh Lee is preparing one on "General Lee." "General Hancock" is to be dealt with by Francis A. Walker.

SCRIBNER'S SONS have just issued a new series of Books for the Young, a graded reading list, by George E. Hardy, Principal of the Grammar School 82, New York City. In this Hardy read a paper on "The School of the Future," before the New York State Teachers' Convention convened in Brooklyn. This led to the formation of a "Committee on Reading" to make suitable graded lists of proper reading material, to review current juvenile works, to make suggestions on reading, etc. Mr. Hardy is chairman. This little book is the result of their labors. All the books listed are in the hands of the publishers and can be obtained through any live bookseller.

Readers of University Extension in this country have been quick to seize upon the two great needs of the work. In the seminary training of University Extension lecturers, the first will be opened in Philadelphia on October 1st. The American Society for the Extension of University Teaching bids fair to solve at the outset the difficulty which has hampered the English work for a score of years, namely, a lack of lecturers who are scholarly and technically trained.

Another point of equal importance is the lack of the literature needed to explain the new educational movement, and present the same in the clearest and most concise manner both the theoretical principles involved and the practical application of the system. The American Society has just issued a large number of excellent pamphlets by well-known educators. The latest publication is the "Handbook of University Extension," a reprint of the monthly journal of the Society, giving in its four hundred pages the information on the purpose and methods of the system of instruction.

OF THE

Book on the Physician Himself

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

France under the Regency.

Review of the Administration of Louis XIV. By JAMES BRECK PERKINS, author of "France under Richelieu and Mazarin." 1 vol., crown 8vo, $2.00.

Perkins, who has already treated certain portions of French history with a knowledge and a skill which him no little reputation, in this volume discusses the interesting period of the regency of the Duke of Orléans during the long reign of Louis XIV.

Autumn.

Volume selected from the journals of THOREAU, and edited by H. G. O. BLAKE. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.50.

Blake has already gathered three rich volumes from Thoreau's journal, Early Spring in Massachusetts, and Winter. A fourth on Autumn, to complete the cycle of the seasons, has been prepared, and will newly add to the truth of the remark by Mr. George William Curtis: "Thoreau's true life was in the observation and suggestion, and of these his books are the record. . . . There is no such comprehensive observation as his, and no literature, united with a style so racy, so incisive and so pictorial."

The Foot-Path Way.

FORD TORREY, author of "Birds in the Bush" and "A Rambler's Lease." 1 vol., 16mo,

This book contains eleven delightful out-door essays, which describe: June in Franconia; December Out-of-door; Five Days on Mount Mansfield; A Widow and Twins; The Male Ruby-Throat; Robin Hood; The Passing of the Birds; A Great Blue Heron; Flowers and Folks; In Praise of the Weymouth Pine.

Spare Hours.

BROWN, M.D. New edition. With a fine portrait. 3 vols., 16mo, tastefully bound,

This is an attractive edition of three books, which contain some of the wisest and some of the most delightful of English literature.

LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY Will Publish Sept. 3:

Vendetta, and My Wonderful Wife. By MARIE CORELLI, author of "The Soul of Lillith," "Wormwood," etc. 12mo, cloth, Italian arabesque, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

In "Vendetta" the author has written a story of Italian vengeance, full of terrible vitality, cunningly planned and relentlessly executed.

"My Wonderful Wife" is a realistic little sketch in which the tribulations of an unfortunate man wedded to a strong-minded woman are vividly set forth; the tale is written in Miss Corelli's usual happy and graceful style.

Army Tales. Containing: Bootles' Baby, A Siege Baby, In Quarters with the 25th Dragoons, Cavalry Life, Regimental Legends. By JOHN STRANGE WINTER. Large 12mo, cloth gilt, $1.00. A most attractive volume, comprising some of the very best productions of John Strange Winter.

"There is frankness, genuine feeling and sprightly movement in this author's creations."—St. James' Gazette.

A New and Cheaper Edition.

An Erring Woman's Love. By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, author of "Poems of Pleasure," "Poems of Passion," etc. With portrait, 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This new and inexpensive edition of "An Erring Woman's Love" is especially adapted to the needs of those desiring the writer's most recent work in a more condensed form.

"The poem is full of the first essential to good work, which is sympathy, the power to identify oneself with one's subject."—Boston Times.

125 East 23d Street, New York,

SUGGESTION. By MABEL COLLINS, author of "The Blossom and the Fruit," "Ida," 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Suggestion," as its title implies, is a work in which the author shows what startling developments might be if it were possible for a larger proportion of the American race to project into the brains of others, motives for acts of violence. The field is a comparatively new one, and the work will undoubtedly meet with a wide-spread interest.

THE NEW RECTOR. By STANLEY WEYMAN. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The narrative is very well written, the interest unflagging, the ensemble is satisfactory, and the dénouement clearly wrought out, leaving nothing to be desired."—The Churchman.

MARGERY OF QUETHER. By S. BARING-GOULD, author of "Urith," "John Herring," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A story cast on strong lines, containing dramatic possibilities, vivid and sympathetic descriptions of nature, a wealth of ingenious imagery."—The Speaker, London.

THE KING OF JUVENILES.

---

THIS name, a household word in every home in the land, has become endeared in the hearts of two generations, and the readers of the early volumes are now men and women, who know that no books will delight their children more or instruct them to a greater extent, than these dear old annual volumes, whose sales have long since mounted above the million mark. Nearly half a hundred thousand paper are yearly used in the production of this King of Juveniles, and month after month the never-ceasing presses turn into the bindery great loads of the printed material, the whole process requiring a legion of workers, who are kept busy for months supplying the holiday demand.

This year, to add to the enormous sales, the publishers have spared no expense or trouble in securing a paper that would do entire justice to this royal juvenile, make the illustrations appear to their best advantage, and if possible, bring the book nearer the zenith of juvenile perfection.

THE NATIONAL BOOK Co. have just published
"Catmur's Cave," a novel by Richard Dowling, who is known as the author of several dramatic stories, chiefly of the detective order.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will issue at once in their Modern Language Series "Aus dem Leben eines Taugenichts," the notes to Eichendorf's little masterpiece being the work of Professor Carl Os-thaus, of Indiana University.

THE HOVENDON Co. have just ready a new novel by "The Duchess," entitled "Nor Wife, Nor Maid," which will be welcomed by the admirers of this entertaining writer, whose last story,
"The O'Connors of Ballinahinch," was recently issued by the same publishers.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will shortly publish a sketch of the "Life of Barbara Frietichie," written by Mrs. Caroline H. Dall, who has made a study of a character made historic by Whittier's ballad. The book will contain a portrait of Barbara, a view of the house in which she lived, and a plan of its site in Frederick, Md.

FRANCIS P. HARPER will publish shortly a new and important edition of Lewis and Clarke's "Expedition Over the Rocky Mountains," on which Dr. Elliott Coues has been engaged for some time. He is specially fitted for the task, and the index to this faithful reprint of the Philadelphia edition of 1814 will be of great scientific value.

RICHMOND, CROSCUP & Co., who have established themselves at 19 Union Square, New York City, will issue immediately a finely printed edition limited to 285 copies of "Germain's Marriage," translated from the French of George Sand. The book will be printed on Van Gelder hand-made paper and it will be illustrated with fourteen etchings by Rudaux.

MACMILLAN & Co., in view of the prevailing interest in the cholera, have reduced the price of Dr. Klein's well-known book, entitled "The Bacteria in Asiatic Cholera," to one dollar. This house also announces "A History of Early English Literature," by Rev. Stopford A. Brooke; and
"The Beauties of Nature and the Wonders of the World," by Sir John Lubbock, which will be issued uniform with his standard work on "The Pleasures of Life."

D. APPLETON & Co. will shortly publish in their select Town and Country Library "In Old St. Stephen's," a sketch of the life of an old family in South Carolina during the early part of the century, by Miss Jeanie Drake, of Charleston. Generals Lafayette and Calhoun are among the characters introduced in this book, which presents a series of fresh and most interesting pictures of phases of life, customs, society and incidents in South Carolina.

HARPER & BROTHERS will soon publish an interesting work by Walter Besant, entitled "London," which will not be a history of the city as body politic, but the story of the life of the people at different periods from the earliest historical records to the times of the Georges, and will be fully illustrated. A number of Brander Matthews' magazine articles on literary and philological subjects will be issued uniform in style with the dainty volumes by Curtis, Howells, Warner, Higginson and Hutton, under the title of "Americanisms and Britishisms, with other essays on other isms."

Bowne, Borden P. The principles of ethics. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 15+309 p. O. cl., $1.75.

Designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles. While demonstrating the necessity of uniting the intuitive and the experience school of ethics in order to reach any working system, the author seeks to show that the aim of conduct is not abstract virtue, but fulness and richness of life. Author is Professor of Philosophy in Boston University.

Braeme, Charlotte M. ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A golden heart: [a novel.] Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 8-255 p. D. (Dearborn ser., no 73.) pap., 25 c.

Elton, C: The career of Columbus. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 8+880 p. map, D. cl., $1.25.

A careful study of all the known biographies of Columbus and a comparison of the value of their statements. The author is a Member of Parliament. He is said to have given many years to this book.

Foot, Katharine B. The rovings of a restless boy. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 6+294 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A Boston boy of fifteen, impelled by restlessness and an idea that the kindly restraint enforced at home is a species of cruelty, runs away. He learns through a series of hardships in the West, adventures on many seas and an experience in the fore-castle, some of unpleasant consequences, that usually attend the way.

Friederick, J. M. H., comp. National platforms of the United States, presidential candidates and electoral and popular votes. Akron, O., The Akron Printing Co., 1892. 88 p. D. pap., 25 c.

An historical account of the various national platforms of the people of the United States, with text of all the separate platforms of all parties, the Virginia Resolutions of 1798 to the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and People's platform of 1892.

Gautier, Théophile. Four destinies; tr. [from the French] by Lucy Arrington. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 2+818 p. il. (International lib., no. 29.) hf. leath., $1.50. pap., 75 c.

The destinies of two couples married in St. Garet's Church, London, on the same morning, are strangely involved. The characters which, to outward appearance, had been created for each other, understanding, concentrate their feeling on the positives, and after fantastic and extravagant adventures, finally reach mental peace. One of the hands drifts to India and comes under the spell of occult powers. The author has a dream that there will be a science formulated which he, for of a better word, calls "the mathematics of chance."

Gibberne, Agnes, comp. Beside the water: comfort: thoughts from many minds. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] 8+389 p. S. cl., $1.25.

This collection of extracts was begun simply to meet the author's own needs in time of sorrow. She endeavored to show how remarkably "at one" are the views of very many belonging to widely diverse schools of thought in various churches regarding the future condition of the dead, and the true consolation for those left mourning.

Glouvet, Jules de, [pseud. for Guernon] Beaurepaire. The woodman: a novel from the French, by Mrs. J. Simpson Senoir. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 11+240 p. D. cl., $1.

La Forestier, the title by which this novel is known in French, is a picture of rustic life, of the kind popular by the later works of George Sand. It is regarded as the first attempt at reaction against the literary methods of Zola and his followers. The author never preaches, but it teaches through the representation of noble deeds done by noble beings. The author is the distinguished Procureur-General of France, known for his prominence and devotion to public duty during the recent trial of the Anarchist Ravachol and in the case of General Boulanger a few years ago.

Grandgent, C. H. Materials for French composition. Pt. 5, Exercises based on Senecian "French Reader," for pupils in their second year's study of French. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 8+18 p. D. (Heath's French language ser.) pap., 12 c.

A series of thirty-seven lessons, consisting of questions and answers founded on Dumas' [La] Jean Bart, contained in Super's "French Book." The object is to teach children idiomatic French from the beginning. Prepared especially for Boston schools. The author was formerly tutor of languages in Harvard University.

The party of three whose adventures are described consisted of the author, Alfred Parsons and the leader of the party, an expert canoeist. In the summer of 1890 they started in three canoes to make the journey of the Danube from the Black Forest to the Black Sea. They paddled and sailed 1775 miles through Germany, Austria, Hungary, Servia, Bulgaria, Roumania and Russia. The journey occupied eleven weeks and one day. The many strange scenes and strange people are interestingly described. The illustrations from drawings made during the voyage are very attractive.

Molesworth, Mrs. Maria Louise, ["Ennis Graham," pseud.] Leona. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 3+333 p. D. cl., $1.

A study in the temperaments, motives, hopes, trials and temptations of young girls. Leona, originally spoiled and selfish, coming under good influences, becomes a help in her home and an inspiring friend to her cousin Jack. The story is a warning against interference on the part of good, well-meaning women in the heart histories of their girl relatives.

Muir, Alan. Charming to her latest day: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 5+264 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 725.) pap., 50 c.

Whether it is Mrs. Barbara Temple or her daughter Sophia, who is "charming to her latest day," is left somewhat in doubt. Mrs. Temple is a rich widow with three unmarried girls when she is first introduced. She cleverly wins rich husbands for two of her girls, and is not without her own admirer, who proves unfaithful when he discovers that she is many years older than her looks indicate. Sophia marries late in life, and is the author of a number of rules teaching women "how to be beautiful forever."

Payne, E. J.: History of the new world called America. V. 1. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 80+605 p. O. cl., $3.

The writer is Fellow of University College, Oxford. In this volume the social economy of the advanced aborigines of the New World is traced to its physical conditions. The author's theory is that all advancement in civilization takes its origin in the organized provision of the food supply on an artificial as distinguished from a natural basis. Such organization necessitates defence, and communities having the two organizations elaborated extend their boundaries at the expense of others whose social arrangements are less advanced. Begins with a philosophical argument on the function of history, and throughout every fact of the history of the countries of South America, the West Indies and Mexico is traced to its scientific cause. Glossary of Spanish and aboriginal words and full table of contents.

Potwin, Mrs. H. K. What girls can do. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 463 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A story which is chiefly of the efforts and issues of Clare and Dot Hamlin, children of wealthy parents of social standing, who are anxious to better the conditions of a wretched walf and a poorer schoolmate. The interest is mostly in their method of carrying out their self-imposed mission work.

Sabine, Julia A. At the end of the rainbow. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. c. 3-252 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Whenever Ruth Thornton spoke of her sister's proposed trip to America she alluded fancifully to her place of destination as being "at the end of the rainbow." The story tells how an English girl's expectations were fulfilled, and describes her surroundings in Colorado, with her impressions and the result of a social experiment.

Scafe, Walter B. America, its geographical history, 1492-1892: six lectures delivered to graduate students of the Johns Hopkins University; with a supplement, entitled "Was the Rio del Esperitu Santo of the Spanish geographers the Mississippi?" Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. c. 7+176 p. map, O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, extra, v. 13.) cl., $1.50.

Contents: Development of the Atlantic coast in the consciousness of Europe; Development of Pacific coast geography; Geography of the interior and polar regions; Historical notes on certain geographical names: America, Brazil, Canada; Development of American national and state boundaries; Geographical work of the national government.

Smith, Mrs. Eliz. T. T., [formerly L. Meade.] A ring of rubies. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1892.] c. 2+292 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Rosamund Lindley, an English girl, beseeches a wealthy but eccentric relative to aid her in a chivalrous project; he dismisses her with a promise of answering her definitely after a week, and within that time bequeaths to Rosamund an antique ruby ring. This is the chief incident of a story in which the characters are of several social classes.

Smith, Mrs. F. I. Burge. Fan fan stories. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] 8-252 p. il. S. cl., 60 c.

Ten short stories, entitled Merry Christmas; Wickdale; Little Samuel's ministry; The white horse on the hill; How much an apple was worth; The little stockings saw; The queen among the grass; The church mouse; Patter; The open hand; Gratitude; mother's rule.

Snedeker, Florence Watters. A family canoe trip. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 8+131 p. il. T. (Harper's black and white ser.) 50 c.

The story of a family's summer outing. The trip is mostly made in a canoe, which is sometimes towed by a canal, sometimes paddled by the occupants; at times the canoe is carried by the canal-boat, or is taken on a wagon over difficulties between stations. The ground covered is from New York to Glens Falls, and thence to Lake George and Lake Champlain to Millsboro Point. Many delightful days are spent in canoeing, and some useful and valuable hints are given to others who wish to go and do likewise. The illustrations are made from photographs taken during the trip.

Snow, Freeman. Cabinet government in the United States. Phil., American Academy of Political and Social Science, [1892.] O. (Publications of The American Academy of Political and Social Science, no. 60.) p. 15 c.

A criticism of the article, "Congress and the Executive," which formed the number for November of these publications. The writer thinks it wise to run all the risks of the evils of popular government than to put too much power in the hands of the Executive Department.

Thomson, Mary S. Rhythmical gymnastics: vocal and physical. N. Y., Edgar & Werner, 1892. c. 127 p. D. cl., net, $1.

This book is intended for the use of those in public life as well as of those in private life. It is a presentation of the most modern and advanced theories of vocal development. One of the special features of the book is a complete set of breathing exercises, praising muscular development, rhythmical breathing accompanied by music, acting upon imagination and automatically imparting the sense of time to and movement. The vowel and consonant exercises impart automatically that nice muscular adjustment of the organs of phonation and articulation essential to the refined pronunciation of any language. The features are the study of bird-notes with their musical scores, and the insistence on the use of stringed instruments for the special training of the ear so as to prove the quality of tones.

Winslow, Margaret E. Miss Malcolm's ten: a story for the King's Daughters. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] 4+325 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The purpose of this book is to illustrate various forms of spurious service to the king, and to point the way to the heart-life of which all acceptable service must be an outgrowth. The story deals with ten young girls of varying abilities, ambitions and social surroundings.

Yonge, Charlotte M. The Cross Roads; or, a choice in life: a story for young women and older girls; il. by J. F. Weedon. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1892.] c. 248 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Tom Tolman and Emmeline Osbourne, upper servants, were betrothed lovers with no immediate prospects of marrying, until the death of Tom's uncle provided a means for them of realizing their hopes. Emmeline, however, questions the advisability of Tom attaining his purpose through the proprietorship of the Cross Roads, a public-house. Her decision and action conveys, besides its varied interest, a moral.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XIX.

THE ORDER DEPARTMENT.—V.

THE order-clerk should make it a rule to report to customers at the earliest possible moment why missing books cannot be furnished, and, if possible, when they may be expected. Neglect in this respect may result in unpleasantness and sometimes in the loss of a good customer. These reports need not necessarily be elaborate; the simple statement that the publishers are out of the book at present but that a new issue may be expected in a week, or that it must be sent for out of town and may be expected within a day or two; or, that it is out of print altogether, must be advertised for, and reports expected in a week or two, will ease the customer's mind, and let him feel that his interests are not neglected. The more prompt the order-clerk is in such matters, the better he will succeed and the happier will be his lot.

Above all, the order-clerk must be systematic in his work. He must have a place for everything and must be punctilious in seeing that everything is kept in its place. His checked-off bills must be in one place, his unchecked ones in another; his order-slips here, his billheads there, and his works of reference in the same place all the time. Should any one in the office have occasion to use the latter, he should insert firmly upon their being restored as soon as possible to the place from which they have been taken. This will at first cause a little extra work, and may possibly win for him the name of "old maid," but in the end it will save him no end of time and worry and greatly facilitate his work. Indeed, without such order and routine he would in a short time become utterly helpless and unfit for his place. When the books are delivered to his department the order-clerk should at once pick out those that are for sale and those that are to fill his orders. The former are to be carefully marked, and if firm labels are used, he should see that these are properly affixed to each volume by one of his assistants. Book advertisements and the latest handbills issued by his firm should also be inserted in the books before they are allowed to go into stock.

The order-clerk, it seems hardly necessary to point out, should fill his orders with the greatest care. Let him make certain beyond a doubt that the books he is about to send out are identical ones called for. He must be careful and methodical in this matter, because a wrong book sent out means extra expense, and, worse still, a displeased, perhaps an exasperated customer. Especially must he make certain to charge every book sent out on orders at the time he despatches them. To trust to memory and do it later is apt to prove unsatisfactory, no matter how good his memory may be. Carelessness in this particular is dangerous not only because it is costly, but principally because it is apt to destroy confidence. Bad habits, if not corrected in time, are apt to grow and place a man in the predicament of a dog that worries sheep. The dog usually gets buried. A man who cannot be relied on, no matter how honest he may be, may just as well be buried also.

Care must be taken in making out shipping directions. These can never be too explicit, and should be written out in a bold, clear hand, so that the shipping-clerk may readily understand what is expected of him. The order-clerk should compare his slip with his order before letting the books go out of his hands; the chances are that he may detect and be able to correct an error. But whether he does or not discover an error, such a procedure is sure to tend to make the mind easy.

At the close of each day the order-clerk should go over his messengers' route-book, note the reports and, as previously indicated, transfer them to his order-book. The bookseller has been unable to obtain he must try in other directions, though it will not be as at an inquiry at the same house. It happens that the second inquiry may be made to another salesman at that house who may be better posted on the stock, or the one who was first approached may in the meantime have traced the book wanted. As a result he may write for information to such effect as he may think likely to be able to help the customer. When called upon for a similar service, he can answer the queries put to him as promptly as possible. The public and libraries also should not be overlooked as sources of information, as they buy books and not to sell, and many odd books find their way to their shelves. Indeed, it is not a bad idea to try to make a friend of the librarian—the relationship will prove mutually serviceable.

Orders should be looked up as often as possible. Let the balance-book make the work of the salesmen with the request to give information that they may be able. The idea of "finding a book on the order-clerk" will give them zest for the hunt.

Orders received by mail should undergo the same process as those received in the store. The order-clerk should insist that all mail orders be sent over to his department be properly marked with directions for charging—that is, whether the goods are to be charged or sent by express, or, in the case of parties out of town, whether a remittance is to be asked for in advance.

Letters relating to such orders—as, in fact, everything relating to this department—should be carefully endorsed and filed so that they may be easily accessible. Long experience has taught us that what at the time appeared a insignificant and worthless scrap of paper, a few weeks or months after, the most important witness in a dispute over an alleged unfilled order. Hence the need of warning with respect to the necessity of filing every scrap of paper relating to the order department, so that until there can no longer be any doubt of the correct delivery of the order, i. e., the account has been paid.

Finally, we would caution the order-clerk to be cool under all circumstances. He must maintain, as far as possible, all "temper" from his system, and study to maintain perfect self-control. Especially will it help him to learn to do only what is necessary to carry on his business uncomplimentary, aggravating or ill-considered remarks are better not heard at all than to, however cleverly this may be done. A man who is unable to subject himself to discipline will find that his incumbency of the office of order-clerk will be about as disagreeable as it will be short.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL has ruled definitely that Printer's Ink, the lively little journal published by Rowell & Co., is not one of "the bona-fide papers of the land," and therefore he withholds second-class privilege from its publishers. We will leave it to the aggrieved parties (who are well able to take care of themselves) to dispute the justice of this decision, but consider it pertinent at this time to point out that if the Postmaster-General's ruling in this particular case is valid and defensible, then the publishers of a number of journals similar to Printer's Ink must prepare themselves for a like fate. Foremost among these may be named the publisher of Book News, a conspicuous uninterrupted advertisement of Philadelphia's mammoth bazaar. Its publisher may pretend that it is not one of those publications "owned or controlled by one or several individuals or business concerns and conducted as an auxiliary and essentially for the advancement of the main business or calling of those who control them," which, according to the Postmaster-General's ruling, should be excluded from second-class privileges; but then he might just as well pretend that the advertisements that help to defray its expenses are obtained upon its merits as an advertising medium and not as a consideration of patronage nor without a slight pressure of moral suasion. The Postmaster-General being a just man will recognize the axiom that sauce for the goose must be sauce for the gander.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF MISSOURI.

THE Booksellers' Association of Missouri, whose organization we noted in May last, met about fifty strong at the Commercial Club rooms, in Sedalia, Mo., on August 17, to adopt a constitution and by-laws and discuss plans to secure legislation that will protect their interests in the handling of school text-books. The constitution, as recommended by the committee, was adopted, as was also the following resolution:

Resolved, That the passage of the school text law by the Thirty-sixth General Assembly of Missouri, in so far as the same undertakes to fix the profits of the dealer in school-books, is neither just, businesslike nor American, and we characterize the law as an unwarranted and inexcusable attempt at State interference with the personal rights and privileges of the private citizen.

1. We declare the occupation of the bookseller to be as honorable as that of the lawyer, the doctor or the editor, and the law-making power of the State has no more right and no more reasons for interfering with the profits and destroying the business of the bookseller than it has to interfere with the business and control the profits of the clothier, the shoemaker, or that of any other citizen engaged lawfully in any business.

2. We charge that the school text-book commission obtained no reduction in price from the publishers, and that the contract prices on some of the adopted books is in excess of prices at which the same books are sold in other States, and we therefore condemn the action of the commission in contracting with certain publishing houses to supply the school text-books for the entire State for a period of five years at no reduction in price by the publishers, as a monopoly of gigantic proportions and one fraught with great danger to the public schools of the State.

3. We charge that the school text-book commission was either ignorant of the school-book business or purposely misrepresented the facts in the gratuitous explanation attached to their report.

We assert that the explanation was not required by law and is not sustained by the facts, in this, that the figures given as the former retail prices of the adopted books are in nearly every instance much higher than the prices charged by the regular booksellers of the State, and that by attaching a false statement to an official report a great injustice has been done the booksellers, and we therefore denounce the pretended explanation as false in figures and dishonest in purpose.

A discussion ensued, during which the slipshod manner in which the State Text-Book Commission entered into contracts with certain publishing houses was most vigorously denounced. It is generally claimed to have been careless and unbusinesslike, and charges are made that the Commission has been bribed. Of course such charges are more easily preferred than substantiated, and so the Missouri association acted wisely in not committing itself on the subject.

The officers of the association are: William McIlwraith, of Chillicothe, President; T. S. Kelly, of Moberly, Secretary; Chas. S. Dexter, of Sedalia, Treasurer. Eugene Parrish, of Nevada; Bert Pierce, of Springfield; A. H. Caffee, of Carthage; T. S. Kelly, of Moberly; William McIlwraith, of Chillicothe, and Graham, of St. Joseph, form the Executive Committee.

NEWSDEALERS' AND BOOKSELLERS' NATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

At the last meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association, held at 438 Fourth Avenue, New York City, it was voted that the next meeting of the National Committee be held in the city of Philadelphia, on Tuesday, Oct. 11, 1892.

It was also voted "That the Chairman, Mr. C. B. Swift, be instructed to correspond with any trade organizations, or with individuals interested in our line of business, and endeavor to either send delegates or attend the coming convention," and that the Chairman use his judgment in inviting any prominent member of the trade to the deliberations at the next meeting of the convention.

ELECTRICAL LITERATURE.

From the Electrical World.

THE growing importance of electrical literature from the standpoint of the public is well shown by the recent publication by the Boston Public Library of a 24-page list of all the works on electricity, not including the telegraph and the telephone, to be found in that library. It contains not far from 1000 titles, and is on the whole an admirable piece of work. Coming from a library of such importance and high standing, this publication has considerable significance, as it indicates that the demand of the general reader for this class of literature is of such a nature that it is necessary to place at his disposal the very best means for ascertaining what the library possesses in this special field. With the single exception of the St. Louis Public Library this is, so far as we are aware, the first attempt to afford material assistance to the general reader in this important field of literature, to which accessions are now of almost daily occurrence. The periodical literature of electricity has already grown to be so voluminous that there is need of a special index to cover publications of this class in the English, German and French languages. As might be expected, the list of the Boston Public Library scarcely attempts to enter this field, the articles of the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society of London being almost the only ones which have been entered in the list. It often happens, however, that the greater part, and sometimes all of the information to be secured upon certain subjects is contained in the periodical literature of the day, and the reader who seeks the fullest and best information should be able to consult the original memoirs on the various subjects. Just here we would like to point out that in one important particular English electrical books of the present day are much more satisfactory than those of American writers; we refer to the admirable practice which English authors have of referring the reader to original memoirs and various other sources of information, to which reference may be made by the student who desires to pursue the subject farther than the necessarily limited space of a text-book permits the author to go in his treatment of it.

THE HISTORY OF BENJAMIN'S BOOKWORMS.

BY WILLIAM EVARTS BENJAMIN.

So much has been printed regarding the discovery of two living bookworms, and I have been mentioned so prominently in connection with the find, that the public may be interested in a contribution from me on the subject.

In the first place, the honor of making the discovery is due to Mr. H. Williams, the well-known dealer in magazines. In a box of old magazines shipped to him from the South he found the little old musty volume of "Seneca" which was doubtless put in for stuffing, "to fill up." Happening to notice the round holes in the edges of the book, and that one hole contained a brownish-black worm, he judged the circumstance curious and fetched the volume for my inspection. I was so greatly interested in his discovery that he volunteered to re-examine the box to endeavor to find more worms. He did find another brownish-black worm which exactly fitted the other hole in the book. Evidently it had been shaken from its domicile. A writer for the press, hearing from one of my assistants that live bookworms actually at their work of depredation in a book were most unusual, made note of the news in the New York Herald. With the keen and critical perspicuity in the matter of news which ever distinguishes the New York Sun, this lively newspaper seized upon the discovery, and expatiated upon it in a three-column illustrated article in a Sunday issue.

The Sun's article has attracted widespread attention, and Chicago and Philadelphia have put in claims of similar bookworm discoveries, but the accounts in each case state that the worms were imported. Heretofore it has always been believed, and frequently stated that these pests were products only of countries across the sea, and that they were never found in this country. The importance and interest, then, of my bookworms depends upon the fact that they are natives indigenous to this country.

In this fact lies my claim to a discovery, and a tradition is disproved. The proof of my contention is submitted in the enclosed letter, which I am at liberty to print. It is written in answer to one written by Mr. Williams to Mr. Hiden at my suggestion.

ARK UNION, FLUVANNA COUNTY, VIRGINIA, }
August 28, 1892. }

Esq.
Yours of the 23d inst. is just to hand and I reply. The three old books that I sent you, included, formerly belonged to President Madison, then to his widow, who was formerly the old. From her they passed to her son, Payne became deeply involved in debt and his property. My father bought these books among many, trying to save something of what Todd. My father was more of a politician than a scholar, and I have no doubt that he chose these books of their having been the property of Madison, who had been his near neighbor and personal friend. From the time he bought them they probably remained in his library some twenty years, when they were moved to his new residence there they remained in possession of my father twenty years, till her death about three years when I brought them from Orange to my father's county, where they had been ever since sent to you. Since I have had them I have looked at them and showed them as curiosities to my friends, but we never observed the worms you mention. My impression is that we examined only the first perhaps turned over the first few leaves. These books in the box some two or three years they were shipped to you and nailed them. Respectfully yours, P. B. HIGDEN.

suggestion has been made that perhaps they were in the "Seneca" when President Madison reported the book, but the supposition is not to hold when we consider that the book came into this country in the first half of the century, and Mr. Madison was a member of the old school who carefully read a few days after the worms came into the book they shed their outer skins or became white and soft; then they dried up and died. My theory is that the eggs—larvæ—were laid on the edges of the book then developed by nature into worms, and of other sustenance subsisted on the old pages of the "Seneca."

the opinion that there is no such thing as a worm per se, but think that a few of caterpillars in worm state can exist in a vegetable matter in old paper if accident in contiguous position.

OBITUARY.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

JOHN G. WHITTIER, the last of the great poets and the most national of American poets, died Wednesday, September 7, at Northampton, N. H. His death was peaceful and he quietly fell asleep among his friends and relatives. His body was buried at home at Amesbury, Mass., and his ashes placed on the 10th from the house on the street, which for years has been the meeting place for every visitor to Amesbury. He will be buried in the Friends' Cemetery. "The Poet" was born in Haverhill, Massachusetts, December 17, 1807. He went to school at an early age and continued there until he was sixteen. Early in life he developed a love of reading and knew by heart the contents of dry theological literature that was in the library of his remote New England home. The Bible had the first place, and his devotion to it has influenced all his verse. He was self-taught with liveliness and humor of a peddler minstrel who sang the songs of Burns. They were a revelation to the young boy. From this point his life as a poet began. During his two years at the Academy he had written a poem that had been accepted by The Free Press of Newburyport, of which William Lloyd Garrison was editor. Garrison came to look up the young farmer who had written this poem, and thus began the friendship which lasted through life and the untiring work in the cause of abolition.

All through his volumes may be seen traces of his part in the great contest. But his fame as a poet does not rest upon these anti-slavery lyrics; he did not profit by his connection with the cause of freedom; rather he sacrificed himself and his literary reputation that he might do something for the slave. His best work is seen in later poems which have no strain of controversy, which are founded upon ideal themes and treated in an ideal way. Although Whittier's poems have been read and learned and loved by two generations, the interest in Whittier as a man has been even stronger than in his verse. Since the Civil War Whittier has been living quietly and devoting his life to literature. During that time the events of his life have been few. The first volume of his poems in a form worthy of the contents was published in 1849 by B. B. Muzzey & Co. This was a handsome 8vo, with illustrations by Hammett Billings. After the death of Mr. Muzzey the publishing of Whittier's works passed into the hands of Ticknor & Fields and later of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. This firm published a final edition of his works, revised by Mr. Whittier in 1888. It is in seven volumes. Perhaps the most popular of Whittier's poems is "Snow-Bound," describing a phase of New England farm life which has almost wholly passed away.

The last published poem appeared in the current Atlantic Monthly, and was written on the occasion of Oliver Wendell Holmes' eighty-sixth birthday. On learning of Whittier's death Dr. Holmes said: "Mr. Whittier's was one of the sweetest natures—he was one of the sweetest singers we ever had or ever shall have." They had been friends since 1857. Whittier never was married.

HENRY HUDSON HOLLY, the author of "Holly's Country Seats" and "Holly's Church Architecture," died on the 4th inst., aged 55 years.

THOMAS WILLIAM PARSONS, the poet, died at Scituate, Mass., on the 3d inst., aged 72 years. Among his works are: "Ghetto de Rome" (1854), "The Magnolia" (1867), "The Old House at Sudbury" (1870), and "The Shadow of the Obelisk" (1872).

JOHN MACGREGOR, author of "A Thousand Miles in the Rob Roy," "The Rob Roy on the Baltic," "A Voyage Alone in the Rob Roy," and other works quite famous twenty-five years ago, has recently died at the age of sixty-seven. Mr. MacGregor was born in 1825, at Gravesend, England, and was a son of Gen. Sir Duncan MacGregor, K.C.B.

DR. JOHN J. REESE, the eminent toxicologist, died on the 4th inst., in Atlantic City, N. J., aged 73 years. Dr. Reese made important contributions to medical literature, his published works, including "Analysis of Physiology," "American Medical Formulary," "Manual of Toxicology," and a text-book of medical jurisprudence and toxicology. He also edited the seventh American edition of Taylor's "Medical Jurisprudence."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GRANT ALLEN'S "The Scullywag" will be the serial with which the London Graphic will commence the new year.

PROFESSOR D. S. MARGOLIOUTH, of Oxford, has undertaken to translate the great Arabic geographical dictionary.

IT is vaguely hinted that Thomas Bailey Aldrich will succeed George William Curtis in Harper's "Easy Chair."

MRS. EVA MCGLOSSON, the author of the successful book, "Diana's Livery," and of "An Earthly Paragon," which has been running as a serial in Harper's Weekly, is a young Southern woman. She wrote "Diana's Livery" before she was twenty.

BARING-GOULD has been for some time engaged upon an exhaustive history of the Cæsars, a work which will contain a number of illustrations, including reproductions of medallion portraits and busts. It is understood that the title will be "The Tragedy of the Cæsars."

AUGUST BEBEL, the leader of the more temperate branch of the German Socialists, is about to publish a book entitled "History of German Social-Democracy." The last chapter of the work is said to contain strong attacks on the Anarchists and on the more radical branch of the German Socialists. Herr Bebel was formerly a weaver in Leipzig, the hotbed of German Socialism. He has been for years, however, a member of the Reichstag, and is a speaker of force and ability.

ALPHONSE DAUDET has been passing the summer at Champrosay and has worked regularly on his forthcoming book, which will be entitled "Soutien de Famille" (Support of the Family). The characters are the two sons of a wealthy manufacturer, one of whom, ruined by his mother's indulgence, turns out a scapegrace, while the other retrieves the family fortunes. Daudet will also soon publish a translation by himself of the work, written in the dialect of Provence, by a marvellous farmer's boy called "Baptiste Bonnet." This humble tiller of the soil seems to have been a mixture of Jean Jacques Rousseau, Robert Burns and Jules Janin. His "Mémoires d'un Valet de Ferme" are widely read in the south, and Daudet hopes to interest Parisians by giving them a version in their vernacular of the life and labors of the literary agriculturist of low degree.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS had been associated with Harper's Weekly almost since its beginning in 1857, and had written "The Editor's Easy Chair" in Harper's Magazine since 1853. The issue of Harper's Weekly for September 7 is, in a certain sense, a memorial number, and contains appropriate sketches of his life, character and services, with a portrait and other illustrations.

A NEW shilling magazine, to be published monthly, has just made its appearance in literary England, under the title of the Pagan Review. The editor remains anonymous and W. H. Brooks appears as assistant editor. The first number contains short vivid prose and verse representing the style and ideals of the French and Belgians. Apparently the young men who edit it wish by the word "pagan" to emphasize an absence of Christianity and a negative, not a positive trait.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING CO. have secured the American bookrights of W. Clark Russell's next four novels, which are already all placed for serial publication.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS are about to publish a new edition of Professor F. W. Taussig's "Tariff History," enlarged by about 100 papers of new matter, including a discussion of the McKinley Bill.

THE BANCROFT-WHITNEY CO., San Francisco, will issue at once "California Reports, Vol. 94," and a Student's Edition of "Hammond's Blackstone." Later in the month they will have ready "Mack's Digest of Vols. 1 to 24 of American State Reports."

THE AMERICAN CITIZEN COMPANY, of Boston, will publish about the 1st of October, "The Assassination of Lincoln," edited by Gen. T. M. Harris, a thick, illustrated volume, claiming to be written by the members of the commission that tried the conspirators.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY is about to publish a reprint of certain important "State Papers and Speeches on the Tariff," by Hamilton, Gallatin, Webster and other statesmen, with an introduction by Prof. F. W. Taussig. To insure as wide a sale as possible the volume, of some 400 pages, will be offered at $1.

EDWARD STERN & CO., Philadelphia, will publish at once "In Arctic Seas," by Dr. R. N. Keely, in which the author, who accompanied in the capacity of surgeon the West Greenland expedition last summer, gives a vivacious account of the incidents of the voyage of the Kite, conveying Lieutenant Peary's party to McCormick Bay.

DOUGLAS CAMPBELL'S book, "The Puritan in Holland, England and America," published by Harper & Brothers, which has attracted so much attention at home, has recently been the subject of flattering notice on the other side. A correspondent writing from the Hague, witnessing its growing popularity there, prophesies its early translation into the Dutch tongue.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in active preparation an edition of the "Works of Thomas Paine," which will be edited by Moncure D. Conway, author of "The Life of Thomas Paine," which they have just issued. The set will be in two or three volumes, the first division being devoted to the political and sociological writings, and the second to the religious and literary papers, of which the most important is "The Age of Reason." The volumes will be uniform with Mr. Conway's biography, and will include essays of importance not in any previous collection.

THE BERLIN PHOTOGRAPHIC CO. (14 East 23d Street) specially call attention to the fact that their reproductions of paintings issued after May 7, 1892, are protected by copyright according to the following ruling: Section 4965 provides as follows: "If any person after the recording of the description of any painting shall engrave, etch, work, copy, print, publish, sell or expose for sale any copy of such painting, copyrighted as aforesaid, he shall forfeit to the proprietor all the plates, on which the same shall be copied, and every sheet thereof, either copied or printed, and he shall further forfeit ten dollars for every copy of the same in his possession or by him sold or exposed for sale."

W. D. HOWELLS pays the following tribute to the late James R. Osgood in a letter to the trustees of the Fryeburg Academy, which has just celebrated its centennial: "The village was already interesting to me as the birthplace of my former publisher and long-time friend, James R. Osgood, who died so far from his early home the other day, and now lies in English earth. I cannot let the occasion pass without saying my say in recognition of the brilliant talents and uncommon qualities of this scholar of your academy whom I knew best. He was as generous as he was adventurous; he had a mind quick to conceive and prompt to execute; he carried into business the whole sympathies of a poet and the ardor of an idealist. A word from you sufficed for his swift intelligence; a word from him was a pledge which he felt bound to fulfil. If you have a moment in your joy for affectionate respect, I think you could not more fitly employ it than in recalling the name of this distinguished townsman of yours, and dedicating a sigh to his memory."

THE great English newspaper distributing and bookselling business of W. H. Smith & Son, in its growth and present status, is described by a writer in the August number of the English Illustrated Magazine.

THE first instalment of a selection from the unpublished papers of Dr. Norman Macleod will appear in the Scottish Pulpit about the middle of this month. The selection has been made by his cousin, the Rev. Dr. John Macleod, of Govan.

MARSHAL MACMAHON has decided to publish his memoirs at once, although he had not intended to give them to the public during his lifetime. The accounts of the defeat of the French army in 1870, as given by Zola in his "La Débâcle," have induced the veteran soldier to clear himself in the estimation of the world from the charge of incompetency tacitly conveyed by Zola's book.

HODDER & STOUGHTON, London, announce a series of volumes to be issued in connection with The Bookman. They will be entitled The Bookman's Library, and will consist partly of reprints, partly of original matter. The volumes will be handsomely printed and bound, and only five hundred copies of each will be issued. This will include the American as well as the English edition.

THE long-expected new edition of Sir William Smith's "Dictionary of the Bible" may be looked for towards the end of the year. The editor has had the co-operation of Professor J. M. Fuller, of King's College, editor of the "Student's Bible," and author of the commentary on Daniel in the "Speaker's Bible." Professor Driver, of Oxford, contributes the articles on the Hexateuch.

"THE oldest literary society in Europe, L'Académie des Jeux Floraux de Toulouse, has just announced the subject for the literary competition of 1893," says Mrs. Thomas A. Janvier in The Critic of August 27. "This society, founded in 1323 by seven burghers of Toulouse, has continued its sessions, with some interruptions, down to the present day. The subject proposed for next year's competition, to be written in French prose, is 'L'Eloge de Pièrre Goudelin,' the general scope of the article to be the comparison of the works of this once famous poet with those produced by the poets of the present Provençal Renaissance, the Felibres. The prize promised the successful competitor is a golden eglantine worth 450 francs."

SOMETHING IMPORTANT.

NOW READY.

A New (Tenth) Edition, Author's Last Revision,

OF THE

Book on the Physician Himself,

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

Bound in Extra Cloth, - - - - - $2.00 net.

EVERY DEALER SHOULD ORDER A SUPPLY OF THIS FAMOUS BOOK AT ONCE.

READY EARLY IN OCTOBER.

The New Pocket Medical Dictionary.

Compiled from the latest authorities, and containing words recently introduced into medicine; also Addenda of Abbreviations, Affixes, List of Diseases known by proper names, List of Poisons and their Antidotes, etc., etc.

By DAVID BRADEN KYLE, M.D.,

Assistant Demonstrator of Pathology and Instructor in Clinical Microscopy at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Visiting Physician to Philadelphia Home for Incurables; Associate Editor of the "Annual of the Universal Medical Sciences."

This compact and complete little dictionary will be a thing of beauty as well as of use. It will be neatly printed on extra thin, but opaque and durable paper, with red marginal lines on every page, thus bringing out the type clear and distinct. In strong, flexible leather binding. Size, 2½ x 5¼ inches, easily fitting in the vest-pocket.

1884-1890.

The new volume of the American Catalogue covers the period July 1, 1884, to June 30, 1890. It is in two parts, of which the first contains the author-and-title alphabet, and the second the subject alphabet, List of Government Publications, Publications of Societies, Books in Series, etc.

Price, $12.50 in sheets; and $15 in half morocco binding.

The edition is 1250 copies only, and there will be no re-issue.

. . . "There is scarcely a bookseller in the country who would hesitate a moment to expend twenty-five dollars in advertising his stock; ought he to hesitate a moment about an expenditure that would enable him to sell hundreds of dollars' worth of books in a year? Such an investment would also purchase for him a reputation among his customers for intelligence and trade knowledge that would pay him five times over."—A. D. F. RANDOLPH.

This work is indispensable to the bookstore or library.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE,

28 ELM STREET (NEAR DUANE), N. Y.

Dr. J. G. HOLLAND'S TWO POEMS.

BITTER SWEET and KATHERINA. Cameo Edition. Each with an etched frontispiece. 16mo, gilt top, $1.25; half calf, $2.75; half levant, $3.50.

In this series there have already appeared Mr. Mitchell's "Reveries of a Bachelor" and "Dream Life," Mr. Cable's "Old Creole Days," and Mr. Page's "In Ole Virginia." The publishers have now ready Mr. Holland's two most noted poems, and they believe that these popular works, in their new and attractive dress, will appeal to a still larger circle of readers.

South Sea Idyls.

By Prof. CHARLES WARREN STODDARD. Revised Edition from new plates. 12mo, $1.50.

In an Introductory Note, Mr. Howells characterizes these sketches as "the lightest, sweetest, wildest, freshest things that ever were written about the life of that summer ocean. One does these things but once if he ever does them, but you have done them once for all."

The End of a Rainbow.

By ROSSITER JOHNSON. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

The hero of this book for young readers fails to find the crock of gold at the end of the rainbow, but does find the solid gold of priceless experience. His search leads him and his companions into many curious adventures and into a wider knowledge of the world and its workers.

AMONG THE LAWMAKERS.

By EDMUND ALTON. Illustrated. New and cheaper edition. Square 8vo, $1.50.

The bright narrative of one who for four years was a page in the Senate Chamber at Washington. He describes many stirring scenes and famous men and explains clearly the methods of Congressional procedure.

"The reader, old or young, who begins the book will be certain to read it through."—Boston Journal.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, 743-745 Broadway, New York.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, 715 and 717 Market St., Philadelphia.

LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY,

Publish September 10th:

The Mammon of Unrighteousness.

By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYSEN, author of "Gudnar," "The Light of Her Countenance," etc. 12mo, paper, 50 cents. Also in 12mo, cloth ornamental, $1.25.

"A fiction which has few equals for truth and fulness among American novels."—William Dean Howells.

"The characters are all strongly drawn, with that force and individuality which form a marked feature of all Professor Boyesen's creations, or rather, studies from life."—Boston Transcript.

The Other House.

By KATE JORDAN. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth ornamental, $1.25.

"The Other House," purports to be a study of human nature, and such it clearly is. The sadness, the heroism, the despair of unsatisfied ambition, and the cruelty of circumstances that are so artistically mingled in this little story, enter into the lives of people all about us. There is nothing forced or exaggerated in the book from the emotional standpoint, and in novels of this character such a statement means much.

A Romance of Two Worlds.

By MARIE CORELLI, author of "Wormwood," "The Soul of Lilith," etc. 12mo, cloth, Italian arabesque, $1.00 paper, 50 cents.

In "A Romance of Two Worlds," the field of occultism is invaded by the delightful author, and it is with difficulty that one prevents the belief that actual experiences are being related. It would seem from the text that there are those who have received the gift of peering into the mysteries of the future and depicting its events as graphically as does the historian the events of the past.

The Little Manx Nation.

By HALL CAINE, author of "The Scapegoat," "The Bondman," etc. Square 12mo, paper, 25 cents; also in 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

Nor Wife, Nor Maid.

By "THE DUCHESS," author of "Phyllis," "Molly Bawn," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Nor Wife Nor Maid" is perhaps more ambitious in a novellistic way than some of the recent efforts of "The Duchess," but it is none the less entertaining. The plot is handled with great delicacy and skill, and the dashing, vivacious, perennially interesting style of the author contributes greatly to the success of the story.

SOME RECENT ISSUES:

The Man in Possession.

By "RITA," author of "A Vagabond Lover," "The Doctor's Secret." 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Rita" has rarely given us a prettier or more agreeable story than "The Man in Possession." It is a thoroughly enjoyable novel.—Charleston News.

For the Sake of the Family.

By MAY CROMMELIN, author of "Goblin Gold," "The Freaks of Lady Fortune," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"A thrilling story. . . . The narrative is exciting, and the plot is worked out in a way that commands attention."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

The Free Trade Struggle in England.

By M. M. TRUMBULL. Second edition, revised and enlarged. 296 pages, cloth, 75 cents; paper, 25 cents.

"It will be found the most complete and convenient, and probably the most accurate accessible account of the reform of the English customs system."—Review of Reviews.

"Mr. Trumbull treats his subject with a masterly hand, and it will be a great aid in securing such a knowledge of the tariff question as the masses are now eagerly seeking."—Detroit Free Press.

The Lost Manuscript.

A Novel. By GUSTAV FREYTAG. Authorized translation from the sixteenth German edition. Two volumes, 953 pages, extra cloth, gilt top, $4.00; the same in one volume, cloth, $1.00; paper, 75 cents.

"It is superfluous to do more than call attention to this great novel of the great German novelist, the greatest perhaps of all his works that have made him famous not only in the Fatherland, but in all lands. The marvel of this book is its cheapness, considering its size, and the neatness and substantialness of its binding. It opens also readily to the hand and lies open, making it easy to handle while reading."—Christian Weekly, New York.

TYPEE:

A Real Romance of the South Seas. By HERMAN MELVILLE. With Biographical and Critical Introduction by ARTHUR STEDMAN, and portrait of the author. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Herman Melville was the first man who shared the life of a cannibal community in the South Seas, who had the winning literary art to describe it, and who returned alive to write his book. 'Typee' will be read when most of the Concord group are forgotten."—Dr. TITUS MUNSON COAN, in New York Tribune.

OMOO:

A Sequel to "Typee." By HERMAN MELVILLE. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"'Typee' and 'Omoo' are full of light and color, of sensations that seem to be reflections, and of the restlessness of thought that seems to imply activity of mind. We drift with him through his Pacific splendors and dangers as if we had partaken of the lotus plant; everything about us is wonderful, is marvellous, but nothing is tangible, real, 'of the earth, earthy.'"—RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, in Mail and Express.

CATMUR'S CAVE.

By RICHARD DOWLING, author of "The Mystery of Killard," "The Weird Sisters," etc. 18mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Catmur's Cave" contains a fascinating and mysterious plot, the principal characters being the showman Catmur, a lion-tamer, a magnetic lady, and a private secretary. There are several well-conceived dramatic situations, and the conclusion is a particularly pleasing one.

NEW BOOKS.

WEDDED TO SPORT.

By MRS. EDWARD KENNARD, author of "The Girl in the Brown Habit," "Matron or Maid?" etc. 18mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

The main thread of this thoroughly entertaining story runs along the disastrous effort of a high-souled woman to live with a morally weak and viciously unrefined man.

BERRIS.

By KATHERINE S. MACQUOID, author of "Elizabeth Morley," "Miss Eyon of Eyon Court," etc. 18mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

A quiet and peaceful story of pastoral life, the treatment of which is in the author's usual bright and interesting vein.

Love and Friendship. Compiled by ALICE L. WILLIAMS. Illustrated by Irene Jerome. Quarto, cloth, $1.50.

The patient labor of many years has been wrought into these pages, and more than this, gleaming in a thousand fields and meadows, and digging into unnumbered mines, Mrs. Williams, with the rare discrimination so necessary for such a task, has brought together the finest of the wheat, the fairest of the flowers, the purest of the gems. There are many passages in these books that can nowhere else be found, passages that are priceless in value, as rich as they are rare. From Geoffrey Chaucer to our latest and sweetest singers, from Luther and Bacon down to our own Robert Collyer, these books present a perfect embarrassment of literary riches.

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

READY ABOUT OCTOBER 1:

SQUAW ÉLOUISE.

A pathetic, intense and beautiful picture of the devotion and noble qualities of an Indian maid, in whose veins the dumb fidelity of the untutored child of the forest contends with the hopes and higher longings of the more civilized white. Life on the upper reaches of the majestic Columbia, the lovely scenery of the Selkirks, and the amusing vicissitudes of two ladies in a British Columbia mining camp, are portrayed and depicted by no amateur hand. The heroic Fra Henri, a second Father Damien of Indian blood, alone would remove the story well above the category of the commonplace when his care of the stricken savages is perused and perused again.

COLUMBUS AND COLUMBIA.

Compiled by J. M. DICKER. Being a Concordance of Choice Tributes to the Great Genoese. Profusely adorned with the sculptures, scenes and portraits of the Old World and the New. The finest souvenir of the quadricentennial and of considerable literary and artistic merit.

JUST ISSUED:

MR. AND MRS. BEWER.

Translated from the attractive German novel of that name by Paul Lindau; well favored in Germany, and certain of a good reception here. The story of Hercules and Omphale, Samson and Delilah in modern life, and the more attractive for its novelty and pathetic truth.

"The story is a lively, animated one, and is extremely well told."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"A story by the breeziest of German writers."—New York Journal.

"The subject is well treated, forcibly, and true to reality."—Chicago Mail.

TIOMANE—A GIRL OF BERCK.

Translated from the French of Jacques Vincent by Miss Sara C. Tracy.

An ideal vacation book, dealing with varied and beautiful scenery and as pretty a devotion. A book for the young, a pleasure for their elders, full of interest from cover to cover, and with nothing to mar a perfect descriptive picture.

WOE TO THE CONQUERED.

A translation from Karl Berkow's celebrated German novel, "Vae Victis," a strongly dramatic and historical description of the closing days of the Moors' domination in Spain. The work is artistically illustrated with four beautiful views of the "Fortress Palace" of the Alhambra, at Granada, that magnificent masterpiece of the graceful art and architectural skill of Ibnu el Ahmar and his descendants.

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S ART FOLIO OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION, CHICAGO.

FOURTH YEAR OF ENGLISH-TEXT EDITION.

GOUPIL'S PARIS "SALON," 1892.

A Review of the most Remarkable Paintings and Sculptures Exhibited at the Champs-Élysées and Champs de Mars.

BY

GUSTAVE LARROUMET,

ex-Director-General of the Beaux-Arts.

English Translation by Henry Bacon.

CONTAINING ONE HUNDRED ILLUSTRATIONS.

THE great success which has attended the publication of the English-Text Edition of Goupil's Paris "Salon" since 1889 is now such a well-established fact that it needs no further comment. It has found its place in every cultured American home and is "the" book among all others which contains the best résumé of the year's progress in European Art, presenting to the public in a tangible form the choicest selected works in Painting and Sculpture from the world-renowned Paris "Salon" of the Champs-Élysées and its young and already famous rival Exhibition of the Champs de Mars.

The illustrations are reproduced direct from the originals in "Goupilgravure," the most perfect process of reproduction that exists, and are printed with that great care for which the Firm of Goupil & Co. is so justly celebrated. They consist of ninety-eight Goupilgravures and two exquisite Etchings, as Frontispieces to the two "Salons," by Charles Waltner and A. Greux, the celebrated Aquafortists. Signed Artist's Proofs of these two etchings, apart from the book, are published at $15.00 each and may be subscribed for separately.

An entirely new feature in this year's issue will be a Fac-simile in Water-colors of the very attractive Decorative Panel by Albert Lynch, which was awarded the first-class medal, and this will be included with all orders received before November 1, 1892. The value of this fac-simile apart from the book is $7.50.

THE HOLMAN Self-Pronouncing S. S. Teachers' Bible

IS THE ONLY ONE

That has all proper names in the text syllabified, accented and the variable vowel and consonant sounds diacritically marked according to the latest standards of pronunciation.

It Contains the only Reliable and Complete Pronouncing Dictionary of Scripture Proper Names.

This dictionary has the pronunciation phonetically indicated, together with the indispensable diacritical marking of the variable vowel and consonant sounds.

Other so-called "Self-Pronouncing Dictionaries of Scripture Proper Names" merely have the phonetic spelling without the diacritical marking.

DON'T BE MISLED.

The Holman Self-Pronouncing S. S. Teachers' Bible contains valuable aids and helps, and is indispensable to Clergymen, Students, S. S. Teachers, and to all who would study the Word of God intelligently; a complete library of Scriptural knowledge in a small compass, adapted to all classes.

Published in a variety of bindings and at low prices.

FOR SALE BY BOOKSELLERS GENERALLY.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in places of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (2mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (4mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Alger, Horatio, jr. The young boatman of Pine Point. Phil., The Penn Pub. Co., 1892. c. 8-269 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Harry Morris is an industrious young fellow of fifteen who supports his mother by carrying passengers on his boat across the Kennebec river from Portville to Pine Point. His stepfather has been serving a term of ten years in prison when the story opens, and shortly appears on the scene to the great distress of Harry and his mother. In spite, however, of opposition and disappointments the young boatman's life is a success.

Originally published in 1864, by J. E. Tilton & Co.

Barr, Amelia E. Michael and Theodora: a Russian story. Bost., Bradley & Woodruff, [1892.] c. 2-168 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.

Michael and Theodora, children of Prince and Princess Bazaroff, were forced to live with their Uncle Sergius, who had been instrumental in securing their parents' exile from Russia. While the children were experiencing some of the heartless treatment of this cruel relative, chance threw into Michael's hands a document which proved that the Bazaroffs were unjustly banished. Michael and Theodora together obtain their parents' pardon, and the Czar restores their estate.

Bechtel, J. H., ed. Sunday-school selections; comprising a wide range of readings and recitations adapted to church and Sunday-school entertainments, etc. Phil., The Penn Pub. Co., 1892. c. 200 p. D. pap., 30 c.; cl., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., October 10, 1891, [1023.]

Carlén, Emilie Flygare. One year: a tale of wedlock; from the Swedish. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 274 p. il. D. (The fair lib., no. 8.) pap., 25 c.

Mrs. Carlén, the famous Swedish novelist, was born in 1807. "One year of wedlock," also published as "Twelve months of matrimony," is among her earliest and best known works.

Church, Rev. A. J. Pictures from Roman life and story. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 4+344 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The doomed line of the Cæsars furnishes the central figures to these historical pictures; the lives and times of these emperors, their triumphs, tragedies and excesses are presented in a popular manner for general reading. Horace, Seneca, Mæcenas and other contemporaries are brought before the reader.

*Clarke, Rev. R. F. Meditations for Advent. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 16°, pap., 15 c.

Collins, Mabel. Suggestion. N. Y., Lovell, Gestefeld & Co., [1892.] c. 2-276 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Margery Hawthorne confides to her diary that she is engaged to Rex Heriot and is the happiest girl in the pretty English county in which her father is the rich and honored squire. Rex's brother Oliver, falling out with his father, accepts the position of steward on the squire's estates. He is possessed of mesmeric power and gains ascendancy over Margery. At his "suggestion" she harbors many doubts and fears and does many peculiar deeds. His power over her is finally exorcised in a fearful way.

*Columbus memorial; grand panorama World's Fair buildings. Chic., John W. Iliff & Co., 106-108 Wabash ave., 1892. 44 p. il. f., pap., 50 c.

Cook, A. M. Macmillan's shorter Latin course; rev. and enl. for the use of American schools, by J. C. Egbert. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 9+208 p. D. cl., 40 c.

The American editor is responsible for the following: The introduction; the additional pages upon the subjunctive mood; the revision of paradigms in the main portion of the book and the paradigms of the verbs in the supplement; the indications of long vowels; a few changes in orthography.

Cook, Albert S., ed. The Bible and English prose style: selections and comments; ed. with introd. by Albert S. Cook. Bost., D.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 70+61 p. D. cl., 55 c.

The editor's introduction points out the influence which the Bible has exercised upon English style. A number of selections from the Bible are offered for critical study. The comments taken from the works of prominent writers relate to the importance of the Bible to the student of English, the rhetorical features of Biblical language, rhythm of the Bible, Biblical style and language, contrasted with those of western nations, etc.

*Cook, Theodore Andrea. Old Touraine; the life and history of the famous châteaux of France. N. Y., imported by C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 2 v., il. 12<sup>o</sup>, cl., $5.

Copeland, Wilbur F., comp. Handbook of prohibition facts. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., [1892.] c. 128 p. D. cl., 50 c.

Figures and facts relating to intemperance gathered by the compiler during several years' connection with the Voice in its statistical department.

Corelli, Marie. A romance of two worlds. New ed. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 7-370 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 8.) pap., 50 c.

The heroine comes under the influence of Heliobas, who teaches her that in spite of the doctrines of agnostics and materialists, there is a perpetual passionate craving in the souls of many for that inward peace and absolute content which can only be obtained by a perfect faith in God and the life eternal. The visionary romance admits the mysteries of life, death, eternity and all the wonders of the universe to be simply the natural and scientific outcome of a ring of everlasting electric heat and light.

Cornwallis, Kinahan. The song of America and Columbus; or, the story of the New World: a greeting to Columbus and Columbia. N. Y., published at the office of the Daily Investigator, 66 B'way, 1892. c. 5-278 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.

The first part, or Columbus section, of a poetical narrative of the history of America, which—with other matter chiefly picturing America as it is—embraces descriptive accounts of the four voyages of Columbus to the New World. The history of the other early voyages, together with the stories in detail of the discovery of the Pacific, the conquest of Mexico, etc., will be published in a future volume. The author is proprietor of the Daily Investigator.

Courtiss, Alice Eddy. Neighbors in Barton Square. Bost., Congregational S. S. & Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 8+346 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The heroine is a dressmaker, lovable and loving. She is burdened with abundance of comparatively unprofitable work, the care of an almost imbecile aunt and of a headstrong young sister. Her earnest but somewhat tactless endeavors to protect the latter only urge the young girl to contract a foolish marriage, which not long after results in her death. A truly self-sacrificing life it is pictured in the little dressmaker.

Dods, Marcus. The gospel of St. John. In 2 v. V. 2. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1892. 4+427 p. O. (Expositor's Bible, new [5th] ser.) cl., $1.50.

See notice of volume 1, "Weekly Record," P. W., Sept. 19-23, '91, [1025-6]. The writer is Professor of Exegetical Theology, New College, Edinburgh. This volume covers from the twelfth chapter of the gospel to the end. The self-manifestation of Jesus to the world has ended, and from this chapter to the close the gospel deals with the results of that manifestation. The miracles receive special attention.

*Durward, Rev. J. T. A primer for converts. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 16<sup>o</sup>, pap., net, 25 c.

Edwards, Mrs. Annie. Blue stocking: a novel. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1892. 4-202 p. D. (Madison sq. ser.) pap., 25 c.

Ellis, E. S. From the throttle to the president's chair: a story of American railway life. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. c. 5+375 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The greater part of the story occurs on railway trains. The characters are the engineer, the firemen, brakemen and so on. Among the incidents are a train "held up" by robbers, a "strike," a terrible accident in crossing a trestle-bridge, and the heroic act of the fireman. The chief character rises from the humblest position to be president of the road. A story for boys, teaching many good lessons.

Ellwood, J. K. Table-book and test problems in mathematics. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 287 p. D. cl., $1.

This volume of "test problems" has been prepared for the use of unusually apt or advanced pupils, and for the convenience of teachers in examining advanced classes. It will also afford valuable supplemental work in every school. It contains a collection of rather difficult problems in the various branches of elementary mathematics. While none of the problems involve higher mathematics, their solution requires close reasoning and a thorough knowledge of elementary principles.

Fontaine, Francis. The modern pariah: a story of the South. Atlanta, Ga., Francis Fontaine, [1892.] c. 231 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The heroine is adopted when a baby by Colonel and Mrs. Adams, of New Haven, Ct. She is the child of a woman who is supposed to be an octoroon and a slave. The story opens after the siege and capture of Atlanta, Ga., in 1864. Col. Adams, a Union officer, owes his life to the care of the octoroon, who had been his nurse, and he and his wife gladly adopt her child at her death. This child, brought up in ignorance of her parentage, courted and admired as the child of wealthy white people, becomes the "pariah," when accident reveals her true story.

Foster, Mrs. I. H. ["Fay Huntington," pseud.] A baker's dozen. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 2-85 p. il, S. cl., 60 c.

The baker's dozen was composed of the thirteen scholars of Mrs. Arnold Symonds' Sunday-school class, who formed themselves into a club to work for the church. Through a practical scheme readily executed these girls offer an example to other Sunday-school workers.

*Fulton, Chandos. History of the Democratic party, from Thomas Jefferson to Grover Cleveland: Lives of Cleveland and Stevenson. N. Y., P. F. Collier, 1892. c. 600 p. il. por. 8<sup>o</sup>, cl., $4.

Goddard, Julia. Fairy tales in other lands. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] 2-189 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The counterpart of almost all of our familiar nursery tales may be found in foreign tongues. Julia Goddard has gathered together ten well-known tales, which will be found very amusing to all classes of readers in their new dress. They embrace "A Chinese beauty and the beast," "A Scandinavian Jack the giant-killer," "An Egyptian puss in boots," "Valentine and Orson in Arabia," "A Japanese Red Riding Hood."

El, J. W. The story of the life of Mackay of Uganda: told for boys by his sister. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Sons, 1892. 6+388 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of one of the early missionaries to Africa. Mackay was a Scotchman who in 1876 started to Africa to carry out a long cherished plan to convert the heathen. His story is one of great personal heroism and moral courage. The sister of Alexander Mackay wrote this volume, and states in a preface that the whole of the matter is fresh and not found in the larger book, "Mackay of Uganda."

Hale, E. Everett. East and West: a story of new-born Ohio. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 2+287 p. D. cl., $1.

The period of the story is a hundred years ago. The scenes are taken from the early settlement of Ohio. The heroine, Sarah Parris, is a pretty New England girl of Salem, who goes out to the reservation in the party of the Rev. Manasseh Cutler to teach school. Her experience offers a graphic picture of rough pioneer life in those days.

Hanlon, H. Oldham. A picked-up dinner: a farce in one act. Bost., Walter H. Baker & Co., 1892. c. 11 p. D. (Baker's edition of plays.) pap., 15 c.

*Heath, Vernon. Vernon Heath's recollections. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 354 p. 8°, cl., $2.

Hodges, G. Christianity between Sundays. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. c. 4+267 p. D. cl., $1.

Rector of Calvary Church, Pittsburg, and author of "The Episcopal Church," etc. Twenty-one sermons dealing with a number of every-day questions in business and social life.

Holland, J. G. Bitter-sweet: a poem; with an etching by Otto Bacher. [Cameo ed.] N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 67-'92. 3+177 p. S. cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.75; hf. mor., $3.50.

Uniform with "Reveries of a bachelor," "Dream life," "Old Creole days" and "In old Virginia" of previous years. See also Holland, "Katrina."

Holland, J. G. Katrina: a poem; with an etching by A. M. Turner. [Cameo ed.] N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 67, '81, '92. 4+247 p. S. cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.75; hf. mor., $3.50.

*Inglis, Lady. The siege of Lucknow: a diary. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. 8°, cl., $4.

Jacobson, A. The crisis of a party. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] c. 2-171 p. D. (The ariel lib.) pap., 25 c.

An arraignment of the Republican party. "If it is to continue to live," says the author, "it must present to the people live, popular issues." The "issues" suggested are those Mr. Jacobson has advocated in several previous works—a succession tax, manual training schools, etc., etc. He looks upon the succession tax as a means of reducing the many large fortunes which now menace the future of the Republic.

Johnson, Rossiter. The end of a rainbow: an American story. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+344 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A fanciful idea started by three children that at the end of a rainbow there is always a crock of gold is the text upon which an amusing story of adventure is built. In trying to find the mythical wealth one scene after another is developed. The chief quality of the story is its humor which is fresh and bright, and as well adapted to older readers as young ones. The group of children introduced write prize stories, which are wonderful compositions, and exhibit many funny and original traits.

Johnston, R. Malcolm. Mr. Fortner's marital claims, and other stories. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 4+183 p. D. (Appleton's summer ser.) bds., 50 c.

The first story, a somewhat pathetic experience of an old couple living near the village of Dukesborough, already made famous by the author, is now first published. The other stories, "Old Gus Lawson," "An adventure of Mr. Joel Bozzle," "A moccasin among the Hobbits" and "A surprise to Mr. Thompson Byers," have appeared in the magazines.

Jordan, Kate. The other house: a study of human nature. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 3-183 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A young woman, tired of everything, goes to live in seclusion with her chaperon in a suburb of New York City. Her neighbor is a successful physician, who first meets her on entering her house by mistake with his own latch-key. The doctor is married and his wife soon grows jealous of the inhabitants of "the other house." Meeting a missionary friend of the doctor's the heroine grows interested in work among the poor. After attending an evening service at the Sunset Mission she confesses her history to the doctor. The consequences are far-reaching.

*Jullien, Adolphe. Richard Wagner, his life and works; from the French; with introd. by B. J. Lang; il. with 14 phototypes from drawings by M. Fantin-Latour, pers., views, etc. Edition de luxe. Bost., J. B. Millet Co., 132 Boylston st., 1892. 2 v., 490 p. il. 8°, cl., subs., $10.

*Knox, T. W. The Republican party and its leaders: a history of the party from its beginning to the present time: Lives of Harrison and Reid. N. Y., P. F. Collier, 1892. c. 600 p. il. por. 8°, cl., $4.

*Lysias. Ten selected orations of Lysias; ed. with notes by G: P. Bristol. Bost., Allyn & Bacon, 1892. 174 p. 16°, cl., $1.

*McCracken, W. D. The rise of the Swiss republic. Bost., Arena Publishing Co., 1892. 400 p. il. por. map, 8°, cl., $3.

McPherson, E. Handbook of politics for 1892: being a record of important political action, legislative, executive and judicial, national and state, from July 31, 1890, to July 31, 1892. Wash., D. C., J. A. Chapman, 1892. c. 6+282 p. O. cl., $2.

"This volume carries to completion the tariff record begun in the handbook for 1890, and shows by what votes the Tariff Act of 1890 was enacted. It also shows by what votes the principle of Reciprocity was embodied in it. It also carries to completion the enactment of the Ocean Mail Service Act and of the International Copyright Act. It gives the Congressional apportionment based on the census of 1890, the final votes upon the long controversy over the forfeiture of lands granted to railroads upon the passage of the act to refund to the adhering States the direct tax of 1861, and upon the material amendment made to the acts regulating immigration. It shows how the National Elections Bill, which passed the Fifty-first House, was negatively disposed of in the Fifty-first Senate. It gives the votes on all phases of the yet unsettled silver question in both the Fifty-first and Fifty-second Congresses. It makes full statement of the executive action of the last two years, including the Reciprocity and all other proclamations of President Harrison, his message, etc."—Preface

Maitland, Christal V. A woman's web: a novel. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1891 [1892.] c. '84. 5-280 p. D. (Madison sq. ser.) pap., 25 c.

Information for fly-fishers regarding various kinds of artificial flies. A handsome volume, illustrated by thirty-two colored plates of flies, six engravings of natural insects, and eight reproductions of photographs.

*Marvell, Andrew. Poems of Andrew Marvell, sometime member of Parliament for Hull; ed. by G. A. Aitken. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. 3 v., 16°, (Muses lib.) cl., $2.50.

*Mew, Jos., and Ashton, J. Drinks of the world. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. il. 8°, $6.

Morton, Agnes H. Etiquette: an answer to the riddle when? Where? How? Phil., The Penn Pub. Co., 1892. c. 203 p. sq. S. cl., 50 c.

Dedicated to "those who dwell within the broad zone of the average"; suggests some of the fundamental laws of good behavior in every-day life; claims to be different from the majority of books of etiquette which are written "from the standpoint of the ultra-fashionable circle." Has chapters on cards, weddings, teas, dinners, breakfasts, evening parties, etc., etc.

*Nasmyth, D. Makers of modern thought; or, five hundred years' struggle (1200 to 1699) between science, ignorance and superstition. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. 2 v., 12°, cl., $4.50.

Noble, Mrs. Edna Chaffee, comp. Shoemaker's best selections for readings and recitations, no. 20. Phil., The Penn Pub. Co., 1892. c. 200 p. D. pap., 30 c.; cl., 50 c.

Noble, Mrs. F. A. Crumbs of comfort.

- N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. '90. 2-48 p. S. cl., 40 c.
Consolatory reading for the bereaved.
- O'Donnell, Jessie F. A soul from Pudge's Corners. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1892. 2-818 p. D. pap., 50 c.
A question of conscience is involved in the first story. A minister, who believes it is a sin to marry a divorced woman, has a painful experience in a miserable out-of-the-way village in New York State. The other stories are "Two points of view," "Miss Athalina's mind cure," "Miss Pamela's journal" and "An afternoon's imprisonment." The stories appeared first in the Ladies' Home Journal.
- *Park, Roswell, M.D. The Mütter lectures on select topics; surgical pathology, for 1890-91. St. Louis, Mo., J. H. Chambers & Co., 1892. 298 p. 8°, cl., $3.

This study falls under three heads: English amortization, American amortization, the theory of amortization. In an introduction the author says: "To understand the nature and workings of the device known as the sinking fund we must study it as it appears in the financial history of England and the United States. In the former we have exemplified all the financial mistakes to which a wrong theory of amortization can give rise. In the latter we discover the slow emergence of certain ultimate forms of amortization, on which both experience and scientific analysis set the seal of approval. Both taken together furnish ample basis for a theoretical treatment of the payment of public debts."
- *Schäffle, A., D.D. The impossibility of social democracy. N. Y., imported by C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 12°, (Social science ser.) cl., $1.
- Schoolmaster (The) in literature; with an introd. by E. Eggleston. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 608 p. O. cl., $1.40.
Contains selections from the writings of Ascham, Mollère, Fuller, Rousseau, Shenstone, Cowper, Goethe, Pestalozzi, Page, Mitford, Brontë, Hughes, Dickens, Thackeray, Irving, George Elliot, Eggleston, Thompson and others. The selections are preceded by a brief account of the author's life. Suitable for schools or reading circles.

Sermon Bible (The): Acts vii-1 Corinthians xvi. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1892. 4+894 p. D. cl., $1.50.

This series of volumes, "The sermon Bible," embraces in convenient form the essence of the best homiletic literature of this generation. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Feb. 21, [1895.] and Sept. 12, [1904.] 1891, under previous volumes of series.

*Springer, W. M. Tariff reform: the paramount issue; with an introductory sketch of the author by Alex. J. Jones. N. Y., C. L. Webster & Co., 1892. 400 p. il. por. 8°, cl., $1.50; pap., $1.

Stoddard, C. Warren. South-sea idyls. New ed. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. '73, '92. 8+839 p. D. cl., $1.50.

First published in 1873; been long out of print. This new edition is opened with a pleasant letter from W. D. Howells, who characterizes these sketches of people and places in the South Sea as "the lightest, sweetest, wildest, freshest things that ever were written about the life of that summer ocean."

Tibbles, T. H., and "another." The American peasant: a timely allegory. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] 2-145 p. D. (The ariel lib., no. 20.) pap., 25 c.

The scene of this allegory is the undiscovered Arctic continent. "Here it is represented a strange race is found by a shipwrecked party; the country is beautiful, the people happy and intelligent, and the government just and free. The people go through an experience like our late war and the subsequent money difficulties. A crisis in the affairs of the farming population of the Arctic continent serves to point many lessons for our own farmers, and to offer remedies for an improvement of their condition."

Townsend, C. The mountain wail: an original drama in four acts. Author's ed. Bost., Walter H. Baker & Co., 1892. c. 2-42 p. D. (Baker's edition of plays.) pap., 25 c.

Wee widow's (The) cruise in quiet waters: by an idle exile. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 8+170 p. nar. D. (The unknown lib., no. 15.) cl., 50 c.

Cruising around the English coast in a miniature yacht is the chief subject of the little volume. A few love-scenes are thrown in, and some sketchy descriptions of out-of-the-way places. The characters are the "wee widow" and her girl friend, who have tired of the annual regulation yachting trip. They borrow the little Speck from a friend, and with a crew of one man start on a voyage of adventure.

Whiton, Ja. Morris. Gloria patri; or, our talks about the Trinity. N. Y., T. Whitaker, 1892. c. 8-162 p. D. cl., $1.

Written for thoughtful laymen, to whom the subject of the Trinity is enigmatical. Presented in the form of dialogues.

Wright, Julia McNair. Adam's daughters. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 468 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

How a mother and her three daughters solved the problem of earning a living, first failing in their attempts, then succeeding, is told in an interesting story. Its acknowledged motive is, aside from the desire to aid struggling women, to deter them from leaving their rural homes and encountering the temptations and disappointments of a city life.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 17-24, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FALL OUTLOOK.

UNDAUNTED by the bugbear of "Presidential Year" and the extensive preparations that are being made for the World's Fair (which it is feared will divert considerable money from the ordinary channels of trade for the next eight or ten months), the publishing trade has made extensive preparations for the fall and holiday season. Wisely so, it seems to us, for thus far reports seem to indicate that the hopes for a brisk business during the coming six months will be fully realized—for several reasons.

The West this year gives greater promise to the book trade than ever before. Encouraged and made aggressively ambitious by its successes in material things, the West in recent years has been making brave efforts to distinguish itself also in the nobler walks of life; and appearances would indicate that it is now working to be known as the principal book market in the country. In time, also, we expect it will reach at least an enviable place as a book-producer. A very few years back the book supplies of the West were almost wholly drawn from the East. To-day more than a dozen publishing houses in Chicago, Cincinnati and other Western cities are vying with their Eastern competitors in the output of works of a high standard, both from a literary and manufacturing point of view.

The South, too, always a patron of the best in the book market, is becoming year by year a more liberal buyer. As its vast unexplored natural resources attract investors and capital, and new communities arise and the older ones are re-vivified, this market is bound to develop and become as remunerative as it was in the ante-bellum days. Scarcity of means alone is at present in the way. That the proper understanding of and love for the best in literature prevail is reflected in the work of the many excellent writers the South has added to the ranks of authorship within the last twenty years.

A careful reading of the announcements in this issue of the WEEKLY shows a goodly number of "books that are books" to be in preparation. The regulation Christmas and holiday book in which illustrations, type, binding and size quite crushed the little threadlet of perfunctory text, has disappeared—let us hope, forever—from the lists of the publishers. Many publishers have again concentrated their time and manufacturing facilities on neat, well-made editions of works of standard merit, while almost all are bringing out the works of one or more American or English author in a final and more satisfactory edition.

The influence of the new copyright law, which has steadily, though unobtrusively, made its way through the difficulties that beset its progress, shows itself in more liberal encouragement of American writers, better selected works of foreign authorship, and in the improved manufacture of all grades of books. It must be a great relief to booksellers to know that when a successful author produces a new book they need only decide whether they wish to add it to their stock, without having their minds distracted to determine which of the half-dozen miserably made editions they will lay in, or which of their friends in the trade they must run the risk of offending by refusing to buy them all.

Not in many years has the outlook for the book trade been more promising. The publishers have not only provided for a liberal harvest, but have succeeded in having their goods ready on time, so that their part of the "grind," so far as this season is concerned, will soon be a thing of the past. The bookseller's turn will be next, and as upon his efforts very largely depend the success or failure of the publishers' work, we trust he will be well equipped for his undertaking and realize all the expectations held of him, as well as his own brightest hopes.

The British Bookmaker makes the following remarkable statement: "The latest fashionable fad in the States is embossed leather covers on which the figures are the same as on prayer-books. The covers are put around paper-covered novels, and may be transferred from one novel to another. It enables the possessor to be reading the latest French books without the slightest suspicion but that the contents of the cover are those of a prayer-book." We venture to say that our usually well-informed and clever contemporary has been "hoaxed," and been led to give countenance to a statement in which there is about as much truth as there would be in the assertion—well, that Gladstone is a Mongolian. While it may not be unlikely that one or two such covers as are described exist, it is in no sense true that they have become "the latest fashionable fad in the States."

A CONTEMPORARY boasts of having received a catalogue of books from "his Honor the Mayor of Philadelphia," who, it remarks, "is known to the trade and all good fellows as William H. Smith." Perhaps we may not be one of the "good fellows" referred to, but when last we knew his Honor, the Mayor of Philadelphia, he was hailed by his friends as Edwin S. Stuart, and known to the trade as "Leary's" (now Leary, Stuart & Co.).

ROBERT LINDSAY.

ROBERT LINDSAY, a well-known figure in the book and publishing trade of Philadelphia for more than 60 years, whose death at Atlantic City, Saturday morning, August 27, in the 90th year of his age, was referred to in our issue of September 3, was born in Philadelphia of sturdy Scotch parentage on August 22, 1803, on Sixth Street, near Market, within a stone's throw of what was afterward his place of business for over sixty years. He was probably the oldest living member of the book trade in the United States, having been first identified with the business in his 17th year and ceasing his active interest only in 1882. His first position was with the old firm of book auctioneers, Peters & Carson. He then went into the printing office of David Dickinson, where he intended to learn the trade of printing. Within a short time he received an offer from Thomas De Silver, Sr., and upon the solicitation of his mother against his own wish he took up the trade of bookbinding. He was then in his 18th year; but in order to thoroughly acquaint himself with what he determined should be his life work he had his mother bind him apprentice for four years, one year over his majority.

His energy and push were well illustrated at this date by the fact that he saved his small earnings in order to purchase better tools than the establishment of his employer provided, and devoted extra time to the study and working out of the details of the art he had adopted.

He continued with De Silver after his apprenticeship was served, and gained some knowledge of the book business by accompanying a member of the firm on a trip throughout the State, selling books by auction in all the principal towns.

In 1829, upon the failure of Mr. De Silver, he became a member of a new firm composed of Thomas De Silver, Jr., George P. Herse and himself, with the firm name of De Silver, Herse & Lindsay, and as managing partner conducted what was then the largest bookbinding establishment in the country, Philadelphia being at that time the literary centre of the United States.

Within a few years he bought out the interest of his partners in the bookbinding branch of the business, while they continued publishing and bookselling.

In 1843 he formed a co-partnership with Mr. Presley Blakiston under the firm name of Lindsay & Blakiston, for transacting a general book-selling, publishing, bookbinding and blank-book business. The new firm at first occupied only the lower floor of the old building at the north-west corner of 4th and Chestnut Streets. As the business gradually increased the whole building was taken, and from the publication of miscellaneous literature the firm by degrees narrowed their issues within the lines of religious and scientific works and then to medical books only.

In 1851, larger quarters being demanded, the firm built and occupied a new store at 25 South 6th Street, where they remained until Mr. Lindsay's retirement in 1882.

Mr. Lindsay was a man of deep religious convictions (a member of the Presbyterian Church), of a happy, sanguine temperament, and to the end of his long life he never ceased to take an interest in public matters, and especially in the welfare of his native city, that for every ten years of his life had added 100,000 to its population. His well-known integrity led to the offer of many positions of trust. He was, however, adverse to anything in the form of public life, and with the exception of serving two terms as a member of the Board of Health, during one of which he acted as President, and of being for many years one of the Board of Managers and Treasurer of one of the largest city dispensaries, he would accept no official position.

Mr. Lindsay married Miss Catherine M. Eicholtz, a daughter of Jacob Eicholtz, of Lancaster. He leaves three daughters and a son.

A meeting of the Book, Paper and Printing Trades was held Tuesday, August 30, at the office of P. Blakiston, Son & Co., in Philadelphia, to take action upon the death of Mr. Robert Lindsay.

All the prominent houses were represented; Mr. Presley Blakiston, who for more than fifty years has been associated with Mr. Lindsay, presided, and made the following remarks:

"We have met, gentlemen, for the purpose of paying a tribute of respect to the memory of our friend, Mr. Robert Lindsay, who died at Atlantic City on Saturday last, in his ninetieth year. He was probably the oldest living member of the book trade in the United States; for over sixty years he was intimately connected with it, up to the year 1882, when he retired from active work. For nearly forty years I was associated with him in business, having, however, known him some ten or fifteen years previous to 1843, when our partnership commenced. I can, therefore, speak with confidence of his untiring industry, unswerving integrity, upright character, good judgment and faithfulness to all that was right and correct in all his dealings with those with whom he was brought in contact in a friendly and business way. For myself, I have never ceased to look back with gratitude and thankfulness for his many acts of kindness, and I may say of liberality, which he from time to time manifested toward me while in business with him. It appears to me eminently appropriate that some action should be taken by the trade in reference to him, and I would therefore propose that a committee be appointed to prepare some resolutions of respect to his memory, as they may deem appropriate, and that they shall be engrossed and copies sent to his family and to the organs of the trade."

The following resolution was then adopted :

"In the death of Mr. Robert Lindsay we have lost a respected and trusted friend, one who in all his intercourse with others in both business and private life was an example of uprightness, integrity and faithfulness of purpose. We therefore desire to express respect for his memory, high appreciation of his character and sterling worth, as well as sympathy with his family."

The following gentlemen were present :

Mr. Presley Blakiston, Chairman; J. W. Johnson (of T. & J. W. Johnson & Co.), Secretary; Kenneth M. Blakiston, Henry W. Barnes (of Lea Bros. & Co.), Samuel J. Magarge (of Magarge & Green), Wm. F. Fell, J. L. Shoemaker, Edward Meeks, Henry T. Coates (of Porter & Coates), George W. Jacobs (of J. B. Lippincott Co.), F. W. Richter, W. H. Lindsay, and Lawson Wetherly (of the Jessup & Moore Paper Co.).

The religious services were held at the residence, No. 1601 Green Street. In the course of his remarks the Rev. Dr. Crawford, who conducted the service, said that "Mr. Lindsay was characterized by a courtesy which made him attractive, by a gentleness which won the heart, by a firmness which commanded respect and by strong convictions which made his character forcible. He was a man of genial spirit and kindly nature. There was a simplicity about him which made him natural and sincere, a reverence for sacred things, a love for home and a staunch integrity which formed the basis of his enviable reputation. Whilst linked with the past by many ties; whilst his character was moulded to a great extent by the associations and influences of a remote past, he was also in a pre-eminent sense a man of the present. Few men took a deeper interest in current events than he did. The whole world was to him an object of interest and study. He had an intelligent grasp of the leading questions of the day. He was a careful, discriminating observer of men and things. He was reasonable in his judgments; his comparisons were striking and his deductions clear. He was not disposed to imagine that the golden age lay in the past. He did not complain that the world had left him behind. He kept pace with the times. He kept abreast of the age, and though old in years he was always young in heart."
